Mr. B. Frank Folsom of Stratham has been elected president of the National Granite State bank of Exeter, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of its former president, Dr. Charles A. Merrill.

The Army and Navy Register reports that Paymaster I. Goodwin Hobbs, U. S. N., was in Washington on Saturday. It is understood that United States Consul Siler, of Cape Town, South Africa, has filed additional charges against Paymaster Hobbs. Waters, the man who preferred the first set of charges, has been convicted of embezzlement at Cape Town.

The Isles of Shoals is at present rivaling Old Orchard. It has suddenly leaped into prominence as being the select refuge of Boston's "culture."—Sunday Globe.

The Dover police made six liquor raids Friday, and intoxicants were found in the places of John E. Kennedy, T. McDonough and M. R. Kennedy. The other three places searched were those of Thos. Sherry, M. Killoren and the American house; nothing was found in those places.

Miss Annie C. Elliot, second assistant teacher of the Dover high school, has been elected principal of the high school at Kingham, Ohio, and accepts the position.

E. R. Nute of Haverhill, Mass., who was so badly injured by falling from a train in the freight yard at Dover on Tuesday of last week, was so much improved on Friday that he was taken home.

Hay Fever Sufferers.—The number of people annually afflicted with this most annoying malady seems to be greatly on the increase. * * * The editor of this journal is an annual victim, and with a view to discover a specific, has tried numerous remedies. Of these, Ely's Cream Balm is by all odds the quickest and most satisfactory, two applications greatly allaying the usual symptoms in the nose and eyes. We would recommend its use by all subject to hay fever, and we gladly bear unsolicited testimony to its efficiency in our own case.—Media, Pa., Record.

Three hundred lives were lost, and several villages destroyed, by an earthquake in Greece Aug. 28th.

To be free from sick headache, biliousness, constipation, etc., use Carter's Little Liver Pills. Strictly vegetable. They gently stimulate the liver and free the stomach from bile.

R. Champollion of Paris, France, committed suicide at Newport, R. I. He was Austin Corbin's son-in-law.

For all bilious and miasmatic diseases, Ayer's Ague Cure is absolutely a certain, safe, and radical cure.

Mrs. Rebecca A. McPheeters, a prominent summer resident at Newport, R. I., is dead.

If you are nervous or dyspeptic try Carter's Little Nerve Pills. Dyspepsia makes you nervous, and nervousness makes you dyspeptic; either one renders you miserable and these little pills cure both.

General Paine has made arrangements with Skipper Joe Ellsworth to sail the Mayflower in the races with the Galatea.

Wbed used according to directions, Ayer's Ague Cure is warranted to eradicate, from the system, fever and ague, intermittent, remittent, and bilious fevers, and all malarial diseases. Try it.

The prohibitionists of Pennsylvania held a state convention, and nominated a full ticket.

Those sharp pains in the small of the back and around the hips will quickly go after you apply a Hop Plaster. Ladies, pay attention to this. 25c. They are sure and never failing. Try one.

Recent developments in the Salem postoffice show that the letter thief must have realized quite a large sum of money from his transactions. He has not yet been caught, and probably will not be, as he has ceased conducting that branch of industry.

Disorders of the stomach, liver, and kidneys, can be cured by restoring the blood to a healthy condition, through the vitalizing and cleansing action of Ayer's Sarparilla. It is the safest, most powerful, and most highly concentrated alterative available to the public.

Flagman William Lawlor of the Church street railroad crossing at Lowell, Mass., on Aug. 27th bravely rushed in front of an approaching train and saved the life of a little deaf and dumb boy. Lawlor was struck by the train and seriously injured.

Is He Your Friend?

Is the family doctor your friend? How many unnecessary visits does he make you? How many days does he keep you sick that you ought to be at your work, and so doing how many hard-earned dollars does he extort from you? Would it be better for you to place your trust in Sulphur Bitters? Try them, they will be a true friend. Saving you a long sickness and a large bill, which you have hitherto paid to some avaricious doctor.—Editor State Journal.

Comptroller Durham has decided that absent heads of departments and officers of the government cannot have their clerks transact the business of their departments while they have gone from Washington.

Many mothers are unable to nurse their children. In such cases the best substitute to be found is Mellin's Food, prepared after Liebig's formula, which has proved to correspond physiologically with mothers' milk.

The Housekeeper's Friend.

A friend in need is a friend indeed, and such a friend you will always find in Sulphur Bitters. They cured me of dyspepsia when I had given up life in despair and was almost at death's door. They are a true friend of the sick.—Mrs. R. Crague, Hartford, Connecticut.

The barque Joseph A. Ropes of New York, bound from Madagascar to Boston, went ashore in a dense fog Sunday on Cohasset rocks, a mile and a half from Minot's ledge light-house. She came off uninjured.

A Tried Remedy for Biliousness.

Those who suffer from disorder or inaction of the liver will never get the upper hand of the unruly organ so long as they use such irrational remedies as blue pill, calomel and podophyllin. But from the tried and popular medicine, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, they may expect relief with a certainty of obtaining it. The influence of the Bitters upon the great biliary gland is direct, powerful and speedily felt. The relief afforded is not spasmodic, but complete and permanent. The sallowness of the skin, furred appearance of the tongue, indigestion, costiveness, headache, nausea, pains through the right side and shoulder, in fact every accompaniment of the obstinate complaint are entirely and promptly removed by a course of this inestimable medicine, in behalf of which testimony is constantly emanating from every quarter, and from all classes of society.

Watterson Would Renominate Cleveland.

The president may be right, or he may be wrong, but, right or wrong, he must work out his salvation or his damnation. I opposed his nomination at Chicago and voted for Mr. Bayard after he was nominated, upon the two grounds that he had not earned such a promotion over veterans like Bayard, Thurman and McDonald, and that he was not qualified for so great a place by antecedent experience in national affairs. If the next national convention were to meet this year I should support his renomination, on the ground that we can not get on without him, nor afford to present a divided front or a changed policy in the succeeding contest. Mr. Cleveland is as good a democrat as I am, and that means that there is no better. He is a conscientious and a clean man, and that counts for much in every election. He has made some mistakes, and has failed to seek the best counsel. He is self-confident and hedy. He is not skilled in the handling of men, and his whimsical love of pushing undiscovered genius, and of ignoring political experience and party service. He deals too much in experiments and surprises. But these failings spring mainly from his newness to office, and will be replaced by better advisement as time passes. Already he has had his fingers burnt often enough to learn several points not previously dreamed of in his necessarily limited philosophy.

Between a safe, slow and honest man, like Cleveland, and a brilliant adventurer, like Blaine, the people of the United States cannot hesitate a second, as they did not hesitate the first time, and, if Blaine is to be the republican nominee (and it does look to a gentleman up a tree, or up a mountain, which is about the same thing, that he will be) my notion is that we had best have the old race over again, and not try the ever-doubtful experiment of changing horses in the middle of the stream.—Editorial letter to the Louisville Courier-Journal.

LOVERS STILL.

We had never spoken of love—
The lark sang over the corn—
The children played thro' the orchard shade,
Merry, and soiled, and torn:
And we two sat where the blossoms lay,
And life was light with the smile of May.

'Twas June when you pressed my hand,
And sweet July when we kissed;
Our love was a rose of midsummer,
Not even its thorns were missed;
For love and dear quarrels brought sweet alloy,
With tender sunshine of after-joy.

Ah me! we have wandered far
From the blossom-smile of May!
The children are grown-up lovers now,
And we have grown old and gray;
Long, long mated, for good or ill,
Long, long married, but—lovers still!

THE QUEEN-MOTHER OF ANAM.

Details of a Visit Paid Her by the French Minister Resident.

A correspondent of The Temps gives some highly curious and interesting details of the visit paid by the French resident to the queen-mother of Anam. She is blind, probably with cataract, which is very prevalent among old people there. In spite of her great age and infirmities, her influence over the affairs of the nation is enormous. The king obeys her most positively. The visit was not an easy matter to bring about, as, according to the custom of the country, no strangers are allowed to enter that part of the palace occupied by the queen. M. Paul Bert was accompanied by his wife (who, by-the-by, is a Scotch lady) and followed by a suite of twelve persons.

On arriving at the gates of the palace the French cortege was conducted through a number of narrow paths walled in on both sides. Here the sentinels cease to be men, and are formed of old women dressed in queer costumes, bearing scimitars sheathed in silver scabbards, who turned their faces to the wall on the sight of the Europeans. Squads of eunuch and female functionaries advanced, while weird music was heard in the distance. At length, after winding and turning through a labyrinth of avenues, the party reached a spacious courtyard, paved with marble. Fifty to sixty women of all ages and in all sorts of dresses were there, some bearing parasols and banners and others playing on flutes and tambourines; they resembled for all the world a batch of used-up ballet dancers.

The cortege slowly traversed the courtyard and entered a long, narrow, dark hall, where the audience took place. The king was present, as gracious as ever, but more silent than usual. A solemn stillness pervaded the place. Suddenly a slight noise was heard at the end of the hall. The king, taking off his sandals, approached the wall and knelt down before a mysterious curtain. This was raised in a few minutes, and behind it appeared a kind of obscure arcade by which the audience chamber is connected with the private apartments of her majesty. The queen-mother could now be faintly distinguished, immobile as a statue. Her existence being proved to the company, the curtain was let down again. Thus hidden, invisible but present, her majesty communicates with the outer world, including the king himself. The king, still on his knees, beckoned to the interpreter to approach and kneel down. He then said something to the queen, who replied from behind the curtain, and the visit ended.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Brief Career of the Fine Talker.

A ready tongue, possessed of a genial wit, is indeed a great treasure, its manipulator, if I may use the term, is a general favorite. His words are watched and his sayings repeated. He lightens care, diffuses cheerfulness, quickens the thoughts of others, and multiplies harmless enjoyment.

There is, however, one thing sad about him. The fine talker runs but a brief career. He is as short-lived as the racehorse, or as the man who swings by one leg on the trapeze, or another man who wins applause by forcible spurts of display.

If he is witty his jokes become thin. If he is descriptive his landscapes lose their fine coloring. If he is dramatic, he becomes stereotyped and he makes a dismantled wreck on the shores of time. If, however, he has learned to be a good listener as well, he will not so soon be discovered.

There is but one rule governing both talk and talkers, and that is, to be certain that what we say will be acceptable. We should never speak unless we have something to say.—Annie E. Myers in Chicago Ledger.

Washington Society Before the War.

Washington society was, before the war, under southern influences. The wealthy men in high places here who kept open houses and made friends for themselves, and influenced new members of congress and public opinion at large by their hospitalities, were formerly, with rare exceptions, southern men. The south gained strength, as is well known, by sending to represent her people and states men of distinction at home; men of education, wealth and social position, and then by keeping them long in office. The north acted very generally upon the theory of "rotation in office," and her representatives for the most part lived in the hotels and boarding-houses; and when they went into society, were presented to elegant ladies and fared sumptuously, it was at the houses of the southern members. This state of affairs for many years had an easily traced and

Is inseparably connected with Hood's Sarsaparilla, and is love of no other medicine. It is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy, while thousands testify to its superior blood-purifying and strengthing qualities. A bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla contains 100 doses and will last a month, while others will average to last not over a week. Hence, for economy, buy only Hood's Sarsaparilla.

NEW YORK LETTER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28th.

I apprehend that the bulk of your readers have but a slight interest in New York Theatres. Most, if not all that is produced here, is repeated with you. Each of our leading Theatres has its own peculiar reputation and mission, and each manager his own taste and talent. John Stetson, of the 5th Avenue, is plucky and lucky. He deals squarely with authors, actors and audiences. The in and the out-of-town theatre-goers instinctively believe of his house that they will get good value, and a pleasant evening. At Daly's there is very much of Daly—and that is good—for there are very few managers who possess and carry a larger all-around ability than he. Deservedly, he is earning both of fame and money, at home and abroad. The Casino and Bijou are the permanent homes of Amended Anatomy. The Metropolitan Opera House opens fashionably and with great promise in November. Of Wallack's much could be written, if one knew how. I can't tell why managers of so many years, and of so much cleverness have so frequent and fatal misjudgments of plays and people. The two chamber theatres—the Lyceum and the Madison Square—have an experienced management for the coming season, and will deserve well of the public. Of the other theatres—and they are legion—but few changes will be made. There are virtually fifteen theatres upon Broadway, and the attendance upon them is said to consist of more than sixty per cent of non-residents.

The blunders of a periodical like the Saturday Review in all that relates to this country, would be pardonable if they were always the result of ignorance; but they seem oftener the utterances of a petty malice and a mean antagonism. The Review is nothing if not antagonistic. Prof. Richard A. Proctor, publisher and editor of the Knowledge, is writing a very interesting series of "Americanisms." The Review, with its usual spirit, and among other blunders, writes: "Mr. Proctor tells us that chowder is a dish of fish, pork, potatoes, onions, and buiscuit—a most inaccurate definition of a delicious dish." Now, if the Review man is ever so fortunate as to stand by the side of a Portsmouth housewife's chowder-kettle, and makes effort to add to Proctor's very proper enumeration, that would be the blunder of his life. He would never essay another criticism of a New England chowder. Further on, he goes to work and gives a derivation of the word, and attempts proof that "It's English, you know." And in a review of the life and writings of William Lloyd Garrison, there are ignorance and acrimony in about equal parts. He writes: "On argument, Garrison seldom ventured." You and I know that Garrison did little else than argue—and incontrovertibly. He had a manly fashion of calling things by their right names; and what was then denounced of him as vituperation, is now called Gospel, with every man a believer. "Towards his political opponents," says the Review, "he had simply no sense of either justice or decency." What a statement! Mr. Garrison from his first connection with the Liberator, offered his columns to his opponents, and gratuitously, upon each issue, published a map of extracts from opposing papers, and without comment. If there ever was an open-handed opponent Mr. Garrison was it. "He was a continual brawl," it adds. Forty-two years ago I was a proud and cheerful typo upon the Liberator, and have seen Mr. Garrison intimately from then until my last meeting with him on the "Wentworth" tally-ho, during the summer of 18—. In all those years, suffering as he did under the most bitter and continuous provocation, I have never known him except as a resolute gentleman. I could not forget, if I would, the drive to Newcastle, and the delightful hour and a half of harkening I gave to the narration of his interviews with President Lincoln—the hearty expression of his love and high regard for him, and the eloquent tribute to his character and services. It was a rare meeting—Abraham Lincoln and Lloyd Garrison—the latter devoting a long life contending for the integrity of a country, that the other battled so like a god to save.

Among the food adulterations in our city, milk is the commonest and most abused of victims; and yet the very best of it is obtainable. In these days of milk-cure, it is much needed. When Mr. Conkling asked of Mr. Sharp, who drinks his five quarts per day, "How are you assured that it is pure?" "My own cow, sir," says Sharp. A gentleman who has become rich in providing fashions and patterns for the ladies of the country goes up into Cheshire county of your state and establishes what is called the best herd of cows in New England. He brings installments of them down here upon a finely appointed farm, five miles from Brooklyn, and sells the milk as long, he says, as "it's the best on the earth." Otherwise, they are transported back to Cheshire to regain a good milking condition, and their places filled by others. The result of it all is an exceptionally good milk. G.

Great Explosion.

The Laflin & Rand Powder Co.'s magazine at Chicago, containing 140,000 lbs. of powder and 70,000 lbs. of dynamite, was exploded by lightning Aug. 29th, killing one person, fatally injuring four, badly hurting others, and destroying $75,000 worth of property. Within a short distance were other storehouses containing 500,000 lbs. of dynamite and 1,000,000 lbs. of powder, but none of them exploded. The whole of Cook county felt the shock.

An English Decision in Favor of an American Trade-Mark.

In the chancery division of the High court of Justice, London, Vice Chancellor Bacon has given his decision in favor of the Charles A. Vogeler Company, of Baltimore, Maryland, manufacturers of the well-known St. Jacobs Oil, in the action brought by that house against H. Churchill & Co., of Brisbane, Queensland. The case grew out of an attempt of Churchill & Co. to register a trade-mark containing the words St. Patrick's Oil in connection with a medicinal preparation. This was promptly opposed by the Vogeler company, who contended that sufficient similarity existed between the terms St. Patricks and St. Jacobs as to cause confusion in the minds of the public and lead to purchasers being deceived. In support of this proposition they submitted evidence from English, American and Australian sources with the result stated. This is the second trade-mark suit won by the Vogeler company in England within three years.

AROUND HOME.

Hon. A. F. Pike and wife are at the Rockingham.

There was a big fire in Eliot on Sunday last near Nathaniel Staples' place, a very large tract of pasture land and young growth being burned over. The selectmen mustered several hundred of the towns-people to fight the fire, and by plowing and other means it was got under control.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less. I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

A despatch of Aug. 26th from Glasgow, Scotland, says; "The present condition of the shipping trade is the worst on record. Thirty-four steamers and twenty-three sailing vessels are rotting at their docks, having been idle some two years. This state of affairs is attributed to low freights and the general depression in business." We commend this statement to the careful consideration of those persons who maintain that the republican doctrine of protection has caused the ruin of the American merchant service. England has free trade, in ships as in everything else.

results from that true contentment which indicates perfect health of body and mind. You may possess it, if you will purify and invigorate your blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. E. M. I was afflicted with a disease of the liver for nearly two years, when a friend advised me to take this medicine. It gave prompt relief, and has cured me." Mrs. H. M. Kidder, 41 Dwight st., Boston, Mass., writes: "For several years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family. I never feel safe, even without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of Samuel Canary, charged with drunkenness, was let off on probation.

MUSIC HALL.

The Banker's Daughter is popular in Richmond and always attracts, but last night it was remarked that the house was extraordinary in size. The play is well understood here and its thrilling incidents were watched with eager interest. The Crossen Combination presenting it is wonderfully well-adapted to the requirements of the play. The dressing was magnificent and the special scenery carried by the company realistic in the extreme.—Richmond Despatch.

At Music hall Wednesday evening; tickets at Goodrich's.

MARITIME NOTES.

The brigantine Ellen M. Mitchell, Peterson master, arrived at the Concord railroad wharf on Monday from Sydney, C. B., with 618 tons of coal to J. Albert Walker.

A sailboat from Newburyport ran foul of the Noble's island wharf on Sunday, and had her bowsprit carried away. The damage was repaired on Monday, and the boat sailed in the afternoon.

The schooner L. S. Levering, Carson master, from Perth Amboy for this port with 400 tons of coal, during a light wind and thick fog about two o'clock Saturday morning went ashore on Block island, near the old inlet into Great Salt pond. She was reported to be lying easy on a good bottom, did not seem to be strained, and it was supposed would come off all right.

The Gloucester schooner A. R. Crittenden, bound home from North bay with 400 barrels of mackerel, was seized at Port Mulgrave, N. S., on a charge of violation of the customs laws, and taken to Port Hawksbury. She was released on payment of $400, which was done under protest.

Superintendent Kimball of the life saving bureau has received a letter from Admiral Ward of the British navy, and for many years connected with the Royal National Lifeboat Institution of Great Britain, in which he says that the American service shows by far the most complete record of life-saving work of any similar service in the world.

RAILROAD MATTERS.

The train leaving this city at 7:30 o'clock Monday morning for Boston was a long one, and on the start was filled nearly to the full capacity of the cars with summer boarders returning home from York and Rye beaches, and the hotels on both sides of this harbor. The 8:25 train was heavier still, the quantity of baggage placed on board from the baggage room and platform at the depot being immense; to the rear of this train were attached two packed cars which came in over the Conway division, most of the passengers in these cars being from Wolfeboro' and points on the lake.

In view of the immense increase of travel to Mt. Desert this season, the management of the Maine Central and Boston & Maine railroads have in contemplation for the next season the running of limited express trains between Boston and Bar Harbor, composed exclusively of Pullman palace cars.

The Boston Post of Saturday morning had the following article concerning the Eastern railroad: "Eastern was strong on Friday, advancing from eighty-four to eighty-six, closing at eighty-seven bid. The summer travel of this road has been simply enormous, particularly the Bar Harbor and seashore traffic. The management has spared no pains this year to obtain business and swell the receipts of the combined roads, and the net earnings shown up Sept. 30th will surprise even the most sanguine supporters of the stock. Net earnings, as we have often said, form a better foundation for dividend prospects than any form of funding legislation."

About sixty men were discharged from the bridge-building force of the Eastern division, Boston & Maine railroad, last Saturday night, as owing to the great number of trains now being run it is impossible to work on bridges to any kind of advantage. Eight of the men laid off belong in Eliot.

THE PLANETS IN SEPTEMBER.

Miss Maria Mitchell, the eminent astronomer whose monthly notices of planetary movements as published in the Providence Journal have been widely copied for years, says of the coming month:

During September Venus is morning star, but she will grow dim because of her distance from the earth and her approaching conjunction with the great luminary from whom she borrows her power to shine. Saturn is morning star, and now a prominent object in the morning sky, rising at the beginning of the month at one A. M., and making his appearance soon after eleven P. M. at its close. He must be looked for in the northeast. Mercury is morning star until the 27th, when he changes to evening star. Venus is northwest and Regulus is southeast of him. This is the last opportunity during the year for seeing the bright little planet with the naked eye as morning star. Neptune is morning star; Jupiter is evening star, and the brightest of the galaxy. Mars, small in size and faintly perceptible, is evening star. Uranus, too, is evening star, but no longer visible to the unassisted eye. The September moon falls on the 13th, and then will be seen the most beautiful moon of all the year, the harvest moon of which poets have sung. The husbandmen of old saw in the celestial arrangement that made the moon to rise for four evenings after the full with only thirty-two minutes average difference, a providential interposition to prolong the day, and thus lend them assistance in gathering in the harvest. On the 22d at ten P. M. the autumnal equinox occurs. Night and day are then of equal length all over the globe.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

HAMPTON, Aug. 30th.

While some of the summer boarders leave, others come; consequently the houses are still well filled. Some will very soon return home on account of the opening of the schools; others prefer to remain, enjoying the bracing air of September. Report says the Salem Cadets will sojourn with S. H. Dumas for the next two weeks; a fine band will attend them, which will attract all lovers of good music.

Near Elm Park may be seen a bed of scarlet and pink geraniums, one bush of which measures three feet six inches in height, and has twenty-eight bunches of blossoms and buds; another bush, three feet across, has thirty-six bunches.

The proprietor of the Union house was most agreeably surprised recently on his return from Boston to find his rooms filled with friends, and trimmed most tastefully with flowers and evergreen, it being his birth day. He was presented with an elegant clock for the dining hall; to his wife a silver cream service was given, with several smaller presents,—after which all partook of a bountiful supper, and engaged in dancing until a late hour.

Do not forget the lawn party in aid of the anti-cruelty society, at the former residence of Rev. James DeNormadie on State street, this afternoon. If the weather is unfavorable this afternoon, the party will take place the first fair day.

The Methodist society are blasting out the rock under their church, and will make a vestry there nine feet high in the clear.

Mr. George Vandenhoff, widely known as an actor and reader, and formerly for several years a resident of this city, died recently in England.

The statement that the Oceanic and Appledore houses, at the Shoals, will close Sept. 10th, and the steamer cease running to the islands on that date, was premature, the managers thinking it likely from present appearances that the date of closing will not come until some time later. There are now at the two hotels over 300 guests, and every pleasant day brings a good deal of transient patronage—parties from the mountains or eastern beaches, who desire to spend a day of two at the islands before returning to the cities, and also many persons from this immediate vicinity.

Hon. John S. Treat has a specimen of the Pierce artificial stone that has been out of doors and exposed to this climate for about eight years, and will be pleased to show it to any one interested in such matters, at his marble works, corner of Deer and Vaughan streets.

Flynn Brothers, who a few months ago commenced business in Nos. 25 and 31 Penhallow street with a stock of groceries, meats and farm produce, finding their increasing trade demands better facilities have engaged the old line grocery store No. 31 Market street, which they will open Sept. 1st with a large stock of articles pertaining to the needs of their customers. That the energy and desire to satisfy the public evinced by these young men have been appreciated is shown by the rapid increase of their patronage.

Mr. John Hazel, in the employ of Cobb, Bates & Yerxa of Boston, arrived in this city on Monday for a two weeks' stay.

On Saturday last Miss Ella Campbell, employed in the packing department at the Portsmouth Shoe Factory, was the recipient of an elegant silver cake-basket, presented by Mr. Will Fernald, in charge of that department, as a testimonial of the kind regards and respect of her companions, with their best wishes that the new duties of life upon which she is shortly to enter may be enchained with golden links of true happiness. The following names represent the givers: Biona Stimpson, Clara Marshall, Ella Seward, William Hartley, Will S. Fernald.

G.

Very few of the season guests have left the Oceanic as yet, and many of them will remain till the house closes. The help of the hotel had a trip in to this city by the steamer on Sunday evening, remaining a couple of hours before starting on the return, in lieu of the usual ball.

The coal pocket in course of erection on the Noble's island wharf is for the sole use of the Boston & Maine railroad, for the more convenient supplying of the locomotives of the corporation with fuel. When completed it will be 250 feet long, eighteen feet wide, and twenty-seven feet high at the highest point, with a capacity of about 1,400 tons of coal. A line of track will run close by it on each side, and on the top will be an automatic railway, operated by gravitation, the loaded car in running from the outer end to the shore end (which is to be nine feet lower than the outer end) hauling back up the incline the empty car on the other track.

He Wasn't There.

A Texas preacher caught four or five boys in his peach trees. He did not punish them, but merely said;

"You ought to be ashamed of yourselves, particularly the big boys. Which of you boys here is the oldest?"

"He ain't here at all, sir. He didn't know that we were coming, said the youngster.—Texas Siftings.

Origin of a Sponge Plantation.

I used to know an old oysterman in New London who had quite a museum of sponges which he had raked up from the bottom of the sound. They were too small and ligneous in character to have any commercial value, but he had a theory that better and more useful sponges could be planted where he had found them, and cultivated to profit. Being a poor man, he never made the experiment. Some one else did, though, and there is a sponge plantation at Stratford point, Conn., where a submerged reef is planted with the animals, brought from Florida. They flourished rapidly, I am assured, and, though somewhat coarse in fiber, have an extensive commercial value. So we may expect some day to see the story of a crew from Stamford to the Rhode Island line embowered in sponges, and the sturdy lobster-catchers, who are complaining of the steady disappearance of their shelly game, finding another source of revenue in the lobster's haunts.—New York News "Babble."

What Became of the Gifts.

A little peasant girl in Italy knitted a pair of stockings and sent them as a present to Queen Margherita on her fete day. With characteristic kindness the queen sent the girl in return another pair of stockings, one containing gold coin, the other bon-bons, and a note asking her to say which of the stockings gave her the more pleasure. "Dear Madam the queen," wrote the child in reply, "I have had nothing but trouble with the stockings. My father took the one with the gold pieces and my brother the one with the sweets."—Chicago Tribune.

The Bees' Ideal Civilization.

"The bees have an ideal civilization, in which if a fellow turns idler and stands on the corner to ogle the females they sting him to death and drop him down as food for the ants.—Washington McLean in an Interview.

Gilded Crabs as Momentoes.

The summer visitors must have something to carry home with them as mementoes, and the gilded crab has been invented to supply the want. The large shore mollusks are easily gilded and adapted to ornamental use.—Chicago Times.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or PITCHING of the scalp; should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHTY PER CENT of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the person may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have produced a good growth of Hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:

We grow Hair in 3 case out of 100, no matter how long bald.

Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons.

It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.

DOUBLE AND TRIPLE STRENGTH.

When the skin is very tough and hard, and the follicle is apparently effectually closed, the single strength will sometimes fail to reach the papilla; in such cases the double or triple strength should be used in connection with the single, using them alternately.

Hay Fever Sufferers.—The number of people annually afflicted with this most annoying malady seems to be greatly on the increase. * * * The editor of this journal is an annual victim, and with a view to discover a specific, has tried numerous remedies. Of these, Ely's Cream Balm is by all odds the quickest and most satisfactory, two applications greatly allaying the usual symptoms in the nose and eyes. We would recommend its use by all subject to hay fever, and we gladly bear unsolicited testimony to its efficiency in our own case.—Media, Pa., Record.

John A. Keenan of Dover, unmarried and aged twenty-five, a member of the legislature from ward five, Dover, in 1883 and 1884, died Aug. 28th of heart trouble. He was the youngest member ever elected to the New Hampshire legislature, being but two days over twenty-one when first chosen.

For all bilious and miasmatic diseaes, Ayer's Ague Cure is absolutely a certain, safe, and radical cure.

The First Congregational church at Exeter has contracted for a large new organ.

If you are nervous or dyspeptic try Carter's Little Nerve Pills. Dyspepsia makes you nervous, and nervousness makes you dyspeptic; either one renders you miserable and these little pills cure both.

A town fair will be held at Londonderry under the auspices of the local Grange, October 7th.

Wheel used according to directions, Ayer's Ague Cure is warranted to eradicate, from the system, fever and ague, intermittent, remittent, and bilious fevers, and all malarial diseases. Try it.

Arthur West of Epping, an inmate of the Rockingham county asylum for the insane at Brentwood, set the bedding in his cell on fire Aug. 18th, and was so badly burned that he died the following Sunday.

Those sharp pains in the small of the back and around the hips will quickly go after you apply a Hop Plaster. Ladies, pay attention to this. 25c. They are sure and never failing. Try one.

California republicans have nominated John F. Swift for governor.

Disorders of the stomach, liver, and kidneys, can be cured by restoring the blood to a healthy condition, through the vitalizing and cleansing action of Ayer's Sarparilla. It is the safest, most powerful, and most highly concentrated alterative available to the public.

Arthur Holmes of this city was bitten at Rochester severely by a bulldog on Tuesday of last week, some of the wounds reaching the bone. The dog was subsequently killed by the police.

Is He Your Friend?

Is the family doctor your friend? How many unnecessary visits does he make you? How many days does he keep you sick that you ought to be at your work, and so doing how many hard-earned dollars does he extort from you? Would it be better for you to place your trust in Sulphur Bitters? Try them, they will be a true friend. Saving you a long sickness and a large bill, which you have hitherto paid to some avaricious doctor.—Editor State Journal.

Something that will quiet the nerves, give strength to the body, induce refreshing sleep, improve the quality of the blood, and purify and brighten the complexion, is what many persons would be very glad to obtain. A Tried Remedy for Biliousness.

Those who suffer from disorder or inaction of the liver will never get the upper hand of the unruly organ so long as they use such irrational remedies as blue pill, calomel and podophyllin. But from the tried and popular medicine, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, they may expect relief with a certainty of obtaining it. The influence of the Bitters upon the great biliary gland is direct, powerful and speedily felt. The relief afforded is not spasmodic, but complete and permanent. The sallowness of the skin, furred appearance of the tongue, indigestion, costiveness, headache, nausea, pains through the right side and shoulder, in fact every accompaniment of the obstinate complaint are entirely and promptly removed by a course of this inestimable medicine, in behalf of which testimony is constantly emanating from every quarter, and from all classes of society.

A Mr. Atkinson, of Boston, gives to the public a theory and plan of apparatus for cooking that has a ring of health, effectiveness and economy about it excelling any other mode now in use. Briefly it is an inch tube, proceeding out from near the bottom, and in at the top, of a pine metal-lined box, to contain water, heated by the flame of an oil lamp or a gas jet applied to said tube. The articles are cooked in tight vessels, and come to the table without burning, shrinkage, or loss of flavor. Mr. Atkinson calls his invention "The Aladdin," but takes out no patent. Any scheme of heating that will rid us of the labor, dirt and unwholesomeness of coal-burning is an incalculable benefaction.

The new process of electricity now being applied to cremation will obtain for it a larger hearing and an increased advocacy. A complete and immediate dissolution is effected, with an entire immunity from the objections urged against the previous methods. There is a very wide prejudice—not conviction—to be overcome before cremation will have favor; but it will have it; of slow growth perhaps, but a certain one. I believe that all of argument, and all of correct sentiment will ultimately indicate it.

The names of the new steel cruisers for the United States navy, plans for which were adopted by the secretary of the navy upon the recommendation of the Walker board on additional vessels, have been selected. One of the 4,000-ton vessels will be named the Newark, and the other, modelled after the Japanese warship Naniwakane, will be called Charleston; and the twin-screw cruiser, the largest of the three, will be named in honor of Baltimore. The designs for the Baltimore were made by Constructor White of England for the Spanish government, but no vessel has yet been constructed in accordance with them.

RAILROADS IN MEXICO.

What They Have Done to Arouse an Extremely Conservative People.

The American railroads in Mexico have already done much to arouse the most stubbornly conservative people on the face of the globe from their lethargy, and in a manner that no other instrumentality probably could have effected. When the locomotive first appeared, it is said that the people of whole villages fled affrighted from their habitations, or organized processions with religious emblems and holy water, to exorcise and repel the monster. During the first year of the experience of the Mexican Central, armed guards also were considered an essential accompaniment of every train, as had been the case on the Vera Cruz railroad since its opening in 1873. But all this is now a matter of the past, and so impressed is the government with the importance of keeping its railroad system safe and intact that the Mexican congress recently decreed instant execution, without any formal trial, to any one caught in the act of wrecking or robbing a train.

That any improved methods of intercommunication between different people or countries—common roads, vessels, railroads, or vehicles, or the like—increase the production and exchange of commodities, is accepted as an economic axiom. But there could be no more striking and practical illustration of this law than a little recent experience on the line of the Mexican National railroad. The corn crop, which is the main reliance of the people living along the present southern extension of this road for food, had for several years prior to 1885, failed by reason of drought; and, under ordinary circumstances, great suffering through starvation would inevitably have ensued. The natives, however, soon learned that with the railroad had come a ready market, at from 2 1-2 to 3 cents per pound for the fiber known as "ixtle;" the product of a species of agave, which grows in great abundance in the mountainous region of that section of country, and which has recently come into extensive use in Europe and the United States for the manufacture of brushes, ladies' corsets, mats cordage, etc. And so well have they improved their knowledge and opportunities that the quantity of ixtle transported by the Mexican National railroad has risen from 234,788 pounds in 1882 to 700,341 in 1883, to 3,498,407 in 1884, and 3,531,195 in the first seven months of 1885; while with the money proceeds the producers have been able to buy more corn from Texas than they would have obtained had their crops been successful, and have had in addition, and probably for the first time in their lives, some surplus cash to expend for other purposes.

What sort of things these poor Mexicans would buy if they could was indicated to the writer by seeing in the hut of a laborer, on the line of the Mexican Central railroad—a place destitute of almost every comfort, or article of furniture or convenience—a bright, new, small kerosene lamp, than which nothing that fell under his observation in Mexico was more remarkable and interesting. Remarkable and interesting because neither this man, nor his father, possibly, since the world to them began had ever before known anything better than a blazing brand as a method for illumination at night; and had never had either the knowledge, the desire, or the means of obtaining anything superior. But at last, through contract with and employment on the American railroad, the desire, the opportunity, the means to purchase, and the knowledge of the simple mechanism of the lamp, had come to this humble, isolated Mexican peasant; and out of the germ of progress thus spontaneously, as it were, developed by the wayside, may come influences more potent for civilization and the elevation of humanity in Mexico than all that church and state have been able to effect within the last three centuries.—David A. Wells in Popular Science Monthly.

Feats of a Bulgarian Hercules.

In the Bulgarian village of Ostrova a correspondent of The Freie Presse recently witnessed the exploits of a rustic athlete who could make his fortune in any North American circus. He snapped an inch tow by passing one loop over his neck and shoulders and the other around his bended knee and then straightening out with an effort that turned his forehead into a chump of wrinkles. With an end of the same tow he then got a hitch around a sixty-pund chunk of limestone, and, after giving it a few pendulum swings, whirled it around his head like a slungshot. A boy attendant then handed him a stone jug of the heaviest caliber, which he wrapped up in a shawl and chucked between his crossed arms and his chest. "Will you pay for it if I break it?" he asked, after giving the bundle a preliminary hug. Coppers dropped in from all sides, and under the next hug the massive stoneware collapsed like an egg-shell.

Samson next seized a wheelbarrow by the end of the handles. "Who will give me a florin if I let him sit in here and lift this thing the way I hold it?" No one seemed disposed to volunteer, Samson made his boy get aboard and hold the limestone rock between his knees. Seizing the barrow at the very extremity of the handles, he raised it clean off the ground, held it out at arm's length for at least five seconds, and then lowered it without allowing the front end to tip a single inch. He then produced a large grain sack and offered to b[illegible] fellow-man in less than ten [illegible] a bet of five against [illegible] broad-shoulder[illegible]

Brethren, Do Improve This Opportunity.

President Cleveland, with a party of friends, has gone deep into the woods on a gunning and hunting expedition. He will be beyond the reach of telegraphic communication for a week.

So says a telegraphic despatch of Aug. 30th from the Adirondack region of New York. We mention this not because we suppose anybody except the mugwumps cares particularly where the president is, just at present, but to call the attention of our democratic brethren of the press to the magnificent chance they have for a shout about "absenteeism" and "base neglect of duty." When President Grant during the hot weather used to take a run down to Long Branch, where he was in telegraphic communication with the whole world, and from which point he could reach Washington by rail in a few hours if emergency required, what nobly denunciatory editorials they produced regarding "our absentee administration" and its base betrayal of the trust reposed in it by the people,—and this, too, when most of the cabinet officials were at their desks in Washington. Now, when the only members of the cabinet on duty are pro tem. ones, and President Cleveland goes "beyond the reach of telegraphic communication for a week," won't they just howl!

Please wait until you hear the faintest whimper from one of them, and "when found, make a note of."

And the "democratic house," too. It is matter of memory to those now living that a former democratic house on a certain occasion passed a resolution demanding of a republican president information as to how many days he had been absent from the capital since his inauguration, what business he had been on while absent, and what authority he had to absent himself. What a chance the present house has for still greater insolence in President Cleveland's case. But perhaps the answer returned by the stern old hero who afterward faced the King of Terrors himself without quailing, took all the vim out of future "democratic houses," in that direction.

AROUND HOME.

The Wentworth will close for the season on or about the tenth of September

Mr. Albert Rowe of Boston, formerly for several years steward of the Rockingham house, arrived in town on Monday evening.

Edward P. Carmen, late foreman of the Portsmouth Machine Shop, on Tuesday removed his family from this city to Portland, Me.

Mr. John Pickard, principal of the high school, has arrived home from his summer vacation. The schools re-open for the fall term on Monday next.

Several hundred acres of wood land between Exeter, Epping and South Newmarket, located partly in each of the towns named, were burned over between Saturday night and Monday, and the fire was still burning on Tuesday morning.

Mr. John R. Morrissey, a native of Portsmouth, arrived here from Detroit on the 19th of August, having been recalled to his former home by the death of his mother. He is employed as a file maker at the works of the Michigan Stove Co., of Detroit, and will return to that city after about a week more.

Andrews of Biddeford, the submarine diver who some years ago worked out one or two contracts for the removal of obstructions in Portsmouth harbor, on Friday of last week gave a public exhibition of diving, winding up with a dynamite explosion, at Biddeford Pool. This was the third similar exhibition given by him, and was witnessed by a very large number of people from Saco, Biddeford and Old Orchard. The pecuniary gain in the transaction is found in the transportation of spectators by steamer.

Mr. H. S. Ives, who has for some time supplied the pulpit of the 1st Christian church of Kittery, (at Kittery Point,) was ordained to the ministry on the evening of the 25th inst., in presence of a congregation nearly filling the church, the following being the order of exercises: Organ voluntary; anthem; invocation, by Rev. John Mugridge of Ogunquit; reading of scripture, by Rev. H. J. Rhodes of Manchester, N. H.; reading of hymn, by Rev. Mr. Anderson of Kittery; sermon by Rev. A. H. Merrill, from Mark 16:15, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel;" reading of hymn, by Rev. B. F. Mabee of York; presentation of condidate, by Rev. L. W. Phillips of Rye, N. Miss Theodosia Barrell, daughter of C. C. Barrell, Esq., of York, is teaching the fall term of school in district No. 3, which commenced the 23d.

Miss Mabel I. Jenkins will teach in Calais, Me., and not in Castine, as reported last week,—a slight mistake on our part, as the names of the two places are so nearly similar.

School in district No. 2, North Kittery, will commence Monday, Sept. 6th. Miss Carrie H. Haley will teach the fall term.

Miss Minnie Paul is teaching the fall term of school in district No. 1, which commenced Monday, the 23d inst.

Mr. John F. Goodsoe has harvested this year 100 bushels of oats and fifty bushels of barley.

Civil Engineer Henry S. Craven, U. S. N., has vacated the Lawrence cottage at Kittery Point and taken up his abode with his father, Admiral Craven, in his cottage at the Point.

Miss Susan Fernald of South Boston is visiting friends in North Kittery.

Early last Monday morning the night watchman at Kittery depot heard a loud and continuous rushing and splashing in the waters of Remick's cove, opposite the depot, and as soon as it was light enough visited the flats, the tide having nearly gone out, and found the ground thickly covered with what he at first supposed were tinker mackerel, but which proved to be bill-fish, a variety rarely if ever before found in these waters, but which are very common in the British provinces, where they are considered an excellent pan fish. Several of the residents gathered large quantities of the fish, which were alive some time after the tide left them. It was estimated that at least a hundred barrels of them were left on the flats in that cove.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hip, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. PROUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

President Cleveland is reported not to have very good luck at fishing in the Adirondacks. This is but natural. As president he seemed incapable of catching on to the importance of the fishery question, even though such an expert as Chas. Levi Woodbury stood by to give him the points; and when it comes to casting his lines in the mountain streams the fish know too much for him.

great relief. It has entirely restored me to health." James French, Atchison, Kans., writes: "To all persons suffering from Liver Complaint, I would strongly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with a disease of the liver for nearly two years, when a friend advised me to take this medicine. It gave prompt relief, and has cured me." Mrs. H. M. Kidder, 41 Dwight st., Boston, Mass., writes: "For several years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family. I never feel safe, even without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of and commenced giving it to him. It surely worked wonders, for, in a short time, he was completely cured."

THE WEATHER.

For New England to-day:—
Light local rains, followed by slightly cooler, fair weather.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 60 degrees above zero.
Cloudy

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

During the thunder shower with which the rain of Tuesday afternoon commenced, the house No. 1 Salter street, occupied by Mr. Charles N. Osgood, was struck by lightning on the roof near a chimney, the bolt then apparently scattering in all directions, tearing up shingles, splitting boards, and doing considerable damage to the building. At the time of the shock Mr. Osgood, his wife and three of his boys, Adolph, Frank and Fred, were in the dining room. Mr. Osgood was standing by a door near the centre of the house, while the other four persons were sitting on the other side of the room, nearer the windows, Adolph close by one of them, his mother near him on a sofa and Frank beside her, while Fred was sitting some distance away, on the stairs leading to the second story. Mrs. Osgood, Adolph and Frank were thrown down, and Mr. Osgood whirled about on his feet, but the younger boy, Fred, did not feel the shock at all. Soon all but Adolph came to their senses, but he was picked up apparently lifeless, his legs and arms being cold as stone, and his body quite black. A physician was sent for who administered proper treatment, and the boy was restored to natural heat and breathing, and was at last accounts doing well. Mrs. Osgood sustained a severe nervous shock, but the others were but slightly hurt.

MUSIC HALL.

This evening, at Music hall, Crossen's Banker's Daughter Co. will present that play, which is the best of the so-called "society" plays ever put on the stage. The sale of seats has been large, but good ones are still to be had at Goodrich's.

A REMONSTRANCE.

Mr. Editor: By the private enterprise of some of our public-spirited fellow citizens, we have in our city a handsome Music hall, well-equipped, and in all respects well adapted for a place of public amusement. During the past week the fall season has opened auspiciously, with large audiences each evening, and a very creditable company; and as one of the amusement loving public I wish to raise my voice against the abominable noise, screeching and whistling which has prevailed in the gallery during these performances, it seems to me more than ever before. If the police would promptly eject any person, man or boy, who is guilty of making these diabolical noises, I think it would stop it. There are many of our citizens who do not attend Music hall on account of the yelling, screeching gallery, and the comfort and pleasure of those who do go are very much impaired. J.

VISITORS FROM THE PROVINCES.

The shoal waters along the shores of the lower harbor and the adjacent islands have for several days been swarming with bill-fish—a fish ten or twelve inches long and very narrow in proportion to its length, and having a slender, delicate bill an inch and a half long, the under mandible being wider and longer than the upper one, which shuts into a groove of the lower one when the beak is closed. The fish from its build should be able to swim with great speed; the beak seems to be fitted for no heavier service than the catching of insects, and not very large ones at that, as a tar-bug or horned beetle would probably break the slender affair. Thousands of the little fish were captured on Monday among the rockweed and in small pools along the shore, where they had been left by the receding tide. They are reported to be very abundant along the coast of Newfoundland and other of the British provinces, where they are much esteemed for the table, but are not commonly seen on our coasts. Perhaps their present visit in such numbers is on account of the fishery troubles; such an inroad of British fishes into our waters, inside the three mile limit, too, should be looked after by Secretary Bayard.

BOAT EXCURSIONS.

The Riverside row-boat, Dow coxswain, with a party of seventeen young working men of fine appearance, including a full complement of good oarsmen, proceeded on Sunday to the vicinity of Chauncy's creek, Kittery, where the chef de cuisine, Wm. E. Cochrane, aided by several competent assistants, prepared a very elaborate clam chowder and coffee, which were largely patronized and greatly enjoyed. It was a very pleasant occasion, for one reason because it was a temperate one, only Boynton's light beverages being provided, other than which are not much allowed now-a-days by experienced managers on such trips. As soon as the boat was lifted from the flats by the rising tide the return trip was made, the party being greeted by a large crowd of friends as they landed at Spring Hill steps. The club is so aristocratic as to carry a reporter, whose treatment is of the most hospitable kind. The Riversides in going down the river beat the Athletics, but the latter say it was in consequence of their putting in to the navy yard.

The Athletic boat club, with twenty-two persons all told, on Sunday visited the shores of Chauncy's creek, where they enjoyed themselves in a quiet and reasonable manner during the day. The party, which comprised some of the best young business men of the city, had with them Ye Sing, who considers himself as good a 'Melican man as is to be found; the only fault he finds with the Athletics is that their refreshments consist mainly of solids and coffee.

The row-boat North End Charmer, with a party of twenty-seven and well supplied with stores, navigated the upper waters of the Piscataqua on Sunday.
VIATOR.

NO LICENSE

Required but that of the poet. The following thrilling pome was found neatly tacked on the curbing of the pump on Miller avenue during the recent severe drought:

Thirsty traveller, stop and see
What God hath done for you and me,
He's placed within this beauteous vale
The best and purest of Adam's ale.
Drink all you want, you can't drink it up;
But don't destroy this pump or break the cup.

RAILROAD MATTERS.

The Flying Yankee, which should have passed through this city about 7:30 o'clock Monday evening, did not arrive until after nine o'clock, the heavy traffic on the Maine Central road, particularly from Bar Harbor, being responsible for the delay. It was met at this station by the eastward-bound Pullman train, which was of unusual length, but not much crowded with passengers.

The gravel trains of the Boston & Maine railroad have been engaged of late in filling up along the track at the southerly side of Noble's island. It has been surmised that at some time in the not distant future wharves may be built there, where colliers may lie in still water, and where Noble's fishing fleet used to lie.

There is to be a grand excursion from this city and Dover to Fabyan's and Mt. Washington, with tickets from either city to Fabyan's and return, good Sept. 7 th, going, and on any train until Sept. 14th, returning, at $2 each. At Fabyan's tickets to Mt. Washington and return will be procurable at $3 each.

MARITIME NOTES.

The steam yacht Gleam came into this harbor Tuesday afternoon, and anchored near Badger's island.

The steamer Oceanic took a large party to the Shoals on Tuesday; the cheap rates are taken advantage of by many persons.

The steamer Startled Fawn, of Newburyport, has been sold to the Penobscot Steam Navigation Co. for service between Bangor and Bucksport, Me. She is one of the fastest boats that ever came into this port; it is said she can steam eighteen knots an hour—which we don't believe.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

John S. Quinn has been "called" on the navy yard, for the boat shop. He is an experienced boat builder, having served an apprenticeship at the business on this river.

The United States ships Galena, Swatara and Yantic, of the North Atlantic squadron, have been ordered to this naval station to effect what repairs are required to fit them for their winter cruise in the West Indian waters and the Gulf of Mexico.

AROUND HOME.

The lawn party in aid of the anti-cruelty society, which was to have been held Tuesday afternoon at the former residence of Rev. James DeNormandie on State street, was necessarily postponed on account of the rain, until the next fair day.

The Mechanics' Fire Society, a time-honored institution of our city, whose members are always "prompt when duty calls," especially where "good viands well served" are found, will hold its regular quarterly meeting and supper at the Rockingham house next Friday evening, at 7:30 o'clock.

Seldom has a rain been more welcome than that which commenced falling about one o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The farmers of neighboring towns had before that almost given up hope of there being any "fall feed" this year.

Thomas Sullivan of Suncook, who was run over in the railroad freight yard last Friday night, and lost both feet, is reported by Dr. Whittier as progressing favorably, and likely to effect a good recovery.

The chimney man who made such an excitement at the foot of State street, Monday night of last week, was sent to New York on the 31st ult.

Hon. Martin A. Haynes, accompanied by Mrs. Haynes, was in town on Tuesday, and left on one of the evening trains for Hampton, where Mrs. Haynes, who is a member of the Lane family, goes to join in a family reunion of her relatives.

Mr. Fred H. Ward of this city was thrown from a bicycle on Silver street, Dover, last Sunday evening, and had his right arm dislocated at the elbow. He was attended by a surgeon, and came to his home by team.

Capt. Sewell Aderton, formerly master of the sloop Stephen Orr, now commanded by his brother Frank, was in this city on Monday. Sewell is now prominently employed in a paper box manufactory at Farmington, having become disgusted with the hardships and perils of the sea.

Martha Washington's Curtain Lecture.

Most of the presidents have made good husbands, and history tells of none of them who have had serious trouble with their wives. We read, it is true, that Martha Washington was overheard by certain visitors who slept at Mount Vernon, giving the general curtain lectures in such animated tones that her voice penetrated through the thin partitions which separated the rooms; but the traveler adds that Gen. Washington listened in silence, and, when the lecture was finished, merely said, "Now good sleep to you, my dear." After this nothing more was heard.

Washington wrote many and long letters to his wife which were full of affection, but "Lady" Washington thought so much of these that she destroyed them before she died. Only one escaped—the one in which he announced his appointment as commander-in-chief of the colonial army. He begins the letter "My dearest," and closes it with the statement that he is "with unfeigned regard" her "very affectionate George Washington." He uses several times in the letter his pet name for his wife, which was "my dear Patsy," and says he has made a will with which he doubts not she will be pleased. He was married to her forty years, and "during all this time he wore," says his adopted son, George Washington Parke Curtis, "suspended from his neck by a gold chain and resting on his bosom, the miniature portrait of his wife."—Frank G. Carpenter in Lippincott's.

Sea Water as a Preservative.

The Vigo Bay Treasure company, of London, lately received a curious collection of articles taken from the treasure galleons sunk in the harbor of Vigo, Spain, in 1702. There are specimens of logwood and mahogany that, in spite of their 184 years' submersion, are in a perfect state of preservation. Dyers who have experimented with the logwood state that it is even better for dyeing purposes than the wood now imported. The mahogany, too, is very fine and solid. One log has arrived twelve feet long and twenty-two by thirty-two inches square, which is now being sawed up to be used in the manufacture of furniture and walking sticks for mementoes. The chief curiosity, however, is an ancient pulley block four and a half feet high by three feet broad, with four solid copper sheaves, 18 inches in diameter. It is solid oak, and was probably used in hoisting heavy articles of merchandise or the anchors. The wood is perfectly preserved, but an iron band is completely corroded away, while the copper wheels are only slightly oxidized.—Scientific American.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or ITCHING of the scalp; should use Benton's Hair Grower. Ninety PER CENT of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the person may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have produced a good growth of Hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:

We grow Hair in 10 cases out of 100, no matter how long bald.

Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons.

It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.

DOUBLE AND TRIPLE STRENGTH.

HOW TO GET FAT.

The marvelous efficacy of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, taken in connection with our formula, is best attested by the evidence of those who have grown strong, hearty and fat by its use. Its wonderful curativity as a cure in wasting diseases, and the surprising recuperation of those who have tried it, together with its absolute purity and excellence, establish its standard as the best for medicinal use ever placed on the market.

Gain of 41 Pounds.

198 CONWAY ST., BALTIMORE, MD.
Gentlemen—About three months ago I commenced using your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and formula. I then weighed 118 pounds, and now weigh 159 pounds, a gain of 41 pounds. I attribute all this improvement in health and strength to the use of your whiskey in connection with your formula.
Very truly, P. R. MURPHY.

Gain of 33 Pounds.

LURAY C. H., VA.
I have been using your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for dyspepsia with the best result. I commenced the use of it six weeks ago and have gained 33 pounds. I cheerfully recommend it to all people suffering from indigestion. Z. HARRISON.

Gain of 24 Pounds.

BELLEFONTAINE, O., March 30, 1883.
Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Baltimore, Md. My Dear Sirs—Your Malt Whiskey has actually cured my wife of her lung trouble (thought to be consumption in its first stage). She was so weak she could do anything, weighing just 111 pounds, when commencing to use your Whiskey, and to-day, just three months from its use, she weighs 135 pounds, looks better, feels better and is better than she has been for two years. I believe her entirely cured and thank you most heartily for the trouble you took in prescribing the formula and other favors from your excellent corps of physicians. I shall wise to let all that I think can be benefited by it, as it has saved me an enormous doctor bill and an invalid's care.
Most sincerely yours,
J. L. BARRINGER,
Prop. Excelsior Steam Printing Works.

Gain of 25 Pounds.

MR. M. V. NEIGHBORS, Osage Mission, Kan., writes: "I have used your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, in connection with your formula, and am feeling much better in health and have gained 25 pounds more than at any time before in my life. I will surely recommend it."

Gain of 19 1-2 Pounds.

938 MAIN STREET, KANSAS CITY, MO.
Dear Sirs—For years I have catarrh and am run down in flesh, and commenced using your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I have used it a little over two months, and when commencing weighed 113 pounds and now weigh 132½ pounds.
Yours respectfully,
EDWARD H. HOWE.

A Gentle Sarcasm.

The Boston Advertiser, after describing with Jenkins-like detail the trousers worn by Dr. O. W. Holmes on his return home on Monday, says: "He returns the same modest, unaffected American gentleman which he always was and which he always will remain."

Nothing could be more Bostonese than this.

Byron never uttered truer words than when he said, "Physicians mend or end us." But while doctors disagree, all the world has agreed that there is no remedy equal to Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

Hanlan says he intends to go to England and race with Beach, after his race with Courtney at Rockaway.

Hay Fever Sufferers.—The number of people annually afflicted with this most annoying malady seems to be greatly on the increase. * * * The editor of this journal is an annual victim, and with a view to discover a specific, has tried numerous remedies. Of these, Ely's Cream Balm is by all odds the quickest and most satisfactory, two applications greatly allaying the usual symptoms in the nose and eyes. We would recommend its use by all subject to hay fever, and we gladly bear unsolicited testimony to its efficiency in our own case.—Media, Pa., Record.

Schooner Frederick Gerring, of Gloucester, reports two of her crew gone astray in a dory on the Grand banks; and schooner James A. Garfield reports two men drowned by their dory being capsized.

To be free from sick headache, biliousness, constipation, etc., use Carter's Little Liver Pills. Strictly vegetable. They gently stimulate the liver and free the stomach from bile.

A livery stable at Newton Center, Mass., containing twelve horses and other property, was burned Sunday morning.

For all bilious and miasmatic diseases, Ayer's Ague Cure is absolutely a certain, safe, and radical cure.

Alden M. McLain, of Rockland, Me., was struck by a piece of rock in a quarry and probably fatually injured.

If you are nervous or dyspeptic try Carter's Little Nerve Pills. Dyspepsia makes you nervous, and nervousness makes you dyspeptic; either one renders you miserable and these little pills cure both.

Rev. George Hill, an Episcopal clergyman of Dexter, Me., died from lockjaw Aug. 28th.

Whed used according to directions, Ayer's Ague Cure is warranted to eradicate, from the system, fever and ague, intermittent, remittent, and bilious fevers, and all malarial diseases. Try it.

The English polo players beat the Americans again in the second contest.

Those sharp pains in the small of the back and around the hips will quickly go after you apply a Hop Plaster. Ladies, pay attention to this. 25c. They are sure and never failing. Try one.

California republicans have nominated John F. Swift for governor.

Disorders of the stomach, liver, and kidneys, can be cured by restoring the blood to a healthy condition, through the vitalizing and cleansing action of Ayer's Sarparilla. It is the safest, most powerful, and most highly concentrated alterative available to the public.

Twenty-five persons have been arrested at Newport, R. I., for violating the prohibitory law.

Millard Agnew, of Boston, was fatally injured on the narrow gauge road at Beachmont.

Is He Your Friend?

Is the family doctor your friend? How many unnecessary visits does he make you? How many days does he keep you sick that you ought to be at your work, and so doing how many hard-earned dollars does he extort from you? Would it be better for you to place your trust in Sulphur Bitters? Try them, they will be a true friend. Saving you a long sickness and a large bill, which you have hitherto paid to some avaricious doctor.—Editor State Journal.

Sears has again won, at Newport, R. I., the tennis championship of the National association.

Many mothers are unable to nurse their children. In such cases the best substitute to be found is Mellin's Food, prepared after Liebig's formula, which has proved to correspond physiologically with mothers' milk.

Mrs. John Devlin, of New Haven, Conn., while lying drunk in bed, rolled on her baby and killed it.

Something that will quiet the nerves, give strength to the body, induce refreshing sleep, improve the quality of the blood, and purify and brighten the complexion, is what many persons would be very glad to obtain. Carter's Iron Pills are made for exactly this class of troubles, and are remarkably successful in accomplishing the ends desired, as named above. They are useful for both men and women. Sold by druggists. Price, fifty cents a box. See advertisement.

Why Mr. Clem Came to Town To-Day.

There was, yesterday, received from New Orleans a draft for $15,000, the sum drawn by William Clem of Monroeville, in the last drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery. Mr. Clem will be in the city to-day to receipt for his newly and easily acquired fortune. Many persons were skeptical and did not believe that the money would be forthcoming. The Louisiana State Lottery is as solid as a National Bank and prizes are invariably paid in full.—Fort Wayne (Ind.) Journal, July 21st.

A Tried Remedy for Billiousness.

Those who suffer from disorder or inaction of the liver will never get the upper hand of the unruly organ so long as they use such irrational remedies as blue pill, calomel and podophyllin. But from the tried and popular medicine, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, they may expect relief with a certainty of obtaining it. The influence of the Bitters upon the great biliary gland is direct, powerful and speedily felt. The relief afforded is not spasmodic, but complete and permanent. SUGAR AMONG THE ANCIENTS.

Once Known as a Remedial Agent—Introduction into Europe—Beets.

It seems almost impossible to imagine life without sugar, so absolutely essential is its use to the comfort of living. There is no mention of sugar among the early Greeks and Romans, although sugar or "sweet" cane was made known by the conquests of Alexander the Great, whose admiral, Nearchus, found it in the East Indies. It is mentioned as a remedial agent a few years before the birth of Christ—"a honey called saccharon, having the appearance of salt." It is known, also, that Galen often prescribed it as a medicine. The juice of the sugar cane was used by some of the oriental nations as an intoxicating drink. The Arabians used sugar in large quantities, and it is related that at the marriage of Caliph Maskadi Benrittale 80,000 pounds of the sugar were required to prepare the comfitures and ornamental sweets for the wedding banquet at Bagdad.

Sugar was introduced into Europe by the crusaders. In 1166 the king of Sicily gave the monks of St. Benedict's cloister a mill for expressing the juice from the cane and granted them the right of manufacture and sent them skilled workmen. In Germany, even as late as the end of the seventeenth century, sugar was so costly that only the wealthiest families could afford to use it. In 1745 Marggraf, a celebrated chemist, read a paper before the Berlin Academy of Sciences concerning the juices of certain native plants, especially of the beet, in which was a substance identical with cane sugar. He showed by samples of his own preparation that the manufacture of sugar from the beet was not only possible but profitable. The chemist's colleagues, however, laughed the project to scorn, saying that sugar was never produced from beets, and it came to naught. When Marggraf died in 1783 it seemed as if his discovery would die with him.

Achard, his pupil, at the close of the century, being director of the academy, found the treatise of his master and determined to establish a manufactory in Silesia for the production of beet-root sugar. In spite of the energy of the chemist and the assistance of the crown, the project was not successful, although the sugar was perfectly satisfactory. It was not until 1841, nearly 100 years after Marggraf's first essay, that the production of beet sugar was an accomplished fact. At the present time beet sugar is the sugar of Europe. It is scarcely distinguishable from the cane sugar. It is perhaps less brilliantly crystalline, and is by many thought to be sweeter than its Indian rival.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

The Humors of a Menagerie.

Possibly from a wholesome respect for the porcupine's spears, the monkeys mostly restrict themselves to the bars and ropes to the upper half of the cage. Now and then there is the usual skirmish among themselves, without which monkeys seem to be incapable of enduring life. Occasionally an irrepressible monkey seizes the tail of a jackal as it passes under him with the peculiar "trittrot" of the race, hauls it up into the air until it yells with mixed anger and terror, and then swings itself among the bars above, and grins at the victim in derision.

As to the rabbits and guinea-pigs, they seem to be simple nonentities, and the monkeys do not meddle with them. There is some fun in pulling the tail of a pig or jackal, because the one will squeal and the other will yell. But rabbits and guinea-pigs make no outcry, and therefore are allowed to go their own stupid way. Ducks and geese too, being noisy birds, afford a momentary joy when suddenly suspended by the neck or wing, but the jackals seem to give the most sport, their tails being irresistible to any of the monkey race. It is very amusing to watch a jackal trotting along with bushy tail erect, and suddenly recollect that it is passing under a bar tenanted by a monkey. The way in which it droops its tail and scurries out of reach of the monkey's paw, seems to amuse its persecutor almost as much as a successful grasp of its victim. As to the jackals themselves, they slink away for a moment, but soon forget their previous experiences, and run the same risk again. —Leisure Hour.

Children of the Neapolitan Poor.

The Naples children are of a kind difficult to classify. Born in extreme poverty, clad in rags, fed upon crusts, strings of maccaroni and sour wine, sleeping on the floor or on pavements, very strange ideas must enter their infant brains. They are not pretty, for personal beauty among the lower classes is rare everywhere in Italy, but they are always in good spirits. Not much is seen of them in the daytime. At night they swarm out of all the recesses in which they have been hidden, romping about the walks, full of mischief, much in the way and hard to get rid of. Sometimes they go to bed on church steps, or frequented pavements at an early hour with the older members of the family, and sometimes they can be seen playing games in the street at 2 o'clock in the morning as naturally as if it were midday.

They seem to take absolutely no note of time. They may have slept and waked again to renew their sports, which is probably the case. Children playing in groups in the streets at 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning would be a surprising sight in America, or even in any other country in Europe. But at Naples no one seems to remark it. Life here is so Great Earthquake.

An earthquake was felt over a large portion of the United States east of the Mississippi river, about ten o'clock at night on the 31st ult. One or two persons felt it slightly in Boston, which appears to have been its eastern limit.

In Connecticut the shock lasted several minutes, and walls were cracked in New Haven.

In New York city much alarm was caused to persons in high buildings, and mirrors and pictures were thrown down.

At Washington the first shock lasted nearly a minute, and a second shock came a few minutes after. Walls vibrated, chairs and desks rocked, and the walls of some new buildings were cracked. The Washington monument was not harmed.

In Cleveland, Ohio, the newspaper offices were quickly deserted, the printers thinking the walls were about to fall. The same happened at Pittsburg, Pa., and St. Louis, Mo. At Knoxville, Tenn., chimneys fell and bells were rung. At Savannah, Ga., chimneys fell, walls were cracked and windows broken. At Richmond, Va., the guards at the state prison were so much frightened that they opened the prison cells; the prisoners became wild with fear, and the militia was called out. All through the shaken district the wildest excitement and terror prevailed.

But the principal damage was done in South Carolina. In Charleston the first shock either destroyed or greatly damaged the city hall, Hibernia hall, St. Michael's and St. Philip's churches, many of the principal business buildings, and a large proportion of the houses. Other shocks succeeded, up to 8:30 A. M. on the 1st inst., but nearly all the damage was done by the first shock. Many persons were buried under the ruins of houses, the loss of life being stated at from fifty to 100. Many fires broke out, and but feeble efforts could be made to combat the flames. All the people were in the streets, and the panic was terrible. Somerville, twenty-two miles from Charleston, was shaken to pieces, with a great loss of life reported. At Columbia eleven shocks were felt, extending over about ten hours, and many buildings were injured, but no lives were reported lost. Bridges and dams were destroyed in many places; and between Charleston and Ravenel, twenty-five miles south, it was reported that the earth had sunk in many places, and that the railroad was under water. No such disastrous earthquake has occurred before in this country for many years.

Rowing Races.

A series of rowing races for a sweepstakes of $10,000 commenced on the Thames river at London on Aug. 30th, the contestants being William Beach of Australia, champion of the world, Neil Matterson of Australia, George J. Perkins, ex-champion of England, George Bubear of England, John Teemer, ex-champion of America, George W. Lee of New York, and Wallace Ross of New Brunswick.

On the first day Matterson beat Ross, who was supposed to have a sure thing, and who was a long way ahead when he collapsed. Teemer beat Perkins, and Beach beat Lee. Bubear pulled over the course alone, securing a "bye."

On the second day Beach beat Bubear, and Teemer beat Matterson, leaving only Beach and Teemer to pull the deciding race on the third day, Sept. 1st, at 3:30 P. M., the betting being seven to four on Beach.

The openly-expressed opinion among boating men and sporting men generally is that the whole affair from first to last has been a pool box and hippodrome affair of the first magnitude, each man rowing for a certainty, and having his work laid out for him beforehand by the betting men.

On the third day (Sept. 1st) the final race of the series was pulled by Beach and Teemer, the former winning easily.

Most everybody within the smell of salt water, who has a room seven by nine to spare, will "take a few boarders" through the summer. The result is that the supply of boarding places on the coast is fully equal to the demand, and therefore the business is fast becoming a competitive one. The rich class of people are, generally speaking, as anxious to get as much board for their money as they are to buy any commodity at "rock bottom prices," and hence they will seek and find the best bargains. This tells your readers why the jolly Landlord Grant of the Sea Cottage has a house full unto overflowing from its opening to its very late closing. He has a very fine class of guests, and they find everything to their liking. The gentlemanly clerk needs no praise. Ask the guests.

On Saturday a detective caught a Portsmouth man selling spirituous liquor from his baker's cart, and he was arrested and carried away. Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley, Mass.

A gentleman of this city who had put a number of pigs under a large stable for keeping, was surprised a day or two since to find eight of them (four well-grown and four young ones) dead. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of

INVESTMENTS.

I am prepared to furnish the most desirable investments in County Bonds and Guaranteed Farm Mortgages, paying 6 and 7 per cent semi-annually. On Farm Mortgages, only from 25 to 33 per cent of the actual cash value of the property is loaned, and the title, location, quality of land and future prospects of the property are personally looked up. Farm Loans are, when negotiated by experienced and responsible parties, the most profitable security offered, especially for those having small sums to invest from time to time. The Loans I offer are First-Class in every respect. Principal and interest when due, paid here without expense to the holder.

I have these Loans in sums from $300 to $5,000.

The schooner Sabao, at New York Aug. 30th from St. John, N. B., reports that on Aug. 23d, twenty miles off Thacher's island, she boarded the derelict schooner Lucy D., of Boston, and took from her some sails, blocks and running rigging, the derelict sinking soon after being left by the Sabao's boat. The lost vessel, after discharging a cargo of coal for E. F. Sise & Co. at this port not long since, went to Lanesville, Mass., and took in a cargo of stone paving-blocks for Baltimore, which she had on board when she went down.

Mrs. George Marden, on Miller avenue, has a sunflower growing, the seed ball of which measures 18 1-4 (eighteen and one-quarter) inches in diameter. The circumference of the flower with its aureole of petals was six feet, so she "feels just as happy as a big sunflower" can make her.

"IN THE COTTAGE BY THE SEA."

One of the pleasantest localities on our New Hampshire coast may be found at Newcastle. It is pleasant, not only by reason of its sea view—which is one of the best—but also from the many fine rides that may be taken from here into the surrounding towns, and to any one who is at all interested in local history here is a fertile field for investigation and study.

Here were landed—on the 3d day of August—a party of nearly a dozen who "set up housekeeping" in Fort Cottage, and entered upon the enjoyable task of making as much as possible of a month at the beach.

Fort Cottage, which is owned by the Osgood Brothers of Suncook, is so situated as to give one of the finest views of old ocean on the coast, and also commands such a view of the mouth of the Piscataqua river that all vessels going in and out of Portsmouth must pass directly before the eyes of all who occupy it; thus giving, not only the rich beauty of ocean scenery in all its phases, but also the great variety common to a busy public thoroughfare, where vessels of all styles, sizes and varieties are constantly passing and repassing.

Directly in front of the cottage, some mile and a half or more distant, standing on a ledge, is Whalesback light-house with its warning light, changing from dim to brilliant, and its delightful attachment in the shape of a fog horn. While this last may be properly considered a luxury (as it only plays its little tune in foggy weather) yet sojourners by the sea-side would gladly dispense with it—especially nights—but to "those who go down to the sea in ships" it is an indispensable warning dangerous rocks when the fog is too dense for the lights to show at sufficient distance.

To the left of Whalesback—as you stand on the ample piazza of Fort Cottage—is the United States Quarantine Hospital, consisting of three or four houses on a small island. At present very little use is made of it, except to illustrate—although on a small scale—how government property is allowed to run to waste. Still farther to the left, on the extreme point of Gerrish's island, across the mouth of the river from Fort Cottage, is seen the new hotel—Pocahontas—open for the first time this season.

On Newcastle island, a few minutes walk from the cottage, is old Fort Constitution, with its history dating back into the 17th century, under the several names of Castle, Fort William and Mary, Fort Hancock and later on Fort Constitution. At present this is another illustration of how Uncle Sam's pocket book is depleted and his property left to go to ruin from neglect and miscalculation. The fort, as built in 1808, is in part standing, but is surrounded by the unfinished new structure, commenced during the rebellion. The plan of the new fort was for a fine, and to ordinary observers, an impregnable structure; but when it was completed granite was of no use as a means of defense and safety against the huge projectiles from the new guns, that were the product of the spirit of improvement in the implements of warfare, the whole business was abandoned and the work was left in all of its incompleteness, and all that is of a nature to do so, is slowly rotting away; derricks have fallen where they stood, each representing the waste of at least a thousand dollars; guns are left standing half ready for use, or laying in rows unmounted; huge masses of unused granite are piled up in different parts of the enclosure, much of it showing the effects of many days work of skilled workmen in hammering and fitting; and everything goes to make up a picture of desolation and decay that is sad to look upon. Standing in the midst of all these reminders of the past, the thought comes to mind: what a history is connected with these surroundings.

Around here were made some of the earliest settlements on New Hampshire soil. Here every war—in which the early colonies, or later states, were engaged—made its commotion and hurried preparations, and although no battle was ever fought, nor blood shed here, yet this was the scene of one of the first attempts to throw off the British yoke of oppression. Here one of the first victories was won to the colonies, when a band of brave patriots came from this and surrounding towns, captured the fort without resistance and carried away large quantities of powder belonging to British authorities, which was afterward used at Bunker Hill, and possibly other places, in defence of the liberties for which we have been thankful for more than a hundred years.—K., in Suncook Journal.

strange, so unlicensed, so at variance with all that we in the north are accustomed to consider as proper or decorous.—Naples Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

The Way to Make Tamales.

Take some corn and soak in water all night. Then take out and grind until reduced to a dough-like state. The next thing is to prepare the chili pepper, the seed of which is taken out and boiled twenty-five minutes, then the skin is taken off and it is ground with garlic, black pepper, salt and some Mexican seeds. Some meat, usually lean beef, and not the little hairless dogs as has been slanderously charged, is chopped up very fine and a little lard is put over it. All is now ready save the shucks, the husks of which are selected and scalded with hot water. The corn dough, with the various ingredients before mentioned, is then spread on the shuck and the latter rolled up. It is then ready to go into a pot of hot water where it is steamed till done. It is a universal dish in Mexico.—New York Market Journal.

The Theory of a Thunderstorm.

M. Colladon, in a paper to the Academie des Sciences, suggests that the electricity so vividly illustrated by the thunderstorms is generated principally by friction of air and water vapor. During a thunderstorm the raindrops formed in the storm cloud descend vertically to the earth, causing a partial vacuum, which is replaced by air drawn in laterally and from upper layers. The friction caused by this movement is the principal cause of the generation of electricity.—Electrician.

Steam Power and Electric Energy.

An intimate friend and business associate of Mr. Edison, in conversation with a reporter of electrical tendencies, said:

"It would be premature just at present to make public mention of what is now being done by Mr. Edison in the line of original investigation. There is much to be learned yet in the field of electricity, both as to means of production and methods of utilization. So far as the conversion of steam power into electric energy is concerned there is little left to be desired, as our present dynamos give an efficiency of 95 per cent. out of a possible 100—and when the real is within 5 per cent. of the ideal there is not much to be gained in that direction. Could makers of steam generators and engines approach anywhere near such perfection in the construction of apparatus for converting heat into power the mechanical millennium would be at hand."—New York Star.

Fruit Trees in California.

The total number of fruit trees in California is estimated at 8,000,000, divided as follows: Apples, 2,700,000; peach, 1,200,000; pear, 500,000; plum and prune, 600,000; cherry, 400,000; apricot, 500,000; orange, 1,600,000; lime and lemon, 500,000; grape vines in bearing condition, 70,000 acres.—New York Market Journal.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or ITCHING of the scalp; should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHTY PER CENT of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the person may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have produced a good growth of Hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:

We agree to forfeit $100 for any case we take as a special course.

Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons.

It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.

DOUBLE AND TRIPLE STRENGTH.

When the skin is very tough and hard, and the follicle is apparently effectually closed, the single strength will sometimes fail to reach the papilla; in such cases the double or triple strength should be used in connection with the single, using them alternately.

Price, Single strength $1.00; Double strength $2.00; Triple strength $3.00. If your druggists have not got it we will send it prepaid on receipt of price. BENTON HAIR GROWER CO., Cleveland, O.

The New England fair opened in Bangor, Me., Aug. 31st, with an immense crowd, and the finest exhibition of horses and cattle ever held in New England.

Hay Fever Sufferers.—The number of people annually afflicted with this most annoying malady seems to be greatly on the increase. * * * The editor of this jounal is an annual victim, and with a view to discover a specific, has tried numerous remedies. Of these, Ely's Cream Balm is by all odds the quickest and most satisfactory, two applications greatly allaying the usual symptoms in the nose and eyes. We would recommend its use by all subject to hay fever, and we gladly bear unsolicited testimony to its efficiency in our own case.—Media, Pa., Record.

To be free from sick headache, biliousness, constipation, etc., use Carter's Little Liver Pills. Strictly vegetable. They gently stimulate the liver and free the stomach from bile.

The Italian frontier district has been officially declared free of cholera.

For all bilious and miasmatic diseases, Ayer's Ague Cure is absolutely a certain, safe, and radical cure.

W. L. Lincoln, of Chicago, a summer boarder at Sheldon Springs, Vermont, had his room robbed of $1,500.

If you are nervous or dyspeptic try Carter's Little Nerve Pills. Dyspepsia makes you nervous, and nervousness makes you dyspeptic; either one renders you miserable and these little pills cure both.

Madge Dolaro, a handsome Chicago girl, proposes to jump from the Brooklyn bridge for a purse of $1,000.

Wbed used according to directions, Ayer's Ague Cure is warranted to eradicate, from the system, fever and ague, intermittent, remittent, and bilious fevers, and all malarial diseases. Try it.

Three young women were caught on a trestle bridge at Sauk Centre, Minnesota, Aug. 31st, by a train. Miss Allen, aged eighteen, was cut to pieces, and Miss Flaven badly hurt; the latter's sister jumped into the river, and was saved.

Those sharp pains in the small of the back and around the hips will quickly go after you apply a Hop Plaster. Ladies, pay attention to this. 25c. They are sure and never failing. Try one.

William Symonds, a missing Brooklyn butcher, has squandered $82,000 of trust money.

Disorders of the stomach, liver, and kidneys, can be cured by restoring the blood to a healthy condition, through the vitalizing and cleansing action of Ayer's Sarparilla. It is the safest, most powerful, and most highly concentrated alterative available to the public.

The Master Plumbers' association of New York has decided to continue the lockout of the journeymen plumbers, and determined not to give the journeymen control of apprentices, as they demanded.

Is He Your Friend?

Is the family doctor your friend? How many unnecessary visits does he make you? How many days does he keep you sick that you ought to be at your work, and so doing how many hard-earned dollars does he extort from you? Would it be better for you to place your trust in Sulphur Bitters? Try them, they will be a true friend. Saving you a long sickness and a large bill, which you have hitherto paid to some avaricious doctor.—Editor State Journal.

A Tried Remedy for Biliousness.

Those who suffer from disorder or inaction of the liver will never get the upper hand of the unruly organ so long as they use such irrational remedies as blue pill, calomel and podophyllin. But from the tried and popular medicine, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, they may expect relief with a certainty of obtaining it. The influence of the Bitters upon the great biliary gland is direct, powerful and speedily felt. The relief afforded is not spasmodic, but complete and permanent. The sallowness of the skin, furred appearance of the tongue, indigestion, costiveness, headache, nausea, pains through the right side and shoulder, in fact every accompaniment of the obstinate complaint are entirely and promptly removed by a course of this inestimable medicine, in behalf of which testimony is constantly emanating from every quarter, and from all classes of society.

His Snakeship Again.

A sea serpent was seen in the Hudson between Coddington's dock and Kingston point, at Rondout, N. Y., by a number of Rondout boatmen and boys who were in swimming, and by Capt. R. Brush of the schooner Mary Ann. All unite in saying that its head was raised about six feet out of the water, and was of the shape and general appearance of the well known anaconda or boa of the Amazon, but much larger, being about two feet in diameter on a line with the eyes. The throat is described as being dirty white, while the back appeared to be mottled with light and dark brown. From a point about six feet back of the eyes, a fin appeared which extended the entire length of that portion of the body visible, which was about fifty-five feet. Half a mile below Coddington's dock Capt. Brush said the serpent lashed the water with its tail. The serpent was also seen by persons on the Dutchess county shore. The parties say it was not seaweed they saw, and that they were all "perfectly sober."

A PASSER-BY.

I watched her pass with quiet grace;
The sunlight lingers on the spot
To gently kiss her sweet shy face.
I wonder if she sees or not
The crippled lad who calls her his,
Whose only glimpse of heav'n she is.

"My little girl!" I wonder what (I think sometimes with bitter smile)
"My little girl" would say to that?
Perhaps for such a little while
She would not mind—it is, you see,
So slight to her, so much to me!

But when it rains she never comes;
Ah me, the long dull weary day!
The people hurry to their homes,
When I—I never get away;
And, as I lie and watch them go,
Her own sweet name I whisper low.

If only I could touch her hand,
Or hear her speak, or meet her eyes!
If once, just once, she would but stand
Near me, and kiss me angel-wise!
Life might be dreary as before,
But hard, cold, empty—never more!

I know a place where breezes low
Stir the soft grass and daisy-heads;
That is my heav'n. Some day I know
They'll find me room where no one treads,
Where I can lie, no longer ill,
And dream of her, and love her still.

NORTH CAROLINA "WOMEN FOLKS."

Typical Housewife of the Old North State—Family Life.

The North Carolina "women folks" lead very different lives from those in the New England or middle states. A recent visitor gives the following account of the typical housewife in the old North State, which is of interest: The old lady and her daughters, with their own hands, make nearly all the clothes the family has. There was a time when the old woman spun the thread and wove the cloth, and she maintains now that there is no other thread so good to darn with as the thread of her own spinning. So she keeps her old spinning wheel for occasional use and for spiritual comfort, and last year she gathered cotton from the field, which she followed with her own fingers on its long journey from the stalk to the stocking.

The housework and the gardening are the only employment of the women, but they seems always to be busy. Once a week they boil the clothes in a pot suspended from the tops of three poles, which are placed in the front yard near the well. The monotony of wash-day is often relieved by fishing for the bucket with the pot hooks. Cooking is a very simple thing, for the frying-pan and the pot do their whole duty. Indeed, the frying-pan is the origin of all their ailments, certainly of the old lady's dyspepsia, of the children's thin, gristly faces and the oldest boy's necessity for grog. Fried bacon for early breakfast will postpone the millennium anywhere; add to that fried sweet potatoes, and an active out-door life and a perfect atmosphere must do their best to keep naturally robust people from groans.

The frying-pan is a worse enemy of man in all this country than whisky or politics. When all the ground is yellow with mellow apples, and the odor of peaches and grapes is blown over every breakfast-table, nobody eats fruit except "between meals;" and the very chickens have the pleasure of life taken because neither boiler nor oven awaits one of them, but always the frying-pan. In the evening after supper and before early bed-time the boys sometimes play on their fiddles, their feet accompanying the three tunes they know, "The Arkansaw Traveler," "Fisher's Hornpipe," and "The Old North State," while the rest of the family hold their hands in silence, and many an evening these fine intelligent adults sit the livelong hours holding their hands, saying now and then a word, as if by accident, and pretending to do nothing; yet they are happy. The art of resting has not been so well cultivated anywhere else. True, the old woman does ply her knitting needles, stopping now and then to remark, while she rubs snuff, that her old bones feel "streaks" of rheumatism, but that it is hard to wear out an old leather string. The girls sometimes have quiltings, and there are the "parties" of country society.—Ben: Perley Poore.

Treatment of a Shying Horse.

Why does a horse shy? Because he sees something which he does not understand, and is filled with a greater or less degree of fear, something as the boy feels when he shys at the burying-ground and goes around to keep clear of it. It may be some new or unusual object that the horse sees, or it may be an imperfect view of it. Even a familiar object, if it comes to view suddenly and unexpectedly will cause a horse to shy or jump, just as an unexpected object or sound causes a nervous person to start. When a person is so startled, how much would it improve the matter to be scolded at or given a cut with a whip? Just as much as the same treatment would in the case of the horse. Harshness only aggravates the matter. The more the horse is scolded and whipped the more nervous he gets, and every time he passes the place where the fright and whipping occurred he will begin to prick up his ears, and fidget, ready for another jump. Give him the lines and he will go by in a hurry. The proper way is never to strike or scold a horse that is startled or frightened. Speak to him coolly, calmly, and kindly; give him time to see and collect his scattered senses, and make him feel that you are his friend and protector. When he sees that all is right, there is an end to all further trouble. We have seen a horse refuse to cross an unsafe-looking bridge, but when the driver took

The Great Earthquake.

A despatch of 3:30 A. M. on the 2d inst. from Charleston to the New York World, says: "Even now, after the lapse of twenty-four hours, it is impossible in the confusion and terror to get at even an approximation of the extent of the loss in life and property. The entire population is in the squares and fields sleeping, when sleep is ventured upon, under improvised tents made of blankets or without other covering than the sky. There is perhaps not one person of the 50,000 persons in the city who has dared to return to his or her home, so overpowering is the dread of another earthquake shock. At a little after five o'clock last evening the city was again shaken, and the terrors of the night and morning were renewed. The reports, it is to be hoped much exaggerated, make 100 persons killed and wounded. The estimates of destruction to property is as high as a loss of $10,000,000. It is hoped that these also are exaggerated. It is probable that three-fourths of the city will have to be rebuilt. The destruction is confined to no class of structures. Public buildings and private residences alike are wrecked. The historic St. Phillip's church and the ancient St. Michael's, two of the landmarks of Charleston, are irredeemably destroyed. The Hibernian hall, one of the finest buildings in the city, is destroyed, and all the aristocratic mansions in East and South Battery are ruined."

At Beaufort, N. C., there were seventeen shocks of earthquake during the night of the 31st ult., the first one, shortly before ten o'clock, being the worst. Considerable damage was done to chimneys and windows, but no lives are reported lost.

At Tybee, near Savannah, Ga., the lighthouse lenses and lamps were damaged so that the keeper had to improvise a light.

The reports on the 2d from all the places most affected by the shocks only serve to make more apparent the magnitude of the disaster. Light shaks were felt in Augusta, Ga., in Charleston, Summerville, Columbia, Beaufort and other places in South Carolina, and in Washington, D. C., during the day and evening of the 1st inst.; and in Charleston there was a slight shock, but enough to further terrify the stricken people, at 1:00 A. M. on the 2d. The state of Charleston is said to be more deplorable than during its bombardment by Gen. Gilmore.

A Perpendicular River.

From Belle Plaine, Iowa, on the 1st inst., came a report that the town was threatened with destruction by an artesian well, which when bored to a depth of 180 feet commenced to throw out water with prodigious force, soon enlarging the six-inch hole to eighteen inches, and sending a huge column of water several hundred feet high, causing two rivers which flowed through the town with great speed, and flooding the low lands. Sixteen-inch tubes of boiler iron dropped into the hole were "fired out," as were fifteen car-loads of huge stones, bags of sand, etc. Bridge and railroad gangs unavailingly essayed to block up this new kind of perpendicular river, and telegrams were sent to Chicago for engineering aid.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Mary Willey, Capt. Zach. Williams, arrived at this port on Thursday, the 2d inst., from Bangor, with 700,000 shingles and 40,000 feet of long lumber to John H. Broughton. She left the Penobscot on Wednesday, and arrived off this harbor early Thursday morning, making the run in sixteen hours.

The schooner Highland Light, of Wellfleet, Mass., has been seized off East point, Prince Edward Island, by the Canadian cruiser Houlett, and taken into Georgetown, charged with fishing within the three-mile limit.

The schooner Loella, Capt. Amee, from Rockland with lime to Converse & Hobbs of Dover, arrived on the 2d inst.

Miss Morgan's popular seminary for young ladies' will re-open for pupils on Wednesday, the 22d inst.

The store of James G. Cousens at Kennebunkport was entered by burglars on the night of Aug. 31st, and about $75 worth of clothing was stolen. It is thought to have been the work of tramps. An entrance was effected by boring out a panel of the door.

Capt. William D. Crediford of Kennebunkport was found dead in his room on the morning of Aug. 31st about half-past five o'clock, unconscious, lying upon the floor where he had fallen in endeavoring to get up. He lived only about ten minutes after he was found. Capt. Crediford had a shock of paralysis about a year ago, and has been out of health ever since. He had followed the sea for a number of years, was a prominent Mason, a member of the Order of the Golden Cross and a public spirited citizen, and he was universally popular and very highly esteemed.

For Instant Use

As a reliable remedy, in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, or sudden Colds, and for the prompt relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." John H. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equal to

AYER'S

Cherry Pectoral

for the prompt relief of throat and lung diseases peculiar to children. I consider it an absolute cure for all such affections, and am never without it in the house." Mrs. L. E. Herman, 187 Mercer st., Jersey City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral useful in my family." B. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Stickler, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of a severe lung affection, supposed to be Quick Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. Breckenridge, Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and, wherever I go, am always sure to have a bottle of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

with me. It is without a rival for the cure of bronchial affections."

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, Sept. 2d, Mayor Eldredge in the chair:

Present the full board, except Alderman Sinclair.

Records of the late meeting were read and approved.

Petitions of Wm. W. Cotton for relay of sidewalk on Cabot street; of John G. Tobey, for relay of sidewalk at Nos. 133 and 135 State street; and of Wm. Ward, for a new sidewalk on Deer street, were referred to the committee on sidewalks, with power.

Petition of Mrs. James F. Jenness and others, for an electric light corner of Hanover and Fleet streets, was referred to the committee on street lights, to report.

Petition of Richard D. Smart and other police officers, for increase of pay to $2 per night, was referred to the committee on police.

Mrs. Allan Treat asked that damages to her buildings on Deer street, caused by the tunneling operations, be made good; referred to the special committee on abatement of the north pond nuisance, with power.

Petition of John S. Treat and others, for widening and straightening of Creek street and Creek road, was referred to the committee on streets, to report.

Committee on street lights reported it inadvisable to order the locating of any more electric lights, until it was demonstrated that those already ordered would prove efficient. Report approved.

Committee on drains reported in favor of granting the drain asked for from No. 74 Middle street, and it was so ordered.

Committee on streets were granted further time in the matter of the boat landing at the north end.

Committee on claims announced themselves unable to agree upon the request of Michael G. Cunningham for abatement of taxes, and reported the matter back without recommendation. Indefinitely postponed.

Bills amounting to $1422.31 were ordered to be paid.

Wm. G. Snow was appointed supernumerary police officer.

The city clerk was granted a week's vacation.

Committee on police were empowered to secure a sufficient number of badges for the use of the police.

City solicitor was empowered to collect the amounts due on the accounts of the collectors of taxes for 1874 and 1883.

Street commissioner was instructed to investigate the condition of the drain from the house of Mr. Griffin on Union street, and report at the next meeting of the board.

Adjourned for two weeks.

REPUBLICAN DELEGATES.

The republicans of ward four on Thursday evening made choice of delegates to the several conventions, as follows:

State—Wm. H. Rollins, Ezra H. Winchester;

Congressional—Michael J. Vaughan, Oliver H. Locke;

Councillor—Caleb Lord, John O'Connor;

Senatorial—George M. Ayers, Joseph B. White;

County—Thornton Betton, John Nutter.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

The democratic senatorial convention for the 24th (Portsmouth) district was held in the city building on the 2d inst., the meeting being called to order at eleven o'clock A. M. by Daniel J. Hurley.

William Conn was chosen chairman, and Thomas J. Sheehan secretary. Jeff C. Rowe, John Conlon and John H. Wells were appointed a committee on credentials, and reported the full number of delegates present, and properly vouched for. The chair appointed James Janvrin and George Lane a committee to receive, sort and count the votes cast, and a ballot was taken with the following result:

Whole number of votes cast	14
Necessary to a choice	8
Oliver B. Cook had	1
David Urch	5
Francis E. Langdon	8

And Francis E. Langdon was declared the choice of the convention as democratic candidate for state senator from the 24th district. The vote was made unanimous, and a committee appointed to notify Dr. Langdon of his nomination, and request his acceptance of the same. The convention then adjourned without day.

As the vote of this district, which is composed of wards one, two and four of this city, at the late municipal election gave a democratic majority of 358 in a total vote of 1883, Mayor Eldredge having 868 votes to 515 for Capt. John H. Hutchinson, it is quite within the bounds of possibility that Dr. Langdon will represent the district in the New Hampshire senate for the next two years.

At the democratic councillor convention for the first district, held at Newmarket on the 1st inst., Hon. A. L. Mellows of Newmarket was chosen chairman, and Ira G. Eastman of this city secretary. Samuel W. Emery, Esq., of this city, was chairman of the committee on credentials, and reported seventy-six delegates present and entitled to seats in the convention. The candidates for nomination most talked of early in the day were J. Warren Towle of Exeter, Farmer Holt of Epping, and Hon. M. Eldredge of this city; but the Dover delegation on arriving went to work with a rush for Miah B. Sullivan of their city, and when it came to a ballot that gentleman had sixty-four of the sixty-six votes cast, the other two being for Farmer Holt. The vote was made unanimous, and Joseph B. Quald of Dover, Hollis Pease of Newmarket and Richard T. Call of Portsmouth were appointed a committee to notify Dr. Sullivan of his nomination, which he accepted, saying he hoped to add strength to the ticket, and would use all honorable means toward securing an election.

The democratic senatorial convention for the 21st (Rockingham) district was held at Exeter on the 2d inst., and Hosea Carter of Hampstead nominated.

"PAT'S WARDROBE."

There is only one Pat Rooney. For a number of years he has been known as the leading delineator of a humorous type of Irish character. As a sketch artist, he has no superiors in his special line. This season he has made a new departure with Fred Wilson as manager, and has gone into the comedy role in a play called "Pat's Wardrobe," written for him by the well known playwright, Elliott Barnes. The play was presented at the Opera house last night, to a highly appreciative audience, whose frequent applause and hearty encores testified that a great hit had been made. Its story is very funny. A miserly husband reads an announcement that a wild man from Borneo has escaped from a menagerie. Rooney applies at the man's house for a situation, and is mistaken for the wild man. The husband's mother-in-law mistakes Rooney for her son-in-law; and later, Rooney is believed to be a rich lord who is eccentric. The escaped wild man, personated by Walter Wentworth, a clever contortionist, is introduced and performs numerous pranks in which he upsets the family peace and furniture. In the last act there is a fine opportunity for the introduction of specialty work, which is judiciously done. There are also numerous songs in the first and second acts. The company is a good one, bright little Katie Rooney having an excellent soubrette character in "Christopher," Mrs. Josie Rooney appearing as "Mrs. Paragon," showing good judgment in rendering the part without exaggeration. As a whole the piece and company harmonize well, and are likely to draw large houses wherever they go.—Springfield Union.

FAITH HOME.

The treasurer of the Old Ladies' Home very gratefully acknowledges the receipt of ten dollars from a lady in this city.

Other donations would be very acceptable. Let not this most worthy institution be forgotten by the good people of Portsmouth.

WARD TWO REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

The caucus to choose delegates to the State, Congressional, Senatorial, and Councillor conventions, will be held Tuesday evening, Sept. 7th, at the Court House, at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. Lee H. Fisher, the recently settled pastor of the Universalist church, will commence his duties on Sunday next, Sept. 5th, at 10:30 A. M. His subject will be "Opportunity." All are cordially invited.

The garden party given on the 1st inst. by Miss Mary Ilsley Evans, assisted by Misses Bradford, Fendall, Foster, Eastman, Guiles, Farnham, Burbank, Treadwell, Edith Bradford and Bessie Burbank was an occasion which, from its benevolent and humane purpose and the admirable manner with which it was presided over by the graceful and gracious young hostesses, would reflect credit upon the leaders of metropolitan society. The pecuniary result, also, will add materially to the resources of the New Hampshire Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Mr. Wm. W. Carmen, late superintendent of the Portsmouth Machine Co., will shortly start a shop in this city for the manufacture of steam heating apparatus of which he holds the patents.

A clambake at Dover point, Thursday, was enjoyed by quite a large party of naval officers and prominent citizens, and their lady friends.

The advertisement announcing full particulars of the excursion to the White mountains next Tuesday, Sept. 7th, appears in another column.

The acquaintances and fellow-workmen of the late Heman Case have raised a purse for his widow. One hundred and twenty dollars had been contributed up to Thursday evening.

There was quite a heavy frost in some localities about the city, Thursday morning.

A literary and musical entertainment, complimentary to the guests of Hotel Wentworth, was given on Thursday evening at the hotel by the Wentworth orchestra, assisted by Miss Edith Wendell, Miss E. Viola Hill of New York, reader, and Miss Jeanie P. Dana of Boston.

him by the bits and walked ahead, the horse cautiously followed. Next time he required no coaxing or urging to cross the bridge. He might have been whipped into it at first, but was not the milder course, although a little trouble, the better one? The horse showed his confidence in the driver ever afterward.—Live Stock Journal.

Seasons in Southern California.

There are but two seasons, strictly speaking, in southern California—spring and summer. By residents spring is called winter; but there is nothing in that period, even faintly, suggestive of winter in any other western or any eastern state. To distinguish it from the long dry summer, majesty call the period between November and April the rainy season. Although this characterization is correct in a general way, yet the amount of rain which falls in those five or six months is never as great as that of an ordinary spring and summer in Illinois or any of the eastern states. In the latter part of this period the foliage, wild flowers and vegetables begin to grow luxuriantly.

Winters are usually different from each other, but summers are usually alike. There are a few more sunny days in one summer than another, and occasionally a summer may come in which a slight sprinkle of rain will fall. There is no other difference between any one summer and any other one. In winter all is uncertainly. There may be a large amount of rain, in which case the farmer is happy over the prospects of luxuriant crops, or there may be little rain until the end of the season, and just about the time the farmer's despair is the deepest, a long series of showers may come, which will quickly make him forget his forebodings. Sometimes his spirits are successively raised and cast down and raised again by rains in November and December, drought in January and February and rain again in March and April.—Theodore S. Van Dyke.

New Zealand's Edible Mud.

One of these mud volcanoes—Te Huka—spews forth a very plastic and fine paste, which the natives eat and enjoy. It tastes like flour paste very slightly sweetened. I did not like it at all, and doubt if it is fattening. We were quite hungry, but this edible mud did not tempt us, and we moved on to the margin of Lake Rotomahana, where lunch was awaiting us. The Maoris had cooked potatoes and fresh water crabfish for us in the stream of the boiling spring, covering the opening with cross sticks, placing the potatoes, etc., on these and covering the whole with grass, which sufficiently confines the steam. I sat down on a flat stone, and, enjoying my lunch and the surroundings, gave myself up to the quiet pleasure of the occasion, when I felt an increasing warmth where I was sitting, and suddenly had to spring from my seat, an unexpected burst of steam from under the rock giving me the hint to leave.—New Zealand Letter.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.

All who are BALD; all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or ITCHING of the scalp; should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHTY PER CENT of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the person may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have produced a good growth of Hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:

We grow Hair in 40 cases out of 100, no matter how long bald.

Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons.

It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.

DOUBLE AND TRIPLE STRENGTH.

When the skin is very tough and hard, and the follicle is apparently effectually closed, the single strength will sometimes fail to reach the papilla; in such cases the double or triple strength should be used in connection with the single, using them alternately.

Price, Single strength $1.00; Double strength $2.00; Triple strength $3.00. If your druggists have not got it we will send it prepaid on receipt of price. BENTON HAIR GROWER CO., Cleveland, O.

Byron never uttered truer words than when he said, "Physicians mend or end us." But while doctors disagree, all the world has agreed that there is no remedy equal to Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

A boat race between Edward Hanlan and Charles E. Courtney, at Rockaway, L. I., Sept. 1st, was easily won by Hanlan, by seven lengths.

Hay Fever Sufferers.—The number of people annually afflicted with this most annoying malady seems to be greatly on the increase. * * * The editor of this jounal is an annual victim, and with a view to discover a specific, has tried numerous remedies. Of these, Ely's Cream Balm is by all odds the quickest and most satisfactory, two applications greatly allaying the usual symptoms in the nose and eyes. We would recommend its use by all subject to hay fever, and we gladly bear unsolicited testimony to its efficiency in our own case.—Media, Pa., Record.

The Excelsior geyser in Yellowstone park, the largest geyser in the world, after being quiet for four years suddenly recommenced business on the afternoon of Aug. 27th, and played for over twenty-four hours.

Whed used according to directions, Ayer's Ague Cure is warranted to eradicate, from the system, fever and ague, intermittent, remittent, and bilious fevers, and all malarial diseases. Try it.

At Brocton, Mass., on the night of Aug. 31st, all the labor assemblies voted to go to work, except the stitchers' assembly. The stitchers are nevertheless acting with the others. The question of the shops' relation to the Knights of Labor was dropped with a dull sickening thud. Whether it will be picked up again cannot be predicted.

Those sharp pains in the small of the back and around the hips will quickly go after you apply a Hop Plaster. Ladies, pay attention to this. 25c. They are sure and never failing. Try one.

It has just been discovered that there are in Englewood, a suburb of Chicago, three "Know-nothing" lodges organized on the principles of years ago.

Disorders of the stomach, liver, and kidneys, can be cured by restoring the blood to a healthy condition, through the vitalizing and cleansing action of Ayer's Sarparilla. It is the safest, most powerful, and most highly concentrated alterative available to the public.

Is He Your Friend?

Is the family doctor your friend? How many unnecessary visits does he make you? How many days does he keep you sick that you ought to be at your work, and so doing how many hard-earned dollars does he extort from you? Would it be better for you to place your trust in Sulphur Bitters? Try them, they will be a true friend. Saving you a long sickness and a large bill, which you have hitherto paid to some avaricious doctor.—Editor State Journal.

A Tried Remedy for Biliousness.

Those who suffer from disorder or inaction of the liver will never get the upper hand of the unruly organ so long as they use such irrational remedies as blue pill, calomel and podophyllin. But from the tried and popular medicine, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, they may expect relief with a certainty of obtaining it. The influence of the Bitters upon the great biliary gland is direct, powerful and speedily felt. The relief afforded is not spasmodic, but complete and permanent. The sallowness of the skin, furred appearance of the tongue, indigestion, costiveness, headache, nausea, pains through the right side and shoulder, in fact every accompaniment of the obstinate complaint are entirely and promptly removed by a course of this inestimable medicine, in behalf of which testimony is constantly emanating from every quarter, and from all classes of society.

Jacob L. Finn, aged nineteen, member of a cloak making firm in New York, blew his brains out because a pretty girl named Clara Simmons, in the employ of the firm, would not marry him clandestinely. His family objected to his marrying the girl on account of the difference of their social positions.

His Snakeship Again.

The following is the latest report of the appearance of the sea serpent:

Rondout, N. Y., Sept. 2.—The sea serpent which was seen Sunday in the Hudson river, near Kingston point, is making repeated appearances. The man in charge of the burned Daniel Drew's hulk says he saw it last night. It was running north with its head raised about five feet out of water, but turned out of its course long enough to chase two young men, who were rowing in a small boat. They reached the Dutchess county shore safely but terribly frightened. The monster grew furious when it saw the young men escape and lashed the water with its tail, which seemed to be about 75 feet distant from its head. Its head was as large round as a flour barrel, and his eyes, of a greenish hue, looked devilish. Before starting up the Hudson again it squirted from its mouth a stream of foamy stuff, resembling long shavings from a pine plank. Captain Conkling of the propeller John H. Cordts also saw the serpent. He gave it the right of way in the channel. It was seen again this morning abreast the Flatbush ice houses. To an ice man named Jonah, it appeared to be an immense tree floating leisurely along with the tide. This notion was dispelled, however, when the supposed tree threw about 20 feet of its length out of water. Others have seen the serpent and their descriptions of the monster agree.

MINERAL WEALTH OF HONDURAS.

Gold Fields Along the Guayape River, in Central America.

"There are tons of gold in the mountains of Honduras," remarked Col. H. S. Davys, who has recently returned to the United States after half a lifetime in the tropics. "United States capital knows that; but there is some doubt as to whether it will pay to get the gold out just now.

"Jay Hubbell, of Michigan, is president of a company which owns most of the mineral lands along the Alva and Alonco rivers in the department of Olancho, not far from the coast. Bonanza Mackay, Ben Butler and such old mining sharps as Senators Jones and Tabor, all have experts now in Honduras exploring and reporting upon the mineral resources of the country. So far as I have heard, the reports agree that the republic is a vast gold mine; but at the same time there are so few roads leading into the interior, and so many precipitous falls in the courses of the many rivers, which would otherwise be navigable, that, as I said, there is a question as to whether supplies can be hauled to and from the coast at rates that would make the mining profitable just now.

"It was fifteen years ago, in the autumn of 1871, that I ran my first gold-washer in the valley of Guayape. I was riding through the district on the look-out for mahogany, which, next to gold, is Honduras' most promising source of wealth, the republic's own estimate of the value of its mahogany forests being $300,000,000. For about a mile we had been cutting our way with machetes, or knives, through dense sarsaparilla thickets, the vines of which plant had an unholy habit of swinging themselves from one high tree to another, making passage impossible until they were cut away. But upon approaching the river the jungle suddenly gave way to open forests of pine with an occasional lignum vitæ or a dwarfted calabash tree. The land fell away in gentle slopes to the river, and there we saw a group of four native women with their calico dresses tied about their waists wading mid-leg deep in the water.

"Each carried a pan made of raw-hide, shaped much like a tambourine, and the whole party were washing sand taken from a bar in the river for the gold which it contained. They worked in a slow and perfunctory manner, taking in clean water at one side of the pan, and after a swirl or two sending it out in a muddy stream at the other side. After about fifteen minutes of that sort of thing one of the women seemed to think that her pan was thoroughly washed, and accordingly she splashed ashore with it. I rode down to the water's edge and took a look into the pan, and among a handful of little black and white pebbles I saw a number of flakes and pin-heads of gold of a rich red color. The woman carefully picked the gold from among the pebbles and placed it in a quill, which she carried in the bosom of her dress. She willingly allowed me to examine the quill, which contained about half an ounce of gold—all of which had been taken from the river sand in less than half a day's washing.

"The other women had not done quite so well, she said; but at this particular spot it was not unusual to wash an ounce of gold a day, and occasionally she would find a chispa, or nugget, weighting two or three ounces.

"They rarely wash out more than a few ounces at a time, and then only when they are in pressing need of money for some special purpose; but as soon as one group leaves the washing grounds another takes their place, so that ride when you will along the Guayape you will come across gold-washers at the spots which have been famous placers for a century back. They never do more than merely scratch the surface ground, the idea of diverting the stream's course or digging to any depths in the banks never entering their heads. Just after a freshet, when the stream has washed away the surface earth high up its banks and cleared out ravines, specks of gold may be seen with the naked eye glittering in the sun."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Proper Position in Sleep.

What is the proper position in sleep? Toward which point of the compass should the head lie? A healthy man, who works or exercises regularly, and has good digestion, can sleep when lying in any position. The majority of people, however, are not healthy, and are not particular about exercise, or of what and when they eat. To these, lying on the back is apt to cause nightmare. The same result may follow lying too long on either side. Lying first on the left side until thoroughly composed, and then turning upon the right, will usually be attended with satisfactory results.

As the currents of electricity within the body flow in the direction, it is said, of its lengths, one should lie sleeping on an east and west or north or south line, according to his opinion as to the possibility of any benefit resulting from paralleling the current supposed to be flowing around the earth from east to west, rather than from having the currents of the body at right angles to those of the earth. If paralleling be preferred it may be necessary to determine whether the head should be turned to the east or west, whether the earth current should flow in the same direction with the current supposed to flow from the head toward the extremities, and be opposed to the return current, or the reverse.—Baltimore Sun.

The Great Earthquake.

The people of Charleston were on Friday endeavoring to clear their streets, the terror having partially subsided, though several slight shocks were felt Thursday afternoon. In the vicinity of Charleston, and from there to beyond Summerville, the ground is everywhere cracked, mud and clay, and sulpherous-smelling water, having been thrown out of the fissures. The number of dead and wounded cannot yet be told with any degree of accuracy; but all reports show that the ruin of property has not been exaggerated.

Quick Trotting.

At Charter Oak park, Hartford, Conn., Sept. 2d, the horse Oliver K. won a special stake of $10,000 against four other horses; five heats were trotted, Belle F. taking the first two, in 2:15 3-4 and 2:15 1-4; the last three were taken by Oliver K. in 2:16 1-4, 2:16 1-4, 2:18.

The Bear Growls.

Prince Alexander of Bulgaria, having reassumed the government, sent to the czar a telegram announcing the fact, thanking the czar for sending Prince Dolgorouki to Bulgaria, and proclaiming devotion to Russia and willingness to resign the crown when demanded to by the czar. To this submissive epistle the czar returned the following answer:

"I cannot approve of your return to Bulgaria, foreseeing from it sinister consequences for the country, already so sorely tried. The mission of Prince Dolgorouki has become inexpedient. I shall abstain, so long as your highness remains in Bulgaria, from any intervention in the sad condition to which the country is reduced. Your highness must decide your own course. I reserve to myself to judge what my father's venerated memory, the interests of Russia and the peace of the East require of me."

The publication of the correspondence between the czar and Prince Alexander has created a great sensation in political circles in Paris, the czar's reply being regarded by diplomats as insuring Alexander's abdication, and Russia's occupation of Bulgaria. It is feared that war will ensue unless Prince Bismark intervenes.

The letter-sheet envelope is a most economical arrangement for the government. In fact, instead of its costing the United States anything to print the envelope, money is going into the government till. The patent under which they are printed has been in existence for some time, also the law directing that they be printed, but there has been no attempt to execute the law previous to this year.

A "laboring men's convention" was held at Saco on the 2d inst., with a view to nominating an independent county ticket to be supported at the coming election. Delegates were present from Kennebunk, West Buxton and Saco. Dr. Sawyer of Kennebunk presided. Considerable discussion took place relative to the movement, and numerous speeches were made by prominent Knights of Labor. The latter argued that as Knights of Labor they could not conscientiously participate in a political movement. An attempt was made to appoint a committee, but nobody would serve, and the convention adjurned without day and without results.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

A FEW EARNEST WORDS.

Does any one who reads these lines feel dired or nervous? Have you despondent feelings? Is your appetite sometimes poor and again voracious? Do you notice brick-dust at the bottom or a scum on the top of the fluids you pass? Are these fluids scanty at times and then profuse? Do you have headaches once in a while? Do you have these feelings, DO YOU KNOW WHAT THEY MEAN? Your Kidneys are Diseased!!! It may be only the beginning, but if not taken in time, Bright's Disease, and death in its most horrible form will be the end. YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO TRIFLE WITH THEM.

Mr. JOHN W. FURBISH, an army veteran, of Wakefield, Mass., neglected these symptoms and was brought to Death's door. He took HUNT'S REMEDY and is well to day.

MRS. ALEXANDER L. NICHOLAS of Providence, R. I., and a descendant of General Nathaniel Greene, was so near the grave her death only came in grips, but she was restored to health by using HUNT'S REMEDY.

The wife of Captain S. Greenwood, master of the well known Steamer Kanawha, had a large and painful swelling in the side, which was thought to be a tumor. It quickly disappeared after using HUNT'S REMEDY. Captain Greenwood himself was cured of terrible Catarrh of the Bladder by the same means.

These are only a few of many wonderful cures showing that HUNT'S REMEDY does cure the worst of all known diseases.

Do not, however Delay. Observe the first symptoms and act promptly. You will certainly escape awful suffering and possibly death itself. For Sale by all Dealers.

For Instant Use

As a reliable remedy, in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, or sudden Colds, and for the prompt relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." John H. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equal to

AYER'S

Cherry Pectoral

for the prompt relief of throat and lung diseases peculiar to children. I consider it an absolute cure for all such affections, and am never without it in the house." Mrs. L. E. Herman, 137 Mercer st., Jersey City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral useful in my family." B. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Stickler, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of a severe lung affection, supposed to be Quick Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. Breckenridge, Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and, wherever I go, am always sure to have a bottle of

OUR SCHOOLS.

On Monday, the 6th inst., the schools will re-open and the children who have during the heated term enjoyed the freedom of the open air and laid in large store of ozone, will assemble in their respective rooms and resume the duties of their school life. Mr. Morss, the new superintendent, has arrived, and is busily engaged in making himself acquainted; during the vacation the city fathers have cleansed and repaired the school buildings; the booksellers have laid in a stock of school-books; the teachers have returned from seaside and mountain resorts, and, in short, everything is in readiness for the commencement of the new school year.

Of the graduates from our Portsmouth schools this year Dartmouth college receives a goodly number. From the High school, Minot H. Beacham, George B. Stavers and Harry Hutchinson, will enter the classical department, and Frank C. Hoyt and Clifton S. Humphreys the scientific department; from Mr. Smith's school Clarence E. Montgomery and M. Victor Safford enter the classical department. An excellent representation. May the thorough work which has been done in the past be continued.

IS IT FOR THE MAINE ELECTION?

Men are being called on the navy yard every day to get all ready for repairs on the Yantic, Swatara and Galena.—Portsmouth correspondent Manchester Union.

Can it be possible that the democracy are getting ready to influence the election in the first congressional district in Maine, and later on, our own New Hampshire election? Perish the unworthy thought! It is only wicked republicans who engage in such reprehensible practices.

"PAT'S WARDROBE."

This evening, at Music hall, Pat Rooney's Comedy Co. will appear in "Pat's Wardrobe," a new piece written especially for Mr. Rooney. "Pat" is a host in himself, and his company is highly spoken of by the press as just suited to the play, which is amusing in the extreme. See advertisement.

MARITIME NOTES.

The steamer Oceanic took to the Shoals on Friday the largest party she has ever had, the passengers being mostfrom towns in the neighborhood of Portsmouth, on both sides of the river.

The tug Ann on Friday forenoon took to the lower harbor in one tow five vessels, three of them being brickers with cargoes for Boston, and two light outward-bounders. She came back up the river with two colliers, a three-master and a two-master, bound for Dover. The Clara Bateman on Friday forenoon brought up to the Concord railroad wharf the barkentine Jennie Sweeney, and to Sise's wharf the brig Jennie Hulbert; and in the afternoon she brought up and berthed at the Eastern railroad wharf a big three-masted schooner.

The barkentine Jennie Sweeney, which was anchored in Fort Point cove at Newcastle on Thursday night, on weighing the anchor Friday morning found one fluke foul in the bight of a rope, and further investigation showed that one end of the rope was fast to a small anchor, and the other end to the steam launch lost by the United States fish commission steamer Fish Hawk during a northwest gale last winter, when the Fish Hawk, then anchored in the cove, swung around promiscuously and went foul of four or five fishing schooners, hitting some of them two or three times apiece. During the antics of the steamer the steam launch, which was towing astern, was cast off and anchored; but when the blow was over it could not be found, and though the government offered $100 reward for its recovery, it remained at the bottom until Friday morning. The launch was made fast astern of the barkentine and towed up to the wharf, where it was hoisted out of water, and the hull found to be in good condition, the propeller all right, and the engine intact, though of course well rusted; the boiler and the smokestack that sat on it were gone, having probably been knocked out by some vessel sailing or swinging over the sunken boat.

As the tug Ann was going through the narrows on Friday with a string of five schooners, the towline parted between the second and third vessels, letting the hinder three go adrift. One of them sailed down the river, but the other two anchored and waited for the tug to return. No harm was done, other than a slight delay.

There were in this port on Friday four square-rigged vessels, namely, the barque Navesink and barkentine Jennie Sweeney, at the Concord railroad wharf; barkentine Emita, at the navy yard with 812 tons of coal; and brig Jennie Hulburt, at Sise's wharf. It is a long time since there were four square-rigged merchant vessels in our harbor at one time.

The Sunday school connected with the North church recommences on Sunday after a vacation of five or six weeks. The Young People's Christian association of the church have held their Sunday evening meetings during the hot season, and they have been well attended, showing the interest that is felt by the members of the society. The association loses a number of its members this fall, Harry Hutchinson and Miss Alice Brewster going away to school, and Miss Blanche Carmen and Miss Florence E. Webb, who will be much missed, they having taken great interest in the affairs of the society, going with their parents to their home in Cape Elizabeth, Me. They are all members of the church. The association has been a valuable auxiliary to the church, and will give a number of entertainments the coming winter, the proceeds to be applied to church uses. M.

Rev. Dr. Alden has returned from his vacation, and will preach in the Middle street Baptist church Sunday morning and evening.

Mr. Thomas O. Marvin of Tufts college is to preach in the Universalist church at South Newmarket on Sunday, the 5th, Rev. Mr. Fiske, the pastor of that church, being engaged to preach in Nottingham on that day.

On Friday Mr. Daniel Macdonald, of No. 2 Edward street, lost on the street one of the recently distributed envelopes addressed to the treasurer of the soldiers' and sailors' monument fund, containing a contribution to the fund. He hopes the finder will forward the same to Mr. Gignoux.

Mr. Joseph Bilbruck started on Thursday morning for England, to visit relatives there.

Musical Queries

Occur to every musical person, whether professional or amateur, pupil or teacher. It is wise to have at hand standard books, like those of DITSON & CO., so that every question may be answered.

How shall I pronounce this Italian word?

Says the embarrassed pupil, who does not wish to appear verdant. Why, purchase Luddon's Pronouncing Dictionary of Musical Terms, ($1.00) in common use in all civilized languages, is given.

Do you wish not to appear ignorant when any musical celebrity is mentioned?

The great Moore's Encyclopedia of Music ($5.00) contains thousands of musical biographies, and Upton's Biographical Sketches of Modern Musical Composers, ($1.50) will post you as to the principal modern masters.

Do you wish to solve any musical problem?

Stainer's Dictionary of Musical Terms will solve it for you. Cloth, $5.00; Boards, $4.00.

Are you posted in Musical History?

If not, do not fail to purchase forthwith Ritter's Student's History of Music, ($2.50) and be no longer ignorant. These books constitute a valuable library, and will speedily repay the price to those who wish to write or talk with accuracy on musical subjects.

50, still rides horseback daily, and is in perfect health. This exercise, he said the other day, is the best possible for old men, because it produces the desired results with the least exertion.—The Argonaut.

Doubling of the Population.

In England the population doubles in fifty years; in the United States, Canada and Australia, in twenty-five years; in Germany, in 105 years, and in France, and in countries using the French language, 140 years.—Chicago Herald.

Meals in England.

The morning lasts till 2 o'clock, and lunch is as informal as breakfast. The men are still in the covers, or if some have returned they come to table in their shooting boots, and boast of their achievements. The meal is a plain dinner; all the dishes are set on the table at once, and it is a rigid and intolerable etiquette that nobody shall have a napkin. The children of the family are often allowed to be present, and if the party is not very large, they sometimes carve for the guests, that they may learn betimes the hospitable accomplishments of after life. Sometimes governesses and tutors are seen at this hour, the latter often very accomplished and agreeable people; but I never know them to appear at dinner, as they do in novels, and make love to the young ladies.—Adam Badeau's Letter.

The Honorable, Self-Respecting Course.

It is a libel upon the American people to assume that they will long tolerate a kind of journalism which makes the ideal newspaper, not a public benefit, but a public nuisance. They will insist upon it that the newspaper have some other purpose in the world than to amuse and entertain the thoughtless and the vicious: they will insist that the duty of selecting goes hand in hand with the duty of collecting the news; and sooner or later they will make it appear to even the most undudish of editors that it is not true that indecency "pays" better than decency, but that in journalism, as in every other reputable calling, the honorable, self-respecting course is the only one that "pays" in the long run.—Joseph H. Bishop in The Forum.

Playing-Cards in England.

An official return just issued gives some interesting information about the manufacture of playing-cards in England. At present there are nineteen manufacturers in the United Kingdom, who pay a license of 20 shillings, and who produced 800,000 packs last year. This did not meet the demand of the English card-player, so half as many again were imported from Austrian and American makers. The stamp duty imposed on those cards is now a fairly important source of revenue. Last year it amounted to nearly 15,000 pounds sterling.—Exchange.

The Paris Petit Journal, a 1-sou daily paper, now prints 886,000 copies on the average.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or ITCHING of the scalp; should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHT PER CENT of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the person may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have produced a good growth of Hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:

We grow Hair in 60 cases out of 100, no matter how long bald.

Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons.

It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.

DOUBLE AND TRIPLE STRENGTH.

When the skin is very tough and hard, and the follicle is apparently effectually closed, the single strength will sometimes fail to reach the papilla; in such cases the double or triple strength should be used in connection with the single, using them alternately.

Price, Single strength $1.00; Double strength $2.00; Triple strength $3.00. If your druggists have not got it we will send it prepaid on receipt of price. BENTON HAIR GROWER CO., Cleveland, O.

Byron never uttered truer words than when he said, "Physicians mend or end us." But while doctors disagree, all the world has agreed that there is no remedy equal to Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

The new steel cruiser Boston, a sister to the Atlanta, has been taken to New York from Chester, Pa., and will be finished as soon as possible.

Hay Fever Sufferers.—The number of people annually afflicted with this most annoying malady seems to be greatly on the increase. * * * The editor of this journal is an annual victim, and with a view to discover a specific, has tried numerous remedies. Of these, Ely's Cream Balm is by all odds the quickest and most satisfactory, two applications greatly allaying the usual symptoms in the nose and eyes. We would recommend its use by all subject to hay fever, and we gladly bear unsolicited testimony to its efficiency in our own case.—Media, Pa., Record.

Thomas Jackson, colored, seventeen years old, was fatally injured by a train at Hayden's station, Conn.

To be free from sick headache, biliousness, constipation, etc., use Carter's Little Liver Pills. Strictly vegetable. They gently stimulate the liver and free the stomach from bile.

John A. Rockwell, of Norwich, Conn., was nominated for Congress by the prohibitionists of the third Connecticut district.

For all bilious and miasmatic diseases, Ayer's Ague Cure is absolutely a certain, safe, and radical cure.

Henry T. Robinson, an insurance agent of Providence, R. I., has left, after putting out worthless checks to the amount of $3,000.

If you are nervous or dyspeptic try Carter's Little Nerve Pills. Dyspepsia makes you nervous, and nervousness makes you dyspeptic; either one renders you miserable and these little pills cure both.

At Brewer, Me., on the 2d inst., John Muttey's son, aged six years, and a grandson aged four, set a barn on fire while playing with matches, and were burned to death.

Wbed used according to directions, Ayer's Ague Cure is warranted to eradicate, from the system, fever and ague, intermittent, remittent, and bilious fevers, and all malarial diseases. Try it.

Mobile has proclaimed a quarantine against Biloxi, Miss., where it is alleged yellow fever exists, there having been several deaths.

Those sharp pains in the small of the back and around the hips will quickly go after you apply a Hop Plaster. Ladies, pay attention to this. 25c. They are sure and never failing. Try one.

A general massacre of Christians in the provice of Sechuen, China, and the northern provinces of Cochin China, is reported, and is supposed to be in retaliation for the outrages and murders committed upon Chinamen in the United States.

Disorders of the stomach, liver, and kidneys, can be cured by restoring the blood to a healthy condition, through the vitalizing and cleansing action of Ayer's Sarparilla. It is the safest, most powerful, and most highly concentrated alterative available to the public.

The reports which come from Watch Hill, R. I., concerning the health of Secretary Manning are far from reassuring. He is gaining strength, it is true, but very slowly, and he walks little without support, speaks but little, and sits watching the ocean for hours every day. The prospect of a return to his duties in the autumn are said, unhappily, to be small indeed, and it is sorely feared that though he may live for years, his days of stirring activity are over.

Is He Your Friend?

Is the family doctor your friend? How many unnecessary visits does he make you? How many days does he keep you sick that you ought to be at your work, and so doing how many hard-earned dollars does he extort from you? Would it be better for you to place your trust in Sulphur Bitters? Try them, they will be a true friend. Saving you a long sickness and a large bill, which you have hitherto paid to some avaricious doctor.—Editor State Journal.

Richard Coe of Durham came down in Nattie Yeaton's boat on Friday,—his first visit to Portsmouth for six months.

Something that will quiet the nerves, give strength to the body, induce refreshing sleep, improve the quality of the blood, and purify and brighten the complexion, is what many persons would be very glad to obtain. Carter's Iron Pills are made for exactly this class of troubles, and are remarkably successful in accomplishing the ends desired, as named above. They are useful for both men and women. Sold by druggists. Price, fifty cents a box. See advertisement.

When we Demoralize the Stomach By excesses or imprudence in eating, we cannot hope to escape the consequences for any great length of time. The most robust digestion much succumb to abuses of that important function. But supposing that we have been foolish enough to enfeeble the stomach, is the damage irreparable? By no means. The dyspeptic has only to do two things to insure his ultimate recovery. First, he should adopt an easily digestible diet. Second, he should use with regularity and persistence Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the leading gastric invigorant of the age. The multiform symptoms of dyspepsia, and the almost invariably attendant disorders, biliousness and constipation, will assuredly cease to persecute the sufferer if the above advice is attended to. Who that has suffered the torments that chronic indigestion inflicts will neglect to take advantage of a remedy which, if the most positive evidence of the medical profession and the public is to be received with due credence, is an absolute specific for the complaint.

Ernest Schelling, the coachman who married Victoria Morosini, complains that she has eloped again, this time with a rubber merchant with whom she has been intimate for the past nine months.

I Had Faith.

About six months ago I was advised to consult Mrs. Hall, the great Spiritualist doctor, to see if she could cure me of scrofula, from which I have suffered from childhood. She said if I would have faith in the medicine she gave me, that she could cure me. I took her medicine, and in less than three months I was cured. Why, the way the medicine worked was a miracle. I begged of her to tell me what the medicine was made of, but she said she could not do so. Finally she told me the medicine was Sulpher Bitters, and that she never knew it to fail in all such cases as mine.—Mrs. Clara Knowlton, 35 Hanover street, Boston, Mass.

The public, misled by much foolish newspaper talk, hardly anticipated that the Naval Board of Instruction would find hailing from the port of New York alone 102 American iron steamships of over 2,000 tons each, capable of running fourteen knots an hour, and suited for auxiliary cruisers in case of war. Yet this is the actual result, and the report on the second ship of this number, the Newport, is not a whit less gratifying than on the Louisiana.—Boston Journal.

WHAT MAKES A MAN.

Solids, Liquids, and Grease Which Constitute an Average Human Being.

Suppose a man five feet eight inches high, weighing 154 pounds, had been passed through the chemist's laboratory and divided and subdivided into his ultimate elements.

Five of these are gases and eight solid substances. The oxygen is shown in a jar with a label which states that the weight of oxygen in a man weighing 150 pounds is ninety-seven pounds. The jar, which will hold about a gallon, represents only one ten thousandth part of the oxygen of a man of that weight. If the ninety-seven pounds of oxygen were set free from the body it would fill a space of 1,000 cubic feet. The oxygen is the great supporter of combustion in the system.

The next jar represents the fifteen pounds of hydrogen going to make up the 154-pound man. This amount of hydrogen set free would fill 2,750 cubic feet, and the jar represents only one ten-thousandth of the whole amount.

Another jar or bottle, having a capacity of a little over a quart, represents the three pounds and thirteen ounces of nitrogen found in the imaginary man. This nitrogen, if free, would fill 48.8 cubic feet.

Another small bottle contains, combined with calcium, the 3.5 ounces of fluorine.

Another jar contains one-tenth of the four ounces of chlorine to be found in the man. Chlorine is one of the constituents of bleaching powder. After the jar of chlorine was put in the case the stopper was blown out and the gas bleached all the tinted labels in the case.

The carbon is represented by a solid cube of charcoal weighing thirty-one pounds.

The 154-pound man yields one pound and twelve ounces of phosphorus, and three-fifth ounces of sulphur.

After the gasses, the carbon, the phosphorus and sulphur have been extracted from the man there is nothing left of him but metals.

First there is iron, of which the average man decribed carries one-tenth of an ounce in his system. This quantity is shown in the exhibit in the form of iron wire.

The metal with which the body is most abundantly provided is calcium, the basis of lime, of which the man, supposed to have been resolved into his chemical constituents, yielded three pounds and thirteen ounces. This is a yellowish metal, and the amount obtained is shown in a tube about three inches high.

A little block of magnesium, a silver-hued metal, weighing 1.8 ounces, and then 2.8 ounces of potassium were taken from the man, and all that remained was a little quantity of sodium weighing 2.6 ounces.

The weight of the chemical elements in the body of a man weighing 154 pounds are summarized on one of the labels as follows: Oxygen 97.20 pounds, carbon 31.10, hydrogen 15.20, nitrogen 13.80, calcium 3.80, phosporus 1.75, chlorine .25, fluorine .22, sulphur .22, potassium .18, sodium .16, magnesium .11, iron .01. Total, 154 pounds.

These elements are chemically combined with each other, forming numerous compounds, and another series in the same class represents the results obtained by resolving another 154-pound man into his principal chemical compounds.

First there are two large jars of water, containing together ninety-six pounds or forty-six quarts.

Then another large jar represents the proteine compounds, of which the man yielded twenty-four pounds.

The next in order of quantity are the fats, weighing twenty-three pounds; the mineral salts, weighing ten pounds thirteen ounces, and the carbohydrates, starch and sugar, weighing three ounces.

Among the proteine compounds appears homoglobin, the red coloring matter of the blood, and which serves to carry and distribute the oxygen from the lungs to the different parts of the body.

Two little vials contain protagon and lecithin, substances found in the brain, spinal cord and nerves.

There is a pound of carbonate of lime, eight and one-half ounces of phosphate of lime, seven ounces of fluoride of calcium, six ounces of phosphate of magnesia, six ounces of chloride of sodium, five ounces of chloride of potassium, that exhausted the man with which the chemist started.—Scientific Exchange.

A Long Distance Telephone.

Work is now being done which will soon make it possible for merchants in this city to set a cosy little desk in their counting-rooms and talk without rising with people in New York, Boston and Philadelphia as well as with every subscriber of a new telephone company. A copper circuit has already been completed between New York and Boston, and the wires are fast approaching Philadelphia. Instead of the ordinary telephone at the wall the subscriber can be furnished with a beautiful rosewood desk about the size of a ladies' writing desk, with plenty of room to write upon, and with several drawers for papers.

The desk conceals the big magnet which operates the bell and also the other mechanism of a powerful telephone, except two silver warning balls and the transmitter. The transmitter with a silver mouth-piece about the size of a silver dollar is held by a metallic arm which is so arranged that it can be moved to raise or lower the mouth-piece several feet. The Earthquake.

The afflicted people of Charleston, S. C., who on Friday morning bravely commenced endeavoring to repair the ravages of the earthquake, were on Friday night about eleven o'clock further disheartened by another shock, which though it did no great material damage beyond the shaking down of some walls already badly shattered, added much to the sense of insecurity that must remain as a check upon the work of rehabilitation.

Persons who had ventured back under their roofs hurried again into the streets and squares; and as the people had generally arrived at the conclusion that the shocks were at an end, the disappointment was agonizing.

Slight shocks were felt at Sewickley, Pa., and Augusta, Ga., about eleven o'clock at night on the 3d, causing great terror, but not much other harm.

In Charleston on Saturday the sensation was the falling of showers of pebbles in the lower part of the city, at seven and eleven o'clock in the forenoon. They appeared to fall in a slanting direction, from south to north. There are morsels of flint among them, and all are plainly abraded and worn by the action of water. Some few have sharp fractures, and have evidently been recently broken. The fact of the fall is vouched for by trustworthy persons. The bulk of the pebbles fell in and around the News and Courier office.

At 9:30 o'clock Saturday night there was another shock in Charleston, about as severe as that of the previous night; no damage was done to property, but the alarm caused to the stricken people was lamentable.

In the vicinity of Charleston and Summerville, Friday and Saturday, noises like the distant firing of cannon were heard at short intervals, evidently proceeding from beneath the earth's surface.

The America's Cup Races.

The races between Lieut. Henn's cutter yacht Galatea and Gen. Paine's sloop yacht Mayflower, to determine whether the cup won by the schooner America shall remain awhile longer on this side of the Atlantic, or shall be carried across to England as a trophy by the Britons, take place this week, the first being set for Tuesday, over the inside course of the New York yacht club, starting at ten o'clock; the second on Thursday, twenty-ty miles to windward or leeward from the Scotland or Sandy Hook lightship, and return, the start to be made at 10:30 A. M.; and the third and final race on Saturday, over a triangular course of forty miles, starting from the Scotland lightship. The third race however is conditional on each of the contesting yachts winning one of the previous races; the "best two in three" takes the cup, and should either one win the first two events, the other will not be sailed. The time limit for each race is seven hours, so none of them can be drifting matches.

Horrible!

A terror stricken writer, referring to the abominable wood cuts which abound in many of the daily papers, says: "It is painful to see the faces of men we know, and to be introduced to the faces of those we don't know, all pitted with blotches or roughened with deformities. The sensible man must now be as inconspicuous as possible. And even if he is as careful as he can be, he must some day pass from this subunary sphere. The daily artist will not forget the event, though he will not be present to witness the result. But it adds new terror to the prospect, mitigated only by the fact that it is now just as terrible to live. We believe it was Henry Watterson who said, on his recovery from an alarming illness, that he did not so much fear the obituary notices that would follow as he did the portraits which the daily papers would attach to them." It is bad. Goethe said that "we ought to look at some picture every day." But Goethe never saw the "pictorial horrors" of a morning journal.

Fashion of Vacations.

We clip from an exchange (whose editor, like most editors of papers published in towns and small cities, thinks he has had an extended vacation when he manages once or twice a year to keep from the office two days in succession, one of the two being Sunday,) the following item on the fashion of vacations:

When it is not too much thought that wears away the frail tenement of flesh, it is overwork in the office, or the schoolroom, or the store, that must be relieved by the summer vacation. The curious feature of this is that those who have the lightest work, physically considered, most need rest, or are most likely to take it. Very few blacksmiths, or carpenters, or coal heavers, or stevedores, or stone cutters, or any of that class ever need a summer vacation. It is the man who wields a pen or a yardstick who wears out his strength in labor. There are workingmen in the north who work fifteen hours a day, year in and year out, without rest and without proper food while working, but who never think of a vacation. The lady who does not dress herself without aid, and who knows of no greater fatigue than that which comes of riding around in a carriage, paying calls, "rests" at Long Branch or Saratoga two months every season.

MARITIME NOTES.

Mr. Edward J. Moulton on Saturday started in the schooner Mary Willey, Capt. Zach. Williams of Kittery Point commanding, on his fifteenth annual trip to the eastward in that vessel and with the same skipper. Previous to going in the Mary Willey, Mr. Moulton made a number of similar trips in the schooner Lizzie M. Stewart, Capt. John. The Mary Willey will on this trip as usual go into Portland and take a cargo of corn for Bangor, and at the latter place load with lumber—probably for Boston, this time. While she is putting out her cargo of corn and taking in lumber at Bangor, Mr. Moulton will extend his trip to Bar Harbor and points still farther east, as has been his custom on these trips.

The only statement that we have seen in regard to the recent numerous appearances of the sea serpent, that has an unmistakably piscatory flavor, is the assertion that the critter was seen going up the Hudson "by an Iceman named Jonah." What if this Jonah had treated the sea serpent as his ancestor did the whale!

The public schools of Newcastle commence their fall term to-day.

Hon. Henry W. Blair on Wednesday evening of last week addressed a large and enthusiastic meeting in Newichawannick hall, South Berwick, on the political questions of the day.

The schools in Kittery open this morning for the fall term. Nine candidates passed the entrance examination for the free high school.

The Methodist church in South Berwick was last week placed upon its new lot, after a ten days' trip along the highway from its former site. The new location is a fine one, and when the contemplated alterations are completed the edifice will be a credit to the society and the village.

A member of the Dover board of aldermen at their meeting last week having stated that the city needed two mules to work about town, another alderman suggested that they should be selected from the city government.

Albany, N. Y., builders give notice that the order adopted by them to use no material furnished by those who employ non-union men has gone into effect, and a cessation of building through the autumn is expected.

The steamer Alaska of the Guion line, which grounded in Gedney's channel, New York harbor, was floated off unharmed.

P. F. Williams, lumber dealer, of Boston, has made a statement to his creditors showing liabilities of $528,000 and assets of $92,000. There is $357,000 liability from indorsements.

A farmer named Flashire has been found dead, with a bullet hole through his heart, in a field near his home in north Kerry, Ireland. It is supposed that he was murdered because of agrarian troubles.

One Dollar. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which this can be truly said; and it is an unanswerable argument as to the strength and positive economy of this great medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla is made of roots, herbs, barks, etc., long and favorably known for their power in purifying the blood; and in combination, proportion, and process, Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself.

"For economy and comfort we use Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. C. BREWSTER, Buffalo.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla takes less time and quantity to show its effect than any other preparation I ever heard of. I would not be without it in the house." MRS. C. A. M. HUBBARD, North Chili, N. Y. 100 Doses

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. I took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. My whole system has been built up and strengthened, my digestion improved, and my head relieved of the bad feeling. I consider it the best medicine I have ever used, and should not know how to do without it." MARY L. PEREE, Salem, Mass.

For Instant Use

As a reliable remedy, in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, or sudden Colds, and for the prompt relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." John H. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equal to

AYER'S

Cherry Pectoral

for the prompt relief of throat and lung diseases peculiar to children. I consider it an absolute cure for all such affections, and am never without it in the house." Mrs. L. E. Herman, 187 Mercer st., Jersey City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral useful in my family." B. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Stickler, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of a severe lung affection, supposed to be Quick Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. Breckenridge, Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and, wherever I go, am always sure to have a bottle of

WHAT MEANEST THOU, BRO. FOSTER?

Foster's Democrat, of Dover, under date of Friday last says:

At the Portsmouth senatorial convention fourteen votes were cast. Oliver H. Cook, master workman Portsmouth Knights of Labor, and K. of L. candidate in the democratic caucus for mayor, received one vote, David Urch five, and F. E. Langdon eight. It was understood that Mr. Cook, the K. of L. candidate, would receive the nomination for his hearty support of Mayor Eldredge's election. But he failed to get it, just as we supposed he would, knowing the parties as we do.

The Times of this city in its issue of Saturday evening remarked:

The Knights of Labor organization in this city, at a meeting held Friday evening, nominated M. M. Collis as a candidate for senator in the 24th district. [It has been maintained in other places, and by Master Workman Powderly, that the K. of L. is not a political organization.]

Our readers can put the above extracts together, and draw any conclusion they like.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

The U. S. S. Yantic of the North Atlantic squadron, 3d rate, four guns, Comdr. Francis M. Green commanding, arrived in the lower harbor Saturday morning, and came up to the navy yard in the afternoon.

The U. S. S. Swatara, 3d rate, eight guns, Comdr. E. T. Woodward commanding, was at Halifax, N. S., Sept. 3d, to leave for this naval station as soon as coaled. Expected to arrive here about Tuesday.

Medical Inspector Clark, U. S. N., who reported for duty last week and relieved Surgeon Heffenger, was on duty at this station on the receiving ship Vandalia from December, 1867, until he joined the Alaska to go on the Asiatic station.

Rev. Alfred Gooding, pastor of the Unitarian church, on Sunday announced that the Sunday school connected with the church will resume its sessions on Sunday next; and also read a notice inviting the ladies of the society and congregation interested in the welfare of the Children's Home, to meet at the Home on Thursday afternoon, the 9th inst., to sew for the inmates.

Rev. Dr. Alden, Rev. W. A. McGinley and Rev. C. D. Hainer occupied their respective pulpits on Sunday, after their summer vacations.

Mayor Eldredge will call a meeting of citizens at once, to decide what action shall be taken toward relieving the sufferers from the earthquake in South Carolina.

Rev. James DeNormandie of Boston Highlands will preach in the Unitarian church in this city next Sunday.

Mr. George A. Munroe of Everett, Mass., and wife, are visiting Mrs. Munroe's parents, Hon. John Dame and wife of this city.

Rockingham Lodge of Good Templars had a picnic at Wallis' sands on Friday afternoon of last week.

Mrs. Nancy Jellison, who has been visiting Spring market for over forty years from Eliot, was sitting at the door of the closed market house, Saturday forenoon, with a supply of fine vegetables. The old lady is accompanied on her marketing trips to this city by her grandson, a fine young fellow of seventeen years, who pulls the boat down and up the river, and is assiduous in his attentions to his grandparent.

The hay crop in this vicinity this year was got in well. On high lands it fell below the average, but on low lands it was good. On Saturday loose hay of good quality was selling on the Parade at fifteen dollars a ton.

Mr. Richard I. Walden of this city went to Manchester on Saturday, to attend a ball game.

Mrs. Ann J. Seymour, widow of Lieut. Charles Seymour, late of the United States navy, has been visiting at Kittery Point the past week. Mrs. Seymour, who with her mother, Mrs. Guest, widow of Commodore John Guest, U. S. N., has for many seasons been at Kittery Point, has passed the summer now nearly expired at Cohasset, Mass.

Col. John N. Macomb, United States army, (retired,) was in town last week, and met many of his friends and former acquaintances. The colonel now resides in Washington, and has spent the summer season at Gloucester, Mass., with his family.

The Portsmouth cricket club propose to grade and turf about four acres of the field occupied by them as a cricket ground, near Frenchman's lane, making it the finest ground for cricket, and other athletic games, to be found anywhere in this vicinity. The expense of the job will be large, and as the members of the club are not wealthy the contributions of their friends toward the end in view will be very acceptable. A number of citizens have already subscribed.

The Flying Yankee train due in this city at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening did not arrive until six o'clock Saturday morning; and the Bangor express, due here at 4:00 A. M. Saturday, did not arrive until eight.

An eight-years-old daughter of Wm. Flynn, of South Berwick, Me., while visiting last week at the New Hampshire house in Dover, was badly bitten in the left hand by a large dog belonging to Mr. O'Donnell, landlord of the hotel. Mr. O'Donnell telephoned for City Marshal Fogarty, who on his arrival killed the dog with a single shot from his revolver. Marshal Fogerty probably does not shut his eyes when he shoots, as it used to be asserted the Portsmouth police did when they fired at dogs.

Mercer Goodrich calls attention to his large and complete stock of school books and school supplies, at store corner of Market and Daniel streets.

A HANDSOME PRESENT.

The Dover Republican of the 3d inst. says:

Last evening Mr. Henry O. Batten, representing the employees in the Portsmouth Music hall, came to this city, and at the Opera house door found Mr. Charles E. Cook, the genial manager of Atkinson & Cook's company, and in the presence of a few friends told Mr. Cook what the people of Portsmouth thought of him, and how he had endeared himself to the help in the Music hall, more than any other manager ever had, and as a small token of their esteem Mr. Batten begged Mr. Cook to accept what they had sent him. Mr. Cook accepted and returned his thanks to the boys in Portsmouth. The present is a fine gold-cased watch-charm thermometer, with the back beautifully engraved as follows:

Charles E. Cook,
From the Employees
Music Hall,
Portsmouth, N. H.

WARD TWO REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

mitter is also kept in the same relative position to the mouth at whatever position it is set. The only other thing which shows that the desk is not a gentleman's ordinary office furniture is a little movable bar with four metallic switches.

By this device the subscriber puts himself out of the city circuit and switches himself onto the main line for New York or Boston which he rings up and calls a New York or Boston subscriber with less trouble than is caused to call a subscriber in the same city. The copper circuit is perfect and free from induction. A reporter recently talked from the executive office of the company to New York over it. Although the wire passes through lengthwise the whole noisy city of New York a whispered conversation there was more easily heard than the ordinary city telephoning.—New Haven Register.

Episode of the Foreign War.

About the middle of the sixteenth century Ambrose Pare, the father of French surgery, revived the tying of bleeding vessels with simple threads, as described by Celsus, the Roman Hippocrates, in his account of the principles and practice of the Alexandrian school of medicine and surgery. Attempts to find an earlier origin for the ligature have not been successful, although so sound a scholar as Mr. E. Neville Rolfe, in his edition of the excellent "Hand-Book to the National Museum in Naples," thus describes the beautiful fresco of "Æneas Wounded:" "The painting, which is quite unimpaired, represents an episode of the Trojan war. Æneas leaning on his spear, with an expression denoting pain, has his arm around the neck of Iulus, who weeps. A surgeon is on his knees, picking the artery with forceps. Other warriors look on, while Venus appears from Olympus with a sprig of balsam."

The proper reference is to the Latian war, as told by Virgil, who gives the story of Æneas' hurt in the twelfth book of the Æneid, verse 388 et seq. It was no artery that the surgeon tried in vain to take up in the hero's wound; it was the arrow-head imbedded in the tissues that had to be extracted by one of the methods described by Celsus (book vii., c. 5, "De Telis e Corpore Extrahendis"). The surgeon failed, as Celsus could have told him he would, and Venus had to interpose with an infusion of Cretan dittany, which, used as a fomentation, caused the arrow-head to drop from the wound without further ado.—Chicago News.

The average thickness of one of the hairs of the head is about a 400th part of an inch, and its rate of growth about a line and a half per week, or from six to seven inches a year. Supposing a man to have had fifty years' growth at seven inches a year, he would have produced a crop of the splendid length of about thirty feet.—Exchange.

Card from the Duffy Malt Whiskey Co.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 14, 1886.

To the Editor—We have from time to time, through the columns of your paper as well as through the medium of the leading newspapers of this country, called attention to a simple and effective formula for a large class of ailments which the medical profession has intelligently conceded, cannot be benefited permanently in any other way than through the agency of some article of the character of a food. The remedy to which we refer is a preparation which can be prepared in any household, the principal ingredients being raw beefsteak and a specified quantity of Duffy's pure malt whiskey.

We enclose a thousand invalids relation of your paper and others in which our notices appeared, to get a large demand for copies of this formula and our expectations have not only been met to the fullest degree, but exceeded our most sanguine expectations. During the few months which have elapsed since the first notice appeared, a thousand invalids have placed themselves in charge of our Medical Department; all these cases received individual supervision, and the wonderful results that have been obtained, including in many cases a gain in weight from ten to twenty-five pounds, notices of which have appeared in the papers, has also led to the use of this formula by thousands with whom we are not in communication, friends of our patients. The wonderful success of this formula is due principally to the peculiar properties of Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky. The range of action of this remedy comprises all lung, stomach, bowel, nervous and weakened conditions of the nervous system.

The extraordinary growth of our business has made it necessary for us to make special arrangements to meet the inquiry and attend to the supervision of the thousands who are using our remedy, and we are anxious that no one suffering from any of the above ailments should fail to send to us for a copy of this formula, which we will send with pleasure on receipt of a two-cent stamp, to any address that may be requested. With the formula we furnish evidence of its value which causes Duffy's pure malt whiskey and formula to become at once an established household remedy.

We appreciate the fact that our measure of success is due to the interest manifested by your readers, and we desire that none who are ailing from the diseases above referred to should remain unconscious of the fact that there is a simple and effective remedy that will restore health where disease now dwells.

Over 800 burglaries are said to have taken place in Chicago within three months.

"Mrs. Partington, what do you use for a very bad cold?" asked Mrs. Dull. "Handkerchiefs, ma'am," answered the aged dame, looking over her spectacles. Iowa Falls, Harding Co., Iowa, June 8, 1885. I have been using Ailcock's Porous Plasters for four years, and think I could not get along without them. For a long time I was afflicted with a pain under my right shoulder blade; I also had considerable difficulty in breathing. I applied an Allcock's Porous Plaster on my back, and one on my chest. I kept changing them every four days, and at the end of three weeks was entirely cured. E. S. Stevens.

It is reported that the Lane syndicate has made an offer of $40,000 in settlement to the Abington, Mass., national bank. The bank examiner says the institution can resume if it wants to, as there is money enough to pay all depositors in full, with interest.

Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me by my druggist as a preventative to hay fever. Have been using it as directed since the 9th of August and have found it a specific for that much dreaded and loathsome disease. For ten years or more I have been a great sufferer each year, from August 9th till frost, and have tried many alleged remedies for its cure, but Ely's Cream Balm is the only preventative I have ever found. Hay Fever sufferers ought to know of its efficacy.

Snell be 79 years of age next June, and for the last six years have suffered from general debility and old age. At times I could not get out of bed without help. I commenced to take Sulphur Bitters. In a week I felt stronger and got a mighty fine appetite. I still continued their use, and to-day I walked over three miles without feeling tired, something I haven't done in five years before. Sulphur Bitters is a right smart medicine.—George Brown, Keokuk, Iowa.

An Unequal Contest.

The trouble between the prohibitionists and free rum men of Mississippi is proceeding, and as the argument often ends, as other political arguments in that state usually do, with the discharge of shotguns, the cold water men, who have the steadiest nerves, generally get the best of it. The latest returns are from Cayuga, where a prohibitionist, who was on horseback, met two "wet" men, and when the discussion grew hot dismounted, used his horse for a breast-work, and shot both of his opponents dead before they got a single whack at him.

When we Demoralize the Stomach

By excesses or imprudence in eating, we cannot hope to escape the consequences for any great length of time. The most robust digestion much succumb to abuses of that important function. But supposing that we have been foolish enough to enfeeble the stomach, is the damage irreparable? By no means. The dyspeptic has only to do two things to insure his ultimate recovery. First, he should adopt an easily digestible diet. Second, he should use with regularity and persistence Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the leading gastric invigorant of the age. The multiform symptoms of dyspepsia, and the almost invariably attendant disorders, biliousness and constipation, will a sauredly cease to persecute the sufferer if the above advice is attended to. Who that has suffered the torments that chronic indigestion inflicts will neglect to take advantage of a remedy which, if the most positive evidence of the medical profession and the public is to be received with due credence, is an absolute specific for the complaint.

The Army & Navy Journal says: "The fine model of the Nanîwa-Kan, made under the direction of Constructor Hichborn at the Washington navy yard, and which occupies a prominent place in the secretary's office, attracts much attention. It is on a sufficiently generous scale, and withall is so complete in its details that even a landsman can but see the manifest design of the many new instruments and appliances which go to the making of a modern war ship."

I Had Faith.

About six months ago I was advised to consult Mrs. Hall, the great Spiritualist doctor, to see if she could cure me of scrofula, from which I have suffered from childhood. She said if I would have faith in the medicine she gave me, that she could cure me. I took her medicine, and in less than three months I was cured. Why, the way the medicine worked was a miracle. I begged of her to tell me what the medicine was made of, but she said she could not do so. Finally she told me the medicine was Sulpher Bitters, and that she never knew it to fail in all such cases as mine.—Mrs. Clara Knowlton, 35 Hanover street, Boston, Mass.

Dr. Albert H. Crosby.

Dr. Albert H. Crosby of Concord dropped dead of apoplexy at the residence of his son-in-law, Col. E. H. Gilman of Exeter, on the 5th inst. He was the elder son of the late Prof. Diri Crosby, was graduated from Dartmouth college in 1843, studied law, and practiced at the bar in this state and New York city. Later he studied medicine, and received a degree from Dartmouth college in 1860. He was for a time surgeon of the 6th New Hampshire Reg't, and later was assistant in the medical bureau of the provost marshal's office in New Hampshire. He has been one of the Concord board of medical pension examiners nearly all the time since the close of the rebellion, physician to the state prison for sixteen years, member of the school board, and physician to St. Paul's school for many years. He was one of the most eminent physicians and surgeons in the state, his services in consultations being in great demand. Dr. Crosby was a Royal Arch Mason, Knight of Pythias, and member of the Grand Army. He leaves a widow and one daughter.

This buoy will be a safe guide for vessels bound into Boothbay or along the coast, and may be run for with confidence.

The Only

medicine I ever found that helped me at all is ATHLOPHOROS, and I have not had the Rheumatism since I took it.—EDWIN SEARS, Provincetown, Mass.

A professor in a medical college once said to his class "put your hand in a vice, turn the screw until the pain is all you can bear, and that's rheumatism; turn the screw once more, and that's neuralgia—and gentlemen, the medical profession knows no cure for either." That was before the discovery of ATHLOPHOROS quickly cure both rheumatism and neuralgia, and many physicians use it regularly—frankly admitting that they can prescribe nothing else so effective.

Many persons have tried so many so-called remedies, without benefit, that they have no faith to try more, but it is worth your while to try Athlophoros, if you have any doubts as to its value write for names of parties in your own State who have been cured by its use.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

PRESIDENTS OF THE UNION.

Nearly All of Them Have Enjoyed Their Country Homes.

President Cleveland has attracted a good deal of attention and comment in the last few weeks by his sudden development of bucolic tastes, but in this he is only following in the footsteps of nearly every occupant of the presidential chair. Almost every president that this country has had has passed a part of his career in the delights of a country home. Washington, as everybody knows, owned a large estate at Mount Vernon, where he retired after his two terms in the presidency. His death, it will be remembered, was caused from exposure incident to his duties on the plantation, which he delighted to manage in person. John Adams, his successor, retired after his term in the presidency had expired, to a country seat, "Quincy," near Boston, and engaged in agricultural pursuits. Jefferson, after his retirement from public life, established himself at his home, Monticello, Va., where he entertained his friends, managed his estate, and died regretted by a large number of servants and domestics, which he had with him to the last. Madison, after his term of office had expired, retired to Montpelier, Va., where he became rector of the university of Virginia and engaged in agricultural pursuits. Monroe, after the close of his public life, took up his residence at Oak Hill, Va., where he entertained his friends royally, so much so, in fact, that he soon found the bottom of his purse, and was finally obliged to give up his princely estate and take up his residence with relatives in New York, where he was still making his home at the time of his death.

John Quincy Adams, after his term of office had expired, retired to the old family estate, "Quincy," in Massachusetts, but responded to his country's call again, and died at his post of duty in Washington, where he had been sent as a member of Congress. Jackson, as everybody knows, retired to the "Hermitage," Nashville, where he died. Van Buren, after his term in office expired, retired to Kinderhook, N. Y., and there ended his days. Harrison, who died during his term in the presidency, was buried at his home in North Bend, Ohio, and there his remains still lie. Tyler was accustomed to country life, and delighted in it, as it brought him recollections of early days when his father was one of the largest land owners in Virginia. Polk, whose early days were spent in the country as the son of a farmer, looked forward to a comfortable life of retirement just beside Nashville, after his term of service in the presidency, but had only been three months away from here when death called him. Taylor, who had worked on a plantation during his early life, had looked forward with pleasure to a quiet life on his estate at Baton Rouge, La., after retiring from his war service. He had scarcely begun this, however, when he was called to the presidency, and before his term had fairly begun, his life ended. Fillmore was the son of a farmer, and spent his early life among rural delights. Pierce ever remembered with affection the place where his boyhood days were spent, and where he taught a country school when he arrived at the early years of manhood.

Buchanan, after his presidential labors were ended, retired to a country place, "Wheatland," in Pennsylvania, where he died. Lincoln, as everybody knows, was reared amid the most primitive of country life, and retained a great affection for the homely things of life to the day of his sad death. The same may be said of his successor, Johnson, who was in this respect not unlike his more illustrious predecessor, who was a farmer in his earlier days, ended his days in the country, heartily wishing, no doubt, that he had followed the example of his predecessors and retired to the country rather than have entered the whirlpool of New York business life. Mr. Hayes, as everybody knows, is in retirement, upon a farm in Ohio, devoting his attention to the duties of a rural life, and entertaining the many friends who seek him out in his comparative seclusion. President Garfield went from his country home, at Mentor, Ohio, to the White House, where he was stricken down by the assassin's bullet, and his sorrowing wife and family, after a couple of years in city life, have just determined to sell their city home and return to their country residence. President Arthur, after a year of city life, at the close of his term, now seeks the country as his only hope of regaining the health lost in his service in the White House. And President Cleveland, following the example of his long line of presidential predecessors, is preparing a country home for himself, only varying the order by beginning his country life during his actual term of service.—Louisville Post.

Andrew Jackson in New York.

I recall one day when, through its whole extent, Broadway was crowded to its utmost capacity; when every window was filled; when it seemed as if every man, woman, and child in the great city had come there; when the air was one roar of cheers and martial music, while flags waved and handkerchiefs fluttered, a great procession moved slowly up the street, but all eyes were fixed upon one man who rode, quite separated from those nearest to him, upon a coal-black horse, a gaunt, erect, grim old man, dressed in ill-fitting black clothes, and who waved in his hand a white beaver hat, decorated with an immense crape mourning weed. His white hair stood up stiff and straight from his bared head, which he turned from right to left, bowing in acknowledgment of the deafening

Professor of Medicine at the Royal University; Knight of the Royal Austrian Order of the Iron Crown; Knight Commander of the Royal Spanish Order of Isabella; Knight of the Royal Prussian Order of the Red Eagle; Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, &c., &c., says:

"LIEBIG CO'S COCA BEEF TONIC should not be confounded with the horde of trashy cure alls. It is in no sense of the word a patent remedy. I am thoroughly conversant with its mode of preparation and know it to be not only a legitimate pharmaceutical product, but also worthy of the high commendations it has received in all parts of the world. It contains essence of Beef, Coca, Quinine, Iron and Calisaya, which are dissolved in pure genuine Spanish Imperial Crown Sherry."

It must have been a terrible state of affairs, that caused the Psalmist to ask: "Who can stand before his cold?" In his day the remedies were few and doubtful; how much happier should this generation be, that has as a household remedy, Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup; so wonderful has been its cures that millions rise up and call it "blessed."

The Voice of the People.

The people, as a whole, seldom make mistakes, and the unanimous voice of praise which comes from those who have used Hood's Sarsaparilla, fully justifies the claims of the proprietors of this great medicine. Indeed, these very claims are based entirely on what the people say Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for them. Read the abundant evidence of its curative powers, and give it a fair, honest trial.

Earthquakes.

Professor Dawson, of McGill college, Montreal, whose paper on the geological formation of the bed of the Atlantic, recently read before the meeting of the British association at Birmingham, England, is attracting wide attention, has been giving some attention to the American earthquakes. He says:

The phenomena of the present earthquake convulsions in America and elsewhere, but particularly in America, are extremely puzzling, and completely upset some of the conclusions set forth in the address I read last evening; therefore I decline to express further opinions or state my views until I hear from Professor Powell of the United States Geological Survey at Washington. The score of eminent geologists now at Birmingham are unanimously of the opinion that the wide area over which the shocks extended points to a deep focus of the disturbance, for the deeper the focus the more extensive the vibrations. It will be impossible to guage their real significance until a large number of accurate observations of the present disturbances have been made, similar to those made ten years ago.

The records of the Massachusetts Historical society show that New England can reckon up shocks enough to credit it with being an earthquake country. Professor William T. Brigham, A. M., A. A. S., has summarized the data thus obtained, and his investigations made up to January, 1871, show that since 1568 there have been in New England 231 separate visitations of earthquake. Winter seems to have been the most suitable time for such accidents for during the cold period 148 tremors were noted, to only 83 for summer. Professor Brigham is not sanguine about New England being a specially safe place to live, and says authoritatively that volcanic eruption in this region is of very recent date, referring to the mysterious volcano on West River mountain, New Hampshire, that in 1752 spouted fire or lava, to the great fright of the good people in the neighborhood. Montreal, Canada, is situated on the extinct crater of a volcano; and Gay Head, Martha's Vineyard, and Moodus hill, Conn., are old volcanoes. There are three earthquake regions in New England. One centres at Montreal, extending into northern Vermont and New Hampshire; another around the mouth of the Merrimac river, including Boston, and a smaller one around New Haven, Lyme and East Haddam, Conn. The trap or cooled-off melted rock in the limestone shows that the subterranean energy is still at work, and earthquakes are liable to occur in the two first mentioned regions at any time. In fact, a volcanic outburst in Connecticut, while improbable, is not by any means impossible.

The first great earthquake on record in New England since the arrival of the Pilgrims began on June 1, 1638. Governor William Bradford, the second governor of the Plymouth colony, in his history says the shocks were heard long before they were felt. There was a deep and terrible rumbling in the bowels of the earth, coming from the north and dying away towards the south. As the noise came nearer the houses shook, and loose articles on the shelves were thrown down and smashed, doors were opened and chimneys overturned. The ground continued to tremble for over twenty days.

The great earthquake of 1663 was one of the most violent ever experienced on the continent. In Boston, it was felt just at sunset. On the 26th of January the shock came. It was not felt there much, but elsewhere was most disastrous. In Canada, near Quebec, trees were uprooted, chasms opened in the ground, and the course of rivers changed. The fields were moved out of their places. The shock continued for six minutes, the course of the trembling being from north to south. All New England and New York were affected. The centre of all this was the old extinct volcano of Montreal. Between Tadoussac and Quebec two mountains were shaken into the St. Lawrence; many springs dried up or became sulphurous.

On Sunday, October 29, 1727, New England and the entire Atlantic coast, as far south as Florida, were swept by a tremendous earthwave. The people of Boston were all in bed when the first great shock came, quickly followed by another just as violent. Had Boston contained buildings like those of the present day, it would have been levelled. The houses rocked as if they would fall down, and the people gathered in great numbers on the green, where divine service was held to call upon the Lord for mercy. The pewter and china were thrown from the shelves, while stone walls and chimneys were levelled. Rev. Benjamin Colman at Newbury, near the mouth of the Merrimac, where the shocks were most violent said, "that the earth opened and threw up many cart-loads of a fine sand and ashes mixed with some small remains of sulphur, accompanied by a blue flame and a suffocating fume." On Spring island, near Newbury, the ground opened and a geyser burst out, sending boiling water into the air for a great distance.

Lisbon was destroyed on November 1, 1755. Eighteen days after a disturbance in the earth's crust took place under Nova Scotia, and imparted such a violent vibration to the surface that the wave spread over the entire North American continent, so that 1755 comes down to history as the great earthquake year. Cities of the modern style, had they existed in New England, would have been annihilated. The shock that recently visited Charleston could not compare to it. Boston was terribly shaken up, its past experiences being nothing compared to this. The first shock lasted for four and a half minutes, during which time some $300,000 damage (a large sum in those days) was done within the town limits. Over 100 chimneys were levelled, and 1,500 shattered.

Since then there have been no violent shocks in New England.

The Earthquake.

Another slight shock of earthquake was felt about eleven o'clock Sunday night, in Charleston, Augusta, Ga., and other places, keeping up the terrible strain on the nerves of the wretched people. The pecuniary damage to buildings in Charleston is estimated at $5,000,000, and Summerville will be very nearly depopulated as a result of the earthquakes. Divine services were held in the squares of the shattered cities on Sunday, none of the churches being safe to enter.

At Wilksbarre, Pa., the tower of a stone church built by the Methodists at a cost of $60,000, and dedicated three months ago, has been discovered to be unsafe, it is believed from the effects of the earthquake.

Savannah has contributed $5000 for the relief of the sufferers in Charleston and vicinity, and other cities are sending aid liberally. The war department is supplying tents for shelter. The Boston relief committee on Saturday authorized the mayor of Charleston to draw at once for $5000.

Mayor William A. Courtney, of Charleston, arrived in New York on Sunday morning by steamer from Liverpool, and first learned of the disaster then.

A FEW EARNEST WORDS.

Does any one who reads these lines feel tired or nervous? Have you despondent feelings? Is your appetite sometimes poor and again voracious? Do you notice brick-dust at the bottom or a scum on the top of the fluids you pass? Are these fluids scant at times and plentiful at others? Do you have headaches once in a while? If you have these feelings, DO YOU KNOW WHAT THEY MEAN? Your Kidneys are Diseased!!! It may be only the beginning, but if not taken in time, Bright's Disease, and death in its most horrible form will be the end. YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO TRIFLE WITH THEM.

MR. JOHN W. FURNISH, an army veteran, of Wakefield, Mass., neglected these symptoms and was brought to death's door. He took HUNT'S REMEDY and is well to-day.

MRS. ALEXANDER L. NICHOLAS, of Phœnix, R. I., and a descendant of General Nathaniel Greene, was so near the grave her breath only came in gasps, but she was restored to health by using HUNT'S REMEDY.

The wife of Captain S. Greenwood, master of the well known Steamer Kanawha, had a large and painful swelling in the side, which was thought to be a tumor. It entirely disappeared after using HUNT'S REMEDY. Captain Greenwood himself was cured of terrible Catarrh of the bladder by the same means.

These are only a few of many wonderful cures showing that HUNT'S REMEDY does cure the worst of all known diseases.

Do not, however, Delay. Observe the first symptoms and act promptly. You will certainly escape awful suffering and possibly death itself. For Sale by all Dealers.

A Slanderous Story Buried.

Until a few days ago Senator Frye was unaware that remarks derogatory to Mr. Blaine had been attributed to him. In a speech at Waterville, Me., Sept. 3d, he publicly denied them, and paid a high compliment to Mr. Blaine, both in his personal and public life, comparing his position in America with that of Gladstone in England. Mr. Frye indignantly denied ever having intimated that there was a snirch on Mr. Blaine's garments. How many papers that have published the statements attributed to Mr Frye will publish this denial?

As a reliable remedy, in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, or sudden Colds, and for the prompt relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." John H. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equal to

for the prompt relief of throat and lung diseases peculiar to children. I consider it an absolute cure for all such affections, and am never without it in the house." Mrs. L. E. Herman, 187 Mercer st., Jersey City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral useful in my family." B. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Stickler, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of a severe lung affection, supposed to be Quick Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. Breckenridge, Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and, wherever I go, am always sure to have a bottle of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

WEDDING BELLS.

The marriage of Miss Mary E. Kenrick, only daughter of the late Alfred Kenrick, Jr., of Brookline, Mass., to Mr. N. Clifford Paul, occured Wednesday evening, Sept. 1st, at the residence of the bride's mother. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. J. Patterson, D. D., of Boston, formerly pastor of the Universalist church of this city. The well known caterer, Tufts of Boston, furnished supper in his usual pleasing manner. At a late hour the many friends bade the couple much joy, leaving behind them kind remembrances of their good wishes. Mr. Paul is the only son of the late Nathan Paul of Eliot, Me., and has lived in Brookline for the past three years. The newly wedded couple will take up their residence on the Kenrick estate in Longwood, Mass.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

Rear Admiral Edward Simpson, U. S. N., now on the retired list, in an article on the navy yards, published in the September number of Harper's, says: "The navy yard at Portsmouth, N. H., is of little, or no use. The site presents but few advantages, the disadvantages far outweighing them. It is unfit for purposes of docking." Admiral Simpson's contempt for the Portsmouth navy yard is probably due to the fact that it is not located in New York state, where he was born, from which he was appointed to the navy, and where the Navy Register says he resides. As to its fitness for purposes of docking, his opinion is not held by a naval officer who probably knows as much about the matter as he does, Naval Constructor T. D. Wilson, late chief constructor and now acting-chief constructor of the navy, who in one of his reports mentioned the unusual advantages of this yard for purposes of docking as a leading reason why it should be retained and improved, and showed that by a comparatively moderate outlay for enlarging the basin of the dry dock and laying two new sets of ways on shore, four ships could at once be built, rebuilt or repaired—three on the land and one in the dock itself—giving to this dock a far greater capacity than is possessed by any other national dock in this country.

The U. S. S. Swatara arrived at this port Monday morning, and came up to the navy yard shortly before noon. A salute was fired at noon.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

The following instructions for a bit of evening's amusement for the young people are going the rounds of the press:

Girls of a marriageable age do not like to tell how old they are, but you can find out by following the subjoined instructions, the young lady doing the figuring: Tell her to put down the number of the month in which she was born, then to multiply it by 2, then to add 5, then to multiply it by 50, then to add her age, then to subtract 365, then to add 115; then ask her to tell you the amount she has left. The two figures to the right will denote her age, and the remainder the month of her birth. For example, the amount is 822; she is twenty-two years old, and was born in the eighth month, August. Try it.

After testing the "arithmetical conundrum" and finding it to work all right, the young experimenters will find it quite interesting to analyze it, and demonstrate just why the left hand figure or figures must in every case designate the number of the month, and the right hand two the age of the person figuring.

The annual union picnic of the Christian and Free Baptist churches of York and vicinity, held in Plaisted's grove near the foot of Mount Agamenticus on Wednesday, the 1st inst., was attended by about six hundred persons, and was a very interesting occasion. The exercises consisted of singing, and speaking by members of the two denominations, mainly on the subject of the proposed union of the two churches, (Christian and Free Baptist,) every one who spoke being heartily in favor of the union. Remarks were made by Rev. E. E. Colburn of Kittery, Rev. B. S. Maben of York, Rev. Mr. Mugridge of Ogunquit, Prof. Morrill of Stamfordville, N. Y., and others. A business meeting was held, and officers of the association elected for the ensuing year as follows: President, Rev. Zebulon Knight of South Berwick; secretary, Rev. E. E. Colburn of Kittery; committee of arrangements, the president and secretary ex-officio, Rev. A. H. Morrill, Rev. B. S. Maben, Mr. Daniel Perkins. These picnics now seem to be a permanent thing, with an annual election of officers, interesting topics for discussion, meeting of old acquaintances and the forming of new ones, and a good social time in general. There is good reason why they should be kept up, as much good will be the result. There is to be an opening address next year, with other and enlarged religious exercises.

Mrs. C. S. Gurney, who has so successfully filled the position of forelady of the stitching room of the Davis Shoe company, and the old firm of the Ventilating Shoe company, from the time of their organization in 1876, has resigned that position and accepted a similar one at Portsmouth, N. H. During the years of her connection with the company she has very ably filled the position, and has been well liked by the operatives and by her employers, both of which parties express regrets at the loss of so valuable a hand and so pleasant and agreeable an overseer. Mrs. Gurney is well fitted for the place, as she thoroughly understands the business, and the art of getting the love and good will of the operatives under her care. Mrs. Gurney commenced her duties for the Portsmouth company last Monday. She takes several of the best hands with her to her new field of labor. May she have the same success as has attended her in the past.——C. H. Carr has resigned his position with the Davis Shoe company, and accepted a more lucrative one with the Portsmouth Shoe company. He left for Portsmouth on Monday. We hope to see his smiling countenance in Kennebunk occasionally. —Eastern Star.

cheers that rose on every side. The grim old man was the hero of New Orleans, Andrew Jackson, then president of the United States, in the hight of his popularity, on his tour through the northern states.—Cor. New York Sun.

The Making of Wooden Ware.

The making of the wooden pails is an interesting study. Wooden shooks, the exact size of the pail, are put into the machine, which turns them out at the other end a complete pail, bound with three hoops, better and more evenly fastened than could be done by hand. Another machine paints the pail inside and out, white being the prevailing color, while a neat oak tint ornaments the outside. Washtubs are made of the same principle, and it is indeed surprising how many can be turned out during the working hours of the day.

But the making of washboards is even more surprising. The largest factory employed in this business is located many miles from this city. Here the trees are cut down and the timber often allowed to lay for two years until it is properly seasoned. Machinery is used to prepare the timber and make the washboards with the required ribs. But after they have been completed, a haul of twelve miles is necessary in order to reach the nearest railway station. Thence they are transported to this city. After the freight is paid they can be sold at 80 cents per dozen, wholesale, or 6 2-3 cents each. At the same time a profit is left to both dealer and maker. The dealer said: "Washboard-making has proved a very good business investment.—New York Mail and Express.

A Curious Cause of Blindness.

Dr. Widmark, a Swedish surgeon, having as a patient a young girl in whom he was unable to detect the slightes pathological changes in the right eye, but who was yet completely blind on that side, observing considerable defects in the teeth, sent her to M. Skogsborg, a dental surgeon, who found that all the upper and lower molars were completely decayed, and that in many of them the roots were inflamed. He extracted the remains of the molar on the right side, and in four days' time the sight of the right eye began to return, and on the eleventh day after the extraction of teeth it had become quite normal. The diseased fangs on the other side were subsequently removed, lest they should cause a return of the ophthalmic affection.—London Lancet.

Mr. Carl Rosa, who is doing so much for English opera in Great Britain, put this question to an American critic: "Why does not your American opera work in a truly national way by bringing out American operas, or at least operas composed to English words.—Philadelphia Press.

A Winter Amid the Orange Groves.

The Raymond & Whitcomb winter excursions to the Pacific coast have enabled hundreds of eastern people to escape the rigorous climate of the east, and to enjoy seasons of rest and recreation in the most favored land of the whole globe. A glance at the comprehensive pamphlet circular just issued by this enterprising firm shows that the arrangements for the winter of 1886-7 are better than anything yet offered. The opening of The Raymond, a large and magnificent hotel which is situated in the most picturesque and healthful section of southern California, will afford accommodations of a first-class character, hitherto lacking in that region. There are to be seven excursions westward and nine departures, with special trains and other special sight-seeing facilities through the wild scenery of the Rocky mountains. In addition to these frequent opportunities for a return with conducted parties, the excursion tickets are good to return at any time. "Independent" tickets are sold, which permit the holder to go where he pleases, and to be entirely free from compulsion of any kind while on the Pacific coast. At the same time he may secure special advantages at all the leading health and pleasure resorts, including The Raymond, the Hotel del Monte, at Monterey, the Palace hotel in Sao Francisco, Santa Cruz, the Napa Soda Springs, and a dozen other places. The dates of the westbound excursions are November 4, December 9, January 6 and 20, February 3 and 17, and March 10. Send to W. Raymond, 296 Washington street, opposite School street, Boston, for circulars describing The Raymond, and giving details of these trips.

It seems to us that there are less persons afflicted with rheumatism, since our druggists sell Salvation Oil. Price twenty-five cents a bottle.

The colonel of a German regiment, disguised as a workingman, has been arrested while sketching the fortifications at Severance, France.

Why suffer the tortures of biliousness when Hood's Sarsaparilla will give you sure relief? Sold by all druggists. 100 doses one dollar.

Senator Voorhees is confident that Indiana will go democratic, with the possible loss to his party of two or three congressional districts.

We know of no mode of treatment which offers, to sufferers from chronic diseases, a more certain hope than that which is comprehended in the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. For purifying and invigorating the blood, the preparation is unequaled.

Mr. Coogan is put forward as a rival to Henry George as workingmen's candidate for the New York mayoralty.

I Am An Old Man.

Shall be 79 years of age next June, and for the last six years have suffered from general debility and old age. At times I could not get out of bed without help. I commenced to take Sulphur Bitters. In a week I felt stronger and got a mighty fine appetite. I still continued their use, and to-day I walked over three miles without feeling tired, something I haven't done in five years before. Sulphur Bitters is a right smart medicine.—George Brown, Keokuk, Iowa.

Senor Romera, minister of Mexico at Washington, ridicules the statements published to the effect that Mexico wishes to go to war with the United States.

Those persons who do not need Iron, but who are troubled with Nervousness and Dyspepsia, will find in Carter's Little Nerve Pills a most desirable article. They are mostly used in combination with Carter's Little Liver Pills, and in this way often exert a most magical effect. Take just one pill of each kind immediately after eating and you will be free from Indigestion and Dyspepsia. In vials at 25 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

Gen. Lloyd Aspinwall died suddenly at Bristol, R. I., on Saturday.

James Pyle's Pearline is the very best assistant for washing or bleaching, no matter whether by use of cold or hot water. As a labor-saving article it deserves especial mention.

Congressman O'Neil has been renominated by the democrats in the eighth Missouri district.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound strengthens the stomach and kidneys and aids digestion. Is equally good for both sexes.

J. H. Bankhead has been nominated by the democrats of the sixth Alabama congressional district.

Ayer's Ague Cure acts directly on the liver and biliary apparatus, and drives out the malarial poison which induces liver complaints and bilious disorders. Warranted to cure, or money refunded. Try it.

Near Sonestown, Pa., last week, a shanty in which twenty railroad laborers were sleeping was burned, and seven of the men lost their lives.

That tired languid feeling and dull headache is very disagreeable. Take two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring, and you will find relief. They never fail to do good.

THE SLOOP.

[The inspiration for the following lines composed by Miss A. M. Y——, a young lady of eight years who has been spending the summer at Kittery Point, was one of the Cape Ann stone sloops, the Screamer, loaded with stone to be used in building the abutments for the new bridge between Kittery Point and Gerrish's island.]

Oh! what is coming up Chauncy's creek?
A sloop I declare!
Why, she's most hi; as a ship!
Her masts are tall,
Her decks are wide,
And she must be a country's pride!
What is her name but "Screamer,"
And what can she be but a dreamer?

The first one that ever
Up Chauncy's creek did come,
Gentle reader was not that well done?
A granite-loaded sloop she was
For the new bridge,
And need I tell the rest,
Because the old bridge was giving out,
And scarce would hold a nest.
The new bridge is the Goodwin bridge,
For so we all shall call,
Because the man who built it is generous to all.

When we Demoralize the Stomach By excesses or imprudence in eating, we cannot hope to escape the consequences for any great length of time. The most robust digestion much succumb to abuses of that important function. But supposing that we have been foolish enough to enfeeble the stomach, is the damage irreparable? By no means. The dyspeptic has only to do two things to insure his ultimate recovery. First, he should adopt as easily digestible diet. Second, he should use with regularity and persistence Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the leading gastric invigorant of the age. The multiform symptoms of dyspepsia, and the almost invariably attendant disorders, biliousness and constipation, will a asuredly cease to persecute the sufferer if the above advice is attended to. Who that has suffered the torments that chronic indigestion inflicts will neglect to take advantage of a remedy which, if the most positive evidence of the medical profession and the public is to be received with due credence, is an absolute specific for the complaint.

The Circus.—The Nick Roberts-Gardner circus is meeting wonderful success in this city. On the first night 5,900 people attended, the seating capacity of the tents being 4,400. Yesterday at the matinee, the attendance was the largest that has been played to by the company during an afternoon performance. Last night 1,300 poeple were turned away. A FAMILY PROCESSION.

A Millionaire's Caravan, Going Out Into the Country—The Entire Outfit.

The magnificence and state in which some of our more pretentious families travel, not only astonishes the natives, but is apt to take the breath out of a city man who is accustomed to the display of the same people in town. I was driving along the Hudson the last week in July, when I met a well-known New York family moving out to their country house for the month of August. The daughter of the house and two young brothers were riding ahead on their favorite horses followed at a distance by a sedate groom.

"You'll meet the rest of us half a mile back," she said; "such a caravan! And we only live here a month, for we're expected at Lenox on the 15th of September."

Then they all cantered on. Over the brow of the hill I observed a small village cart with a cool little miss driving a pony and a footman in everyday attire working like a Trojan to keep a small army of poodles in the cart and prevent another batch of dogs, that were chained to the tail of the cart and running behind, from being dragged in the dust. There were fox terriers, a small bull dog, a water spaniel, and a yelping skye in the cart, while two bird dogs, a big deer hound, and an Irish setter sent up a base chorus from the rear. The footman was what country girls would technically describe as "a sight." Behind this little feature of the parade came the family carriage with the mother and two maids and the big coachman. There were bundles and wraps and two bird cages and an entire absence of the head of the family, who was so busy that he had decided to run up later on the train. Wise man. Just behind the family carriage was a coach resplendent, and gorgeous with four superb thoroughbreds ambling and pawing the dust.

The oldest son of the house—he is but 21—was on the box seat, but beside him was the regular guard of the coach ready to lend a hand in an emergency. The oldest son held the reins proudly. It had been his ambition to sit in his father's seat for ten years, and this was the first time it had ever been gratified. A raw and rather delicately built boy is likely to have all he can do to manage a spirited four in hand. He was happy. It had been stipulated that the guard should sit beside him and that he should not pass the family carriage, which moved at the regulation speed. Nevertheless he was in clover. Two boy friends sat on one of the broad seats dressed in yachting toggery and chaffing the driver as they consumed innumerable cigarettes. Directly behind them were two immense express wagons, each with three horses abreast. They were loaded with trunks, boxes and bales. Following them were two carriages and a light buckboard, made of white ash, all towed by the horses and wagon of a prominent firm of carriage builders.

I confess that at this point I began to to wonder when the procession would come to an end. I turned a bend in the road and encountered the smug visage of a well known horse trainer, who was driving a team of trotters that are known to every horseman in America. It was a picture to see the care and daintiness with which he drove, steering the valuable animals clear of pebbles on the road that another man would not have seen, and talking and whispering to them constantly. The horses' sleek and well groomed coats shone in the sun like oiled silk, and their sensitive ears swept back and forth at every sound of the driver's voice. As they moved along their small hoofs and clean cut legs fairly danced. They were loth to touch the ground. I never saw a prettier sight than that pair of sturdy horses. On the box by the driver lolled the butler, without coat, dignity or collar, smoking a huge cigar and looking extremely larky and happy. Within the coach there was a picturesque jumble of cooks and housemaids, red faced, laughing and overdressed. A small baggage wagon, with a tricycle, a bicycle and a baby carriage, finally brought the family procession to a close. Who says America has no leisure class?—Cor. Brooklyn Eagle.

Delsarteism in London at Last.

"Delsarteism" has at last reached this country. In America it flourishes: has its hundreds of professors and thousands of disciples, a literature of its own, and even a newspaper. Here it is absolutely unknown. Delsarte died at the time of the Franco-Prussian war, having been in the course of his life first a rag-picker, then an opera singer, and last a philosopher. His philosophy was the study of gesture and action and grace. He worked his system thoroughly, going, to nature for guidance and adopting and reasoning out what she taught him. His views were something of the kind that Darwin has expressed in his theory of the emotions, except that he applied them to practice and taught the practice to others. Rachel, Malibran, and Macready were among the most famous of his pupils. He gave lessons to actors, but was something very much more than a mere teacher of elocution. On his death his system passed to America, and there took root and bore fruit. In France, apparently, when his pupils died his name was forgotten. Two Americans have come over this season to set up his philosophy and make it known to the English. The cult seems certainly to have in it the elements of a London success.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Why is it

That the sale of Hood's Sarsaparilla continues at such a rapidly increasing rate? It is,—1st: Because of the positive curative value of Hood's Sarsaparilla itself. 2d: Because of the conclusive evidence of remarkable cures effected by it, unsurpassed and seldom equalled by any other medicine. Send to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass., for book containing many statements of cures.

One For the "Skimming-Dish."

The first of the races between the British cutter Galatea and the American sloop Mayflower was sailed on Tuesday, over the inside course of the New York yacht club. The start was made at 10:57 A. M., the Mayflower a little ahead. The wind was very light at the start, and did not blow over sixteen miles an hour at any time during the race. The Sandy Hook lightship, the turning point, was rounded by the Mayflower at 2:34 P. M., and by the Galatea at 2:43; the cutter passed the Scotland lightship twelve minutes and twenty-five seconds astern of the sloop; and the Mayflower crossed the winning line about two miles ahead of her competitor.

Heavy Shoe Failure.

The shoe and leather trade of Boston was astonished, Monday evening, at the announcement that Cloutman & Bingham of Boston, extensive shoe manufacturers, had assigned to Francis B. Sears, cashier of the Third National bank of Boston.

The suspended firm consists of John F. Cloutman of Farmington, N. H., and George P. Bingham of Boston; E. G. & E. Wallace of Rochester, N. H., are special partners to the amount of $100,000, and are creditors of the firm in the sum of $80,000. The manufactories of the firm are at Farmington and Epping, in this state, and Haverhill, Mass.; and they have an interest in a factory at Westboro', Mass., which however is not involved in the failure. The Farmington factory is the firm's largest one, and is said to be Mr. Cloutman's individual property. Mr. Cloutman's private estate in Farmington was attached for $12,000 Monday morning, before the assignment was made. The amount of the firm's paper held by New England banks is said to be $380,000, and the amount owed to Boston leather dealers about $60,000, which with the amount due the Wallaces foots up $600,000.

Mr. Cloutman is a man of high standing, at his home and in Boston, and has been much talked of at different times as a democratic candidate for governor of New Hampshire, but we think never consented to the use of his name in that connection.

AROUND HOME.

In one of the war articles in the September number of the Century is a likeness of Gen. Amiel W. Whipple, formerly of this city, who was killed at Chancellorsville. The likeness of Gen. Joe Hooker may recall to some of the older inhabitants the look of Hooker when, a tall and slim lieutenant, he was a beau in Portsmouth.

The Hotel Wentworth closes on Thursday, the 9th inst., after the departure of the New Hampshire club and their guests.

The rain-storm last week did considerable damage in the brickyards on the Cocheco river. Ira T. Pinkham, at Dover point, lost the entire output of one day — over 10,000 bricks — and R. A. Pinkham lost about the same number. At H. A. Mathes' yard, Durham, there was also quite a large loss.

The Portsmouth delegates to the democratic county convention met in the common council chamber on Tuesday evening, for the purpose of fixing upon a candidate for county solicitor to be presented in the convention by the delegation.

Mr. Frank Brooks of Eliot neck, while on the way home from this city in his wherry about eight o'clock Monday evening, saw a brilliant meteor fall to the ground, striking as he supposed at Freeman Hurd's place, just above Portsmouth bridge on the Kittery side of the Piscataqua. He says it appeared to him to be about the size of a large man's hand, and he was afraid it would burst on him. Despatches of that evening from Dover report that at about 8:15 o'clock "a ball of fire six inches in diameter, smaller globules falling from it," descended there, and that "the people were scared by the peculiar phenomenon." Its light is described as a bluish white, and it is said to have "lighted the sky like a monstrous electric light for five seconds." This was undoubtedly the meteor seen by Mr. Brooks, and most likely it was miles away from him.

Mr. Loring Jones is visting this, his native city, on a vacation from his business in Brooklyn, N. Y. He proposes staying long enough to become re-acquainted.

The White mountain excursion on Tuesday was a large one, fully 250 people going from this city, and a still larger number from Dover.

Delegates to the republican state and congressional conventions can procure round trip tickets at reduced rates over most of the railroads in the state, including the Boston & Maine and Concord, and their branches. The tickets will be on sale the day before each convention, and must be purchased of the ticket agents at the several stations, as none will be procurable of conductors on the trains.

Nearly all the camping-out parties on the Dow farm and near Wallis' sands, Rye beach, have returned to their homes, and the locality now has a deserted look when compared with what it has borne for the past two months.

Andrew Jackson Hoyt, Esq., of the Exeter Protest, and secretary of the greenback state committee, was in this city on Monday in consultation with Gardner J. Greenleaf, chairman of the committee.

Elder C. R. Crossett of this city preached at the Arlington street Second Advent church in Manchester last Sunday. He has decided to accept the unanimous call of that church, and will commence his labors there the first Sunday in October.

The schooner Franklin S. Schenck, Jameson master, is at Commercial wharf, fitted out for a fishing trip to Flemish Cap, and as Capt. Jameson is an experienced fisherman, she is likely to meet with success—unless the Canadians should decide that Flemish Cap, which is only five or six hundred miles east of Newfoundland, is in Canadian waters, and Secretary Bayard should allow the Canadian cruisers to catch her.

The gondola Electric Light, Capt. Nason, has been engaged in transporting bricks from John H. Mathes' yard in Eliot to the Kittery "town landing," to be hauled thence to Kittery for the rebuilding of a house by Albion Littlefield, to replace one burned there a few years since. As soon as she is through this job, the Electric Light will commence bringing bricks from Fred Rowe's yard in Eliot to A. Brackett Trefethen in this city, for building purposes.

Lewis Holmes recently bought the schooner rigged boat Mayflower, which works well under one sail or three. She was hired the first of last week by Mr. Alexander Blackwood of Boston Highlands, who with a small party of friends went on a camping-out cruise along the coast to the eastward.

Gardner the Leaper Sept. 9.

Capt. Charles Freeman arrived from York on Sunday in his yacht Harrie M. Young, to take a party from Manchester on a fortnight's cruise. She has been taking out parties from the York hotels this season more numerously than during any of the previous six years she has been running in the business. Peter Strickland, the sailmaker, is making a new mainsail for her.

Hon. Thomas B. Reed, member of congress from the first district of Maine, and shortly to be elected member of the 50th Congress from the same district, addressed the republicans of Kennebunk and vicinity on Tuesday evening. A Great Victory

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less. I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

For Instant Use

As a reliable remedy, in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, or sudden Colds, and for the prompt relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." John H. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equal to

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

for the prompt relief of throat and lung diseases peculiar to children. I consider it an absolute cure for all such affections, and am never without it in the house." Mrs. L. E. Herman, 187 Mercer st., Jersey City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral useful in my family." R. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Stickler, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of a severe lung affection, supposed to be Quick Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. Breckenridge, Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and, wherever I go, am always sure to have a bottle of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

MISSION MEETING.

The annual meeting of the New Hampshire Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Mission Board of the Protestant Episcopal church was held in this city on Tuesday, there being present, besides delegates from nearly all the churches in the state, the rectors of the Episcopal churches in Dover, Salmon Falls and Wolfeborough. Services were held in St. John's church at 10:45 A. M., Rt. Rev. W. J. Boone, missionary bishop of China, delivering a sermon; Rev. Mr. Hovey, the rector, and Rev. Alfred Elwyn of Philadelphia, assisted at the services, and the singing was by the choir chapter of St. John's guild. The church was very handsomely and tastefully decorated with flowers for the occasion.

At the close of the service adjournment was taken to the Peirce mansion on Haymarket square, where at one o'clock lunch was served, a number of young ladies of St. John's parish officiating as table attendants. About seventy persons partook of the banquet, which was followed by a business meeting, at which the reports of the secretaries of the missionary societies of the several churches throughout the state were read, and an address was given by Miss Emery of New York, secretary of the general board.

After the meeting the delegates and other visitors inspected Christ church, the chapel and other points of interest, until it was time to take the evening trains for home.

ISLES OF SHOALS NOTES.

The steamer Oceanic took out quite a large party to the Shoals on Tuesday, including an excursion of ladies and gentlemen from Great Falls. The trip to and from the islands, with a ramble of an hour or two over the rocks, is as pleasant now as at any time this season.

A slightly erroneous impression prevails in regard to the closing of the Oceanic, on Star island, from the fact of the landing-stage of the Pinafore having been removed on the 4th inst. The Oceanic, after the most successful season in its history, will probably close on Saturday next. The engagements for this hotel next season are far in excess of any other year of record at so early a date.

The Appledore will probably remain open till the middle of the month.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

The three ships of the North Atlantic squadron now at the navy yard are well represented on our streets evenings by "liberty men," who are well appearing and generally well behaved.

There's "a pretty state of things" in Charlestown over the work in the navy yard. Naval Constructor Webb received instructions from Washington recently to proceed with the repairs authorized by Congress on the receiving ship Wabash. Some sixty to seventy men were to be employed, and the news was very grateful to the democratic laborers of the district. They assumed that, as this is a democratic administration, the work would go to democrats, and they at once besieged their leaders for letters of recommendation to Constructor Webb. The letters were freely given, and loyal democrats, devoutly thanking Secretary Whitney and Congressman Lovering for their kind forethought, awaited their summons to the government service. Yesterday was the day for work to begin, and the bosses and the men were beside themselves with rage to find that their recommendations were disregarded, and that the old republican workmen were summoned back to the yard. "It is to all intents and purposes a republican yard today," said the young secretary of the democratic district committee. To add to the discomfiture of the democrats it was given out that Constructor Webb had been transferred to this yard about a year ago at the request of Congressman Lovering, and that he was requiting him by appointing Lodge men and active working republicans to their old places. The air was blue in certain parts of Charlestown yesterday with the imprecations called down by democratic workingmen.—Boston Post, 7th inst.

The boys of the United States training ship New Hampshire, at Newport, R. I., were reviewed on Monday by Commodore P. C. Johnson, commandant of the Portsmouth navy yard. Rear Adm. Luce, commanding the North Atlantic squadron, and the officers attached to the flagship Tennessee and to the naval war college, witnessed the exercises.

THE ROBERTS-GARDNER CIRCUS.

Of this organization, which is to exhibit in this city on Thursday afternoon and evening, Sept. 9th, the Portland Press of the 7th says:

The Nick Roberts-Gardner circus gave two performances Monday, containing many fine and novel features which quite captivated the audiences. The circus has with it some well trained performers. The ring riding is particularly good, and well worth seeing. The bare-back jockey act was done without a slip, and Mildred Gardner, with her trained horse Peacock, showed herself to be a perfect master of the spirited animal. Frank A. Gardner drew forth great applause by his leaping, which is one of the strongest features of the show. The trapeze acts were exciting, and the two contortionists turned into all sorts of shapes with the greatest ease. One good thing about the performance were the new jokes of the clown, which were received with great appreciation. As a whole the performance is more than worth what is charged to see it, and is deserving of good audiences.

Twenty-five and 10ct. Circus Sept. 9.

During the twenty-one years the Black Crook has held the stage it has been produced in a variety of forms, but the great original it is said never was presented, even in its palmiest days, with such careful attention to detail and elaboration as it will receive here when given by Moulton & Baker's aggregation of stars. It opens at Music hall on Thursday evening.

Gardner the Leaper Sept. 9.

The annual meeting of the Jennings Machine Co. was held in this city on the 7th inst. The board of directors of last year were re-elected, as follows: William A. Russell, John A. Brown, S. S. Sprague, Albert C. Howard, Thomas S. Nowell, Charles F. Fairbanks and Henry N. Bigelow.

Mrs. John G. Moses has gone on a trip to the west, to spend several weeks.

Ex-Gov. Smyth and wife were at the Rockingham on Tuesday.

Following the example of the chief magistrate of the nation, City Clerk Goodrich has gone on a vacation beyond the reach of telegrams. In the meantime City Messenger Gardner is very acceptably fulfilling the duties of the city clerk's office.

Between 6:30 and 7:00 o'clock Tuesday morning Vaughan and Bridge streets were thronged with people carrying overcoats, shawls, baskets and umbrellas, and all going one way. They were mountain-bound excursionists, going to the railroad station to take the Boston & Maine special train for Fabyan's.

Prof. James Parsons has left his seaside cottage at Little Boar's Head for his country place at St. Albans, Vt.

Ex-Gov. Bell and Mr. Merrill of Exeter closed their cottages at Little Boar's Head for the season, this week.

The annual "ladies day" of the New Hampshire club will be held to-day at the Hotel Wentworth, Newcastle, the banquet taking place at one o'clock P. M., and a hop being given in the evening, the orchestra having been retained until this occasion for that special purpose.

A dance is to be given in the south wardroom on Thursday evening, 9th inst., under the management of Mr. James T. Adams. All well conducted persons will be welcomed.

Our citizens are to have a choice of literary entertainments on Thursday evening—circus, Black Crook, and colored people's ball, all the same evening.

Mr. Samuel Lamprey, whose ability and faithfulness as an instructor in dancing and deportment is a matter of personal knowledge with a large proportion of the best dancers, old and young, in the city, in another column announces the opening on the 18th inst. of his school for young ladies, masters and misses. The german and minuet, and the new dance, "The York," will be taught, and the school will close with a ball. For terms, etc., see advertisement.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never-failing cure for its incidental to summer, and for cholera morbus, bowel and chills.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, produce the circulation to be interrupted by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for are constantly prevalent throughout Burmah. When there is much sickness about one often sees the river full of little lights floating down it. It is a custom of the Burmese to place a light in a tiny raft, sometimes with a live pigeon inside, and float it down the river. If the light continues as long as they can watch, they take it as a sign that the sick person will recover; if, on the contrary, it goes out, that he will die. I have sometimes seen the river full of these little lights sailing down.—Burmah Cor. New York Star.

Abraham Lincoln in the Saddle.

I saw him this morning about 8:30 coming to business, riding on Vermont avenue, near L street. He always has a company of twenty-five or thirty cavalry, with sabers drawn and held upright over their shoulders. The party makes no great show in uniforms or horses. Mr. Lincoln, on the saddle, generally rides a good-sized, easy-going gray horse, is dressed in plain black, somewhat rusty and dusty; wears a black stiff hat, and looks about as ordinary in attire, etc., as the commonest man. A lieutenant, with yellow straps, rides at his left, and following behind, two by two, come the cavalrymen in their yellow striped jackets. They are generally going at a slow trot, as that is the pace set them by the one they wait upon. The sabers and accoutrements clank, and the entirely unornamented cortege as it trots toward Lafayette Square arouses no sensation, only some curious stranger stops and gazes. I see very plainly Abraham Lincoln's dark brown face, with the deep cut lines, the eyes, etc., always to me with a deep latent sadness in the expression. We have got so that we always exchange bows, and very cordial ones.—Walt Whitman's Extract from Note Book.

The Only Pure Italian.

At Florence and in the vicinity, but more especially at Siena, it is said that one hears the best—that is to say, the only pure—Italian spoken in Italy. It is the veritable language of Dante, characterized by long and sonorous words, which, as they tumble from the mouths of garcons and chambermaids, astonish the visitor who has some knowledge of the native tongue. If he is untaught in that respect, as is the case with a majority of the visitors, this wonderful purity of speech, which in France is only remarked in the valley of the Loire, near Tours, Saumur and Angers, and in England certainly not in London, is sadly wasted on him. He may prefer to study the wines which are offered him at the cafes, such as Chianti, Montepulciano, Red Muscat, Alcatico, Dolcepiccanti and Verdea, or he can have the sonorous Tuscan poured over him by the waiter at the same time that he pours the rich red Chianti down his throat.—Italy Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

Sarah Mayne, a young nurse in a Philadelphia family stopping at Bar Harbor, went boating on Sunday night, 5th inst., with Andrew Leighton, steward of the yacht Ianthe, and did not return. Leighton was found on one of the Porcupine islands late that night, alone, and said that the boat overturned while some distance from land, and he swam ashore, leaving the girl clinging to the boat. Foul play was suspected, and Leighton was arrested. The body of the girl had not been found up to the 8th inst.

The Dover Democrat says the meteor that was seen in that city, and by many persons in Portsmouth and the surrounding towns, Monday evening of this week, "fell near Alton with a report like a cannon. People rushed out of their houses scared almost to death. Some thought the earthquakes of the south were going to pay them a visit. It was hard work to convince some that there was no danger."

When we Demoralize the Stomach By excesses or imprudence in eating, we cannot hope to escape the consequences for any great length of time. The most robust digestion much succumb to abuses of that important function. But supposing that we have been foolish enough to enfeeble the stomach, is the damage irreparable? By no means. The dyspeptic has only to do two things to insure his ultimate recovery. First, he should adopt an easily digestible diet. Second, he should use with regularity and persistence Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the leading gastric invigorant of the age. The multiform symptoms of dyspepsia, and the almost invariably attendant disorders, biliousness and constipation, will assuredly cease to persecute the sufferer if the above advice is attended to. Who that has suffered the torments that chronic indigestion inflicts will neglect to take advantage of a remedy which, if the most positive evidence of the medical profession and the public is to be received with due credence, is an absolute specific for the complaint.

It is understood that at the national convention of the Knights of Labor at Richmond, Va., next month, changes in the present laws will be made that will amount practically to a complete reorganization of the order. I Had Faith.

About six months ago I was advised to consult Mrs. Hall, the great Spiritualist doctor, to see if she could cure me of scrofula, from which I have suffered from childhood. She said if I would have faith in the medicine she gave me, that she could cure me. I took her medicine, and in less than three months I was cured. Why, the way the medicine worked was a miracle. I begged of her to tell me what the medicine was made of, but she said she could not do so. Finally she told me the medicine was Sulpher Bitters, and that she never knew it to fail in all such cases as mine.—Mrs. Clara Knowlton, 35 Hanover street, Boston, Mass.

A THOUGHT.

It beats against the bars of speech,
With dumb, pathetic pleading to be free;
To stand in kingly garb of words,
That all the world may share its majesty.

But when the bars swing back, and forth
It steps outside the gates—lo! what stands here?
A king perchance, but clothed in beggar's rags
Instead of gold and purple kings should wear.

THE DIVINING ROD'S VIRTUES.

A Peculiar Symbol of the Magician's Craft—Its Efficacy.

The report comes from Michigan that some local celebrity has found a marvelous rod that is not only a sure detector of water and metal, but will indicate almost anything desired to be known. From Kansas comes the information that seventeen counties in that state possesses veritable madstones, all of which have been severely and accurately tested and proved to be of great virtue. All this would seem to indicate that the reign of superstition and the influence of divination has not yet departed even in this practical age.

The rod has always been a peculiar symbol of the magician's craft, and the agency by which occult power is manifested and worked out. Even in Holy Scripture it is employed constantly in this way. Moses wrought his miracles before Pharaoh by means of a rod which had been sanctioned as an emblem of divine commission. It is said, too, that Aaron's rod was an oracle in the settlement of the contest with the princes, and when, after his death, it was laid up in the Jewish ark, it budded and brought forth almonds. The Egyptian and Assyrian astrologers and magi all are represented in ancient sculpture as having peculiarly shaped rods, with which they divined and prophesied. Among the Greeks and the Romans the same thing is evident, while the more savage nations of Europe held the sacred wand in great repute and reverence. Tacitus tells that the ancient Germans used the rod constantly in all places of battle or conquest, and that they also divined the future much in the same way. "For this purpose," he says, "their method is simple. They cut a rod off some fruit tree into bits, and after having distinguished them them by various marks, they cast them in a white cloth, then the priest draws each piece and explains the oracle according to the marks."

In the middle ages the use of the divining rod was universal and was sanctioned by many dignitaries of church and state. It was believed to have perfect efficacy for the discovery of hidden treasure, veins of precious metals, springs of water, and especially for the discovery of criminals guilty of theft or murder.

During the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, when the Jesuits were the chief scholars of Europe, there were many treatises extant devoted to the discussion of the merits and claims of these magic wands. In 1659 the Jesuit Gaspard Schott affirms that the rod was in constant use in every town in Germany, and that he had very frequently seen it used in the actual discovery of hidden treasure.—Chicago Herald.

Some Startling Figures.

A minister in this city gave utterance to the following remarkable assertion recently during a Sunday morning sermon: "In 1850 the number of insane in the population of the United States was at the rate of 1 in 1,500; in 1860 it was 1 in 1,200; in 1870 it was 1 in 1,000, and in 1880 it was 1 in 550."

Your correspondent showed these figures to Dr. Matthew D. Field, a local expert. Dr. Field thought the stated proportion of insane to the total population was certainly exaggerated. Being asked what the proportion is in New York city he figured with a pencil for a minute, and then said, looking somewhat puzzled: "Why, its about 1 in 200. I guess those figures are not so far off, after all."

"Dr. Hammond said: "Read that extract in this way and you'll have the right idea: 'In 1850 the known insane in the United States numbered 1 in 1,500; in 1860 there were found 1 in 1,200; in 1870 there were discovered an average of 1 in 1,000, and in 1880 diligent search brought to light 1 in 550.' I do not believe that insanity shows any such increase, but the drag-net is abroad, and everybody is on the lookout for cranks." St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

What Is a Cayuse?

If the camel is the "ship of the desert," the cayuse is the yacht of the prairies. He is not for a pack, but a passenger. He is at the door, and I am ready for the ride. It is a May morning. The air is crystal. The forests are fresh. The birds are mirthful. The journey is inviting. It is to be a gallop through eastern Washington—the newest northwest. I make my mount at the door of a friend, a dozen miles south of Spokane Falls. I vault upon the back of a saddled something. What is it? A cayuse. What is a cayuse? An angel if humored—a devil if resisted—a blockhead—a Machiavelli. I saw hundreds of him. I talked with many men about him. I fed him, and rode him, and studied him, but never could find him out. His origin is lost in antiquity—his reputation is the same. His name is not in our largest dictionary, nor his pedigree in any standard work I have seen. In descent he may be a degenerate of the English

Earthquakes.

There was a shock of earthquake in Contoocook, N. H., about eight o'clock in the evening, Sept. 7th, which was felt by many persons. The shock rocked buildings and was felt several seconds. In many cases people living close by heard and felt nothing. Just before the shock a very brilliant meteor was seen in the east, apparently a foot in diameter and lighting the sky like a flash of electricity.

Slight shocks were felt in Charleston, and in Augusta, Ga., on the 7th, but they were so feeble as hardly to create alarm. A much smarter shock was felt in Savannah, but it did no damage.

The relief committees in Charleston are getting well to work, and the papers and leading men talk hopefully.

The federal government has issued a warrant of $2,000 for the repair of government buildings in Charleston injured by the earthquakes; and the navy department has offered to supply canvas, provided private means is provided for making it into tents for sheltering the houseless, the department having no tents, and no money to apply to such use.

The International Races.

The official time of the first race between the sloop Mayflower, the "New Flying Yankee," as she is called, and the cutter Galatea, over the New York yacht club's inside course on Tuesday, Sept. 7th, was as follows, the "turn" being at the Sandy Hook lightship:

	Start.	Turn.	Finish.
	h. m. s.	h. m. s.	h. m. s.
Mayflower	10 36 12	2 33 13	4 22 33
Galatea	10 36 11	2 44 13	4 33 33

	Sailing Time.	Corrected Time.
	h. m. s.	h. m. s.
Mayflower	5 26 41	5 26 41
Galatea	5 29 21	5 38 43

Thus the Mayflower, without time allowance, beat the Galatea twelve minutes and forty seconds, but having to give the Galatea thirty-eight seconds time allowance, according to the measurement rules of the New York yacht club, which favors the cutter build, this lead is reduced to twelve minutes and two seconds, quite enough to keep the cup in this country for a while longer.

The British sporting papers have claimed that the cutter Irex, acknowledged to be their fastest boat, is five minutes quicker than the Galatea in a forty-mile race; but even this would have left the Irex seven minutes astern at the finish of Tuesday's race.

The second race of the international series takes place to-day, twenty miles to windward (or leeward) and return, from Sandy Hook lightship. A big breeze is hoped for by yachtsmen, the first race having been sailed in light weather throughout.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Sept. 8, '86.

A brilliant wedding came off at the residence of James W. Brooks, Esq., on Tuesday evening, the 7th, the contracting parties being William L. Fernald and Miss Lillian A. Brooks, both of Kittery. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Francis Grovenor. Fifty guests were present most of whom were relatives and connections, excepting two or three intimate friends. The bride was attired in pure white, looking as sweet and fair as her namesake, the lily, and spoke well for the good taste of the noble looking groom. The attendants performed gracefully and charmingly the duties assigned them. The bridesmaid, a handsome brunette, was dressed in lavender silk, the arms and neck being relieved by soft lace. The groomsman, like the groom, was attired in regulation black—fine specimens of manhood these twin brothers. We can only give a hint in a brief article of the general effect of artistic decorations; contrasting shades and colors in dress, tables loaded with the highest achievements of the cuisine art; presents, many and valuable articles to use, and articles to beautify the new home; and floating through each room delicious fragrance like sweet incense offered upon the family altar. The happy couple left on the first train Wednesday morning for a short trip in eastern Maine.

Dr. Walter E. Fernald, first assistant physician at the Wisconsin State Insane Asylum, is visiting his home in North Kittery.

Dr. Clinton Fernald, son of Constructor Frank Fernald, U. S. N., of Washington, D. C., has been making a short visit among relatives here.

Mrs. Mary J. West commenced to teach the fall term of school in district No. 12, Monday, the 6th inst.

The Free High school commenced its fall term Monday, the 6th inst. The following scholars from the several districts in town were admitted: Clifford Muchmore, dist. No. 2; Samuel Carter, dist. No. 3; Annie J. Rogers, Katie Pinkham, and Annie Pray, dist. No. 7; Bertha Neal, Ida F. Phillips, Gracie A. Norton, Jennie Anderson, Winfred Bunker, dist. No. 9; and Mary Weitzen, dist. No. 12.

Quarterly conference of the 1st and 2d Methodist societies was held on the 5th and 6th insts. Presiding Elder Rev. W. S. Jones preached at the 1st church Sunday and Monday evenings. SUB ROSA.

In Boston on the 8th inst. Eastern railroad stock sold at 88 1-2; Portland, Saco & Portsmouth at 130 1-2; and Boston & Maine at 202.

An erolite of large size was observed on Tuesday evening, the 7th inst., moving from the southwest; it burst in the upper atmosphere, apparently over Eliot neck, and the scintillations were scattered over a large area.

About half-past six o'clock in the morning on the 8th inst. three seamen belonging to one of the vessels of the North Atlantic squadron went overboard in the dock at the foot of Daniel street through the careening of their boat, and were in danger of being drowned, but were rescued by Robert Anderson, watchman at the navy landing, and Samuel Jones. "Bob" has fished enough people out of the water during his many years' service there to entitle him to a gold medal from some of the humane societies.

Mr. Benjamin Seaward of Kittery Point fell overboard from his wherry when starting for home from this city on Wednesday morning of this week, through making a misstep. A wetting was the only harm done.

Hundreds of families in Portsmouth and vicinity attest the value of Preston's Elixir. It is certainly one of the most reliable and efficacious remedies for summer troubles ever known. Have you tried Preston's Jamaica Ginger?

The schooner yacht Widgeon, Capt. Wattles, of Boston, put into the harbor and anchored off Cold-fox point, Newcastle, late Wednesday afternoon.

We are informed that some of the horses used at a brick yard on the northerly side of Sturgeon creek, Eliot, are in a pitable condition; great holes, in which one can place a hand, are to be seen in their shoulders; yet, suffering as they are, they are forced to work out their miserable existence.

Hon. Henry W. Blair of New Hampshire delivered a political address at Berwick on Monday evening to a large gathering of people.

Mr. W. H. Clifford, the democratic candidate for Congress in the first district of Maine against Hon. Thomas B. Reed, on Thursday evening of last week delivered an address in North Berwick, in the course of which he said: "And the laboring and lower classes, those people who labor for their bread, have seen reason, somehow or other, within the last few years to form combinations and associations for their mutual protection, and to demand that this government be just to them." The republican papers of the district are keeping the phrase, "The laboring and lower classes, those people who labor for their bread," before their readers in all the glory of italics and "caps."

Dr. E. F. Severance, a prominent physician of Limerick, Me., is dead.

MARRIED.

As a reliable remedy, in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, or sudden Colds, and for the prompt relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." John H. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equal to

AYER'S
Cherry Pectoral

for the prompt relief of throat and lung diseases peculiar to children. I consider it an absolute cure for all such affections, and am never without it in the house." Mrs. L. E. Herman, 187 Mercer st., Jersey City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral useful in my family." B. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Stickler, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of a severe lung affection, supposed to be Quick Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. Breckenridge, Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and, wherever I go, am always sure to have a bottle of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

THE ROBERTS-GARDNER CIRCUS.

The circus exhibits on the Middle street circus ground in this city to-day, afternoon and evening, at 25 cts. admission for adults, children 10 cts. That the show is a good one, and not merely a good one for the price, is strongly asserted by our exchanges in cities where it has exhibited. The Boston Globe said of it, while there:

The circus in Park square is one of the most interesting and enjoyable ever offered in Boston. Nothing better in its line has been seen here. The lady riders are excellent, the dog and cat show attractive, and the clowns really funny. The pavilion should be crowded as long as the Nick Roberts-Gardner show remains.

The Boston Herald said of it:

This show has heretofore been commended, and the longer it remains here the better the impression it creates and the larger the audiences which daily crowd the tent. The surprise to those who have seen these performances is how the managers can afford to give so much that is really excellent in its way at such low prices. The fact that the managers have been able to remain here in one place so long and thus save travelling expenses, may have much to do with the prices charged.

Afternoon performance commences at two o'clock; evening performance at eight. See advertisement.

MUSIC HALL.

This evening, at Music hall, Moulton & Baker's company will present the famous spectacular entertainment, the Black Crook, with a large quantity of new and splendid special scenery, gorgeous dresses, ingenious and beautiful transformations, a large and accomplished corps de ballet, and all the other accessories required for its brilliant production. See advertisement.

BIBLE SOCIETY MEETING.

The 25th annual meeting of the East Rockingham Bible Society will be held in the Congregational church at Epping on Friday, Sept. 24th, the exercises commencing at 9:30 A. M. with a brief address by the president, Hon. John J. Bell of Exeter. During the forenoon exercises Rev. C. R. Crossett of this city will open the topic "How develope love for the Bible in Christians?" and in the afternoon Rev. O. H. Jasper, D. D., of this city, will speak on "Aids in Bible study." At 4:15 P. M. there will be a children's meeting, led by Rev. O. S. Baketel. There will be a basket collation at noon, tea and coffee being provided by friends of the cause in Epping.

ISLES OF SHOALS NOTES.

The Newburyport and Haverhill steamer E. P. Shaw visited the island on Tuesday with a large party.

New spar buoys for steamer moorings have just been made at Appledore. Most of the heavy sailboats have been taken from the water, and placed in winter quarters.

The principal portion of the executive departments in both hotels will remain essentially the same as during the present season.

And now I think the Messrs. Laightons must come under the head of nautical farmers. They keep ten milch cows, and cut five tons of hay, importing twenty tons from foreign countries (the United States.) On Star island they cut enough hay to feed all the stock thereon.

Sunday afternoon, the 5th inst., two fishermen attempted to land on the west side of White island, when a sea struck the dory, breaking both oars and turning the dory bottom up. Mrs. Grogan, the keeper's wife, hearing their cries for help called Mr. Tarlton, the assistant keeper, who launched his dory and went to their rescue, and succeeded in picking them up and taking them to their vessel. They were very much exhausted when reached, and said they could not have kept up much longer. Capt. Grogan, the keeper, was absent at the time, getting out a load of coal from Portsmouth. N. F.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION.

The democratic convention of Rockingham county, for the nomination of candidates for county officers to be supported at the polls, was held at the court house in this city on Wednesday forenoon, the 8th inst., assembling at eleven o'clock.

The meeting was called to order by Dr. J. C. Eastman of Hampstead, and organized by the election of J. Warren Towle of Exeter as president and Walter H Page as secretary. Messrs. George E. Hodgdon of this city, Levi Taylor of Salem and George H. Young of Exeter were appointed as a committee on credentials. Dr. J. C. Eastman of Hampstead, Dr. Chas. A. Morse of Newmarket, Dana C. Healey of Raymond, Michael Crowley of this city and N. H. Robie of Hampton Falls were made a committee on resolutions.

The report of the committee on credentials that 26 towns were represented by 72 delegates was accepted and adopted. It was voted to proceed to ballot for a candidate for sheriff. James H. Rowe of Brentwood, George Marston of Hampstead and Michael Crowley of Portsmouth were appointed as tellers.

horse, as the mustang is of the Spanish. He is the Indian among horses.

Every Indian on the Spokane plateau has his cayuse, as every Bedouin in the orient has his Arab. They are personal friends, and equals in all things. They have a common bed and board, and common aims in life. To eat, to drink, and to have their own way—these are the be-all and end-all of their existence. But to be specific; my mount is an iron-gray—weight, 700 pounds—black eyes and banged forestop—ears notched into four points—strong, stocky. "How far will he carry me in a day?" I ask. "As far as you can ride him," answers the owner. Then comes a volley of facts about neighbors who have ridden cayuses seventy miles a day for ten days at a stretch. "What shall I feed him?" "When you stop, picket him out on the bunch-grass." "Does he buck?" "Very cayuse bucks." "Does he bite?" Of course he bites." "Kick?" "Kicks!" I have learned enough to start on—although I have found my Strongbow (for so I named the cayuse after the first mile) was somewhat better than his reputation.—Overland Monthly.

Rich Men's Sons at Harvard.

A great deal has been said lately about the prevalence of rich men's sons at Harvard, and the prodigal use they make of money, to the annoyance and humiliation of poor students. A Boston paper, which has taken pains to inquire into the matter, declares that the facts have been much exaggerated; that not more than 10 per cent. of the students are what would be called rich. At least 30 per cent. of them are so inequitably poor as to be compelled to observe the closest economy. The remainder are young men of moderate means, whose annuel expenses, including vacations and clothes, are comprised between $600 and $1,000.

Even those classed as rich live, it says, without luxury or ostentation. The few who spend lavishly are urged to do so by their parents, who are responsible for their worst vices and folly. It is denied that the silly rich students have great influence over the rest; they are apt, indeed, to be disesteemed and avoided, unless they have redeeming traits, when they, naturally, often make themselves liked. It is also denied that the presence of rich young men at college renders the lot of poor young students harder to bear. No youth of healthful mind, it is alleged, is so affected, and there is no place where character and ability are so certain to be discovered and appreciated as in a great university.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

A deposit of blood agate has been discovered near Cisco, Utah. It covers a territory three miles square.

The oldest collection of pressed plants now extant, or partially so, are those of Aldrovandi, begun about 1553, and containing at least 5,000 specimens; of Girault, of Lyons, dated 1558; and Cesalpin, dated 1653. The collections are now in Bologna, Paris, and Florence.—Arkansaw Traveler.

In drawing $15,000 in The Louisiana State Lottery. He is a prosperous farmer of Willow Grove, this county, and before the June drawing something seemed to tell him that he should invest then, which he did by a couple of dollars, and in due time received tickets, one, No. 18,145, entitled him to one-tenth of the Capital Prize of $15,000, and which amount he has received through the Bank of Ravenswood, W. Va., from M. A. Danphin, New Orleans, La.—Ravenswood (W. Va.) News, July 21st.

Cure of Liver Complaint.

Iowa Falls, Harding Co., Iowa, June 8, 1885. I have been using Allcock's Porous Plasters for four years, and think I could not get along without them. For a long time I was afflicted with a pain under my right shoulder blade; I also had considerable difficulty in breathing. I applied an Allcock's Porous Plaster on my back, and one on my chest. I kept changing them every four days, and at the end of three weeks was entirely cured. E. S. Stevens.

Captain McQuinn of the Gloucester schooner Druid says his vessel was not seized at Malpeque, as was sometime ago reported.

I Am An Old Man.

Shall be 79 years of age next June, and for the last six years have suffered from general debility and old age. At times I could not get out of bed without help. I commenced to take Sulphur Bitters. In a week I felt stronger and got a mighty fine appetite. I still continued their use, and to-day I walked over three miles without feeling tired, something I haven't done in five years before. Sulphur Bitters is a right smart medicine.—George Brown, Keokuk, Iowa.

Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me by my druggist as a preventative to hay fever. Have been using it as directed since the 9th of August and have found it a specific for that much dreaded and loathsome disease. For ten years or more I have been a great sufferer each year, from August 9th till frost, and have tried many alleged remedies for its cure, but Ely's Cream Balm is the only preventative I have ever found. Hay Fever sufferers ought to know of its efficacy. F. B. Ainsworth, of F. B. Ainsworth & Co., Publishers, Indianapolis, Ind.

Samuel J. Randall is afflicted with his own enemy, charitably denominated the gout.

"I was all run down, and Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the medicine I needed," write hundreds of people. Take it now.

The highest birth rate in the United States is in the south. In Louisiana there are 148 children born each year to every 1,000 women of child-bearing age; 156 in Georgia, and 187 in Texas. In New England the rate is eighty-two to each 1,000 women, and in the west about 122.

We know of no mode of treatment which offers, to sufferers from chronic diseases, a more certain hope than that which is comprehended in the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. For purifying and invigorating the blood, the preparation is unequaled.

Encouragement for the Feeble.

So long as the failing embers of vitality are capable of being re-kindled into a warm and genial glow, just so long there is hope for the weak and emaciated invalid. Let him not, therefore, despond, but derive encouragement from this, and from the further fact that there is a restorative most potent in renewing the dilapidated powers of a broken down system. Yes, thanks to its unexampled tonic virtues, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is daily reviving strength in the bodies and hope in the minds of the feeble and nervous. Appetite, refreshing sleep, the acquisition of flesh and color, are blessings attendant upon the reparative processes which this priceless invigorant speedily initiates and carries to a successful conclusion. Digestion is restored, the blood fertilized, and sustenance afforded to each life-sustaining organ by the Bitters, which is inoffensive even to the feminine palate, vegetable in composition, and thoroughly safe. Use it, and regain vigor!

In many cases the comments contain pertinent citations from opinons of the attorney-general of the United States relating to the equities of pensions.

I Had Faith.

About six months ago I was advised to consult Mrs. Hall, the great Spiritualist doctor, to see if she could cure me of scrofula, from which I have suffered from childhood. She said if I would have faith in the medicine she gave me, that she could cure me. I took her medicine, and in less than three months I was cured. Why, the way the medicine worked was a miracle. I begged of her to tell me what the medicine was made of, but she said she could not do so. Finally she told me the medicine was Sulpher Bitters, and that she never knew it to fail in all such cases as mine.—Mrs. Clara Knowlton, 35 Hanover street, Boston, Mass.

RURAL LIFE IN CEYLON.

A Planter's Experience—Not Hard Work—The Bothersome Porcupine.

A young planter from the slope of "The Knuckles" lately gave us the pleasure of his company. The Knuckles, 6,000 feet high, are thus named because from a distant point, my verandah, for instance, the ridge appears to be a row of regular peaks which shape the horizon like the knuckles of a human fist. This planter has been in Ceylon eight years and four months, The four months elapsed immediately after his entrance into a world of experiment; then he passed eighteen years in England, and the next eight years on these mountains. This embodiment of British brain and brainy energy has charge of 1,000 cultivated acres. They lie up and down rather than around his "Knuckle:" therefore at different heights he raises the different sorts of plants adapted to the locality, tea being largely the chief, and for its profits it is just at this moment the plant of the future, all outlay and no income. He is putting up large machinery, and when the estates are working properly and flourishingly, three or four years hence, his 1,000 acres which now require 400 laborers will employ two persons to each acre, i. e., 2,000 men, women and children. Children can pick tea leaves, and the toddling tot minds the creeping baby—a creation which exists in every Tamil family.

The Tamils are not dying out, though they are of the Dravidian, the oldest of old peoples; from a hardy antiquity they survive in very vital condition. Looking at their slender figures and little feet, who would suppose that they were to bear the heavy burdens of life! But the farming here is not so muscular a work as it is in Illinois. It is more a gardening, a plant culture. But Tamile shoulders the planter's "box" (trunk) with the lifting strength of an Italian porter, and more than of the weakened Irishman on May-day in New York, who groans under baggage and bangs it down at the new residence, and demands extra money for the weight.

The heathen do not so. They give a smile instead of a groan, and are glad of the opportunity to work. Tamils are neither Aryan nor African, but seem to have as much vital vim as the Aryan; black as negroes, they have none of the African physiognomy except the color. While we were eating banana fritters and the other good things that form the festive tropic dinner, the planter told how his uppermost field, made of virgin earth, run up into the original jungle that never had been molested since Adam and Buddha left their tread marks on this classic island. Buddha's on the Alu Wihar bolders that fell to the foot of the Matale hills, the leading points in the landscape now before my eye, while the foot-print of our gardener-parent is (said to be) on that "Adams Peak," whence, immediately after the fall and the curse, in deep meditation he looked over this blossoming island.

The planter told what an amazing incursion of porcupines he is just now contending with. The hungry little hog having fierce and frightful quills from ears to tail, with only an undefended nose, roots up and devours all the vegetable food that lies in his way, and has admirable taste in the selection of garden stuff. The planter's adjoining neighbor, i. e., the next knuckle of the range, is not only a planter, but a loving student of botany and zoology, which he has in that situation excellent opportunities of pursuing. Too good, he thought, when lately confusion and broken pottery reigned over the length and breadth of his verandah. The porcupine knocked over his choice flower-pots; the blossoms which diffused fragrance through his bungalo, the tender leaves he had nursed into development, were snipped off as fine edibles by this ravaging and gustatory beast. Porcu, pork; pine, spine or prickle—a hog of thorns.

The jungle-cock was a creature which the planter discoursed enthusiastically. The domestic bird that supplies Europe and America with eggs, the barn-yard fowl, is in his native country and original state in Ceylon. He breeds no improvement by crossing. The jungle-cock the planter described as being a prince in his way, admirable, beautiful.

The peacock is here also in native land. At Anurajapura, a famous city of Ceylon's ancient ruins, a peacock's feathered skin, from beak to tail inclusive, can be bought for $10 (30 rupees). Anurajapura more than 1,000 years ago was the center of civilization. Now it is the center of jungle.

Talmage on Summer Religion.

It takes more grace to be an earnest and useful Christian in summer than in any other season. The very destitute, through lack of fuel and thick clothing, may find the winter the trying season, but those comfortably circumstanced find summer the Thermopylæ that tests their Christian courage and endurance.

The spring is suggestive of God and heaven and a resurrection day. That eye must be blind that does not see God's footsteps in the new grass, and hear His voice in the call of the swallow at the eaves. In the white blossoms of the orchards we find suggestion of those whose robes have been made white in the blood of the Lamb. A May morning is a door opening into heaven. So autumn mothers a great many moral and religious suggestions. The season of corn-husking, the gorgeous woods that are becoming the catafalque of the dead year, remind the dullest of his own fading and departure. But summer fatigues and weakens, and no man keeps his soul in as desirable frame, unless by positive resolution and especial implorations.

"LIEBIG CO'S COCA BEEF TONIC should not be confounded with the hordes of trashy cure alls. It is in no sense of the word a patent remedy. I am thoroughly conversant with its mode of preparation and know it to be not only a legitimate pharmaceutical product, but also worthy of the high commendations it has received in all parts of the world. It contains essence of Beef, Coca, Quinine, Iron and Calisaya, which are dissolved in pure genuine Spanish Imperial Crown Sherry."

A Wonderful STRENGTHENER

Prof. Powell's preliminary reports show that the land area of the earthquake was 900,000 square miles, or one-third of the total area of the United States; the shock traversed this distance in fifteen minutes.

Why is it

That the sale of Hood's Sarsaparilla continues at such a rapidly increasing rate? It is,—1st: Because of the positive curative value of Hood's Sarsaparilla itself. 2d: Because of the conclusive evidence of remarkable cures effected by it, unsurpassed and seldom equalled by any other medicine. Send to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass., for book containing many statements of cures.

The republicans carried Vermont by about 18,000 majority. The legislature is overwhelmingly in favor of the re-election of Senator Edmonds.

Royal Library

At Paris has 824,000 volumes, British Museum, London, 700,000; St. Petersburg library, Russia, 505,000; Berlin library, 460,000, but these cannot compare with the volumes that can be spoken in favor of the G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon and Pure Rye Whiskey, that the literary world would accept as the standard stimulant, and your druggist will endorse it as medicinally unequalled, while your grocer will say it is superior to all others. It is bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and is guaranteed.

The International Races.

The second race in the international series was sailed on Thursday, the course being twenty miles to windward from the Scotland lightship, and return. The start was made in a dense fog, with a moderate breeze and heavy sea. The Galatea crossed the starting line first, but was outsailed and outpointed by the Mayflower. The reports received up to evening in this city were meagre and unsatisfactory, except that their general tenor was to the effect that the sloop was beating the cutter. Fog and rain prevailed during the race so that nothing could be seen of it from shore, and there was no inducement for sight-seers to follow the yachts around.

A despatch received by the Chronicle from Boston at 6:35 P. M. said:

Race won by Mayflower. Bad weather. Poor sailing.

This gives the series of races to the Mayflower; but it is a pity one of the two couldn't have been sailed in a spanking breeze.

P. S. A later despatch, from another source, was to the effect that there was no race, the yachts being unable to complete the course within the time limit.

General Paine has announced to Lieut. Henn that he will keep the Mayflower in commission in Marblehead harbor until a gale of wind is blowing and will then race the Galatea across Massachusetts Bay to Cape Cod and return. Lieut. Henn is considering the challenge.

Agricultural Premiums.

At the cattle show and fair of the Bay State Agricultural Society, which will be held in Boston, October 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th, the following special premiums will be awarded, through the liberality of the editor and proprietor of the New England Farmer:

I. A special premium of one hundred dollars ($100), to be divided pro rata among the exhibits of butter, made at any time and place in private farm dairies in New England, which are awarded by the judges ninety points or over on a scale as stated; provided, if there be less than ten such exhibits, the sum thus awarded to each shall be ten dollars.

II. One year's subscription to the New England Farmer is offered as a special premium to every exhibit of butter made at a private farm dairy in New England, which is awarded by the judges eighty points or over, but less than ninety, on the stated scale.

AROUND HOME.

The new fire-alarm box at the corner of Vaughan and Deer streets is now in trim for service, the wires having been connected Thursday morning last.

W. T. Perkins, station agent of the Boston & Maine railroad, in this city, is doing the mountains. During his absence Mr. Goodwin has charge of the freight business, and Mr. Trickey of the passenger business.

Hon. John S. Treat and wife went to the mountains on the 8th inst., for a few days' rest and recreation.

The Oceanic hotel, Star island, closed on Thursday, the 9th inst., having had the best season in its history, and at least as good a season as any summer hotel on the coast. The outlook for next year is more than satisfactory to the management, a very large proportion of the rooms being under engagement to guests of this year, or their friends. The Hotel Wentworth, Newcastle, closed on Thursday, after the departure of the New Hampshire club and their lady friends and invited guests.

The Dover polo team defeated the Portsmouth team at the Dover rink, winning three straight goals, on Tuesday evening, the 7th inst.

At Exeter, on the 5th inst., a meeting of the creditors of Frank Broggi of this city was held. Mr. Broggi presented to the court a composition paper in legal form signed by the requisite number of creditors, and upon paying expenses received a discharge under the assignment law. This is the first case in the state in which a discharge has been secured at the first meeting of the creditors.

President Crowley, of the common council, who it is expected will be the next mayor after Alderman Sinclair's term as chief magistrate expires, was on hand to extend a welcome to the city fathers of Lawrence. Capt. Crowley is never backward in coming forward on occasions like these.

Joseph C. A. Wingate of Exeter, United States consul at Foo Chow, China, has returned home on two months' leave of absence.

The Boston & Maine railroad management has decided to take off the Smith vacuum brake from its passenger cars, and put on the Westinghouse automatic brake. The Eastern division is already supplied with the Westinghouse, and the work of changing the brake on the main line has already begun. It is estimated that this change will cost $35,000, but the advantages derived are considered more than commensurate with the cost of the change.

Misses Elsie Hoffman, Lois Swan, Frances Finkle, Louise Freeland and Ethel Quackenbush, with May Bachelder, daughter of Albert Bachelder, Esq., recently held at Little Boar's Head a successful fair for the benefit of the Fresh-Air fund to give poor children in New York city a chance to taste the country air. An acknowledgement of an addition of the sum of $103 appears in the New York Tribune, which paper originated and successfully carried out this most commendable and successful project.

At the Boston & Maine car shops in South Lawrence, Mass., two new combination baggage and passenger cars are in process of construction, and will be numbered respectively 21 and 31. They will be finished in mahogany, with black walnut trimmings, and be sheathed overhead with ash veneer. The seats will be upholstered with cane. The Westinghouse brake will be used on these cars, and the outside will be painted a light straw color.

It is stated that the general government is blamed for withholding assistance from the sufferers at Charleston. It should be remembered that the general government is out of town enjoying itself in the woods, and is not just now attending to business.

Hundreds of families in Portsmouth and vicinity attest the value of Preston's Elixir. It is certainly one of the most reliable and efficacious remedies for summer troubles ever known. Have you tried Preston's Jamaica Ginger?

The Mutual Life Ins. Co., of N. Y., paid claims during the week ending Sept. 3d, as follows: total death claims $96,444.76; endowments, $29,334.42.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1881 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. PROUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

For Instant Use

As a reliable remedy, in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, or sudden Colds, and for the prompt relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." John H. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equal to

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

for the prompt relief of throat and lung diseases peculiar to children. I consider it an absolute cure for all such affections, and am never without it in the house." Mrs. L. E. Herman, 187 Mercer st., Jersey City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral useful in my family." B. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Stickler, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of a severe lung affection, supposed to be Quick Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. Breckenridge, Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and, wherever I go, am always sure to have a bottle of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

AID FOR CHARLESTON.

CITY OF PORTSMOUTH, N. H. }
Mayor's Office—Sept. 8, 1886. }

All citizens interested in taking measures to aid in relieving the suffering and distress in Charleston, S. C., are respectfully invited to meet at the Common Council room on Friday evening, Sept. 10th, at 7 1-2 o'clock.

M. ELDREDGE, Mayor.

THE BLACK CROOK.

This famous extravaganza, which twenty years or so ago gave its name to a class of spectacular entertainments, and has outlived scores of similar productions which followed it on the stage, was presented at Music hall on Thursday evening by Moulton & Baker's Black Crook Co., a large and well selected organization entirely competent to do the piece justice. There was some very handsome special scenery, and good mechanical effects; beautiful dressess, excellent dancing by a large and splendidly led ballet, feats of agility and suppleness, remarkable sword exercise, musical varieties, vocal and instrumental, ventriloquism, etc., all good, and a gorgeous and beautiful transformation scene at the end; the Herbert brothers, three in number, athletes and contortionists, gave the best exhibition of the kind we ever saw—in itself worth the price of admission. There was a little friction here and there in the running of the piece, but less than might have been expected on a first representation; and the large audience gave liberal tokens of approval throughout the evening, and kept their seats to the close. This evening the entertainment will be repeated, and will no doubt have a full house. It is good enough to deserve it, anyway.

THE ROBERTS-GARDNER CIRCUS.

The circus procession, Thursday, was unique if not extensive, consisting of a very good band in a two-horse barge, followed by a clown in a diminutive wagon, holding a red umbrella over his head and drawn by a Shetland pony. It was first-rate, what there was of it, and answered the purpose of a reminder that a circus was in town.

The show in the tent was good, and in some of its features at least the equal of any of the mammoth concerns. The ring riding was particularly skillful and pleasing; the leaping and trapeze performances were splendidly done, and received with much favor by the audience; the two contortionists turned themselves inside out at will, and the clown was actually funny, and had a lot of new jokes. As a whole the performance merits the liberal support of the circus-going public.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

Julia Carey, on a similar complaint, was fined $3, costs $6.90. Brentwood.

Courtney Varney, who was tried the previous day for drunkenness, and let off on probation, was again before the court for the same offence, and was sent to Brentwood for four months, costs being taxed at $5.76.

ROLAND REED, IN "CHEEK."

A Boston paper speaks of Roland Reed who is to appear at Music hall next Wednesday evening, as follows:

Roland Reed is certainly cheeky from the word go. Cheek oozes out of him at every pore, and there is a placid, gilt-edged audacity in him which is charming in its undisguised sincerity. The play itself is a good and a rollicking one. Natural in its situations, easy in its incidents, smart and sparkling in its dialogues and rich in its never-ending fun, it is a play in which you find lots to amuse, something to profit by and a great deal to remember with pleasure. And Dick Smythe, the Bohemian, the audacious hanger-on of sensational papers, and the blushless representative of irresponsible journalism—what a canvasser he would have made for a highly moral paper. There is something sublime in his cool effrontery and reckless disregard for conventionalities which makes us glad that we have known him and had a good smile over his fire and easy adventures. We feel better for having met a man who should be known by every reporter, tax-collector, deacon and book agent in the country. They'd all be able to get a few pointers out of Dick Smythe.

PRESENTATION.

Mr. Joseph W. Grover, a young man who belongs to the P. S. C. & H. club, having recently taken to himself a wife, the club on Wednesday evening of this week proceeded in a body to his residence on Pleasant street, having with them a very handsome easy chair to present to their associate as a token of their esteem and the good will they bear him and his bride. The occasion was a very agreeable one for all concerned, music aiding social converse in making the evening pass pleasantly, and a nice supper being served.

INDIGNATION.

Our esteemed contemporay, the Times, is indignant because the intimation has been made that repairs upon the naval vessels ordered here are to influence voters in the elections pending in this state and Maine We sympathize with our e. c. It is very hard to bear the harsh criticism of political opponents in such cases. When in former years work has been brisk upon the yard, and the faces of our merchants beamed with smiles as their commodities were exchanged for the shekels earned there, it seemed cruel to be compelled to submit to the accusation that the navy yard was run "for political purposes only." All the same our e. c., and other democratic papers, would persist in saying so. The Times further remarks, "the nearness (next Monday) of the election in Maine shows the absurdity of the charge that they were sent here to influence voters against the re-election of Congressman Reed in the adjacent Maine district." Well, we rather think that is so. But the election in our state is some way off, and a better field is here presented for political endeavor. Shall we suggest that perhaps here the phrase "run for political purposes only" becomes applicable?

A TIRED BABY.

As Mr. George Scott was driving from this city to Newmarket, Tuesday afternoon of this week, when crossing the Concord & Portsmouth railroad in Greenland he glanced up the track, and received quite a start at seeing a little child lying beside the track some distance away, with its head on one of the rails. Not knowing at what moment a train might come along, he left his team and went to the child, and found the little thing, tired out and heated, sound asleep, with its head resting on one hand, and the hand on the rail. When awakened the child was found to be too young to tell its name, but pointed to a house some distance off as its residence, and toddled away in the direction indicated, while Mr. Scott pursued his journey.

GO AWAY WITH YOUR OLD SEA-SERPENT.

The fishermen and steamboat skippers of the Hudson river need not put on airs because their river contains a sea-serpent, and they have seen him. Our little Cocheco not only contains alligators, but the boys catch them. The Dover Republican of the 8th inst. says:

Fred Bassett, a ten-year-old son of Mr. Henry Bassett, residing on St. Thomas street, was, in company with other boys, fishing in the Cocheco river Friday afternoon, just above 4th street bridge, in a little cove in which grass and weeds grow, when, to his surprise a strange looking creature caught hold of his hook and was pulled to the land. The boys never saw such a funny fish before, and hastened to bring him home. It proved to be an alligator nearly a foot in length, and as lively and full of snap as all young alligators are. They keep him in a tub of water and feed him on small fish, of which he is very fond and is a hearty eater. How he came in the river is a mystery; has any one lost one that was sent from Florida? It is said that other small ones have been seen in the river, and one quite large, three or four feet long. The boys have made up their minds not to go in swimming in the vicinity where that alligator was caught, lest there be a "great big" one laying around there ready to nip their toes off.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

Naval Constructor Mintonye, attached to this navy yard, has been ordered to temporary special duty at the Mare island yard, California. He will be absent three or four weeks.

Passed Asst. Engr. William H. Nauman, U. S. N., formerly attached to this navy yard, and one of the officers who volunteered for service on the Greely relief expedition, was in town on Thursday, on his way eastward from Washington.

A Boston paper gives the following as the "true story of the repairing of the Wabash:" "The repairs on the receiving ship Wabash at the Charlestown navy yard have begun, and so far about forty additional men have been added to the force. This number is less than one-half of those who will be employed. For the purpose of overcoming the law, which prevents the hiring of men within sixty days previous to an election, the entire force was engaged on Friday, the 3d inst. The names of the men were sent to the constructor by prominent democrats—one from each ward in the district. A few of the old navy yard employees are to be seen, but the greater number are new men. The remainder of the force will be called on as the repairs on the vessel progress."

Mrs. John L. Randall, Mrs. Joseph B. White and Mrs. A. K. Brown drove from this city to Haverhill, Mass., in a carriage on Wednesday of this week, on a short visit to Mrs. Randall's sister in that place.

Alexander Dennett of Somerville, Mass., son of the late Nathaniel Dennett of Christian Shore, and when a resident of Portsmouth known among his acquaintances as "the doctor," because he was the 7th son, has recently been visiting his friends in this city.

Tarsus Past and Present.

The Tarsus in which St. Paul lived and and went to school is twenty feet below the present town. The tomb of Sardanapalus is here, and at Tarsus was one of the three great universities of the pagan world—ranking among the Roman royalty that of Athens or Alexandria. Tarsus was then connected by the sea as now by the river Cydnus, and floated ships. Now it is worthless as a means of transportation of any sort. It was up the Cydnus that Cleopatra came in barge of state, and here she and Antony first met. The Cydnus is covered by a railroad bridge. When the pile-drivers set at work they couldn't drive the timber down. Looking for the reason they found the earth below thickly covered with large, flat stones that covered the graves. The same was found upon the river bed. The river had changed its course, and was running above the well-cemented vaults of the old Tarsans.—Foreign Letter.

Nest of a Tarantula.

A tarantula's nest is owned by a citizen of Rome, Ga., who found it while traveling through Nevada. Its exterior is earth, and at the first glance it has the appearance on the outside of a potato, being about four inches long and an inch in diameter. The tarantula, which is a species of spider, makes this nest by scooping a pit in some dry, uncultivated soil, and spinning a sort of web around the inside. The web is very closely spun and forms a coating perhaps an eighth of an inch in thickness. The entrance to the pit is protected by a round corner or door, which is fastened on one side by a hinge or spider-web. The tarantula sits near the entrance to his nest watching for prey, which he carries, when captured, into the pit to be devoured.—Chicago Times.

Settling a Question in Pottery.

"This vase, Professor Atler. Can you tell me whether it is Sevres or Chelsea porcelain? I'd very much like to know."

"Madame, you can find out by putting it in the furnace again."

"With what result?"

"If it stands heat it is probably Sevres; if it cracks it is unquestionably Chelsea."

"But the beautiful vase may be ruined! It cost me $400."

"Madam, it is worth that much to have your mind at rest."—Philadelphia Call.

BOSTON, October 19, 1876.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1869, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. The Provincetown fishing schooner Pearl Nelson, Captain Kempton, was seized at Arichat, C. B., Sept. 8th, on a charge of violating the customs regulations, but was released after paying $400, the amount of penalty imposed. She had nearly 3000 quintals of codfish on board.

We have heard many of our friends say that Salvation Oil cured them of rheumatism. Those who have not tried it, should do so. Our druggists sell it for twenty-five cents a bottle.

Pleuro-pneumonia prevails to an alarming extent among the cows in Middle Village and Maspeth, Long island, N. Y.

Take one of Carter's Little Liver Pills after eating; it will relieve dyspepsia, aid digestion, give tone and vigor to the system. They make one feel as though life was worth living.

At Dallas, Texas, Sept. 8th, Rev. Jeremiah O'Hearn, a Catholic priest, was baptized into the Baptist church.

You hardly realize that it is medicine, when taking Carter's Little Liver Pills; they are very small; no bad effects; all troubles from torpid liver are relieved by their use.

Albro C. Humphrey, aged nineteen, of Hartford, Conn., has been arrested for robbing the mails. He was employed by the Hartford Life & Annuity company to carry mail to and from the postoffice, and has stolen money letters for a year. He confessed. Cure of Liver Complaint.

Iowa Falls, Harding Co., Iowa, June 8, 1885. I have been using Allcock's Porous Plasters for four years, and think I could not get along without them. For a long time I was afflicted with a pain under my right shoulder blade; I also had considerable difficulty in breathing. I applied an Allcock's Porous Plaster on my back, and one on my chest. I kept changing them every four days, and at the end of three weeks was entirely cured. E. S. Stevens.

Several immense springs have appeared in Cuba, near Havana. A large lake has been formed, and a flood is feared.

I Am An Old Man.

Shall be 79 years of age next June, and for the last six years have suffered from general debility and old age. At times I could not get out of bed without help. I commenced to take Sulphur Bitters. In a week I felt stronger and got a mighty fine appetite. I still continued their use, and to-day I walked over three miles without feeling tired, something I haven't done in five years before. Sulphur Bitters is a right smart medicine.—George Brown, Keokuk, Iowa.

We know of no mode of treatment which offers, to sufferers from chronic diseases, a more certain hope than that which is comprehended in the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. For purifying and invigorating the blood, the preparation is unequaled.

Encouragement for the Feeble.

So long as the failing embers of vitality are capable of being re-kindled into a warm and genial glow, just so long there is hope for the weak and emaciated invalid. Let him not, therefore, despond, but derive encouragement from this, and from the further fact that there is a restorative most potent in renewing the dilapidated powers of a broken down system. Yes, thanks to its unexampled tonic virtues, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is daily reviving strength in the bodies and hope in the minds of the feeble and nervous. Appetite, refreshing sleep, the acquisition of flesh and color, are blessings attendant upon the reparative processes which this priceless invigorant speedily initiates and carries to a successful conclusion. Digestion is restored, the blood fertilized, and sustenance afforded to each life-sustaining organ by the Bitters, which is inoffensive even to the feminine palate, vegetable in composition, and thoroughly safe. Use it, and regain vigor!

During the "no race" of the Mayflower and Galatea, last Thursday, the big excursion steamer Empire State went ashore on Sanday Hook in the fog with 800 passengers on board, and swung broadside on to the beach, in a dangerous position should a storm arise. Most of the passengers were sent to New York by rail.

Many mothers are unable to nurse their children. In such cases the best substitute to be found is Mellin's Food, prepared after Liebig's formula, which has proved to correspond physiologically with mothers' milk.

A man who pretends to be a peddler has been travelling through this section passing counterfeit five-cent pieces with the change. He has been known to leave the counterfeit at several places. The nickels are dated 1882, and are a good imitation of the genuine coin. Only a close inspection will show irregularities on the face.

That tired languid feeling and dull headache is very disagreeable. Take two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring, and you will find relief. They never fail to do good.

Mr. Peter Strickland, the sailmaker, we are informed lost a portion of the forefinger of his left hand by the premature discharge of a gun while firing at a mark on Badger's island last Thursday.

I Had Faith.

About six months ago I was advised to consult Mrs. Hall, the great Spiritualist doctor, to see if she could cure me of scrofula, from which I have suffered from childhood. She said if I would have faith in the medicine she gave me, that she could cure me. I took her medicine, and in less than three months I was cured. Why, the way the medicine worked was a miracle. I begged of her to tell me what the medicine was made of, but she said she could not do so. Finally she told me the medicine was Sulpher Bitters, and that she never knew it to fail in all such cases as mine.—Mrs. Clara Knowlton, 35 Hanover street, Boston, Mass.

The schooner Grace Choate, of this port, Robinson master, arrived on Wednesday night, 8th inst., from a short trip, during which she landed in Boston sixty barrels of mackerel, and got good prices.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, in General Debility, Emaciation, Consumption and Wasting in Children,

The following is the experience of a Baltimore butcher: I have suffered with bad headaches for years and have tried many remedies without obtaining relief. I was advised to give Salvation Oil a trial and it has entirely cured me.
ED. BALTZ, LaFayette Market, Baltimore, Md.

Collector Nutt of Eastport, Me., has notified the fish dealers in that place that hereafter all the fish brought to Eastport in Canadian boats will be subject to the payment of duties. Heretofore fresh fish have been permitted to come in free, on the ground that they were intended for immediate consumption. It is now claimed that our own fishermen can supply all that will be required by the fresh fish markets for immediate consumption, and that they, and not the Canadian fishermen, should have the preference. This will probably increase the price of fish. It will also be a severe blow to the New Brunswick fishermen, for which they have their own government's policy to thank.

Ayer's Ague Cure acts directly on the liver and biliary aoparatus, and drives out the malarial poison which induces liver complaints and billous disorders. Warranted to cure, or money refunded. Try it.

Three marine monsters of an unknown species were seen a few days ago in Placentia bay, Newfoundland. One of them, which was killed, was twenty feet long and five feet in diameter.

Those persons who do not need Iron, but who are troubled with Nervousness and Dyspepsia, will find in Carter's Little Nerve Pills a most desirable article. They are mostly used in combination with Carter's Little Liver Pills, and in this way often exert a most magical effect. Take just one pill of each kind immediately after eating and you will be free from Indigestion and Dyspepsia. In vials at 25 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

Lemuel B. Caswell came in from Smuttynose island, Shoals, on Thursday last, on a temporary visit.

I wished Death

could end my agony, my suffering from neuralgia was so great. I had terrible spells every two or three weeks before taking ATHLOPHOROS, which was a year ago last April, and have only had two since. Words can never express my relief."—So writes Mrs. C. N. PAIGE, Bolton-ville, Vt.

Many ladies suffer from headaches which are of neuralgic origin. In such cases Athlophoros is invaluable, as it will quickly remove the cause. Thousands are enduring untold agony from neuralgia who might find instant relief by using ATHLOPHOROS. The most delicate need not fear to use it, as it is absolutely safe and it never fails to drive neuralgia away. Neuralgia and rheumatism are twin disease. Athlophoros cures both. Hundreds of people have tried it and now warmly recommend it. Send for names of parties in your own State who have been cured by it if you have any doubt as to its merit.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him, we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

WHEN THE HOUNDS MEET.

A Late Breakfast—On the Lawn—All Mounted—Moving Off.

There are times when the diversions of the English aristocracy are on so elaborate a scale that no establishment, however palatial, can receive the company or provide a theatre for the entertainment. The park itself must be the reception-room, the entire landscape becomes the pleasure ground, and half a county is included in the arena of a day's amusement. When the hounds meet at a great mansion there is usually a hunt breakfast, and the scarlet coats and dazzling breeches of the men, the riding hats and habits of the women, make the long corridors and lofty stairways as brilliant with color and costume as the scenery of a play. Not only the "house party," as it is called, but crowds of guests from the neighborhood, come in to the late breakfast, which is more sumptuous, but hardly more formal than usual.

The lawn is gay with a hundred equipages of every size and form and even color, some waiting for their owners or drivers from the house, others filled with company who decline to alight, preferring to remain lookers-on, yet themselves forming a part of the spectacle. The horses and vehicles of the farmers and middle-class people wait further off, for all English men and women are interested in a hunt, and free to attend the meet or follow the hounds. Spirited horses are led about in front of the house by careful grooms, but the hounds are just in sight in a hollow without the home park gates, restive in the leash, and requiring all the attention of the huntsman and his satellites.

There is always a long delay, and sometimes it is high noon before the gay crowd comes out on the terrace or through the porch. Then there is a bustle, and numerous visits are paid to the carriages, recognitions exchanged, orders given. Servants hurry to and fro among the company, the maids with the gloves and whips and veils of their mistresses, valets and footmen to buckle the spurs and fasten the stirrups of their masters. At last every one is mounted, the carriages are full and move off to get a view of the start, a crowd of the humbler sort following afoot. A laborer or a servant often trudges along the road for many a mile, and, knowing the country and the coverts well, is sometimes in at the death before the best mounted horseman of them all.

When the hounds are released the pack scatters for a moment, but comes together again, and then moves slowly at first, nose to the ground, snuffing for the scent, while the horsemen follow leisurely as yet, a novice taking a fence perhaps to show his pluck, but the more experienced avoiding hedges and gates till there is need. The landscape now is dotted with color, red and white gleaming against the background of green, and the most English picture of all English life is spread out to view. The pageant moves off in the distance, mounts a hillside, and disappears over the summit, or fades and melts away into forest and glades until the gay vision is gone.—Adam Badeau's Letter.

The Eye and the Bear.

Mr. Braithwaite, a noted hunter here, when out in the woods a few days ago, went into a cedar swamp to look for railway sleepers. He came directly on a bear with her two cubs. The cubs on seeing him gave a squeal, and the mother immediately made toward him with a growl, showing her teeth for all they were worth. Mr. Braithwaite not having any weapon with him, stood still and fixed his eyes on the she bear. He then commenced backing out, feeling his way carefully with one foot at a time. At times she would try to get behind him, when he would swing his body around, keeping his eyes all the time steadily on her, never for an instant removing them. She held him in this way for nearly two hours, and did not leave him until he backed out to the brow of a hill adjoining the swamp, when she left him and went to her cubs. He says that in all his experience he never put in such a frightful time, and hopes never to be placed in such a position again. He was completely done out, and nearly fainted as soon as the bear left him. He feels quite certain it would have been all day with him had he stumbled or taken his eyes off from her.—New Brunswick Cor. Forest and Stream.

A Terrible Weapon.

What is in a police club? Usually it is a useful piece of locust, but a sergeant told me the other day that he was presented with a day club which he did not dare to carry. It was meant for use among the gangs. As he twirled it at the end of the leather thong it was a neat looking stick, not easily distinguished from the ordinary club, but if a tough took hold of it to wrest it away, four short, sharp, two-edged knife-blades could be thrown out on four sides of the club, to the ruination of the hand of the tough. How many policemen carry weapons like that?—Brooklyn Eagle.

Washington's Headquarters in France.

After the surrender of Yorktown and the departure of the French Washington established his headquarters at Newbury-on-the-Hudson. The house in which he lived is carefully preserved and shown as an historical museum.

There is a pleasant story of La Fayette's affectionate remembrance of the life there. Just before his death, which occurred in 1834, he gave a dinner party in Paris to the American minister and some friends who had been old associates. Later in the evening, when it came time

The Boot on the Other Leg.

Mr. Foster, the Dominion minister of fisheries and marine, says the British sealing vessels recently seized by United States revenue officers in Alaskan waters were sixty miles off shore when captured, and maintains that the American government has no more right to insist that vessels shall not go within sixty miles of the Alaskan shore than the Canadian government has to say that Americans shall not go within that distance of the Labrador coast, even though Russia when it owned Alaska claimed the sovereignty of the adjoining seas.

The capture of these British sealers by United States revenue vessels introduces a new element into the fisheries dispute. Russia may have claimed jurisdiction fifty or a hundred miles at sea, and attempted to hand over such jurisdiction to this country; whether such claim could be maintained, and the goods delivered, is another matter. If Canada can enforce jurisdiction forty miles at sea, as she claims to do in Bay Chaleur, we guess the United States can enforce it sixty miles at sea off the shores of Alaska, even though Canada may disapprove of it, and we have no navy worth mentioning just at present.

How It May Work.

One matter which seems to have been lost sight of entirely by both parties in the fisheries dispute,—at least we have not seen the slightest reference to it in any quarter,—is the responsibility which attaches to any nation for whatever may be done contrary to international law in waters over which such nation claims, and is allowed, sole jurisdiction. When the American privateer Gen. Armstrong was destroyed in the harbor of Fayal by a British fleet, after a desperate and bloody resistance which detained the fleet for days, and just long enough to prevent the arrival of the fleet at New Orleans in time to avert Packenham's defeat by Gen. Jackson, our government demanded of Portugal, and received, an indemnity, (which it kept, and has not yet paid over to the parties entitled to it—the heirs of the owners of the brig and of the men who fought her so gloriously,) although it was shown that the authorities of Fayal were powerless to contend with the British fleet, and that they did earnestly remonstrate against the violation of Portugal's neutrality. When the United States frigate Essex was destroyed by a superior British force within quarter of a mile of the Peruvian shore, Peru was called upon to pay for it, and did so. When the confederate terror Alabama steamed out of the harbor of Cherbourg, France, to "sink, burn and destroy" the United States gunboat Kearsarge, a French ironclad which could have sunk them both with one broadside went out with her, to see that she went out of "French waters" before making any attack on her prospective antagonist. Had the Kearsarge been destroyed or captured by the Alabama inside of the "three-mile limit," France would have been responsible to this country for it; and this was recognized by France, in sending out her ironclad to see that nothing of the kind took place. If it is decided that Canada, backed by Great Britain, owns the waters of bays fifty or sixty miles across, and that the United States owns the waters a hundred miles from the Alaskan coast, they must each be held responsible, by other nations, for any violation of neutrality committed in those waters, and in case of a big naval battle on the preserves of either country, this responsibility might be found costly as well as embarrassing. If Canada can prevent a Gloucester schooner from fishing in Bay Chaleur, it is manifestly her duty to prevent the war ships of France and Russia from fighting there; and similarly, if the United States can prevent a British schooner from sealing in Alaskan seas, she must maintain the absolute neutrality of those seas, or suffer any consequences of such neutrality being violated.

The International Races.

The race of Thursday was a fizzle, owing to lack of wind and the superabundance of fog and rain. The start was made at 11:30 A. M., the Mayflower crossing the line two seconds ahead of the Galatea, and to windward. The wind was fresh at the start, though not quite a "cutter's breeze," and the Mayflower steadily gained on her competitor. As the wind died away the yachts substituted club topsails for the working topsails with which they started, and a short time later set their big jibtopsails. The Mayflower turned the stake boat, which was anchored about five miles off the Long island shore, south of Hempstead inlet, shortly before half-past four o'clock, having been nearly five hours making the twenty miles to windward; this left but two hours in which to make the run of twenty miles to the finish, and with the light wind blowing it was impossible to do it in time, so there was no race. The Galatea was hidden somewhere in the fog when the Mayflower turned the stakeboat.

The next attempt at a race was set for Saturday, the 11th inst.

Mr. Littlefield and wife, already well known in Greenland, will also assist. A novel feature will be the playing of the Bavarian zither. This, with singing and other instrumental music, will make an attractive entertainment. If stormy the concert will be given the first fair evening following.

The Dover Athletic club, in existence until a recent date, was not so flourishing an institution as its Portsmouth namesake, and not long ago voted to disband. This having been decided on, the next thing to do was to sell the club's property and close up the business, and the sale took place on the evening of the 8th inst. Each member of the club received eighty-seven cents as his share of the assets, and the club is now no more.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. PROUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

THE WEATHER.

For New England to-day:—

Local rains, slightly warmer, winds shifting to southwesterly.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 66 degrees above zero.

Cloudy.

AID FOR CHARLESTON.

The citizens' meeting called by the mayor for Friday evening, in the common council room, was adjourned to Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, at the same place.

SOLDIERS' MONUMENT.

Money enough having been subscribed to warrant the erection of a monument to the gallant dead who fell in the war for the Union, a meeting of subscribers and others interested in the monument, is hereby called at the common council room, Monday, Sept. 13th, at eight o'clock P. M., to take action in the matter for a site for the proposed monument.

MARCELLUS ELDRIDGE,
Mayor, and chairman of committee.

THE BLACK CROOK.

There was a still larger audience at Music hall on Friday evening, and a much larger proportion of ladies, than on the previous evening when the Black Crook received its first representation by Moulton & Baker's excellent company. Many of the trifling defects of the initial performance were remedied, and the scenery and stage machinery worked much more smoothly than at first, enabling the audience to depart at an earlier hour.

The company is unusually strong dramatically, the speaking parts being all ably taken; and the specialists are all way up in their respective classes. The ballet dancing is the finest seen here for years; the sword combat between Greppo and Dragonfin is comical in the extreme; the "Mikado" performance on a variety of instruments is excellent, as is Tony Williams in topical songs, A. O. Duncan in ventriloquial feats, the Japanese ballet, the triple broadsword combat and other features; and the Herbert brothers are far ahead of anything we ever saw in their line. The dresses are gorgeous, the Grotto of Stalacta is very beautiful, and the transformation scene is a marvel of beauty. As a whole, it is the most pleasing spectacular extravaganza ever given in Music hall.

Two entertainments will be given today—this afternoon at 2:30, and this evening at eight. Go and see it.

AROUND HOME.

Contractor Shanahan was on Friday paid a large part of the balance due him on account of the construction of the Deer street sewer, and will be paid the remainder on Monday.

Miss Mabel L. Smith, daughter of Mr. Horace S. Smith, formerly of this city and of the Chronicle force, but now of Boston, Mass., is visiting her friends here—her first visit to Portsmouth in two years.

It is alleged that last Thursday night four seamen belonging on one of the national ships at the navy yard, while crossing the river from this city about 9:30 o'clock were capsized when in the middle of the river, and were rescued by one of Alfred R. Goodwin's boats. One of the men is said to have had grasped in his hand, when taken into the boat, a piece of kelp attached to a rock nearly as big as a man's head, showing that he had sounded the river to the bottom. Had the kelp been attached to the solid rock instead of to a small and loose fragment, the seaman would probably have held himself under water until drowned.

The Newmarket district democratic senatorial convention took place at Newmarket on the 9th inst. Joseph C. Bartlett of Durham was chairman, and Mr. Richardson of Newmarket secretary. Twenty-one votes were cast and David Jenness of Rye receiving twenty of them, was declared the nominee of the convention.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Carolina Queen Consolidated Mining company was held in this city at the Rockingham house on the 7th inst., when the following-named gentlemen were elected directors to serve for the ensuing year: Dr. C. H. Starr, Dr. A. P. Lighthill, C. W. Wellington, N. B. Ingersoll, George S. Loring, G. W. Miller and H. A. Tarlton. Subsequently at a directors' meeting Dr. C. H. Starr was elected president; Dr. A. P. Lighthill, vice-president; C. W. Wellington, treasurer; H. A. Tarlton, secretary, and G. W. Miller, clerk of the board of directors. The treasurer's report of the financial condition of the company to the close of the preceding year, and the progress made at the mines during that year, were presented, after which meeting dissolved.

S. W. Dearborn of Hampton is to build a large ice-house in that town, forty feet by eighty on the ground, and with a capacity of 1,900 tons, for the Lynn Milk Co. Mr. Dearborn runs a steam saw mill near Hampton depot, and does a large amount of building in the town.

The jury in the suit at Dover of Olivia R. Hodgdon of Great Falls against the Boston & Maine railroad company for injury caused while alighting from a train at Newmarket, September, 1883, through the alleged negligence of the respondent, rendered a verdict of $2000 for the plaintiff. Counsel for the respondent will move for a new trial.

Otis Haley, the day lookout of Elvin Newton's fishing gang at Lunging island, and Mr. John Hall, came in from the Shoals on Thursday, and returned to the islands on Friday. Mr. Haley reports that the gang have done no fishing by day for several weeks, for though mackerel and bait-fish have been plentiful, they have not schooled at all. Good hauls of bait and fat mackerel have been made at night, the seine boat being provided with a number of torches, and the seine being thrown when the "flops" in the water indicated the presence of fish. On Sunday night, the 5th inst., 4,000 fat mackerel were taken at one such haul near Duck island. On one night of the previous week Mr. Newton baited seventeen fishing vessels with herring, porgies and blue-backs.

The annual meeting of the Newmarket Manufacturing company stockholders was held at Newmarket on the 9th inst., and the following directors elected: William G. Saltonstall, George O. Silsbee, S. A. Haley, Benjamin Crowninshield, William Norton, W. G. Dickerman, John E. W. George; clerk, T. M. Joy; treasurer, J. H. Gray.

The October term of the supreme court for Rockingham county will be held in this city, beginning on Tuesday, October 19th. Judge Lewis W. Clark will be the presiding justice. The docket is made up as follows: 188 civil actions, fifty-five equity cases, twenty state actions and six cases in sessions.

Sword-fish have been very scarce this season, when compared with the numbers for several years past. One weighing 275 lbs. was brought up in a dory from a schooner in the lower harbor, Thursday evening last, and sold to Edw. Jameson, of Commercial wharf. Another weighing 175 lbs. was brought in by a small schooner on Friday. Both were taken in the vicinity of Boon island.

The shore-boats fishing out of this port this week generally had very fair luck, taking large, fat mackerel with the hook in good numbers, and getting quite good prices for them. On Thursday William Randall brought in a hundred, for which he got 8 1-2 cents apiece, and Samuel Robinson came in with sixty, for which he got nine cents each.

Rev. James Lade, pastor of the Congregational church in Eliot, was on Thursday evening last very agreeably surprised by the presentation of a fine sofa, easy chair and four parlor chairs, the gift of a few friends.

The News and Journal of North Berwick, Me., hitherto democratic, in its issue for this week came out squarely in support of Hon. Thomas B. Reed for reelection to Congress from the first district of Maine, giving as the reason that it believes the free trade policy of the democratic party, if successful, would be a heavy blow to the industries of Maine, and that to Mr. Reed is largely due the credit of defeating the Morrison free trade bill.

The Baptist Society of York Corner had their annual picnic on the 9th inst., in Government grove, Kittery Point. It was well attended, and apparently much enjoyed.

The abutments for the new bridge from Kittery Point across Chauncy's creek are finished, and ready to receive the iron bridge, which is expected from Philadelphia early in October.

The new road from Kittery Point to Cutt's island was finished on the 8th inst., and is a very good piece of work. It is much shorter than the old road between the same points, is nearly level, there being no bad hills to climb, and opens up a very pretty drive along the creek. There are some eligible building sites along its route, and there is already talk of parties being negotiating for the purchase of lots.

There is considerable summer company yet at Kittery Point. The Pepperell house had fifty guests, and the Hotel Pocahontas had thirty-five, on Thursday of last week, and it was thought likely that neither one would close before October.

George E. Ireland has bought the George Shapleigh place in Eliot.

A FEW EARNEST WORDS.

Does any one who reads these lines feel tired or nervous? Have you despondent feelings? Is your appetite sometimes poor and again voracious? Do you sometimes have a dull, dull at bottom or a scum on the top of the fluids you pass? Are these fluids scant at times and plentiful at others? Do you have headaches once in a while? If you have these feelings, DO YOU KNOW WHAT THEY MEAN? Your Kidneys are diseased!!! It may be only the beginning, but if not taken in time, Bright's Disease, and death in its most horrible form will be the end. YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO TRIFLE WITH THEM.

MR. JOHN W. FURBUSH, an army veteran, of Wakefield, Mass., neglected these symptoms and was brought to death's door. He took HUNT'S REMEDY and is well to-day.

MRS. ALEXANDER L. NICHOLAS, of Phœnix, R. I., and a descendant of General Nathaniel Greene, was so near the grave her breath only came in gasps, but she was restored to health by using HUNT'S REMEDY.

The wife of Captain S. Greenwood, master of the well known Steamer Kanawha, had a large and painful swelling in the side, which was thought to be a tumor. It early did disappeared after using HUNT'S REMEDY. Captain Kneeland himself was cured of terrible Catarrh of the Bladder by the same means.

These are only a few of many wonderful cures showing that HUNT'S REMEDY does cure the worst of all known diseases.

Do not, however, Delay. Observe the first symptoms and act promptly. You will certainly escape awful suffering and possibly death itself. For Sale by all Dealers.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., BOSTON.

for supper, the guests were ushered into a room which was in strange contrast with the elegance of the apartments they had been in. The ceiling was low, with large beams crossing it; there was a single small, uncurtained window and several small doors. It looked more like an old-fashioned Dutch kitchen than a room in a French house. A long, rough table was meagerly set. A dish of meat stood on it, some uncouth-looking pastry, and wine in decanters and bottles, ready to be poured out into glasses and campmugs.

"Do you know where we are now?" asked La Fayette as his companions looked about puzzled, and as if in a dream. "Ah! the seven doors and one window! and the silver camp goblets! We are at Washington's headquarters on the Hudson, fifty years ago!" He had reproduced the room as a surprise to his friends.—St. Nicholas.

Setting a Good Example.

Joe Jefferson, the veteran actor, is not afflicted with the prevailing pessimistic melancholy. He finds a great deal that is sweet and pleasant in life, and keeps himself in good health and spirits by going off on a fishing frolic every now and then. He comes back sunburned and jolly, with a big string of fish and fully resolved to live ten years longer. He sets the rest of humanity a good example. If every one would get as much fun out of life as the reasonable pursuit of his business will permit, there would not be half so many divorce suits and suicides.—Chicago Journal.

Making Cheap Jewelry.

An immense quantity of jewelry is now made from thin layers of gold alloy upon an ingot of brass, formed while it is hot. On the ingot cooling it is forced between steel rollers into a long thin ribbon, each part of which is of course still covered with the gold alloy, incalculably thin, but which wears for years, and can be moulded into any shape.—New York Sun.

Markgraf Pallavicini, who lately lost his life by falling from the top of the Grossglockner in Tyrol, appears to have been a most extraordinary sort of a daredevil. He had not only climbed all the most difficult peaks in Switzerland and Scandanavia, but was also quite at home among the Himalayan giants. In making an ascent he habitually refused to take the easiest routes, and often bribed his guides by offering them twice or three times their usual fees for taking him up the most difficult route.

A fellow-touris, relates that at one time, to save an hour's time, Pallavicini slid down the surface of a steep glacier regardless of possible crevasses. On two of his ascents the rope to which he was attached broke, and another time, near Zermatt, he rolled down a precipice several hundred metres without suffering any damage, besides the loss of his suspenders. Nor did the bullets in the battle of Koniggaatz or the tigers he hunted in India inflict the slightest harm on him.

R. H. EDDY, ESQ.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1840, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. Iowa Falls, Harding Co., Iowa, June 8, 1885. I have been using Allcock's Porous Plasters for four years, and think I could not get along without them. For a long time I was afflicted with a pain under my right shoulder blade; I also had considerable difficulty in breathing. I applied an Allcock's Porous Plaster on my back, and one on my chest. Waste of Money.

The human organism is, in a certain sense, a machine, and is intricate and delicate beyond anything that the human mind can grasp. Each separate organ may be said to have a separate and distinct work to perform yet all act in the most complete and beautiful harmony. If the reciprocal action of the various organs be disturbed and the machinery is put out of order, the mind is at once notified of the fact. Those who heed the warning can generally repair the damage at small cost, and without loss of time, but those who say "O, I guess I'll be all right in a day or two," generally find to their cost, that there is wisdom in the legend "A stitch in time save nine." Delay in repairing the body is dangerous, and often results in heavy expense, if nothing worse. Nineteen-twentieths of all bodily and mental derangements originate in the stomach, liver and bowels, and might be correctee at once and without inconvenience, by a few doses of Parsons' Pills. We venture to say that there is no person not already afflicted with organic disease, who could not maintain robust health the year round with twenty-five cents worth of these pills. Parson's Pills were a wonderful discovery, being entirely different from all others. If the readers of this article could once be made to realize the marvelous power of Parsons' Pills, in preventing and curing the thousand and one ills, not a family nor an individual would be without them. The information contained in the wrapper around each box of Parsons' Pills, is worth ten times the cost of a box.

Queer Seizures.

United States Consul General Phelan is corresponding with the Canadian officials for a return of $400 deposited by the captains of the Gloucester schooners Howard Holbrook and A. R. Crittenden for alleged violations of the customs act at Port Hawkesbury. Both these vessels were seized for the crime of allowing a man to go to shore to see his family, and landing his baggage without first reporting at the custom house. The consul general emphatically denies that the man from either vessel landed any baggage. He contends that there is nothing in the Canadian customs laws to prevent an American fisherman from going ashore to his family, and that neither by law nor equity can the Canadian government construe this act as a crime, and punish an American vessel for it. The only ground upon which the vessels could be punished would be for a violation of the fishery treaty in putting into port for some other purpose than that named in the treaty. But the vessels were not seized under the treaty, neither does the treaty provide for any $400 penalty for an infraction of its provisions, confiscation being the only penalty enacted for even the most trivial violation of that instrument.

The Gloucester fishing schooner Everett Steel, Captain Forbes, put into Shelburne, N. S., Sept. 10th, on her way home from the banks with a fare of cod, and was seized because she called there last March and remained some hours, leaving without reporting at the custom house, though her master paid the harbor dues.

As the provincial authorities are so persistently snapping up our fishermen on the most trivial grounds, and fining them heavily in instances where there was not only no defranding of the revenue but evidently no intent to defraud, it would perhaps be well if our absentee president could give up fishing in the mountain regions long enough to put in force some of the plenary power granted him by Congress at its late session for the sole purpose of protecting the interests of our fishermen.

Encouragement for the Feeble.

So long as the failing embers of vitality are capable of being re-kindled into a warm and genial glow, just so long there is hope for the weak and emaciated invalid. Let him not, therefore, despond, but derive encouragement from this, and from the further fact that there is a restorative most potent in renewing the dilapidated powers of a broken down system. Yes, thanks to its unexampled tonic virtues, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is daily reviving strength in the bodies and hope in the minds of the feeble and nervous. Appetite, refreshing sleep, the acquisition of flesh and color, are blessings attendant upon the reparative processes which this priceless invigorant speedily initiates and carries to a successful conclusion. Digestion is restored, the blood fertilized, and sustenance afforded to each life-sustaining organ by the Bitters, which is inoffensive even to the feminine palate, vegetable in composition, and thoroughly safe. Use it, and regain vigor!

The springs which recently burst forth near Havana, Cuba, are still flowing undiminished. One town is already flooded. Undoubtedly the earthquake shocks and these immense springs were due to the same agency.

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation, disordered stomach, etc. Try them.

An ox caught in a cattle-guard at Bolton, Vt., derailed an engine and six freight cars at noon Sept. 10th, and caused a suspension of travel until nine o'clock at night.

We think we can cure a bad case of backache quicker with one of Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Backache Plasters than by any other application, and after the backache is cured, you can still wear the plaster without discomfort for two or three weeks or longer. This combination of smart weed and belladonna is a great hit, and it is hard to find any pain or ache that will not yield to it. Price 25 cents. Sold by druggists everywhere.

Shall be 79 years of age next June, and for the last six years have suffered from general debility and old age. At times I could not get out of bed without help. I commenced to take Sulphur Bitters. In a week I felt stronger and got a mighty fine appetite. I still continued their use, and to-day I walked over three miles without feeling tired, something I haven't done in five years before. Sulphur Bitters is a right smart medicine.—George Brown, Keokuk, Iowa.

In many localities Hood's Sarsaparilla is in such general demand that it is the recognized family medicine. People write that "the whole neighborhood is taking it," etc. Particularly is this true of Lowell, Mass., where it is made, and where more of Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold than of any other Sarsaparilla or blood purifier. It is the great remedy for debility, scrofula, dyspepsia, biliousness, or any disease caused by impure state or low condition of the blood. Give it a trial.

This statement, though strong, is warranted by the facts. Thousands have tested its value and recommend it as the ONLY remedy that brings relief. For ladies subject to neuralgia or nervous headaches it is indispensable. Athlophoros contains no opium, morphine, or other dangerous ingredient. It is absolutely harmless and universally successful in the prompt cure of this painful disease.

The Relief in Omens.

The belief in omens is perhaps, after all, the most incurable of all superstitions. The statistics of a French insurance company demonstrate that any delay in the departure of railway travelers stimulates the sale of accident policies, even though that delay should imply no suspicion of negligence on the part of the railroad company. A Parisian buys a ticket to Brussels, steps by mistake into a Havre train discovers his blunder at the next station, and buys an insurance ticket before venturing to start in the right direction. The Brussels road may be the safest in Europe, but he accepts his mistakes as a hint that Providence interfered to "head him back," as the Texans would express it. It may be a "warning" and he wants his family to be on the safe side. Nine out of ten gamblers are biased by similar misgivings. There are roulette players who will quit the table in deference to the warning of an "unlucky number." Others will snatch off their money at once if a fellow-gambler should happen to put his stake on the same chance; "loaded cards break." A big hit, too, is accepted as a hint that bad luck has reached its climax and is about to change. Intrepid roughs, business men of an otherwise consistent rationalism, own the influence of forebodings; the traveler Gerstacker mentions a big-fisted Arkansas backwoodsman who amazed him by the confession that he was "always looking for trouble after hearing the whistle of a kildeer," a sort of small sand-piper. The philosophers of antiquity, historians who never waste a word on the mythological nursery tales of their countryman, think it necessary to mention the omina preceding every critical event in the history of their nation.—Dr. Felix L. Oswald,

The Plain of Gennesareth.

The sea of Galilee is probably never more beautiful than at this season of the year. Wherever its shores are cultivated they are one mass of waving grain. The chief beauty, however, lies in the oleander bushes that fringe the lake all around. Just at this season they are brilliant with flaming flowers. They grow in clumps about ten feet high, and the flowers are so plentiful that each clump has the aspect of a large bouquet arranged with naturalness that defies competition. The plain of Gennesareth is partly cultivated, but still retains its desolate appearance. Huge weeds make impassable barriers along its many marshy brooks.

This plain, from El Mejdel (ancient Magdala) to Khan Meiryeh, is one of the most highly favored spots in the world from the agricultural standpoint. Well might Josephus speak of it as "the ambition of nature;" there never was more fertile soil, and copious springs send perennial streams meandering in every direction. This spot will be a mine of gold to some wise capitalist as soon as a good government will guarantee perfect security. The thorn trees which we met at Jericho seem to thrive along the whole course of the Jordan, and are everywhere the home of numerous pigeons. These are especially plentiful on the plain of Gennesareth, and are very tame.—Cor. Hartford Courant.

The Importation of Weeds.

Americans inform us that about 220 species of weeds have been imported into their country, mostly from the British islands. In 1837 there were said to be only 137. The common plantain is known aming the Indians as the "Englishman's foot," as though following the steps of the white settlers. The common yellow toadflax was, it is said, introduced by a Mr. Ranstead as a garden flower, and is now known as the Ranstead weed. In 1788, it had overrun the pastures in the inhabited parts of Pennsylvania, and was the cause of bitter complaints.

Chickweed is said to have been introduced as bird-seed, and the Scotch thistle arrived in a bedtick filled with thistle down. Feathers being cheap, the bed of down was replaced by feathers, and the former thrown by the wayside. The seed soon found a congenial home. There is a troublesame American water-weed, however (Anacharis alsinastrum), which has avenged our transatlantic cousins threefold by choking our ponds, rivers and canals. Another little intruder from the cape (azolla pinnata) may be troublesome. It is a charming little aquatic, and most interesting under the microscope. Some one had thrown a handful of it on a pond we wot of, where the common duckweed (lemna) flourished; but azolla quickly monopolized the whole surface and crowded out the duckweed.—Chamber's Journal.

Voracity of the Dogfish.

"We fisherman have a contempt for the shark. He doesn't begin to compare with his first cousin, the little dogfish, for voracity. I would rather fall overboard among ten man-eaters that into a school of dogfish. I might frighten the sharks off by splashing, diving, and making a great noise. But the dogfish is dangerous. There are a great many of them outside now. They follow the mackerel in, and stay there now, feeding on menhaden.

"The dogfish go in schools of 1,000 to 2,0000. They travel close together, and woe betide the luckless fisherman who drops overboard. They chase the mackerel into the nets and cut them all to pieces. I have had a thousand feet of net ruined in one night by them. Fishermen have had their hands ...cerated by them when handling their nets, and last summer one of the men employed in the mackerel fishing fell overboard and was literally devoured before the eyes of his Maine Election.

Election in Maine to-day; governor, four members of Congress, and a legislature which will elect a United States senator, to be chosen. The Chronicle of to-morrow morning will give the returns, and confidently expects to announce a sweeping republican victory.

Chairman Manley, of the republican state committee of Maine, on Friday sent to the New York Tribune, in answer to enquiries, a despatch containing the following: "In every county in the state there have been third party prohibition nominations. They have made a very active campaign, having speakers in every school district, and have been in alliance with the democratic party. The republican canvass has been made with care and accuracy, and gives positive assurance of a decided victory on Monday next. We shall elect our governor, our four members of Congress, and have a good majority for both branches in the legislature, which will insure a United States senator." Chairman S. S. Brown, of the democratic state committee, on the same date issued a "still-hunt" circular of which 3,000 copies were distributed by mail to local party-workers, assuring them that "We have before us the entire canvass of the state, and we confidentially assert to you that the recapitulation shows beyond a doubt that the state can be wrested from the grip of the Blaine-Manley-and-Bodwell gang, provided that every man like yourself will do his duty from now until the polls close on Monday next."

Hon. William M. Clifford, democratic candidate for Congress from the first Maine district, now so ably represented by Hon. Thomas B. Reed, spoke at a democratic rally in Biddeford last Thursday night, and said of Congressman Reed: "He will never appear before the first district again as candidate for Congress, for I am going to beat him this time, and that will be the end of it." Mr. Clifford did well to beat Mr. Reed before the votes were counted.

Our Model Secretary of the Navy.

Hon. Wm. C. Whitney of New York, when he assumed charge of the navy department, proclaimed aloud that his predecessor, Hon. Wm. E. Chandler, had exceeded his powers and disregarded the law in the technicalities of certain contracts; and to prove the truth of his charges he refused to accept a vessel which has since been accepted, and by skillful management succeeded in breaking down the great shipbuilder who for twenty years had been doing more than all the rest of the country put together to advance iron-ship construction in the United States. But now it appears that this stickler for forms has himself gone adrift, the Washington correspondents telling the story as follows:

The navy department, after wasting so much time and expending over $25,000 in drawings and designs, has made shipwreck of its plans in great part and it is now a question whether it will not be necessary to throw some of the plans away and begin anew. One of the troubles is that the naval authorities have approved the design for the smaller class of vessels and were just about to advertise for bids to construct it, when the designs called for a ship to be constructed in direct violation of the law. The law calls for all steel in all of the ships. The plan approved for the 850-ton ship is what is technically known as composite, to be composed of iron frames and wooden planking. The consequence of the discovery is that an entire new plan will have to be made, and that a large sum of money has been wasted in condemned plans. Secretary Whitney's notion of building one of the 4000-ton ships after the model of the Japanese ship Naniwak-kan, which has the speed of over eighteen knots, has also come to grief; for now that the plan is completed, it is found that it will have to be altered, as the beam will have to be widened for such great speed, so there is disaster in that plan also.

Secretary Whitney is an adept at appointing boards of inspection that know just what to do. He had better appoint a board to inspect his notions regarding the building of a new navy.

The International Races.

The deciding yacht race of the international series was sailed on Saturday, over the outside course of the New York yacht club, twenty miles to leeward from the Scotland lightship and return. It was won by the Mayflower, which insures the America's cup remaining on this side of the water another year; and yet the race was anything but a satisfactory one, as we look at it. The yachts crossed the starting line within a minute and a half of each other, the Galatea being last over, the wind then blowing nine miles an hour—a very moderate breeze. After rounding the stake-boat the wind increased so much that the Mayflower substituted a working topsail for her club topsail; but the Galatea kept her club topsail aloft, and in the hour from 2:20 to 3:20 P. M. both out-pointed and out-footed the Mayflower, and made up more than a mile of the two miles the Mayflower was ahead when the stake-boat was turned. About 3:30 o'clock the cutter struck a streak of dead calm, while the sloop went ahead with a rattling breeze, and before the cutter's sails again commenced to draw the sloop was fully three miles to windward, and barring accidents had the race to a certainty, in case she was able to get over the course within the time limit of seven hours, which she barely managed to do, having only eleven minutes to spare, as the following tables show:

	Start.	Turn.	Finish.
	h. m. s.	h. m. s.	h. m. s.
Mayflower	11 22 40	1 55 43	6 11 40
Galatea	11 24 19	2 19 29	6 42 38

	Sailing Time.	Corrected Time.
	h. m. s.	h. m. s.
Mayflower	6 49 00	5 49 00
Galatea	7 18 49	7 18 09

The Galatea was almost four miles behind the Mayflower when the latter finished the race, and was at once taken in tow by the steamer Luckenbach and towed to an anchorage, though even then she did not get over the line in time to save being distanced. The Mayflower had to allow the Galatea thirty-nine seconds, but she crossed the line twenty-nine minutes and forty-eight seconds ahead, thus beating the cutter twenty-nine minutes and nine seconds, with time allowance out, and no account made of towing and time limit.

For all this the race was a poor one, and decides nothing as to the relative merits of deep-keel cutters and centre-board sloops, except to show that the latter can do the best work in light airs and nearly dead calms. It is a pity that Lieut. Henn, the plucky, whole-souled sailor who owns the Galatea, could not have had one "cutter day" in which to show what his boat can do. The deciding race in last year's contest, when the Genesta and Puritan had all the wind and sea they wanted, and the Puritan won without carrying even a working topsail in the windward work, was something to crow over; but Saturday's race was not.

The Appledore house will close to-day. The steamer Oceanic will go to Philadelphia for the winter. The boat has not missed a trip during the season, for fog or any other reason, and has not once failed to make her connections. As in former years on the same route, Capt. Robinson has been highly popular with the travelling public during the season, and we hope he will be on the line next year.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

On Thursday last there was a yacht race off York harbor, which was more satisfactory to the participants and the spectators than was the more-widely-heralded one sailed the same day off New York harbor by the Galatea and Mayflower. Four York harbor boats contested for the championship of the York harbor fleet, and the race caused a large gathering of interested lookers-on, including Rear Adm. Taylor of the United States navy, Judge Aldrich of Washington, D. C., Ex-Minister Schenck and other noted men who have been summering in York, and many ladies. The course was from the buoy on East Point ledge, at the entrance to the harbor, to a stakeboat off York ledge and return, a distance of about nine miles. The boat Fannie, sailed by John Glenn, won the prize, the championship pennant.

On Farm Mortgages, only from 25 to 33 per cent of the actual cash value of the property is loaned, and the title, location, quality of land and future prospects of the property are personally looked up. Farm Loans are, when negotiated by experienced and responsible parties, the most profitable security offered, especially for those having small sums to invest from time to time. The Loans I offer are First-Class in every respect. Principal and interest when due, paid here without expense to the holder.

I have these Loans in sums from $300 to $5,000.

The citizens' meeting called by the mayor for Friday evening, in the common council room, was adjourned to Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, at the same place.

SOLDIERS' MONUMENT.

Money enough having been subscribed to warrant the erection of a monument to the gallant dead who fell in the war for the Union, a meeting of subscribers and others interested in the monument, is hereby called at the common council room, Monday, Sept. 13th, at eight o'clock P. M., to take action in the matter for a site for the proposed monument.

MARCELLUS ELDRIDGE,
Mayor, and chairman of committee.

THE BLACK CROOK.

Moulton & Baker's Black Crook Co. closed a very successful three days' engagement at Music hall on Saturday evening, presenting the brilliant spectacle to a large audience, notwithstanding the oppressive heat of the evening. The change in the quality of the audiences during the company's brief stay here, was amusing. On the opening night, Thursday, the percentage of men in the house was much larger than is seen at the ordinary variety show; Friday night the increase in the number of ladies was so marked as to attract general attention; the Saturday matinee was attended principally by ladies and children; and Saturday evening's audience was about such as ordinarily attends dramatic entertainments here.

Many people have entertained the idea that the Black Crook epitomizes all that is worst on the stage—that it is a piece which no decent woman can witness without a blush, which no young girl can attend without injury; but for this belief there is no just ground. As staged by this company, under the management of Mr. Rufus Somerby, there is less in it to offend even prudery than is to be seen in many a "society" drama, with which no fault is found. There is a large ballet, it is true, composed of exquisitely graceful and highly trained dancers; but there is not a hint of improper suggestion in any of their charming movements, and a person who would find fault with their costumes on the score of modesty, or the lack of it, would have no business in a fashionable ball room, or on a fashionable bathing beach "in the season." The Black Crook has no special claim to be considered "a great moral show," but neither is it in any sense the improper, not to say grossly immoral, production which many have always supposed it to be.

Should the company return here later in the season with this gorgeous spectacle and the same strong corps of specialists, the patronage would without question be very pleasing to the management.

EXCURSION TO THE LAKE.

The Boston & Maine railroad advertises a grand excursion from this city to Centre Harbor on Tuesday, Sept. 14th, the trip including a 60-mile sail on the beautiful Lake Winnipesaukee in the steamer Mt. Washington. The train will leave this city at 9:50 A. M.; tickets, good going Sept. 14th, and returning Sept. 14th and 15th, only $1.50 each. An excellent dinner will be served on board the steamer at a moderate price. See advertisement.

ROLAND REED IN "CHEEK."

On Wednesday evening next the comedian Roland Reed, and his own excellent company direct from the Boston Museum, will present in Music hall Marsden's latest success, "Cheek," of which the Boston Globe, during the recent run of the piece in that city said:

"Cheek" is a success, if the laughter, applause and evident satisfaction of the large audience Monday night, is a criterion. Mr. Marsden has given the play some bright and unaffectedly funny dialogue, the situations are ingeniously arranged, and the piece is much more enjoyable, with all its limitations and improbabilities, than many a more pretentious drama. In fact, we think "Cheek" combines so many elements of popularity that it is sure to please the public elsewhere. Mr. Roland Reed, who takes the part of the maid of cheek, always acts with earnestness, with a quick wit that is peculiarly his own, and a versatility that, even in an actor trained as Mr. Reed has been, is remarkable. Some of his operatic warblings last night were as good as any that we have had of this sort of thing. The star, who made his first bow to a Boston audience last night, is supported in "Cheek" by a company of more than average excellence. There wasn't a poor piece of acting done; and "Cheek," which was given a very good mounting, ran smoothly and effectively.

THE FIRST ACT IN THE GREAT WAR.

We published a month or two ago liberal extracts from a paper in Harper's in regard to the capture of Fort William & Mary, Newcastle, by the colonists; and some weeks later we copied from a New York journal a letter by Miss Mary P. Thompson of Durham, in which she gave some new facts, and refuted a number of the assumed facts of the previous writer. Miss Thompson recently had printed for private distribution only, "A Memoir of Judge Ebenezer Thompson of Durham, with some account of his parentage and offspring," and a notice of the book appears in the Dover Republican over the well known initials "A. H. Q.," in which that earnest seacher into local history makes special mention of two points in the memoir, one being a matter of genealogy; he goes on as follows:

The other point is one of criticism. We refer to the capture of Fort William & Mary in December, 1774. We know indeed of no extended account of this first act in the great war, which is accurate. There are fragments which can easily be made into a whole, but the several writers are comprehensive. Miss Thompson has lately criticised, with reason, a narative in the July Harper. But her new work still escapes the right order and completeness of events. The night attack, so called, of December 15, 1774, was not the capture of the fort. The movement of the Durham party in the freezing night of that December, was not the first act. The first act was at three o'clock in the afternoon, when the fort was assailed and captured against the firing of Captain Cochran's cannon and small arms. The plan was none of Capt. Thomas Pickering's; it was that of the committee of safety at Portsmouth, upon a letter from the committee of safety at Boston. It was an open plan, with drums beating in Portsmouth streets on the forenoon of the 14th, with Chief Justice Livius addressing the people in opposition as directed by the royal governor. The official report of Capt. Cochran, the letters of Gov. Wentworth, the report in the weekly press at the time, are all extant. We have enough material to make a large pamphlet, but it would explode Brewster's fable and plenty more. Miss Thompson was wise enough to condemn the nonsense about Paul Revere's coming to Durham, and being seen by Ebenezer Bennett, when said Bennett was at Packer's Falls, not Durham, but she does not give the history yet.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

SATURDAY, Sept. 11th.

Darius Johnson, who was before the court on a charge of druckenness, promised that if let off he would depart from the city, so he was allowed to go on probation.

Rev. James DeNormandie preached in the Unitarian church on Sunday to a very large congregation. Among the listeners were Henry C. Barnabee and wife of Boston, E. C. Stedman and wife of New York, and Pay Director George F. Cutter of the navy, and wife.

At the Universalist church, Sunday, the services were very interesting. In the morning Mr. Fisher preached from John 18:38—"What is truth." Subject, "Practical Faith." God made religion for man; there is no theology outside of the history of man's needs, and the laws that govern man's destiny. Study man's needs, study the eternal demands of his nature, and you have the groundwork for a practical faith. Lay fearlessly every point of your belief beside this test, "Does the nature of man demand this?" If it does, your point is true, if it does not, your point is false. In the evening the Murray club gave an entertainment, consisting of reading and recitations by the teachers and children of the Sunday school, singing by the choir, cornet solos by Mr. George M. Ayers, an organ voluntary by Mr. LaBrie, and remarks by the pastor.

The Salvation Army had a field day on Saturday night and Sunday, the local officers being reinforced by Capt. Happy Bill Dean, the saved drunkard, formerly in command of the army at Saco, Me., and later located at Chicago, Ill. Promptly at seven o'clock Sunday morning services were opened in the barracks in Association building on State street, next to the Unitarian church, and quite a large congregation gathered. The other services during the day and evening were well attended.

This is "Ember Week," and services will be held by the Episcopal and Catholic churches on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, "Ember Days."

Mr. John W. Ordiorne, formerly of this city and a brother of Mr. Augustus W. Odiorne, died very suddenly in Boston on Wednesday of last week, at the age of sixty-five years. Mr. Odiorne was a spar-maker by trade, and was at work on a spar when stricken by death. The remains were brought to this city for interment.

Mrs. Lucy A. Jackson, daughter of Mr. Thomas J. Whidden of Boston, formerly of this city, and wife of Mr. Howard L. Jackson, Boston manager of Jackson & Co.'s Express, died at her summer cottage in Scituate, Mass., on the 10th inst.

Seven marines arrived here Sunday morning by train from Boston, and proceeded to the navy yard. They were as fine-looking a set of men as is often seen.

The barque Jennie Sweeney was towed from the Concord railroad wharf to the Gas Co.'s wharf on Saturday, to take in ballast. In coming alongside the wharf she carried away the boat-landing of the Portsmouth Brewing Co.

The steam launch belonging to the United States fish commission steamer Fish Hawk, which was sunk in the lower harbor last winter, and fished up recently by the anchors of the barque Jennie Sweeney, was on Saturday taken from the Concord railroad wharf, where it had remained since being picked up, and shipped to Newport, R. I. The government paid $75 for the recovery of the launch.

The surf was very beautiful off Dow's and Odiorne's points on Saturday afternoon, the strong northwest wind catching the crest of the heavy swell and breaking it into a mass of feathery spray.

A Lady of 65. Cured After 40 Years.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "I now sit down to inform you of the good your Vegetable Compound has done for me. I am now sixty-five years of age, and have been troubled with the falling of the womb for forty years and have spent hundreds of dollars doctoring with different doctors but got no relief. I got discouraged and quit, and suffered on. I have taken various medicines but received no benefit. Last fall I was so bad that I employed another doctor that was recommended to me as one of the best for such complaints. I took his medicine two months but to no effect. Then I had tumors and kidney complaints very bad and was confined to my bed. Then I saw your Compound so highly recommended that I thought I would try once more. I have taken ten bottles of your Compound and two boxes of pills, and am now able to be on my feet the most of the time. I have no bearing down pains, and can walk a mile easily. I never expect to be a sound woman, but I am so much better than I ever expected to be that I want to recommend it to any one suffering with the same complaint." —Mrs. E. A. W. Napoleon, Jackson Co., Mich.

A Lady Says, "It Saved My Life."

A lady living near Haverhill, N. H., writing to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., says: "I have been taking your Compound and Liver Pills six months. I was very low when I commenced, without question it has been the means of saving my life."

companions. A man has no chance with dogfish. Hundreds of them will attack him, tearing pieces of flesh away, and he sinks in a twinkling. A couple of years ago a fisherman off Nantucket was swamped a quarter of a mile from shore. He swam but two or three strokes when he was seen to throw his hands up and disappear. The water was churned all around him, and the dogfish jumped into the air. He was never seen again. The dogfish now off the harbor are about two to three feet long."—New York Evening Post.

The Tendency of Cultivation.

The tendency of cultivation is to increase the size of that portion of the vegetable which is eaten by man. Gardeners and farmers practice an artificial selection which overrides natural selection, and preserves those characteristics which are most useful to mankind instead of those which are of most value to the plant itself. If a plant is in demand for the beauty of its blossoms, double flowers are soon developed by the conversion of the stamens into petals under the influence of high cultivation, and the inability of the double blossoms to set seed is overcame by the division of roots, the planting of cuttings, and other devices familiar to the horticulturist.

In a similar manner a plant which in a feral state has a tap-root of moderate size is converted into one which seems to exist only in order to grow a tap-root, and thus we get from the innocuous tribe of crucifers our great turnips and radishes, and from the more harmful umbelliferæ our carrots and parsnips. The noxious properties of a root are much reduced by this increase of size. There is first a dilution of the poisonous principle—it is diffused throughout a much larger quantity of matter than in the wild root, and secondly, there is a diminution in actual quantity through growth under human care, sheltered in a garden from the encroachments of rival plants and the inroads of animal foes.—W. N. Lockington in The American.

Counting a Million.

It is a fact that a Buffalo family, while traveling over Europe in a carriage some years ago, under the incentive of wagers, made a test of the matter of counting a million. Five members of the family performed the task respectively in three weeks, five weeks, two months, and six months. As the time was spent entirely in driving about the continent, it was possible to put in five or six hours of steady counting a day, and by the use of pebbles, which were shifted from one pocket into another to mark tens and hundreds, the labor was greatly facilitated. It may readily be imagined that the counting became a terrible bore to such of the party as were not participants, and one of the latter admits a recollection of sometimes in those days finding himself counting when he should have been saying his prayers, so mechanical did the habit become before the task was finished.—Buffalo Courier.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula.

For Consumption.

MR. SOLOMON WEIL, Baltimore, Md. "In December last I was suddenly stricken at my hotel with a severe hemorrhage, losing about one pint of blood at the first attack and large quantities frequently thereafter. My case was considered hopeless from the start, and so certain were my friends that I would die that they actually arranged for my funeral. I was ordered by my physician to use cod-liver oil and whiskey. On advice, I used whiskey I had seen recommended in Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. In a short time I discarded the oil, using only your whiskey. I feel that I owe my life to the saving qualities and purity of your whiskey."

S. LINN BIDELER, Dealer in Drugs, Books, Stationery, Mt. Pulaski, Illinois. Gentlemen—Mrs. Ann Foster was at the point of death with what doctors called quick consumption. Relatives were called in to see her die. Some one recommended Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. Her husband bought two bottles. She improved; he bought more, and in a short time she was up doing housework. I know, and it is conceded, that your remedy raised her from the dead.

S. LINN BIDELER.

CO M. ST., S. E. WASHINGTON, D. C. Sirs—I had hemorrhages, and was examined by a physician, who thought my lungs only slightly affected. In August I had three more hemorrhages and lost a quart of blood. Another physician said I was in the last stages of consumption, and finally I quit work, giving up the ghost. I obtained your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and took it in connection with your Duffy's Formula. I have gained flesh and strength rapidly and am almost completely restored.

E. W. ROSWELL.

ROCHESTER, (N. Y.) HOME OF INDUSTRY, } 200 S. St. Paul Street, Nov. 3, 1885. }

It gives me pleasure to recommend Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, which I have used with satisfaction for consumption in the last stages of that dread disease. Aside from its medicinal properties, it is very nutritious, and I find it agrees with me when all other stimulants fail. I recommend it to all.

A FEW EARNEST WORDS.

Does any one who reads these lines feel tired or nervous? Does your head ever ache? Is your appetite sometimes poor and again voracious? Do you notice brick-dust at the bottom or a scum on the fluids you pass? Are these fluids scanty at times and painful at others? Do you have headaches once in a while? If you have these feelings, DO YOU KNOW WHAT THEY MEAN! Your Kidneys are Diseased! It may be only the beginning, but if not taken in time, Bright's Disease, and death in its most horrible form will be the end. YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO TRIFLE WITH THEM.

MR. JOHN W. FURBUSH, an army veteran, of Wakefield, Mass., neglected these symptoms and was brought to the door of death. He took HUNT'S REMEDY and is well to-day.

MRS. ALEXANDER L. NICHOLAS, of Phœnix, R. I., and a descendant of General Nathaniel Greene, was near the grave her breath only came in gasps, but she was restored to health by using HUNT'S REMEDY.

The wife of Captain S. Greenwood, master of the well known Steamer Kanawha, had a large and painful swelling in the side, which was thought to be a tumor. It soon disappeared after using HUNT'S REMEDY. Captain Greenwood himself was cured of terrible Catarrh of the Bladder by the same means.

These are only a few of many wonderful cures showing that HUNT'S REMEDY does cure the worst of all known diseases.

Do not, however, Delay. Observe the first symptoms and act promptly. You will certainly escape awful suffering and possibly death itself. For Sale by all Dealers.

Humane Shipment of Cattle.

The practicability of shipping wild western range cattle in improved stock cars, in which the cattle can lie down and be fed and watered in transit, thereby saving the enormous shrinkage which is unavoidable by the old method of transportation, seems to be satisfactorily demonstrated, judging by the following article in the Albuquerque (New Mexico) Journal of August 20th, 1886:—

The train of sixteen Burton feeding and watering cars which left Albuquerque at eleven o'clock A. M. August 6th, loaded with wild range steers, consigned to Walter C. Weedon & Co., Kansas City, Mo., from the Aztec Land & Cattle company of Holbrook, Ari., made the quickest live stock run on record. The actual running time from Albuquerque to Kansas City was forty-five hours on the 918 miles. The cars were liberally supplied with water twice daily, from the railroad tanks, consuming but four minutes to the car at each watering. They were fed hay while the train was running at full speed, and consumed 6,600 pounds of hay on the trip. The steers ate and drank freely, and laid down in the cars and chewed their cuds contentedly. They were taken through the entire distance without unloading, and reached the Kansas City stockyards in the finest condition of any Arizona cattle ever received, not an animal being bruised or blemished. This shipment demonstrates fully that wild range cattle can be profitably transported long distances in the Burton feeding and watering cars. The fat steers eat and drink freely, thereby saving a shrinkage in transit. Having no delays to feed and water, they gain much time in transit over the common cars, and arrive at market cool and in condition for healthy human food. This test shipment was watched with great interest by stockmen and the transportation companies, and we are glad to note such a complete success.

The September number of The "Cosmopolitan" opens with a story of thrilling interest by Ivan Tourgueneff, entitled "A Song of Triumphant Love." It contains a humorous story entitled "The Pope's Mule," by Alphonso Daudet. "The Wandering Samaritan," by Mary E. Wilkins, is a lively Yankee story. The second part of Wm. T. Hornaday's article on "A Yankee in Canton" contains several beautiful illustrations. "The Isle of Ship-Wrecks," "The Golden Winged Woodpecker," and "A Mystery of the Colorado Desert" are delightful sketches. "The New North" is an interesting discussion of the changes in the north that have occurred since the war. The article "Carpet Moths" in The Household is worth ten times the price of the magazine. The department of Young Folks has two very entertaining stories. The three full page illustrations are beautiful.

The Austrian government has sent a diplomatic note to St. Petersburg protesting against the sending of a Russian official to Bulgaria. A St. Petersburg paper, a semi-official organ, says that "Of all the signers of the Berlin treaty England alone appears inclined to oppose Russia's Bulgarian policy. Russia must know whether England's intention is serious in order to prepare herself to take measures accordingly, as Russia will not be brought to a standstill by England's veto." They may get up a fight over the Bulgarian matter yet.

I Had Faith.

About six months ago I was advised to consult Mrs. Hall, the great Spiritualist doctor, to see if she could cure me of scrofula, from which I have suffered from childhood. She said if I would have faith in the medicine she gave me, that she could cure me. I took her medicine, and in less than three months I was cured. Why, the way the medicine worked was a miracle. I begged of her to tell me what the medicine was made of, but she said she could not do so. Finally she told me the medicine was Sulpher Bitters, and that she never knew it to fail in all such cases as mine.—Mrs. Clara Knowlton, 35 Hanover street, Boston, Mass.

Encouragement for the Feeble.

So long as the failing embers of vitality are capable of being re-kindled into a warm and genial glow, just so long there is hope for the weak and emaciated invalid. Let him not, therefore, despond, but derive encouragement from this, and from the further fact that there is a restorative most potent in renewing the dilapidated powers of a broken down system. Yes, thanks to its unexampled tonic virtues, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is daily reviving strength in the bodies and hope in the minds of the feeble and nervous. Appetite, refreshing sleep, the acquisition of flesh and color, are blessings attendant upon the reparative processes which this priceless invigorant speedily initiates and carries to a successful conclusion. Digestion is restored, the blood fertilized, and sustenance afforded to each life-sustaining organ by the Bitters, which is inoffensive even to the feminine palate, vegetable in composition, and thoroughly safe. Use it, and regain vigor!

Collector Magone, of the New York custom house, discovered last week that a firm of New York glove manufacturers had been permitted by a United States storekeeper named Hill to remove large invoices of goods from the warehouse without payment of duties. The money to the amount of $17,000, was forthcoming on short notice. A new storekeeper will be appointed to succeed Hill.

We think we can cure a bad case of backache quicker with one of Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Backache Plasters than by any other application, and after the backache is cured, you can still wear the plaster without discomfort for two or three weeks or longer. This combination of smart weed and belladonna is a great hit, and it is hard to find any pain or ache that will not yield to it. Price 25 cents. Sold by druggists everywhere.

I Am An Old Man.

Shall be 79 years of age next June, and for the last six years have suffered from general debility and old age. At times I could not get out of bed without help. I commenced to take Sulphur Bitters. In a week I felt stronger and got a mighty fine appetite. I still continued their use, and to-day I walked over three miles without feeling tired, something I haven't done in five years before. Sulphur Bitters is a right smart medicine.—George Brown, Keokuk, Iowa.

What is the use of suffering with backache, rheumatism, kidney diseases, sciatica, crick, stitches, chest and lung troubles, torpid liver, or soreness in any part when a Hop Plaster will certainly give you relief? Vastly superior to all other porous plasters. You'll say so. 25c.

The treasury department is solicitous concerning the present whereabouts of Henry F. Beecher, ex-customs collector at Puget's Sound. Mr. Beecher is a son of Brooklyn's great preacher. There is a discrepancy of $5300 in his official accounts which the government is anxious to have explained. The discrepancy grew out of the $40,000 opium seizure made by Collector Beecher, which he alone, it seems, can satisfactorily explain.

It is certain that the longer a speech, the weaker it is, but not so with a cold, the longer it runs, the worse it becomes. The circumstances attending the recent seizure of the schooner Pearl Nelson, at Arichat, N. S., are reported to have been as follows: On Aug. 24th James Sampson, a native of Petit de Grat, near Arichat, one of the crew of the schooner, was upset from his dory, and drowned. Capt. Kempt, of the Pearl Nelson, who is a native of the same place, put into Arichat to convey the sad news to the widow and children of the dead sailor. In order to convey the intelligence to the poor woman as speedily as possible he did not first go to the trouble and inconvenience of entering at the custom house, many miles distant, and for this trivial breach of customs regulations he was unceremoniously seized by Collector Benoit, and fined $400.

The Only

medicine I ever found that helped me at all is ATHLOPHOROS, and I have not had the Rheumatism since I took it.—EDWIN SEARS, Provincetown, Mass.

A professor in a medical college once said to his class "put your hand in a vice, turn the screw until the pain is all you can bear, and that's rheumatism; turn the screw once more, and that's neuralgia—and gentlemen, the medical profession knows no cure for either." That was before the discovery of ATHLOPHOROS quickly cure both rheumatism and neuralgia, and many physicians use it regularly—frankly admitting that they can prescribe nothing else so effective.

Many persons have tried so many so-called remedies, without benefit, that they have no faith to try more, but it is worth your while to try Athlophoros. If you have any doubts as to its value write for names of parties in your own State who have been cured by its use.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

AN OLD STORY.

When the spring was beginning and May day was nigh,
On a country girl spinning the king cast his eye;
Fair flourish the roses anear the court wall,
But the rose of the hedges is fairest of all.
"Let me hide my fool's face 'neath a lying tombstone,
For the world's gone a-maying, I mope here alone."
Said the jester, who sat on the steps of the throne.

But the blossoms will fade which the thoughtless have torn,
And the cheeks of a maid will grow withered and worn,
Why should there for such a small matter be woe,
Since each hedge, and each village, such roses will show?
"King! go to your wine; pretty maiden! go moan!
When its meat hath been mumbled we leave the picked bone,"
Said the jester, who sat on the steps of the throne.

Yet a peasant is grinding a knife sharp and strong,
And silently winding his way through the throng—
Then the dogs must be driven from licking the gore
Of a monarch struck down at his own palace door.
"Though her name be a gibe, and her altars o'erthrown,
In the end, gossip Justice will seize on her own,"
Said the jester, who sat on the steps of the throne.

A FAMOUS TRUCKING SECTION.

The Rich Region That Has Been Developed in Southeastern Virginia.

The famous trucking in the vicinity of Norfolk, Va., lies principally in portions of Norfolk, Nausemond and Princess Anne counties. Various causes combine in rendering the section especially suitable for the trucking business. The soil being a light sandy loam becomes warm early in the spring, is readily influenced by fertilizers, which are held by a clay subsoil from three to four feet beneath the surface. The influence of the salt atmosphere of the ocean to a great extent counteracts frost in early spring, while proximity to the gulf stream renders the winter milder and the spring earlier than at other points of the same latitude. The relative situation and accessibility by water to great northern markets contribute to the desirability of the section.

The well-known fact that Norfolk truck reaches market in better condition than that from many other sections is due to the fact that the bulk of it is hauled in spring wagons to the wharves and thence forwarded without further transfer by water transportation. With so many favorable conditions it may be readily seen why this section has so wonderfully developed since the period when trucking was systematically begun there, not over twenty years ago. Nearly all of the truckers are natives who own their own farms, inherited from ancestors, and all of them have been made well-to-do or wealthy by the business which they follow. I never knew of one who made a failure. Sometimes the losses are very heavy on one article by reason of depression in the market, but these are invariably offset by good prices received for other produce. Some idea may be formed of the fluctuation in prices when it is known that in the case of an article, kale, so largely produced there, the price varies according to circumstances from 3 cents to $1.50 per barrel.

Large experience, system and undivided attention, added to natural advantages, produce the satisfactory results spoken of rather than any peculiar method of cultivation. The ordinary system of hot-bed culture obtains and vegetation is forced by the judicious use of fertilizers, without which the business would prove a failure, for though the soil is admirably adapted to trucking it is what is generally denominated poor land. The business is conducted by some parties upon a very extensive scale. The Young strawberry farm, two miles from Norfolk city, is the largest in the world. A few years since a Mr. Ames, of Nansemond county, sold half of his potato crop for $20,000; what he realized for the balance I did not learn. The same season Mr. Ambrose Lindsay, the largest trucker in the same county, disposed of his crop of the same vegetable for $90,000.—Norfolk (Va.) Cor. Philadelphia Times.

The Mania of Feuds.

German papers occasionally allude to the irrepressible feuds of our Kentucky mountaineers, whose penchant for self-help they seem to consider a characteristic of anglo-American manhood in a state of nature. But how would they reconcile that theory with the law-abiding conservatism of the same variety of the genus homo in Tennessee and western North Carolina? Is the feud mania, like milk-sickness and goitre, the product of special highland districts, or, like consumption, a hereditary and slightly contagious, though not epidemic, disease?—Dr. Felix L. Oswald.

Mingling of Different Bloods.

Every individual must be regarded as a very complex mingling of widely different bloods. To go no farther back than the grandparents he must be composed of at least fourteen different natures. It is not to be wondered at that such a multiplicity of combinations should lead to great variations. The wonder seems rather that members of a family should resemble one another as

I am a great sufferer from rheumatism for the last three years. I was induced to try a bottle of Athlophoros. I have since taken six and can now attend to my business and consider myself a well man. E. Parkhurst, Woonsocket, R. I.

For purifying and vitalizing effects, Hood's Sarsaparilla has been found superior to any other preparation. MAINE ELECTION.

The state of Maine on Monday, the 13th inst., elected a governor, four congressmen, thirty-one state senators and 151 representatives, and county officers in all the sixteen counties of the state.

There were three complete tickets in the field for governor and congressmen, namely, the republican, democratic and prohibition; and the labor party had candidates in nomination for congressmen in the first, second and third districts. The nominations were:

Republican—For governor, Joseph R. Bodwell of Hallowell. Congressmen—First district, Thomas B. Reed of Portland; second district, Nelson Dingley, Jr., Lewiston; third district, Seth L. Milliken, Belfast; fourth district, Charles A. Boutelle, Bangor. These are the present congressmen from the state.

Democratic—For governor, Clark S. Edwards of Bethel. Congressmen—First district, William H. Clifford, Portland; second district, Alonzo Garcelon, Lewiston; third district, Joseph E. Ladd, Gardiner; fourth district, John F. Lynch, Machias.

Prohibition—For governor, Aaron Clark of Buxton. Congressmen—First district, Timothy B. Hussey, North Berwick; second district, William T. Eustis, Dixfield; third district, Henry H. Harvey, Augusta, fourth district, Charles S. Pitcher, Easton.

Labor—For governor, no nomination. Congressmen—First district, David O. Moulton, Falmouth; second district, William T. Eustis, Dixfield: third district, Joseph E. Ladd, Gardiner; fourth district, no nomination.

The aggregate gubernatorial vote in 1884 was 142,107, divided as follows: Republican, 78,699; democratic, 58,954; prohibition, 1,151; greenback, 3,239; scattering, 64. In 1882, the "off year," like the present, the aggregate vote was 138,478, divided as follows: Republican, 72,481; fusion, 63,921; prohibition, 381; greenback, 1,324; independent republican, 269; scattering, 102.

The congressional pluralities in 1884 were: First district, 925; second, 5,789; third, 6,217; fourth, 5,578. The legislature elected in 1884 stood: Senate, 31, all republican; House, 151, of which 115 were republican, 34 democratic and 2 greenback.

The strongest fight made by the democrats was in the first congressional district, where they claimed the defeat of Reed and the election of Clifford. They said Reed's plurality in Portland would not be 200, and that Clifford would carry Cumberland county by 600, while York county would give but a small margin either way. The republicans claimed 300 plurality for Reed in Portland, and his re-election by about the plurality of two years ago, 925. There was no question as to the election of the republican candidates for congress in the other three districts; and in the first district "the laboring and lower classes, those people who labor for their bread," did not rally to the support of the gentleman who so referred to them, and he will not go to Congress this time. The republicans have elected their governor by a larger plurality than they claimed, and all the congressmen, and they have a good working majority in the legislature, which assures the return of Eugene Hale to the United States senate. We give the summaries, and the votes of the towns in York county and the principal places in the rest of the state, received up to the closing of the telegraph office:

PORTLAND, 9:30 P. M.

One hundred towns give Bodwell 27,129, Edwards 21,869, Clark 1,470, scattering 63; Bodwell's plurality 5,260. Same towns in 1884 gave Robie 31,153, Redman 23,410, scattering 1,899; Robie's plurality 7,743.

PORTLAND, 10:30 P. M.

One hundred and fifty towns give Bodwell 34,111, Edwards 27,017, Clark 1,813, scattering 63; Bodwell's plurality 7,094. Same towns in 1884 gave Robie 38,998, Redman 28,802, scattering 2,183; Robie's plurality 10,186.

PORTLAND, 11:45 P. M.

Returns indicate Reed's election in first district by a plurality of about 1,000. Two hundred towns give Bodwell 44,995, Edwards 36,166, Clark 2,207, scattering 55; Bodwell's plurality 8,829. Same towns in 1884 gave Robie 51,673, Redman 38,349, scattering 2,812; Robie's plurality 13,323.

The new cruiser Atlanta is to be given a trial trip this week, and it is to be sincerely hoped that no hot-box or sea-sick committee man will be discovered, to furnish convincing evidence of her structural weakness.

AROUND HOME.

A jovial and popular ex-mayor of the city knows more about fire-alarm boxkeys, and how the pesky things work, than he used to. He knows now that if you open the box to examine the "insides" of the same, you can't get the key out again any more than you can when you open the box to pull in an alarm.

Miss Florence A. Webb, one of the young lady graduates of the class of '86 of the Portsmouth high school, is to attend the Gorham (Me.) normal school. Miss Webb recently removed with her parents to Cape Elizabeth, Me. The class of '86 has excelled any previous class in the number of its members it has sent away to school.

Mr. O'Donnell, father of James O'Donnell, who was reported in the Penny Post of Monday evening as having the previous day engaged in a prize fight on a wharf with Timothy Kierly, informs us that the story is entirely without foundation, his son and Kierly being on the best of terms, and having had no fight at all.

Rev. Eugene M. O'Callaghan, of this city, has recently been visiting his native town, Kanturk, Ireland. He preached on a recent day in the Church of the Immaculate Conception at Kanturk, delighting the large congregation with his earnestness and eloquence. Writes a correspondent of the Cork Examiner: "This is the second visit of the reverend gentleman to his native country. On a former occasion he was presented with a beautiful chalice wrought in gold. He has had an extensive tour on the continent, and in England and his native country, and will leave shortly for his distant parish in that greater Ireland beyond the Atlantic; and many a fervent prayer will be breathed for his safe journey to his distant home by his old friends, and that the pleasure may be theirs again at no distant date of welcoming him to the dear old land he warmly loves."

Nathaniel Gilman White, an old and wealthy citizen of Lawrence, Mass., died suddenly last Sunday morning of heart disease at Little Boar's Head. Mr. White was about sixty-seven years old, had lived in Lawrence since its founding, and in 1872 was elected president of the Boston & Maine railroad, which office he held until 1882, when he resigned and went to Europe for two years.

A Snort from the Sea-Serpent.

The story told by Captain Hitchcock of the appearance of a strange aquatic monster in the Hudson continues to receive confirmation. Two boatmen report that on a recent morning, a little below Hudson, they saw what in the distance appeared to be a huge, shapeless mass of wreck, but on nearer approach and closer inspection proved beyond question to be the serpent described by Captain Hitchcock as seen near Albany. They describe it as being of lead color, about thirty feet long, with a large head, flat on the top, and disproportionately large eyes. It moves swiftly, but heavily, causing much motion in the water when it is near the surface. They fired two shots at it, but neither produced any effect beyond a kind of snort, from which they incline to the belief held by many seafaring men that the sea-serpent is scaly.

A FEW EARNEST WORDS.

Does any one who reads these lines feel tired or nervous? Have you despondent feelings? Is your appetite sometimes poor and again voracious? Do you notice dust at the bottom or a scum on the top of the fluids you pass? Are these fluids scant at times and plentiful at others? Do you have headaches once in a while? If you have these feelings, DO YOU KNOW WHAT THEY MEAN? Your Kidneys are Diseased!!! It may be only the beginning, but if not taken in time, Bright's Disease, and death in its most horrible form will be the end. YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO TRIFLE WITH THEM.

MR. JOHN W. FURBUSH, an army veteran, of Wakefield, Mass., neglected these symptoms and was brought to deaths door. He took HUNT'S REMEDY and is well to-day.

MRS. ALEXANDER L. NICHOLAS, of Phœnix, R. I., and a descendant of General Nathaniel Greene, was so near the grave her breath only came in gasps, but she was restored to health by using HUNT'S REMEDY.

The wife of Captain S. Greenwood, master of the well known Steamer Kanawha, had a large and painful swelling in the side, which was thought to be a tumor. It quickly disappeared after using HUNT'S REMEDY. Captain Greenwood himself was cured of terrible Catarrh of the Bladder by the same means.

These are only a few of many wonderful cures showing that HUNT'S REMEDY does cure the worst of all known diseases.

Do not, however, Delay. Observe the first symptoms and act promptly. You will certainly escape awful suffering and possibly death itself. For Sale by all Dealers.

For Instant Use

As a reliable remedy, in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, or sudden Colds, and for the prompt relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." John H. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equal to

AYER'S

Cherry Pectoral

for the prompt relief of throat and lung diseases peculiar to children. I consider it an absolute cure for all such affections, and am never without it in the house." Mrs. L. E. Herman, 187 Mercer st., Jersey City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral useful in my family." B. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Stickler, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of a severe lung affection, supposed to be Quick Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. Breckenridge, Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and, wherever I go, am always sure to have a bottle of

with me. It is without a rival for the cure of bronchial affections."

AID FOR CHARLESTON.

At the meeting of citizens in the common council room, Monday afternoon, in regard to the matter of assisting to relieve the sufferings of the distressed people of Charleston, S. C., Mayor Eldredge was chosen chairman, and Samuel R. Gardner secretary. Much interest was manifested by those present, and immediate steps will be taken to render all the aid possible. It was decided to have headings prepared and left at various prominent places for subscriptions to the worthy object. Mayor Eldredge was appointed treasurer to receive all that may be offered, and a paper will be left at the Mayor's office in the city building, where all who wish may leave their contributions, and receive a receipt therefor. Due acknowledgment will be made in the papers.

SOLDIERS' MONUMENT.

At the meeting of the citizens called by the Mayor at the city rooms on Monday evening, to locate a site for the proposed Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument, Mr. Gignoux, the treasurer, reported that between three and four thousand dollars had been subscribed. A committee was appointed consisting of E. H. Winchester, Esq., Dr. J. W. Parsons, and Mr. D. J. Vaughan, to report at a subsequent meeting a suitable location and its probable cost. During the evening considerable discusion was had as to the advisability of erecting a Memorial Hall instead of a shaft, but it was finally decided best not to abandon the original plan of a monument.

ROLAND REED IN "CHEEK."

The Biddeford Journal of the 9th inst. said: "The production of Cheek by the Roland Reed company was keenly enjoyed by a good-sized audience last night. As Dick Smyth, Mr. Reed was capital, the character giving him ample opportunity for the display of his abilities as a comedian. One of the features was Mr. Reed's singing, particularly his pocket edition of the Mikado. He was well supported." At Music hall to-morrow (Wednesday) evening; tickets at Goodrich's. See advertisement.

POLICE COURT--HATCHELDER J.

ODD FELLOWS' MEETING--GRAND LODGE.

The annual meeting of the Supreme Grand Lodge of the United States and Canada, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will be held in Boston on Wednesday and Thursday of next week, Sept. 22d and 23d. The railroad ticket agents have agreed that from points in New Hampshire rates shall be based on one and one-half cents per mile each way, short mileage; tickets to be sold only to Odd Fellows and their families, and Daughters of Rebecca, who shall each present a certificate of membership in a lodge from the secretary thereof, which shall be stamped by the ticket agent on sale of the tickets, and when said certificate is so stamped no more tickets shall be sold on that certificate. The limit of tickets to be good going Sept. 20th, 21st, 22d and 23d, and good to return on any train leaving Boston until Sept. 27th, inclusive. These tickets will be on sale at about sixty stations in this state where it is known to the railroad authorities that Odd Fellows' lodges are located, including Portsmouth, Hampton, South Newmarket, Newmarket, Exeter, Dover, Great Falls, Farmington and Rochester.

A SHIPMASTER COMPLIMENTED.

The Star and Herald of Panama, Central America, in its issue of Aug. 24th had the following concerning Capt. W. G. Shackford, a native of this city:

From a passenger we learn that the Newport, on her present trip from New York, encountered on the afternoon of August 19th, soon after leaving the island of Nevassa, a storm of unusual severity. During the afternoon the sea grew rough and rain fell in torrents, while at the same time a strong wind from the northeast increased to a gale. About six o'clock, P. M., the steamer rolled and pitched at a fearful rate. Night came on, and the passengers on board began to feel anxious. It was impossible to move about without hanging on to the hand rails, so great was the motion, and several persons were more or less injured, though in no case seriously. At about eight P. M., the barometer continuing to fall, the steamer was hauled off her course and headed eastward, away from the vortex of the storm which by that hour had developed all the symptoms of a well defined cyclone. The wind had increased to a hurricane and the seas were fearful at the time the course was changed. It is doubtless true that unless such change had been promptly made, the steamer would have been in great peril; but as it was, although the night of the 19th was one of much discomfort and of some alarm, before morning the storm centre had passed to the northward and westward, and the ship's course was resumed. The trip was remarkably pleasant with this exception. About seven hours delay was caused, otherwise the Newport would have arrived at Colon in just seven days from New York. Great satisfaction was felt and expressed by the passengers at the conduct of Commodore Shackford and his officers, in bringing the steamer safely through, or rather around the cyclone. This evidently is the same cyclone of which we have had telegraphic accounts from Jamaica and Cuba.

The following complimentary tribute to Commodore W. G. Shackford, senior commander of the Pacific Mail line on the Atlantic, commanding the steamship Newport, and to the officers and crew serving under him, was presented by the passengers whose names are appended, upon the arrival of the steamer at Colon, on the evening of the 21st inst:—

"To Commodore W. G. Shackford: Dear Sir:—We, the undersigned passengers by the steamship Newport of the Pacific Mail line, under your command, beg to offer you and your officers and crew, our sincere and grateful thanks, for having so skillfully and safely brought us through the severe storm of Aug. 19th. We also ask you to accept the accompanying purse from us, as a further slight testimonial of our kind regard, and as a souvenir of a very pleasant, prosperous and rapid voyage, notwithstanding the dreadful cyclone which we encountered, and from which we and the good ship Newport were saved by your admirable seamanship."

[Here followed the names of the saloon passengers who made the passage in the steamship that trip.]

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

Lieuts. York Noel and Frank E. Sawyer are detached from the Swatara, now lying at this navy yard, and placed on waiting orders.

First Lieut. L. H. Gulick, U. S. M. C., has been detached from the marine barracks at this navy yard, and placed on waiting orders.

About all the democratic block and spar makers in the city were "required" on the navy yard Monday, to go to work Tuesday morning. Republican block and spar makers may have been required too, but our informant could not say as to this.

MARITIME NOTES.

The landing and brow from Appledore have been towed in and laid up at Jones' wharf; the steamer Oceanic is occupying a berth at the same wharf.

As Capt. David R. Grogan, keeper of While Island light, Isles of Shoals, was going out through the narrows about noon on Monday on his way to the island, the foremast of the boat was carried away by a sudden flaw of wind. He kept on, however, and when off Newcastle was taken in tow by the steamer Pinafore, which was bound to the Shoals.

There were sixty-two coasting vessels in the lower harbor Sunday night, for shelter; all of them sailed on Monday.

The steamer Oceanic, Capt. Robinson, will make a trip up the river and across Great bay on Friday next, going as far as Newmarket bridge. It the day is pleasant the trip will be a most enjoyable one.

Mr. Daniel Stephens has gone to work on the navy yard as a caulker. Mr. Stephens used to work in the same capacity in the shipbuilding yards on this river years ago, at the time when Richard J. Walden, Stephen Leach and Benjamin W. Bailey used to do the caulking work for the big (they were big for those days) New York packet ships which brought over in safety from Liverpool so many immigrants from the old country. He is now the principal of the police force of Durham, and the selectmen of that town will have to look out for the safety of the village during his absence. A son of his is an efficient assistant marshal of the city of Dover.

Railroad and steamboat excursion to Centre Harbor to-day; see advertisement.

Editor of the Gazette: I was glad to see, by your issue of Sept. 2d, that two Portsmouth widows have each been granted a special pension by Congress, and the bills been approved, or at least not vetoed, by the president. The surviving and dependent relatives of the gallant officers of our army and navy should certainly be remembered. There is another poor widow in this city, whose husband fought bravely in the Mexican war, and also on the Union side throughout the rebellion; and in addition to this, the now widow was a nurse in the New England regiment in the Mexican war, and marched with her regiment into the city of Mexico after its capture by Gen. Scott. She is now advanced in years; the infirmities of age are gradually but surely overtaking her, and she is poor. Where is her pension? Surely there can be few cases more really deserving a pension, than hers. P.

S. C. Shapleigh and William Hill, of Eliot, who last year raised great crops of musk-melons and hoped to repeat the success this year, report that the continued hot days and cold nights of this season have caused the melons to crack so badly on the vines that many of them are worthless, while a still larger number will be worth very little for the market.

A watering trough supplied with excellent spring water, and having painted along its front in capital letters the words "Pro Bono Publico," has been placed beside the road leading from Exeter to Hampton, near the latter village. The number of teams that have stopped there during the summer to partake of the cool water would hardly be credited were it given; from fifteen to thirty an hour, during the heated term and the season of beach travel, was a very common average through the day.

Lydia E. Pinkham

A Lady of 65. Cured After 40 Years.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "I now sit down to inform you of the good your Vegetable Compound has done for me. I am now sixty-five years of age, and have been troubled with the falling of the womb for forty years and have spent hundreds of dollars doctoring with different doctors but got no relief. I got discouraged and quit, and suffered on. I have taken various medicines but received no benefit. Last fall I was so bad that I employed another doctor that was recommended to me as one of the best for such complaints. I took his medicine two months but to no effect. Then I had tumors and kidney complaints very bad and was confined to my bed. Then I saw your Compound so highly recommended that I thought I would try once more. I have taken ten bottles of your Compound and two boxes of pills, and am now able to be on my feet the most of the time. I have no bearing down pains, and can walk a mile easily. I never expect to be a sound woman, but I am so much better than I ever expected to be that I want to recommend it to any one suffering with the same complaint." —Mrs. E. A. W. Napoleon, Jackson Co., Mich.

A Lady Says, "It Saved My Life."

A lady living near Haverhill, N. H., writing to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., says: "I have been taking your Compound and Liver Pills six months. I was very low when I commenced, without question it has been the means of saving my life."

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never failing cure for ills incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, concentrated, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaints, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drunk, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for

of The Delicious Summer Medicine.

much as they undoubtedly do. Sometimes in face, sometimes in form, frequently in the gait, gesture, and tone of voice. family peculiarities make themselves apparent. To many of these traits Mr. Francis Galton has devoted his attention. His latest interest has been shown in the color of the eye. The tints of the eye, for the purposes of his inquiry, were divided into "light," "hazel and dark gray," and "dark." "The heritage of peculiarity" in relation to eye-color for any child was found to amount to one-fourth from each parent and one-sixteenth from each grandparent.—Chicago News.

Mexico's Manufacturing City.

Leon, Guanajuato, is the great manufacturing city. Every week are made there 10,000 saddles, 25,000 common blankets, 10,000 fine blankets, 28,000 pairs of shoes for men, 20,000 pairs for women, and 30,000 pairs for children.—Chicago Times.

The Philosophy of "Cram."

The exercise of "cram" before examinations at college has been much ridiculed and denounced. It is defended by Professor W. T. Harris in The Forum. "Of all my school discipline, I have found this one of the most useful. The ability to throw one's self upon a difficulty with several times his ordinary working power is required again and again in practical life on meeting any considerable obstacles."—Chicago Times.

In a Lawyer's Office.

The advocate and his client are arguing about the fee. "It seems to me," said the latter, "that $2,000 for a single speech is just a trifle steep, don't you think so?" "My dear sir, allow me to explain. As yours is one of those cases I am sure to lose, my reputation at the bar will naturally suffer, and from this point of view I do not consider the sum named an excessive compensation."—German Joke.

Production of Artificial Ivory.

Artificial ivory exhibited at the Amsterdam exhibition is stated to have been produced from the bones of sheep and waste pieces of deer and kid skins. The bones are macerated and bleached for two weeks in chloride of lime, then heated by steam along with the skin so as to form a fluid mass; to which a small quantity of alum is added. The mass is then filtered, dried in the air, and allowed to harden in a bath of alum, the result being white, tough plates, which are more easily worked than natural ivory.—Frank Leslie's.

Early Marriages in Canada.

Early marriages is the rule among French Canadians. Originating in the early history of the country, when women were few and the government and church alike encouraged girls in their teens to become wives, the practice has become permanent, and for lads who have not reached their majority to be fathers and girls of 16 to become mothers is too common to cause remark. —Chicago Herald.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or ITCHING of the scalp, should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHTY PER CENT of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the person may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have produced a good growth of Hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:

We grow Hair in 9 cases out of 100, no matter how long bald.

Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or variable mineral poisons.

It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.

The Hair Grower is a half-food, and its composition is almost exactly like the oil which supplies the hair with its vitality.

DOUBLE AND TRIPLE STRENGTH.

When the skin is very tough and hard, and the follicle is apparently effectually closed, the single strength will sometimes fail to reach the papilla; in such cases the double or triple strength should be used in connection with the single, using them alternately.

Price, Single strength $1.00; Double strength $2.00; Triple strength $3.00. If your druggists have not got it we will send it prepaid on receipt of price. BENTON HAIR GROWER CO., Cleveland, O.

The signal corps station at Nantucket, Mass., reported on the 13th inst. to the chief signal officer that a large unknown three-masted schooner was sunk in the vicinity of Sandy Point, Nantucket, with her sails hanging loose and overboard. No particulars could be learned. Four hundred bags of flour were found near Tuckernuck beach.

Encouragement for the Feeble.

So long as the failing embers of vitality are capable of being re-kindled into a warm and genial glow, just so long there is hope for the weak and emaciated invalid. Let him not, therefore, despond, but derive encouragement from this, and from the further fact that there is a restorative most potent in renewing the dissipated powers of a broken down system. Yes, thanks to its unexampled tonic virtues, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is daily reviving strength in the bodies and hope in the minds of the feeble and nervous. Appetite, refreshing sleep, the acquisition of flesh and color, are blessings attendant upon the reparative processes which this priceless invigorant speedily initiates and carries to a successful conclusion. Digestion is restored, the blood fertilized, and sustenance afforded to each life-sustaining organ by the Bitters, which is inoffensive even to the feminine palate, vegetable in composition, and thoroughly safe. Use it, and regain vigor!

We think we can cure a bad case of backache quicker with one of Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Backache Plasters than by any other application, and after the backache is cured, you can still wear the plaster without discomfort for two or three weeks or longer. This combination of smart weed and belladonna is a great hit, and it is hard to find any pain or ache that will not yield to it. Price 25 cents. Sold by druggists everywhere.

SCENES IN CASTLE GARDEN.

Among the Immigrants—A Family Meeting—Deluded Russians.

The interior of Castle Garden is like a scene from a comic opera. Everything is foreign. It is a great semi-circular structure with as little useless ornamentation as a Kansas barn. The floor is divided into compartments by low railings, and in each of these is a lunch counter, a few benches, and a desk that looks like an auctioneer's stand. From one compartment, or pen, to another are passageways just wide enough to admit one person at a time. When a fresh lot of immigrants arrive the desks are moved up to the railing by these passages, and all the people have to pass through and answer the questions of the inspector. The process is rapid, for at this stage all that is learned is the immigrant's name, his occupation or trade, etc. If a man is able to take care of himself he can readily show it, and when there is any doubt about it the inspector does not attempt to settle it, but passes the man along into one of the neighboring pens, there to wait a further and closer examination. If in this examination the immigrant can not show that he is prepared to make his living without becoming a burden to the community he is taken up to Ward's island to stay until the vessel on which he came is ready to return. He is then put on board, and gets a free passage to his native land.

There are always immigrants in the Garden. They are usually waiting for the departure of a train for the west. Some of them are expecting relatives to call for them, and as they wait they wander about in pairs, or groups, or loll on the benches just like the choristers in an opera. The difference is that the choristers are usually arrayed in their best gems, and so present an attractive spectacle of gayly trimmed short dresses, bright faces, and a general air of festivity. In the garden the short dresses are to be seen and all the unique styles of apparel known to European peasantry, but the fine colors are in the huge bundles on the floor, if present at all, and the faces bear expressions of fatigue and and sadness. Women stalk about in skirts that reach just below the knees, the legs being protected from view and the weather by heavy leather boots like those worn by Maine lumbermen. Many of the men wear knee breeches, and caps with feathers.

Varied are the emotions expressed by the people congregated in the Garden. Watching them from the window in the secretary's office, which is one story above the floor, I saw a woman suddenly leave the lunch she was preparing for herself and several children and rush across the pen with arms outstretched and mouth wide open in an exaggerated expression of joy. She ran full tilt into the embrace of a man who had just entered, and they hugged and kissed each other, and danced up and down extravagantly for three minutes. The children came flocking about, some a little shyly, as if they were only slightly acquainted with the stranger, or were only distant relatives. He gave them all hearty paternal greetings, and they returned to the lunch and ate together. It were easy enough to build up a pretty romance about that scene, or about the young couple in another pen who sat with their arms about each other's waists and smiled and smiled.

But what of the sounds of moaning and violent weeping from people in a room adjoining the reception hall, if the rough garden can be so dignified? Simply a family of deluded Russians, who thought they were coming to a country where bread grew on the trees and houses waiting for them. The interpreters have told them their fate, that they must return by the same steamer that brought them over, for they have not a dollar among them and know no trade. They have a remote chance left to remain, for if any one appears during their stay at Ward's Island who will guarantee their support or otherwise assure the commissioners that they will not become beggars, they will be allowed to find a home in America. Immigration societies, under the auspices of different nationalities, are constantly on the watch to see that no worthy man gets treated unjustly through carelessness of the officials or from the immigrant's inability to explain his condition. The officers of these societies co-operate with and assist the commissioners in the discharge of their duties. It does not seem probable, therefore, that any case exists where injustice has been done by returning people to their native countries.—New York Cor. Chicago Herald.

Production of Magnesium.

Magnesium, which has more than once been abandoned as a source of light, appears likely to be employed again, a process having been discovered for producing pure magnesium by electrolysis, and at a price much less than that at which it was formerly obtainable. At the works in Bremen, where the manufacture of magnesium is carried on, prizes are offered for the construction of the best magnesium lamps having clock-work movement.—Chicago Herald.

Scene at an Ape's Deathbed.

In his recently published treatise on the anthropoid apes, Professor Hartman of the Berlin university tells a touching story of a large monkey which belonged to the Zoological gardens of Dresden. Mafucs, as she was named by Herr Schopf, director of the gardens, was a personage of polite manners. She would blow her nose with a handkerchief, put on her own boots, wring out the linen, steal keys and open locks. She had a

It is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy, while thousands testify to its superior blood-purifying and strengthing qualities. A bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla contains 100 doses and will last a month, while others will average to last not over a week. Hence, for economy, buy only Hood's Sarsaparilla.

A SPLENDID VICTORY.

Chairman Manley, of the Maine republican state committee, at midnight on Monday telegraphed that the result of the election was "a far larger republican majority than was anticipated—the largest, indeed, given in the state for the pass fifteen years, except in presidential years. We expected 7,000 or 8,000 plurality. The figures at this hour indicate a plurality for Bodwell of not less than 12,000, and not improbably 14,000. We have carried every congressional district; have elected two-thirds to three-fourths of the legislature, thus securing us the United States senator; and the county officers probably in fourteen of the sixteen counties of the state. The total vote of the state will be above 137,000, which is extraordinarily large for an off year. Out of this aggregate the third-party vote will not exceed 3,500—far less than was expected by the leaders of the movement."

The Boston Post's special from Portland at two o'clock A. M. on the 14th said: "The republican vote has fallen off about 7,000 in the 225 towns reported, and it will fall off nearly 10,000 in all. The plurality for Bodwell will be about 14,000, nearly 6,000 less than in 1884. The democratic vote on the whole has been brought out surprisingly well in view of the utter demoralization in the state committee and the dissension over the offices, but it has failed to materialize where it was most needed." If we remember rightly, there was no "demoralization in the state committee" nor "dissension over the offices," previous to the election. And it should not be forgotten that if the republican plurality is about 6,000 less than in 1884, which was a "presidential year," it is about 6,000 more than in 1882, which like the present was an "off year." And Mr. Reed, who two years ago had but 925 plurality, has now 1200 plurality, in spite of the tremendous efforts to defeat him.

Mr. Reed, speaking with friends Monday evening in relation to the great republican plurality in Portland, the largest ever given in the city, said that it showed that public opinion is decidedly against the course pursued by the administration in the fishery matter, and against the action of the house committee on ways and means in attempting to put fish on the free list, the number of republican votes thrown by fishermen indicating a deal of feeling on their part, because they are mostly earnest democrats and disposed to sustain their party when there is an opportunity.

New Hampshire Republican State Convention.

Delegates to the Republican State Convention of New Hampshire arrived in large numbers at Concord on the afternoon and evening of Monday, the attendance being the greatest ever known on the night preceding a convention. At a meeting of the state committee, Monday evening, it was decided to recommend Hon. Mason W. Tappan of Bradford for president of the convention; Hon. John W. Wheeler of Salem as the vice president for Rockingham county, and Col. J. Horace Kent of Portsmouth as the Rockingham county member of the committee on credentials.

At 11:20 A. M. Tuesday the convention was called to order by Chairman J. H. Gallinger of the state committee, and the gentlemen selected the previous evening were elected permanent officers. President Tappan on taking the chair making a ringing speech of over an hour's duration. The committee on credentials reported 596 delegates present, of the 637 entitled to seats in the convention. On motion of J. Horace Kent a ballot was had for a candidate for governor, and resulted as follows:

Necessary for a choice	296
Martin A. Haynes had	1
David A. Goodell	165
Charles H. Sawyer	425

And Charles H. Sawyer of Dover was declared the nominee of the convention, the nomination was made unanimous.

The republican congressional convention of the second district was held in Concord on Tuesday, and Hon. J. H. Gallinger of Concord was renominated by acclamation.

The Coming Yacht Race.

The regatta committee of the New York yacht club held a special meeting on the evening of the 13th inst., to make the final arrangements necessary for sailing a race for the cups offered by the citizens of Newport, R. I., to be raced for off that city. The result of the meeting was the following despatch, which was sent after the meeting adjourned:

NEW YORK, Sept. 13, 1886.
Frank G. Harris, Sec., Newport, R. I.:
Race to be sailed Saturday, the 18th inst.; forty miles or more; no time limit. Course to be announced on the morning of the race. There will be four cups—one for schooners; one for sloops or cutters seventy-one feet or over; one for sloops or cutters over fifty-five and under seventy-one feet; and one for sloops or cutters under fifty-five feet.

The entries up to the 13th for the race, arranged in the classes they will sail in, were: schooners, Montauk, Sachem, Miranda; first class sloops and cutters, Mayflower, Galatea; second class sloops and cutters, Stranger, Bedouin, Thetis; third class sloops and cutters, Clara, Cinderella, Bertie. The principal interest in the race, leaving out of consideration the contest between the Mayflower and the Galatea, will be between the three schooners. The Montauk is the champion American "mug hunter." The Miranda is the champion English schooner, while the Sachem has yet to gain her laurels, and their respective performances will be watched with the greatest interest. Not much is thought of the Sachem among New York yachtsmen, who are very proud of the Montauk. The Sachem having been designed by Mr. Burgess, designer of the Puritan and Mayflower, great things are expected of her by her friends. The Miranda is mostly feared by the Montauk men.

The Puritan on Tuesday entered for the race, so the Galatea will have another competitor.

The September number of Literary Life has for a frontispiece a well-executed portrait of Richard Grant White, with a sketch of this distinguished Shakespearean critic, the friend of Stoddard and Stedman. This is followed by essays and poems of high merit. "Editorial Talks," which bear a fac simile of the signature of the distinguished editress, Miss Rose Elizabeth Cleveland, are original and very readable.

"A White Heron, and other stories;" by Sarah Orne Jewett. Published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston and New York. Of the above series of short stories by this charming writer, one, "Farmer Finch," is reprinted from Harper's Magazine, two are new, and the rest were published in the Atlantic Monthly and other magazines. The book is handsomely printed in large clear type, and is very interesting and attractive. For sale by M. Goodrich; price $1.25.

BOARD OF INSTRUCTION.

The regular meeting of the Board of Instruction was held Tuesday evening; present Messrs. Batchelder, Knight, Cotton, Gooding, George, Page, Pender, Goodrich and Sinclair.

Mr. Pender was chosen chairman pro tem.

The time of meeting was changed from the first Monday to the first Tuesday in each month.

Voted, that the hours of commencing school shall be nine o'clock A. M. and two P. M., and the closing hours twelve and four.

Bills to the amount of $87 were approved, and the board adjourded.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

The democratic spar and block makers of this city who were "required" on the navy yard Monday, went to the yard on Tuesday morning with their tools, and like Napoleon's historical ten thousand men who marched up the mountain, marched back again, being informed that the orders for their employment had been countermanded. We submit to Hon. Wm. C. Whitney, secretary of the navy, that this kind of business is rather small. These men are all reputable citizens and mechanics, and good, square democrats, and have voted the ticket, lo! these many years, without reward, and without liability to reward in the shape of "work on the yard." What if the Maine election did go republican? What if Kittery, that the democrats have for twenty-five years asserted was a reliably democratic town were it not for the demoralizing effect of "government pap" administered through a navy yard tube, did, in face of three government ships at the navy yard to be repaired, give a republican plurality of more than one hundred for Bodwell and Reid? The Portsmouth block and spar makers are not responsible for any of these disastrous occurrences. Had they been citizens of Maine and residents of Kittery, their votes, every one of them, would have counted the other way. We earnestly entreat Sec. Whitney to further consider this matter, and let our fellow citizens "go on" at once.

PORTSMOUTH ATHLETIC CLUB.

At a meeting of the Portsmouth Athletic Club, held at the gymnasium on Monday evening, the old board of officers were re-elected with the exception of George E. French, who declined a re-election as secretary. The officers are now, Fred E. Hasty, president; William O. Sides, 2nd, vice president; Dennis J. Sullivan, secretary; Charles H. Kingsbury, treasurer; Geo. W. Boardman, Joseph P. Connor, Joseph W. Amazeen, Geo. E. French and Timothy F. Cronin, directors.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Lizzie Guptill, Captain Smith, arrived on Saturday with 800 barrels of lime, 500 of which were taken by John H. Broughton, and the remainder went up into the interior of New Hampshire via the Concord & Portsmouth railroad. The captain reports having seen on the passage up, off Monhegan, what must have been either a sea-serpent or a sperm whale. That's no kind of a sea-serpent to see.—but then you can't expect a Maine skipper to do much in the line of snake seeing, Maine being a prohibition state.

A singular specimen of a fish, for this latitude, was brought up to J. O. Downs & Co., at the corner of Market and Bow streets, on Tuesday, where it is now on exhibition, having been taken from White's weir at Newcastle. It is of about the color of a rubber overshoe; the lower jaw projects a little, and it has on the top of its head an arrangement almost identical with that of the rubber shoe generally worn in the winter season in New England. This variety of fish is not often seen in northern waters, but is said to be quite common at the south. Those who ought to know say it is scientifically known as the "remora;" but fishermen call it the "sucker" or "drum fish," on account of its attaching itself to the bottoms of vessels, boats or any floating objects in the ocean, by means of the queer arrangement on top of its head, and then making (when fast to the bottom of a boat or ship) a sound not unlike the distant boom of a bass drum. Its food is the animalculæ contained in the sea water, and it is thought to be poisonous to handle.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

HAMPTON, Sept. 14th.

The ocean-side business is closing for the season, though some summer guests still linger into the lap of our beautiful and healthful autumn season. One fact seems to begin to dawn on the conscious pockets of those who once dreamed that fortunes were massed in "summer boarding," to wit: That the "great villages" and little cities of the states, all now happily reunited, will hardly furnish guests with surplus cash enough to fill all of the farm houses and cottages, to say nothing of the mammoth hotels, from the mountains to the sea, and from Mount Desert to Florida and southern California! Nevertheless, the "rum business" does flourish, with its concomitants, poverty, disgrace, misery, crime and death in its train, to the contrary notwithstanding. And still the poor, happy, silly ones seem to like it; yea, love it!

Hampton academy and high school opened for the scholastic year on Monday, with a full attendance; Mr. Sanborn of Hampton Falls, principal, and Miss Maria Perkins of Hampton, assistant. The grammar and primary schools commenced the same date under a competent corps of teachers.

Mr. Chase is giving the finishing touches to his elegant new residence. Mr. Pray and Mr. George Johnson are hurrying theirs to completion. Mr. Freeman Williams is intending to repair and modernize the residence of the late David Philbrick.

Rev. Mr. Fay is taking his annual vacation, and the Congregational church will be closed until his return for the last Sabbath in September.

There have been no seaside accidents during the season, as our bathing beaches are not only beautiful and attractive, but exceptionably safe and convenient.

Several summer visitors have died at different houses from old, chronic diseases, but there has been no prevailing sickness. Hampton has always been remarkably healthful, as her vital statistics, her monuments and her tombstones attest in the historic memories of her honored dead.

J. D. Moritz, Esq., of Baltimore, who had been an invalid for four or five years with throat difficulty, recently ruptured a blood vessel and in a few moments calmly passed away. With his family and a circle of southern friends, he was spending the summer at DeLancey Place. **

AROUND HOME.

"Cheek" at Music hall this evening. See advertisement.

The remains of the late Nathaniel G. White were taken by a special train from North Hampton to Lawrence, Mass., Tuesday morning.

The electric light pole on Haymarket square has been removed from its former location near the trees in front of the Pierce mansion to a spot just outside the reservoir.

Mr. John H. Locke, who recently purchased the candy manufactory of Mr. J. H. Thompson on Congress street, has sold out to Charles H. Tucker.

It may be seen by an advertisement elsewhere that the late residence of Rev. James DeNormandie on State street is offered for sale. The property to be disposed of is one of the finest residences in the city, in a central, quiet and most respectable quarter of the city. The property will be disposed of at a very reasonable rate.

At the auction sale of horses by Henry F. Wendell, last Saturday, Capt. Erben's horses were purchased by H. R. Stoddard and Son; the harnesses were purchased by Capt. I. H. Washburne, U. S. M. C., (retired.)

Major William G. Wise of Auburn, N. Y., treasurer of the Auburn Woollen Co., died very suddenly on the 13th inst. of apoplexy, at the age of sixty-five years. He was a son of the late Michael Wise of this city, and brother of Mr. Alonzo Wise, now a resident here.

Among the recent transfers of real estate in York county, as left for record in the office of the register of deeds, are the following: Kittery—John C. Call of Kittery to Abby Call of the same place, wood and pasture land in Kittery for $200; Joseph E. Cox of Kittery to George F. Hayes, land and buildings in Kittery and Eliot for $2600. York—Benjamin Kennard of Eliot to George W. Lord of York, real estate in York for $1; George H. Donnell of York to Georgia B. Donnell of the same place, land and buildings in York for $1; George B. Smith of Raymond, N. H., to Charles E. Stacy of Perham, N. H., land and buildings in York for $600. South Berwick—William F. Johnson of South Berwick to Daniel G. Johnson of Lebanon, land and buildings in South Berwick for $2000; Joseph Fournier of Kingsey Falls, province of Quebec, to Frank Jarvis of South Berwick, land and buildings in South Berwick for $800; Daniel Flynn of South Berwick to William H. Flynn of the same place, real estate for $1.

The prosperity of Hampton is evinced by there being scarcely a house or farm in the whole town that is allowed to remain out of good order and condition. One ancient looking house of good architecture, although neglected, only adds to the interest of the visitors; a great many romantic stories are told about it—and if they are not true, nobody can prove it. Besides the visitors from a distance, the hotels in and around Hampton have this season been extensively patronized by residents in that portion of Rockingham county in the neighborhood of the half-shire town of Exeter.

Hundreds of families in Portsmouth and vicinity attest the value of Preston's Elixir. It is certainly one of the most reliable and efficacious remedies for summer troubles ever known. Have you tried Preston's Jamaica Ginger?

Lydia E. Pinkham

A Lady of 65. Cured After 40 Years.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "I now sit down to inform you of the good your Vegetable Compound has done for me. I am now sixty-five years of age, and have been troubled with the falling of the womb for forty years and have spent hundreds of dollars doctoring with different doctors but got no relief. I got discouraged and quit, and suffered on. I have taken various medicines but received no benefit. Last fall I was so bad that I employed another doctor who was recommended to me as one of the best for such complaints. I took his medicine two months but to no effect. Then I had tumors and kidney complaints very bad and was confined to my bed. Then I saw your Compound so highly recommended that I thought I would try once more. I have taken ten bottles of your Compound and two boxes of pills, and am now able to be on my feet the most of the time. I have no bearing down pains, and can walk a mile easily. I never expect to be a sound woman, but I am so much better than I ever expected to be that I want to recommend it to any one suffering with the same complaint." —Mrs. E. A. W. Napoleon, Jackson Co., Mich.

A Lady Says, "It Saved My Life"

A lady living near Haverhill, N. H., writing to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., says: "I have been taking your Compound and Liver Pills six months. I was very low when I commenced, without question it has been the means of saving my life."

GREEN APPLE — SANFORD'S GINGER

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us so long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never-failing cure for the incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine. It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for

cup of tea every morning, and one of cocoa every evening, and at any time would fill her own cup or tumbler without spilling a drop—suggesting at once a sense of propriety and of appreciation of the beverage. Her death was quite pathetic. After some years' experience of the Dresden climate she showed symptoms of consumption; and, if unable to realize the progress of the disease, she was quite conscious when it was drawing to a close. She would scarcely allow her friend, Dr. Schopf, who nursed her throughout her illness, to leave her sight. When the end approached, feeling her forces ebbing, she threw her arms around his neck, kissing him repeatedly, held out her hand to grasp his, and fell back lifeless.—London Illustrated News.

Sending Pictures by Telegraph.

A method of sending a picture by telegraph has been invented by a Scotchman, W. Gemmill, by which a photograph taken at one end of a wire is transmitted and reproduced at the other. The picture is primarily projected on a selenium cell placed in the photographic circuit, which, according to the degree of intensity of the light received, acts upon the current, and through it a number of subsidiary currents connected with an incandescent lamp, illuminating it with varied degrees of intensity consonant with the strength of the current. "These successive illuminations," according to The Photographic Times, "would give images of corresponding brightness to the points in the picture thrown upon the selenium cell, and the final picture, of course, would consist of a series of these points in various depths of shade." —New York Sunday Times.

New Process with Magnetic Ores.

Throughout Pennsylvania and the west a number of plants for the pneumatic process have been recently established, and in Tennessee extensive preparations are now in progress for converting the pure magnetic ores of the North Carolina mountains into Bessemer steel. The trial of the new process known as the "dephosphorization" or "basic" process by the Pottsdown Iron company has been very satisfactory, and it can be profitably applied to the iron deposits of the Appalachian system, which contains phosphorus. —New York Mail and Express.

Protection for the Birds.

The Audubon society is growing, and new branches are rapidly being formed. The members pledge themselves not to kill or capture any wild bird not used for food, not to disturb or destroy the nest or eggs of any wild bird, and not to make use of the feathers of any wild bird as ornaments of dress or furniture. —Exchange.

Cattle Herders Crossing the Border.

Stock raisers in Montana have leased extensive cattle ranges from the Dominion government for a term of twenty-one years, and are driving great herds of cattle across the border into Northwest territory.—Inter Ocean.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or ITCHING of the scalp, should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHTY PER CENT of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the person may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to Directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have produced a good growth of Hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:

We grow Hair in 50 cases out of 100, no matter how long bald.

Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons.

It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.

DOUBLE AND TREBLE STRENGTH.

When the skin is very tough and hard, and the follicle is apparently effectually closed, the single strength will sometimes fail to reach the papilla; in such cases the double or triple strength should be used in connection with the single, using them alternately.

Price, Single strength $1.00; Double strength $2.00; Triple strength $3.00. If your druggists have not got it we will send it prepaid on receipt of price. BENTON HAIR GROWER CO., Cleveland, O.

Encouragement for the Feeble.

So long as the failing embers of vitality are capable of being re-kindled into a warm and genial glow, just so long there is hope for the weak and emaciated invalid. Let him not, therefore, despond, but derive encouragement from this, and from the further fact that there is a restorative most potent in renewing the dilapidated powers of a broken down system. Yes, thanks to its unexampled tonic virtues, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is daily reviving strength in the bodies and hope in the minds of the feeble and nervous. Appetite, refreshing sleep, the acquisition of flesh and color, are blessings attendant upon the reparative processes which this priceless invigorant speedily initiates and carries to a successful conclusion. Digestion is restored, the blood fertilized, and sustenance afforded to each life-sustaining organ by the Bitters, which is inoffensive even to the feminine palate, vegetable in composition, and thoroughly safe. Use it, and regain vigor!

THE WILD DAYS OF ATLANTA.

A Curious Result of the Late Civil War —Ferocious Brutes at Large.

Did you ever hear of the wild dogs of Atlanta? At one time the country around here was almost at the mercy of these savage animals. Horses, elephants, and camels can be made to take an almost human interest in war, but dogs can not stand the racket. The din of battle and the smell of villainous saltpetre breaks them up entirely.

Our dogs had a hard time during the siege. There were thousands of them in those days, and when the season of short rations set in they were the first to feel it. In many instances they were abandoned by their refugeeing owners and had to literally forage for a living.

The thunder of the big guns, the unearthly shrieks of the shells, the noise of falling buildings, the rattle of musketry, and the heavy tramp of marching soldiers, all struck terror to the canine contingent. Toward the close of the siege nearly every dog in the city was half rabid or in the last stage of nervous prostration. The wretched brutes sought shelter under houses and in bomb-proofs. Majestic mastiffs and surly bull dogs curled their tails between their legs and yelped mournfully at every unusual sound. Hundreds of the bolder ones made a frantic break over the breastworks and ditches, and made their way through the lines of both armies, never stopping until they reached the woods.

It was even worse after Sherman's army entered the place. The citizens were driven out in such a hurry that they had no time to think of their pets, and no means of transportation for them. Later, the destruction of the city by fire, and the general pandemonium that ensued, scattered the few remaining dogs.

These innocent victims of the ravages of war had a terrible experience during the rigorous winter of 1864-5. Their misery drove them to form strange partnerships, and it was a common sight to see them roving in bands of a dozen or more. The old saying; "Banish the dog from his kennel and you have a wolf," was illustrated in this case. In the course of five or six months the country people for fifty miles around were spinning marvelous yarns about "them wild dogs from Atlanta."

The dog belongs to the genus which produces the wolf, the jackal, and the fox. Tame dogs, of course, lose many of the characteristics of these animals, but when persecution and misery cause them to relapse into a wild state they take the appearance, the habits and tastes of wolves and jackals. Such was notoriously the fact with the Atlanta dogs. They lost every trace of domesticity. They grew to enormous size, with savage eyes and cruel looking fangs.

Occasionally a gang of these ferocious beasts would swoop down on a farm yard, devouring chickens and pigs, and attacking men when they stood in their way. It took the liviest kind of hooting to drive them off. Sometimes they would surround a lonely cabin and wait for the inmates to come out. They even made raids into little villages, forcing the inhabitants to shut themselves up in their houses. The disappearance of many a negro in those perilous times was fully accounted for when his skeleton was found with every particle of flesh gnawed off and with the ground around showing evidences of a desperate struggle.

Early in 1865, when a few refugees began returning to Atlanta, they had to struggle with these wild dogs for the ruins. Bloody encounters occurred among the ash heaps and piles of debris. Every cellar and hole in the ground held these ravenous brutes, and they leaped upon men, women and children without the slightest provocation. At that time it was dangerous to ride or drive out in the country. On the main road between here and decatur, in broad daylight, dogs were known to attack horses attached to buggies, forcing their drivers to open a hot fusillade with their revolvers.

After getting this taste of a wild life the Atlanta dogs went to the bad altogether. They never reformed. A relentless warfare was waged upon them from Stone mountain to Kenneaw, and one by one they bit the dust until they were all wiped out. The reader at a distance must not jump to the conclusion that this indiscriminate slaughter has caused any unusual scarcity of dogs in this region. Thanks to the universal human weakness for pets, we are abundantly supplied with bench-legged fices, terriers, pups, Newfoundlanders, mastiffs and bulls. If some unexpected calamity should cause them all to go wild, after the fashion of their predecessors, they would be an uncommonly tough crowd to deal with.—Atlanta Constitution.

No "Classes" in Cremations.

Another thing they manage better in France. Any one so fortunate, or unfortunate—as the case may be—to die at the end of August, can direct his cast-off coil to be disposed of by the simple and natural method in one of four crematoriums costing 350,000 francs. Price, 12 shillings, with absolute equality, as is most fitting in the accompaniments of death. There are to be no "classes" in cremation, at any rate. Already artists and goldsmiths and bronze casters are preparing to surround the new method with the old picturesque and beautiful associations, and the Parisians are thankful, as they well may be, for the boon that is offered them.—Pall Mall Gazette.

It is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy, while thousands testify to its superior blood-purifying and strengthing qualities. A bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla contains 100 doses and will last a month, while others will average to last not over a week. Hence, for economy, buy only Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The Republican Platform,

The following is the platform reported to the Republican State Convention of New Hampshire on the 14th inst., and unanimously adopted:

REPUBLICAN STATE PLATFORM.

The Republican party of New Hampshire, in convention assembled, reaffirms its devotion to the cardinal principles which have animated the party since its organization. These principles include now, as ever, the equal rights and privileges of all men before the law; a free ballot and a fair count of all elections, south as well as north; abhorrence of violence and murder as a means of carrying elections; honest money, as opposed to irredeemable paper currency and unlimited silver coinage; the protection of American industry and capital, whether engaged in agriculture, manufactures, or commerce; universal education; a faithful administration of the laws; and an honest and economical management of the affairs of both the national and state governments. Under the guidance of these principles, the Republican party has carried on the government of this country for twenty-four of the most eventful years of our national existence. During that time, through its instrumentality, an armed rebellion of unparalleled magnitude has been conquered; slavery abolished; the safest and most economical banking system the world ever saw devised; the union restored on the basis of universal liberty; industry protected; taxation reduced; the public debt paid off with rapidity; the public faith with the veteran soldiers and sailors of the nation kept inviolate; and with Republicanism at the helm, the United States has presented to the world a spectacle of unexampled national progress, growth, and prosperity.

Mindful of the fact that no party can live on its past, however glorious that past may be, but must meet new issues and new duties as they arise, the Republicans of New Hampshire hereby proclaim the following principles and measures, and pledge them their support in state and national legislation and administration:

First. That the development of American industries, and the protection of American labor against the cheap manufactures and poorly-paid labor of Europe, by means of a tariff, levied for revenue and protection also, upon manufactured products brought into competition with our own, is the best policy and the true political economy of this nation. And that the free-trade heresies which permeate the Democratic party, as evinced by its public declarations and by the Morrison tariff bill, reported from a Democratic committee of ways and means, and supported by nearly every Democratic member of congress, are convincing proof of the continued hostility of the Democratic party to American industry, of its purpose to degrade labor and reduce wages, and of its indifference to the best interests of the country.

Second. We denounce the compulsory coinage of silver, which has already driven gold from the channels of circulation, and is rapidly reducing the currency to a silver basis which can only end in financial disaster, and we denounce as an imminent evil the policy of the administration in withdrawing the small bills from circulation and substituting therefor silver certificates, which will complete the degradation of our currency to a single basis, when the constitution and financial safety demand a currency of both gold and silver or a paper currency based upon both having an equal value.

Third. We proclaim our chagrin that neither Congress nor the administration have taken any steps to rebuild the American commerce and marine which was swept from the seas by the rebel cruisers, and we demand such a liberal and sustaining policy as will enable lines of American steamships, flying the American flag, to carry American mails and products to all the commercial markets of the world.

Fourth. The Democratic party promised to uphold the honor and dignity of the republic, and protect its citizens and their rights of person and property at home and abroad, but has utterly failed to keep the promise. It has proved incompetent to bring the fisheries question to an honorable adjustment, and its foreign policy exhibits feebleness and lack of nerve in resenting the insults and aggressions of weak and powerful nations alike.

Fifth. We stand to the pledge, always kept good by the Republican party, that the sick and disabled veterans of the war for the Union, or their widows and orphans, shall receive the full measure of pensions promised them by a grateful country, and doubly earned by their bravery and sacrifices; and we denounce as heartless and hostile those presidential vetoes of nearly a hundred pension cases which Congress had found to be worthy.

Sixth. The Republican party is in full sympathy with all just demands and aspirations of workingmen; and in the judgment of this convention, enlightened by recent discussions and agitation of the subjection of the subject, the legislative power of the state should at its next session limit the length of a day's work in manufacturing establishments to 10 hours; should provide for weekly or fortnightly payments at the option of the wage workers; should exact a law prohibiting the employment of children under fifteen years of age in workshops and factories; should exempt the wages of manual labor from attachment under the trustee process, and should prohibit the employment of convict labor in penal institutions, to the direct detriment of free labor.

Seventh. We believe that the principle of prohibition, which has prevailed as the policy of this state for thirty years, has done much to render the liquor traffic odious, build up the temperance sentiment of the state, and reduce to the minimum the unmitigated evil of the sale and use of intoxicating liquors. To supplant this principle by license would overthrow for a paltry revenue all that has been gained in moral advance and substantial progress in this reform, and we call on all well-wishers of their state and of their fellow men to join us in preventing the restoration of a license policy as proclaimed by the democratic party of New Hampshire, and in the faithful enforcement of the law.

Eighth. It is the right of the people to have submitted such constitutional amendments as they may desire, and we favor the submission of a constitutional amendment prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors.

Ninth. While we are irreconcilably opposed to anarchism and communism, under whatever guise, we recognize the right of all men, by association, to arrive at a more intelligent understanding of their rights and relations to society, and to promote their mutual good and protection in all ways that do not infringe upon the rights of others.

Tenth. The law for the reform of the civil service was passed under a republican administration in obedience to a strong and popular demand for the lessening of the evils of political proscription, and consequent demoralization and corruption in politics. The law should be faithfully and honestly enforced; but President Cleveland's administration, by numerous and frequent violations of its letter and spirit, and the democratic party in congress by their constant efforts to nullify and destroy it, are guilty of flagrant hypocrisy, and unfaithfulness to their deficite pledges, by platform and otherwise, to give the law a fair trial and observe it in good faith, while no advance has been made or suggested in extending the merit principle. We demand its further extension, to the end that merit, not favoritism, should control the appointments and promotions in the subordinate civil service of the republic.

Eleventh. Free government and free institutions can only endure by a free ballot and an honest count, and we demand for the enfranchised freedmen the exercise of the ballot unobstructed by intimidation and unaffected by fraud. By 38 electoral votes, based upon the colored population, the democratic party in 1884 secured the presidency. By votes similarly based, that party holds the national house of representatives. The republican party gave the colored men the ballot against the bitter and unanimous opposition of all democrats. With a free vote and an honest count, the colored voters would give the next house and the next presidency to the republicans. But their votes have been suppressed, and the south made solid for the democratic party. The price of peaceful residence in most of the southern states is union with the democratic party, or abstentation from politics. This condition of political affairs, if prolonged, will be fatal to our best national interests. We declare it to be our duty and our purpose to agitate the southern question until the solid south, made solid by a violation of fundamental principles, is broken, and those principles—free suffrage and fair election methods—prevail, in form and in fact, throughout the whole republic.

Twelfth. Admitting our responsibility for the government of New Hampshire for the last 30 years, we point with satisfaction to its flourishing industrial and financial conditions; to the unsurpassed purity, efficiency, and economy of its administration; and to the marked success achieved in securing the great ends of government, the intelligence and prosperity of the people.

Thirteenth. Deploring the evils of the land system of Great Britain, and the distress and poverty sure to result from the relation of landlord and tenant on a large scale, we are opposed to the alienation of the public domain by the national authority, in large tracts, either to railway syndicates, or monopolies, or individual speculators; and, in the judgment of this convention, no land should be hereafter conveyed to any person who does not acknowledge allegiance to the United States, and the ownership of the soil of this country should, so far as practicable, be kept in the hands of its industrious cultivators.

Fourteenth. In common with all the loyal people of the land, we mourn the loss to our country of that true Republican and great soldier and patriot, Gen. Ulysses S. Grant. His achievements illustrate the brightest pages of our history, and will be an enduring inspiration to manly devotion to country, and loyalty to the principles of Republicanism, of which he was so noble a representative. The people of New Hampshire will ever revere his memory, and cherish his name and fame as a precious possession.

Fifteenth. To William E. Gladstone and Charles S. Parnell, the representative statesmen of their countries, we extend our profound sympathy in their noble and heroic struggle for self-government and for the undoing of centuries of wrong to Ireland and the Irish race.

Sixteenth. In presenting Charles H. Sawyer as our candidate for governor, we commend him to the voters of New Hampshire as a citizen of large capacity for public affairs, of unblemished character, and rare personal virtues. We claim with confidence that his personal and political character and record entitle him to the implicit trust and support of the people of the state.

Republican Congressional Convention.

The Republican Congressional Convention was held in Dover op the 15th inst., over 300 delegates being present. Mayor Ross of Dover was voted to the chair, and as soon as the preliminaries were disposed of, Capt. Joseph B. Clark of Manchester moved that Martin A. Haynes of Lake Village be nominated by acclamation, the motion being carried with rousing cheers. Mr. Haynes accepted the nomination in a brief and bright speech. The harmony of the convention, and its work, have assured the success of the republican party in this congressional district.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

HAMPTON, Sept. 14th.

The reunion of the Lane family, held in the Congregational church the first of this month, was attended by seventy-five of the descendants of Deacon Joshua Lane, who was killed by lightning June 14th, 1766. A monument to his memory is to be erected in the old cemetery.

Mr. Curtis DeLancey has eighteen boarders yet; at the Union house there are twenty-three. On Friday evening last a "gander party" of over seventy persons arrived at the Union house from Portsmouth, and were agreeably entertained.

Fifteen hundred pieces of baggage were recently put on board one train for Boston, at the Hampton depot. It all belonged to summer boarders bound home from this town and Rye beach.

The re-election to Congress from the first Maine district of Hon. Thomas B. Reed is a matter of national interest, as he is now, without dispute, the leader of his party in the house. It is more than possible that the reaction which overtakes every administration in the second year, may result in the election of a republican Congress in November. If so, Mr. Reed will be called to preside over the house.

—The good die young; and it is suspected that is why they are good when they die.

A FEW EARNEST WORDS.

Does any one who reads these lines feel tired or nervous? Have you despondent feelings? Is your appetite sometimes poor and again voracious? Do you notice brick-dust at the bottom of a scum on the top of the fluids you pass? Are these fluids scant at times and plentiful at others? Do you have headaches once in a while? If you have these feelings, DO YOU KNOW WHAT THEY MEAN? Your Kidneys are Diseased!!! It may be only the beginning, but if not taken in time, Bright's Disease, and death in its most horrible form will be the end. YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO TRIFLE WITH THEM.

MR. JOHN W. FURBUSH, an army veteran, of Wakefield, Mass., neglected these symptoms and was brought to deaths door. He took HUNT'S REMEDY and is well to-day.

MRS. ALEXANDER L. NICHOLAS, of Phœnix, R. I., and a descendant of General Nathanael Greene, was so near the grave her breath only came in gasps, but she was restored to health by using HUNT'S REMEDY.

The wife of Captain S. Greenwood, master of the well known Steamer Kanawha, had a large and painful swelling in the side, which was thought to be a tumor. It entirely disappeared after using HUNT'S REMEDY. Captain Greenwood himself was cured of terrible Catarrh of the Bladder by the same means.

These are only a few of many wonderful cures showing that HUNT'S REMEDY does cure the worst of all known diseases.

Do not, however, Delay. Observe the first symptoms and act promptly. You will certainly escape awful suffering and possibly death itself. For Sale by all Dealers.

A FINE STABLE.

Mr. H. Fisher Eldredge has just erected on his fine estate, Merrimack street, one of the handsomest and most commodious stables in the city. It is of heroic dimensions, forty-eight by forty-two feet on the ground, finished in western Norway pine, with all modern improvements, harness closet with glass sliding doors, robe closets, separate room for landau,—in short, is complete and convenient in all respects. It was designed by Mr. A. C. Anderson, who also was the architect of Mr. Eldredge's handsome residence, and built by Anderson & Junkins. The painting was done by W. J. Sampson & Co., and the plumbing by Mr. McIntire of J. P. Sweetser's gas-fitting and plumbing establishment.

THEY WERE USEFUL, ANYWAY.

The week before the Maine election the Maine Sentinel, in announcing the arrival at the navy yard opposite this city of the ships Galena, Swatara and Yantic of the North Atlantic squadron, for alleged extensive repairs, remarked that "There is no good reason why Kittery and York should not be returned in the democratic column next Monday." Kittery and York, however, still stick to the republican side, though with reduced majorities.

On the night of the day of election, after enough returns had been received to assure the re-election to Congress of Hon. Thomas B. Reed by a much larger plurality than he received two years ago, Mr. Reed telegraphed a Boston paper as follows:

It is not easy in a hasty examination of a vote on election night to be sure of the significant points, but there are some things which seem clear. The votes in the various coast towns of the first district show that our fishermen are very indignant about the treatment received, not only at the hands of the administration but also at those of the committee of ways and means. This would have shown itself more fully in a larger plurality in the district if a vigorous attempt had not been made in York county to carry the district there, which had the aid of the administration, and was signalized by the presence of war ships at Kittery. I don't know that any extensive repairs can be made on these ships, or will be attempted; but the vote of Kittery and York shows their usefulness. It is to be hoped that the president's absence in the woods may not lead to other phenomena which seem inconsistent with "reform."

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

Sept. 15th; Gray, Colt, J. J.

George H. Morey and others, appellees, vs. William Sohier, appellant. Appeal from decision of court of probate for Carroll county allowing the will of Samuel A. Bemis of Hart's Location, removed from the supreme court of Carroll county. The appellees move to remand to the state court, and the hearing was to be had upon that motion. The question, the appeal having been dismissed on the part of C. V. Bemis, was whether the case was removable, as one of the parties to the record was not a party to the appeal. The court before hearing arguments gave opportunity to have briefs filed on this question, but intimated that this court was without jurisdiction, as the case was removed only by one appellant. Ray for Morey; Edgerly: J. Lowell, for Sohier.

THE ELECTION IN YORK COUNTY.

Returns from every town in York county, Me., show that the republican candidates for clerk of courts, register of deeds, county attorney, sheriff and treasurer, were elected by the following pluralities—the figures of course being liable to slight changes on the receipt of the official returns, but probably not enough to defeat any of the gentlemen named:

Clerk of courts, James E. Hewey,	248
County attorney, H. H. Burbank,	209
Sheriff, S. C. Hamilton,	81
Treasurer, Charles H. Prescott,	47
Register of deeds, J. M. Leavitt	95

For county commissioners Benj. F. Pease and Solon S. Andrews received pluralities of 27 and 49 respectively. One republican and two democratic senators are returned, the republicans electing Cyrus P. Harmon by a total vote of 6628, and the democrats electing John S. B. Jones of Lebanon and Harry A. Weymouth of Saco, by totals of 6478 and 6781 respectively. Sylvester Bartlett of Eliot, republican, had 6547 votes for senator; Wm. W. Mason, republican, had 6470 votes; and Charles W. Junkins of York, democrat, had 6596; these three failed of election.

Of the fifteen representatives elected in the fourteen legislative districts, the republicans elect nine and the democrats six.

Reed's plurality over Clifford in York county was fifteen, and in Cumberland county 1315; total in the district, 1330.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Sept. 14th.

Not a prohibition vote was thrown in town at the election Monday, although Kittery is a temperance town, and supports three Good Templar lodges. The temperance people are satisfied with what prohibition they get from the republicans, without dabbling in any third-party annex of the democracy.

There will be a baptism in the 1st Methodist church on Sunday, the 19th, at the close of the morning service; after which three persons will be received into the church.

Mr. Daniel Avery and wife, of Portland, are visiting at Mr. James D. Plaisted's in North Kittery.

Mr. Alvin Libby is building a new two-story double house on the site of the one burned several years ago on Castle hill, North Kittery.

The "local" of the Portsmouth Times, for want of something better to do, was hawking that sheet about our streets Saturday afternoon last. The paper contained an extravagantly exaggerated article on the republican caucus held the night before in Armory Hall, at which a little controversy arose about appointing a town committee, but was settled to the evident satisfaction of all, without any such ado as the democrats usually have, when they hold two or three caucuses in as many different parts of the town, and knock down and drag out all the old liners, and without so much as making any satisfactory nominations in the end.

MARITIME NOTES.

There arrived at this port on Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday of this week the following-named coal schooners, among others: Charles S. Davis, with 854 tons; Clara E. Simpson, 580 tons; Henry Sutton, 978 tons; Warren Moore, 739 tons; Luther A. Roby, 1037 tons; John J. Hanson, 993 tons; Benjamin Hale, 868 tons; Kennebec, 311 tons; Ella Pressey, 248 tons; J. H. Eells, 263 tons; and L. A. Boardman, with 189 tons—all to J. Albert Walker,—a total of over 7,000 tons.

The deposition of Frank Tillock, second officer of the Philadelphia & Reading steamer Lancaster, was taken before United States Commissioner Hackett on Monday of this week, relative to a vessel which was picked up by the Lancaster in February, 1885, near Pollock Rip lightship, after having been damaged by a collision, and abandoned at sea. This evidence is to be used in a trial before Judge Webb, of the United States district court for the district of Maine, of libels between the two vessels which were in collision. One of the vessels is owned at Portland, the other at Rockland; the abandoned vessel was boarded by the second officer of the Lancaster, which towed the derelict into Newport, Rhode Island.

Miss A. C. Morgan arrived home from Europe on Tuesday evening.

Mr. William Plaisted, formerly of this city but for the past four years a resident of Providence, R. I., is spending a few days here.

Mr. Albert E. Wood, who has been spending his vacation in this city on a visit to his parents, left for New York on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Joseph E. Adams and three children, of Minneapolis, Minn., and Miss Helen M. Adams, who have been visiting in our city for several weeks, started on the return to their home in the west on Wednesday.

Both sets of republican delegates from ward three of this city were admitted to the congressional convention in Dover on the 15th inst.

Major William G. Wise, who died at his home in Auburn, N. Y., Sept. 13th, at the age of sixty-five years, was the only son of the late Capt. Daniel Wise of this city, and had but recently returned from his annual visit to the Shoals, with his wife. In 1861 he resigned the treasurership of one of the Lowell mills to go to the front as an officer of the Sixth Massachusetts regiment, and was with the regiment in its bloody passage through Baltimore; he subsequently served on Gen. Foster's staff. He married Anne H. Pierrepont, daughter of the late Dr. James H. Pierrepont of this city, who with one son, a merchant of Boston, and two daughters, survives him.

The superintendent of schools announces that he can be found in his office in the city building from twelve o'clock to one every day in the week except Saturday, and from half-past eight o'clock to nine every Tuesday, Thursday and Friday morning.

The attention of the new city government is respectfully invited to the condition of the north millbridge. One bill, and not an inconsiderable one, has been recently paid on account of an accident due to the neglect of this bridge; a worse accident, if not a larger bill, may result if the neglect is continued. W.

Frank Broggi, the prominent fruit dealer, has re-opened his store on Congress street, and will soon make his usual large display of stock in that line of business. During the banana season he received and sold from 800 to 1000 bunches of that fruit a week.

Mr. Daniel Mason was driving his lumber team on the 14th inst. when the horse started to run, and Mr. Mason jumped off, striking heavily on one shoulder, and probably cracking a bone. The injury was quite painful next day, but Mr. Mason is so used to getting broken that he pays very little attention to it.

The Deer Isle representative district, in Hancock county, Me., went republican on the 13th inst. for the first time since 1855. The hitherto democratic fishermen of Great Deer Isle, Little Deer Isle and Eagle Isle did it, refusing to endorse with their votes the administration's treatment of the fisheries questions.

Capt. Joseph Weare, for many years postmaster at Cape Neddick village, York, having been despoiled of his office by the democratic Philistines, has sold his grocery and general store business to Mr. Edward A. Talpey, well and favorably known as clerk for Capt. Weare.

Lydia E. Pinkham

A Lady of 65, Cured After 40 Years.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "I now sit down to inform you of the good your Vegetable Compound has done for me. I am now sixty-five years of age, and have been troubled with the falling of the womb for forty years and have spent hundreds of dollars doctoring with different doctors but got no relief. I got discouraged and quit, and suffered on. I have taken various medicines but received no benefit. Last fall I was so bad that I employed another doctor that was recommended to me as one of the best for such complaints. I took his medicine two months but to no effect. Then I had tumors and kidney complaints very bad and was confined to my bed. Then I saw your Compound so highly recommended that I thought I would try once more. I have taken ten bottles of your Compound and two boxes of pills, and am now able to be on my feet the most of the time. I have no bearing down pains, and can walk a mile easily. I never expect to be a sound woman, but I am so much better than I ever expected to be that I want to recommend it to any one suffering with the same complaint." —Mrs. E. A. W. Napoleon, Jackson Co., Mich.

A Lady Says, "It Saved My Life"

A lady living near Haverhill, N. H., writing to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., says: "I have been taking your Compound and Liver Pills six months. I was very low when I commenced, without question it has been the means of saving my life."

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never-failing cure for its incidental pains, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

organization which has celebrated Independence Day regularly since it came into life—that is to say, since May, 1783—before the disbandment of the American army. This order includes several state societies, and its membership list includes many historic and patriotic names. Among those who hold their hereditary memberships as sons of original members is Hamilton Fish. There are only a few of these. The next triennial meeting of the order will be held in 1887, at Newport.

"Parisian Botanists' Parasols."

"Botanists' parasols" have been introduced in Paris for the use of Gallic belles during the country excursions. If the fair pedestrian wishes to gather some flowers or bunches of fruit growing high above her, or in the midst of a thorny hedge, she has only to touch a knob on her parasol-stick and a tiny strong pair of scissors springs out of the top. With these she can reach the desired treasure without pricking her fingers or spoiling her gloves.—New York Post.

"Coca" Not a New Remedy.

Notwithstanding the prominence attained by coca, within a comparatively recent time, it was in fact introduced some years ago in France, where it has rendered most valuable service in therapeutics. Professor Bouchardat considers the coca as a stimulant to the nervous and muscular systems, and terms it also a "substance depargne," or that which prevents the rapid waste of tissue, and thus enables the consumer to go a long time without food. The leaf contains an essential oil, which is of an aromatic odor coupled with the flavor of the fresh plant; and the slightly acid and bitter taste of the leaf is attributed to the presence of tannin, and to the alkaloid—somewhat akin to atropine—so well known as "cocaine." A pharmacist named Bain was the first, or one of the first, to introduce it into medicine, years ago, in France, in the form of elixir and wine, useful in prolonged convalescence and in great prostration of strength.

Limitations of Medical Science.

A physician of large experience remarked the other day that when he began the practice of medicine he was worried because people put so little confidence in him, and now he was troubled because they trusted his judgment so implicitly. He seemed to think that to be thought infallible was far more burdensome than to have one's fallibility emphasized as in his younger days. He now recognizes the limitations of medical science.—Boston Advertiser.

Mordecai and Esther.

The tomb of Mordecai and Queen Esther is still visited by Hebrew pilgrims, and is well preserved in the center of the town of Hamadan, in Persia.

Industry am a rack in which dar' am always a peg to hang up one mo' workin'-man's coat.

There are 200,000 Italian settlers in the Argentine republic, 82,000 in Brazil, 40,000 in Uruguay, and 6,000 in Mexico.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or ITCHING of the scalp; should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHTY PER CENT of those using this grower have hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the person may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have produced a good growth of Hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:

We grow Hair in 80 cases out of 100, no matter how long bald.

Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons.

It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.

The Hair Grower is a hair food, and its composition is almost exactly like the oil which supplies the hair with its vitality.

DOUBLE AND TRIPLE STRENGTH.

When the skin is very tough and hard, and the follicle is apparently effectually closed, the single strength will sometimes fail to reach the papilla; in such cases the double or triple strength should be used in connection with the single, using them alternately.

Price, Single strength $1.00; Double strength $2.00; Triple strength $3.00. If your druggist have not got it we will send it prepaid on receipt of price. BENTON HAIR GROWER CO., Cleveland, O.

New Hampshire Patents.

The following list of patents granted Sept. 14th, to citizens of New Hampshire, is specially reported by Franklin H. Hough, solicitor of American and foreign patents, 925 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C.:

No. 349,100. C. H. Howard, Great Falls, creel for warping machines.

No. 349,164. G. A. Langmaid, Portsmouth, shoe or gaiter body.

No. 349,239. C. W. Taylor, Portsmouth, stove-pipe shelf.

The whole number of patents granted to citizens of the United States for the week ending Sept. 14th was 328.

Capt. Reed of the fishing schooner Vought, at Boothbay, Me., Sept. 14th, from Bay Chaleur, reports that he went into Paspebiac, N. S., in distress, with rigging carried away and out of water. Upon application to steamer Landsdowne for permission to enter, repair and fill with water, he was peremptorily ordered to sea, given one hour to get out of the harbor, and was compelled to go to sea without water or repairs. It is to be hoped this story will prove untrue. It hardly seems probable that the skippers of the Canadian cruisers would allow their contempt for our present government and its shilly-shallying on the fishery question, great though that contempt may be, to carry them to the length of refusing shelter and water to a vessel in distress.

The union lasters in Miller Cook's shoe factory at Brockton have been ordered out by their union. The trouble is not between Cook and his employes, but between the Knights of Labor and the lasters' union.

Three Boston sportsmen, A. D. Puffer, D. J. Puffer and W. H. Collins went down into Maine and got entangled in the meshes of the law. They shot some game out of season, and thereby violated the fish and game laws. They were arrested at Grand Lake, and admitted that they had shot a deer. At Calais on the 15th justice was fully satisfied when they paid $140 in fine and costs.

Prompt Reform of Bodily Evils.

The prompt reform of those bodily evils, enfeebled digestion, incomplete assimilation, inactivity of the liver, kidneys and bladder, as well as of the nervous symptoms which these ailments are especially prone to beget, is always accomplished by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine accredited by physicians, pronounced pure by analysis, and eminently wholesome and agreeable. Surely such a restorative is preferable to unpalatable and indigestible mineral drugs and unsanctioned nostrums. The nation at large assuredly thinks so, judging by the unprecedented demand for the article from Maine to the Pacific, a demand now supplemented by immense orders for it received from tropical America, Mexico, the British and Spanish Colonial possessions, and elsewhere. Both at home and abroad it is recognized as a standard remedy and preventive, the decisiveness of its effects recommending it everywhere.

Walter Hamlin, eight years old, fell from a wharf at Bath, Me., Sept. 15th, and was drowned.

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation, disordered stomach, etc. Try them.

Edward Aveling and his wife, the daughter of Karl Marx, who have just arrived in this country from Europe, addressed an audience on socialism at Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 14th.

What is the use of suffering with backache, rheumatism, kidney diseases, sciatica, crick, stitches, chest and lung troubles, torpid liver, or soreness in any part when a Hop Plaster will certainly give you relief? Vastly superior to all other porous plasters. You'll say so. 25c.

The Newport, R. I., yacht races will be the more interesting from the fact that the crews will be in better training than at the opening of the season, and the yachts generally in as much better trim to sail "for all they are worth" as the fast trotter is after exercise on the track than before. With favorable conditions each one of them should be able to surpass what she has previously done this summer, and render the close of the yachting season its most brilliant event.

I Am An Old Man.

Shall be 79 years of age next June, and for the last six years have suffered from general debility and old age. At times I could not get out of bed without help. I commenced to take Sulphur Bitters. In a week I felt stronger and got a mighty fine appetite. I still continued their use, and to-day I walked over three miles without feeling tired, something I haven't done in five years before. Sulphur Bitters is a right smart medicine.—George Brown, Keokuk, Iowa.

A wealthy gentleman, Eli Krupp, of Philadelphia, has been travelling about the country for the last eighteen years attending camp meetings. He carries a tent in two trunks, and camps alone, doing his own cooking and washing.

"Thus am I doubly armed—my death and life,
My bane and antidote are both before me"
Whether to sit alone suffering with neuralgia
Or by buying one bottle of Salvation Oil.

A meeting of the creditors of Cloutman & Bingham was held Sept. 14th, when it was shown that the liabilities were $632,000, and the assets about $550,000. A committee was appointed to make investigation.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites.

In General Debility, Emaciation, Consumption and Wasting in Children,

Is a most valuable food and medicine. It creates an appetite for food, strengthens the nervous system and builds up the body. It is prepared in a palatable form and prescribed universally by physicians. Take no other.

Jeremiah D. Sleeper, a prominent citizen of Concord, and for many years an active democratic worker, died Sept. 14th, aged about fifty-five years.

We think we can cure a bad case of backache quicker with one of Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Backache Plasters than by any other application, and after the backache is cured, you can still wear the plaster without discomfort for two or three weeks or longer. This combination of smart weed and belladonna is a great hit, and it is hard to find any pain or ache that will not yield to it. Price 25 cents. Sold by druggists everywhere.

It is to be hoped that the Charleston bricklayers, who are demanding five dollars per day from the owners of houses damaged by the earthquake, will not order others of the trade to keep away from the city and not interfere with the rights of labor.

For fever and ague, and all miasmatic diseases, Ayer's Ague Cure is a positive remedy. Warranted.

Silver ore of value has been discovered in Malden., Mass.

Two Doses

of ATHLOPHOROS cured my wife of acute neuralgia. Instead of being laid up for two or three days as usual, it was all over in three hours and she has not had an attack since."—JOHN AUGER, 12 Howe Street, New Haven, Conn.

Some times ATHLOPHOROS will not act as quickly as in the case, but it is sure and the more severe the pain the more quickly it will act. There is no disease more common and none more intensely painful than neuralgia. Ladies particularly are subject to headaches of neuralgic origin. Neuralgia in any form can be surely cured. Athlophoros is absolutely safe and absolutely sure. Thousands who have suffered intensely with neuralgia and been cured by the use of Athlophoros prove the truth of this statement. Is it not worth a trial in your case?

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

Private Correspondence.

A Lady of 65, Cured After 40 Years.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "I now sit down to inform you of the good your Vegetable Compound has done for me. I am now sixty-five years of age, and have been troubled with the falling of the womb for forty years and have spent hundreds of dollars doctoring with different doctors but got no relief. I got discouraged and quit, and suffered on. I have taken various medicines but received no benefit. Last fall I was so bad that I employed another doctor that was recommended to me as one of the best for such complaints. I took his medicine two months but to no effect. Then I had tumors and kidney complaints very bad and was confined to my bed. Then I saw your Compound so highly recommended that I thought I would try once more. I have taken ten bottles of your Compound and two boxes of pills, and am now able to be on my feet the most of the time. I have no bearing down pains, and can walk a mile easily. I never expect to be a sound woman, but I am so much better than I ever expected to be that I want to recommend it to any one suffering with the same complaint."—Mrs. E. A. W. Napoleon, Jackson Co., Mich.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

The salute fired at the navy yard on the 15th inst. was on account of an official visit by Commodore W. S. Schley, chief of the bureau of equipment and recruiting.

Among other jobs now being done on the navy yard, are the making of new main yards for the Galena and Swatara.

On the first day of October the navy yard at Washington will become the national naval ordnance factory and arsenal. In accordance with the recommendation made to Congress in 1883 by the "gun foundry board," which recommendation was duplicated by subsequent boards appointed for a similar purpose as the first named, and in pursuance of the policy of senate and house special committees on ordnance and war ships, Secretary Whitney has ordered the evacuation of the old navy yard by the several department bureaus among which it has been parcelled in common with all naval establishments, and has turned it over to the single bureau of ordnance. The immediate demand on this bureau is for turning out the batteries required for the new ships of war, and there will probably be erected a machine shop with lathes and tools to have a capacity for guns of large caliber. The immediate policy of the government does not entertain the casting of the guns or the forging of parts, but simply to do the finishing work; nevertheless, with what is lacking and what is obsolete for the especial purpose for which the yard is to be devoted, the purchase of a plant will demand a considerable sum of money, and there is about a million dollars available if it is needed. By this plan the government proposes to take upon itself the solution of the difficult problem of the manufacture of modern guns for its new-born navy, a job that few private establishments care to undertake unless supported by large guarantees. The plan suggests future uses that may be made of some of the other navy yards, about the wisdom of the maintenance of which there is periodical controversy.

RAILROAD MATTERS.

A heavy freight train bound west from this city, Thursday forenoon, came to a standstill just after crossing the overhead bridge at the Creek, and was unable to get any further until a shifting engine was sent out to give a push behind as far as the top of the grade. You can always tell when an engineer is mad about anything, by the wrathful tone he in some way manages to give the screech of the whistle.

The train over the Concord & Portsmouth railroad which has left this city daily at one o'clock P. M. for Concord during the summer, makes its last trip for the season on Saturday.

ABOUND HOME.

There was a large and highly pleased audience in Music hall on Wednesday evening, the 15th inst., when "Cheek" was performed by Roland Reed and his dramatic company. There is a lot of fun in the piece, and it is well played.

It is reported that Walter S. Chase of Boston will shortly begin the building of a house close by the bridge leading to the Hotel Wentworth. It will contain the rooms, and from its picturesque situation will be an ornament to the road. Mr. Chase is a brother of Daniel E. Chase, the first proprietor of the Wentworth house.

Mr. Sappy F. Trelethen of Rye a few days ago lost a cow, one of the handsomest and most valuable cattle in the town, by milk fever.

In view of the endorsement of the national administration by the so-called party leaders of the democracy in Maine, many democrats in this city are openly expressing themselves as satisfied with the result of the late election in that state, and predicting a similar result in New Hampshire, where also the administration has been endorsed by the party managers.

Electric lighting apparatus has been placed in G. & J. W. Stott's store, corner of Bridge and Hanover streets; and there being a street light also located there, nothing will need to be done in the dark after the electric light get going.

Thomas E. Call, Jr., and Plumer S. Jones, started on Thursday morning for Newport, R. I., to witness the yacht races, after which they will make an extended tour through New York state, and visit Lake George.

The "Greenback Labor Party of New Hampshire" met in state convention at Manchester on the 15th inst., at the call of G. J. Greenleaf, chairman of state committee, and A. J. Hoyt, secretary. The meeting adjourned, to merge in the Knights of Labor convention.

Foster's Democrat, of Dover, says: "Perhaps the democrats of the first congressional district of Maine will sometime learn the folly of putting up a kid glove, silk stocking, aristocratic nincompoop to beat such a brainy fellow as Tom Reed."

Grover & Kimball of Beech Ridge, York, are running a portable dressing machine throughout York and Cape Neddick, and have work enough engaged to keep them employed up to the 1st of October or later.

Mr. George O. McIntire, who recently purchased the Bridges place, near Scotland bridge, York, is building a large two-story house on the place.

Samuel Gerry, foreman of the box factory at Sanford, cut off parsons two fingers of his right hand with a circular saw on the 15th inst.

In Limerick, on the afternoon of Saturday, Sept. 11th, A. L. Nickles and A. R. Moore, two reputable young men of the town, were driving home from a gunning excursion when the wagon was overturned and both were thrown out. Moore was only slightly hurt, but one of the guns was discharged by the concussion, and sent its shot into Nickles's left lung, inflicting a wound that was considered necessarily fatal.

In a speech delivered in Biddeford a few days before the recent election in Maine, Mr. Clifford, the democratic candidate for Congress in the first Maine district proclaimed as follows: "Mr. Reed will never appear before this district again. I am going to beat him, and that will be the end of it." Not this time evidently—s'n'other time.

"Poverty Grass," by Lillie Chace Wyman. Published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston. This is a series of eight sketches, descriptive of life in the humbler walks of New England. The authoress says she has "endeavored to depict the characters and feelings of persons who struggle against odds." She has also woven with these stern, hard conditions, something of grace and beauty, and she shows that often the very characteristics that tend to goodness and refinement in those whose walks are in pleasant places, lead, in those less fortunate ones whose lives are spent in bitter struggle with poverty and toil, to desolation and death,—nothing grows in their pathway but "poverty grass." A FEW EARNEST WORDS.

Does any one who reads these lines feel tired or nervous? Have you despondent feelings? Is your appetite sometimes poor and again voracious? Do you see brick-dust at the bottom or a scum on the top of the fluid you pass? Are these fluids scanty at times and plentiful at others? Do you have headaches once in a while? If you have these feelings, DO YOU KNOW WHAT THEY MEAN? You Kidneys are Diseased!!! It may be only the beginning, but if not taken in time, Bright's Disease, and death in its most horrible form will be the end. YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO TRIFLE WITH THEM.

MR. JOHN W. FURNISH, an army veteran, of Wakefield, Mass., neglected these symptoms and was brought to death's door. He took HUNT'S REMEDY and is well to-day.

MRS. ALEXANDER L. NICHOLS, of Phenix, R. I., and a prominent member of General Nathaniel Greene, was so near the grave her breath only came in gasps, but she was restored to health by using HUNT'S REMEDY.

The wife of Captain S. Greenwood, master of the well known Steamer Kanawha, had a large and painful swelling in the side, which was thought to be a tumor. It soon disappeared after using HUNT'S REMEDY. Captain Greenwood himself was cured of terrible Catarrh of the Bladder by the same means.

These are only a few of many wonderful cures showing that HUNT'S REMEDY does cure the worst on all known diseases.

Do not hesitate. Delay. Observe the first symptoms and act promptly. You will certainly escape awful suffering and possibly death itself. For Sale by all Dealers.

INDIGESTION

To strengthen the stomach, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency which result from Indigestion, there is nothing so effective as Ayer's Pills. These Pills contain no calomel or other poisonous drug, act directly on the digestive and assimilative organs, and restore health and strength to the entire system. T. P. Bonner, Chester, Pa., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 30 years, and am satisfied I should not have been alive to-day, if it had not been for them. They

me of Dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since." L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills, for Liver troubles and Indigestion, a good many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." Richard Norris, Lynn, Mass., writes: "After much suffering, I have been cured of Dyspepsia and Liver troubles

By Using

Ayer's Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken." John Burdett, Troy, Iowa, writes: "For nearly two years my life was rendered miserable by the horrors of Dyspepsia. Medical treatment afforded me only temporary relief, and I became reduced in flesh, and very much debilitated. A friend of mine, who had been similarly afflicted, advised me to try Ayer's Pills. I did so, and with the happiest results. My food soon ceased to distress me, my appetite returned, and I became as strong and well as ever."

INVESTMENTS.

I am prepared to furnish the most desirable investments in County Bonds and Guaranteed Farm Mortgages, paying 6 and 7 per cent semi-annually. On Farm Mortgages, only from 25 to 33 per cent of the actual cash value of the property is loaned, and the title, location, quality of land and future prospects of the property are personally looked up. Farm Loans are, when negotiated by experienced and responsible parties, the most profitable security offered, especially for those having small sums to invest from time to time. The Loans I offer are First-Class in every respect. Principal and interest when due, paid here without expense to the holder.

I have these Loans in sums from $300 to $5,000.

For New England to day:—

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 65 degrees above zero.

Cloudy

THE FIRE ALARM.

The board of fire engineers have issued revised cards giving the locations of new fire-alarm boxes and the re-numbering of two or three of the old ones, with full information as to where keys are to be found, and instructions as to pulling in an alarm, and the meaning of any alarm that may be sounded.

The two new boxes are No. 9, and No. 28, the former being located on the corner of Deer and Vaughan streets; keys for it can be found at the Boston & Maine railroad station, John S. Treat's marble shop, Moses Laighton's house, No. 36 Vaughan street, and Robert H. Hall's, No. 31 Vaughan street.

Box 28 is on the corner of Broad street and Lincoln avenue, and keys are placed at John H. Huichinson's house, No. 7 Lincoln avenue, corner of Broad street, and at Albert W. Parsons', No. 10 Lincoln avenue, on the opposite corner from Hutchinson's.

These cards will be distributed by the city messenger at the houses of citizens as soon as is practicable, so that all can familiarize themselves with the location of boxes and the places where keys are to be found in their several neighborhoods.

"TO BE STRICTLY ENFORCED."

Secretary Whitney has sent a letter to the commandants of the various navy yards, calling attention to the law of 1876 forbidding an increase in the number of employees in any of the yards within sixty days before an election in his immediate vicinity, without special authority from the secretary. The circular states that the law is to be "strictly enforced" by the present administration. It will, of course, be "necessary to increase the force at the Portsmouth and Norfolk navy yards, where extensive repairs are to be made to several of the war vessels, but the additional workmen will be appointed on a certificate of the secretary."

How rigidly this law is to be enforced—to the letter, while the reformers circumnavigate the spirit and intent of the act—is indicated by the following proclamation dated "Navy Department, Washington, Sept. 15, 1886," and signed by D. B. Harmony, acting secretary of the navy: "In pursuance of the act of June 30, 1876, I hereby certify that the needs of the public service make it necessary to increase the force in the navy yard, Portsmouth, N. H., as follows: One hundred and twenty-six men in the department of construction and repair, and twenty men in the department of steam engineering."

The reform administration having got the act of 1876 and the running of the navy yard as a vote factory working in harmony with each other, we submit that the "taking on" of less than a hundred and fifty men is an outrage; why don't they put on a thousand or two, so as to do some good?

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, Sept. 16th, Mayor Eldredge in the chair:

Present the full board, except Aldermen Sinclair and Russell.

The records of the late meeting were read and approved.

Dennis Shea was granted leave to open Deer street and lay a drain communicating with the drain from Faith Home, under supervision of the street commissioner.

Permission was granted to open Daniel street to enter a private drain under the supervision of the street commissioner.

Request of Wm. H. Hackett for a new sidewalk on Hill street, was referred to the committee on streets, to report.

Request of Charles E. Laighton for a driveway from his stable on Richards avenue, across the sidewalk to the street, was referred to the committee on streets, to report.

Request of Michael G. Cunningham for a release, on payment of $23, from his tax of $55.50 on Cunningham block, was referred to the committee on claims, to report.

A communication from the selectmen of Newcastle, asking for a perambulation of the line between Portsmouth and that town, was referred to a special committee consisting of Aldermen Hodgdon, Urch and Locke, to report.

The committee on streets reported back, without recommendation, the petition of John S. Treat and others for the widening and straightening of Creek street, and it was ordered that the full board visit the premises on Friday, Sept. 17th, at ten o'clock A. M.

Committee on police were granted further time in which to report on the petition for increase of pay.

Committee on street lights reported unfavorably on the petition of Mrs. James F. Jenness for an electric light on Hanover street. Report adopted.

Ordered that a new drain from Mr. Griffin's house on Union street, be laid to connect with the State street sewer.

Bills amounting to $896.21 were ordered paid.

The proposition of Mrs. Marshall, to release the land required to widen Newcastle avenue, was accepted.

Daniel Barrett was appointed special policeman at Boston & Maine railroad wharf.

The matter of the landing at the north end was referred to the city solicitor, to report what rights the city has in the premises,

Adjourned for two weeks.

THE CONGRESSIONAL VOTE.

The following was the vote of York county by towns, on the 13th inst., for congressman from the first Maine district; the votes for Hussey and Moulton, the prohibition and labor candidates, having been 381 in the entire county, or less than three per cent of the vote, which was 13,574 on the congressional ticket, are combined in one column under the familiar head of "Scat." Hussey's vote was 285, and Moulton's 96.

Total	6,604	6,589	381

The total vote of the county for governor was 13,582, (an increase of eight votes over the vote for congressman,) divided as follows: Bodwell, republican, 6,622; Edwards, democrat, 6,628; Clark, assistant democrat, 332. By these figures it appears that while Reed carried the county by a plurality of fifteen, Edwards carried it against the republican candidate for governor by a plurality of six—pretty close work all around.

The fourteen representative districts in York county elected members of the legislature as follows:

Acton, Newfield and Shapleigh, John D. Cook, republican;

Alfred and Kennebunk, Amos L. Allen, republican;

Berwick and North Berwick, Charles H. Wentworth, republican;

Kittery, Nicholas E. Spinney, rep., who had 358 votes to 252 for Joseph Laighton, dem.;

Limerick and Waterborough, Ruel W. Ricker, republican;

Sanford and Lebanon, David W. Varney, republican;

Lyman, Old Orchard and Limington, Frank A. Hobson, republican;

Saco, Oliver C. Clark, republican;

Buxton and Hollis, Joseph F. Warren, republican;

Dayton and Kennebunkport, George Sylvester, democrat;

Parsonsfield and Cornish, John T. Wedgewood, democrat;

Wells, Woodbury Bennett, democrat;

South Berwick and Eliot, Seth P. Parcher, dem., who had 314 votes to 299 for William N. Litchfield, rep;

Biddeford elected two democrats, Cornelius Horrigan and George A. Weymouth, which makes the York county delegation in the house of representatives stand nine republicans to six democrats.

AID FOR CHARLESTON.

A paper has been left at the City Treasurer's office in the city building, for the receipt of subscriptions for the Charleston sufferers. It has been headed with a subscription of $100, and it is to be hoped that prompt and liberal additions will be made thereto by all who can afford even a trifle to aid the afflicted people of the southern city.

The Times advises us to enquire into the veracity of our Kittery correspondent before undertaking to impeach its account of the republican caucus in Kittery. Did we consider such inquiry necessary we should certainly not apply to the author of the Times report, as unless he could get a little nearer the truth than he did on that occasion his testimony would be of slight value.

On Sunday next there will be a public missionary meeting in the Methodist church, employing home talent. The children's missionary society, called the "Try Band," will have a concert in the morning, commencing at 10:30; the services will be conducted wholly by the children. The young ladies will occupy the evening by reading essays on the mission-work in Africa, China, etc.; poems and songs suitable for the occasion will also be included in the programme. The public are cordially invited to attend this meeting, and it is hoped a new interest will be awakened in the hearts of the people, for this so important a branch of church work.

Miss Edith Kingdon, who has just become the wife of George Gorld, and the daughter-in-law of Jay Gould, will be remembered by many persons in this city as a charming member of the Boston Museum company. The last time she appeared in this city we think was when the Museum company presented the "White Slave" in Music hall, when Miss Kingdon was assigned the part of the slave mistress of the villain of the play. She is certainly a very beautiful woman, and there has never been a whisper of suspicion against her good name.

Ex-Senator Bainbridge Wadleigh, who had such a poor estimate of Ex-Gov. Hale's qualifications for the governorship that he made a speech in this city and elsewhere in opposition to his election, says that Col. Sawyer is "an ideal candidate," and he shall heartily support his election. The indications are that very many independents and others who voted for Cleveland will in November vote for Sawyer for governor, and for Haynes for congressman.

Mary Ann—Me is it? Sure, you are mistaken. Mrs. Bullion—You burn too many candles. Mary Ann—Me burn candles, is it. Divil a wan. Mrs. Bullion—Everybody notices it—even your bean. I passed the kitcuen when he was here last night and I'm sure I heard him say something about your taper waste.—The Rambler.

A laconic letter—"In the days of '49" a member of a party of miners strayed away from his companions and was destroyed by wild beasts. The friend upon whom it devolved to "break the news gently" to the bereaved parents showed himself equal to the occasion by writing the following letter:

Maiag Smith Deer sur the K'ioites has ate yur sun's bed off. John Jones.—Harper's Magazine for September.

Mr. Hendricks had returned from a week's fishing excursion, and the minister had been invited to Sunday dinner to assist in discussing the "catch." "What kind of fish are these, pa?" inquired Bobby. "Trout, my boy, brook trout," said the old man proudly. "Ain't they as good as four?" "Four? I never heard of such a fish, Bobby." "Yes you have. You told Mr. Featherly that you had had bad luck, because you were the only one in the party who didn't catch fours."—New York Sun.

A lady writes to the Journal: "Our little 2-year-old boy is very fond of medicine. No matter what the kind, he takes it with evident relish and teases for it on all occasions. The other day he came running in and said he was sick and tired and his legs ached and he must have some. To pacify him his mother gave him a teaspoonful of cough sirup. After lapping out the spoon he looked roguishly up to her and said in an appealing tone, 'Got two legs, mamma; sick! have anoser spoonful for ze ozer leg.'"—Boston Journal.

It was at El Paso, Tex., that a citizen buckled on two revolvers, seized an American flag in his hands, and was about to jump into the street and yell, "Down with Mexico!" when a stranger laid his hand on his arm and whispered: "Don't! I'll give you a dollar not to." "Ain't you a patriot?" howled the Texan. "O, yes." "And don't you want to see Mexico licked?" "Certainly." "Then what ails you?" "I want to get rid of $6,000 worth of Mexican Central stock first. Please don't add to the excitement."—Wall Street News.

But, if there was diplomacy and presence of mind shown in this answer, how much more was there in the case of the young lady who sat in an alcove at an evening party with a bright, young military man, her little niece on her knee to play propriety. Suddenly the company is electrified by the exclamation of the child: "Kiss me, too, Aunt Alice!" But the sudden shock is succeeded by a feeling of relief as Aunt Alice calmly replies: "You should not say, 'Kiss me two,' dear; you should say, 'Kiss me twice.'"—Pittsburg Dispatch.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or ITCHING of the scalp; should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHTY PER CENT of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the person may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have produced a good growth of Hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:

We grow Hair in 80 cases out of 100, no matter how long bald.

Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons.

It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.

The Hair Grower is a hair food, and its composition is almost exactly like the oil which supplies the hair with its vitality.

Successful Adventurers.

About the middle of August there appeared at a summer hotel in Littleton a portly, good-looking and well-dressed man, accompanied by a white-haired woman whom he called his sister. It was soon learned that the portly gentleman was Dr. Andrew Jackson Grant, a physician of Australia, but who did not practice, being immensely wealthy through the possession of gold mines and other highly productive property; the sister was the widow of a wealthy Australian, and the possessor of vast riches. At the same hotel was stopping Miss Lucy Torroy, a wealthy middle-aged lady of Cambridge, Mass., to whom the well-educated, polished doctor paid vigorous court, and to whom he was married on the 7th inst. at Miss Torrey's house in Cambridge, Rev. A. P. Peabody, D. D., dean of Harvard college, performing the ceremony, the groom having previously induced the lady to draw fully $6,000 from her bank of deposit. The couple went to Saratoga, accompanied by the sister, the bride's most costly dresses, sealskins and jewelry being packed in the husband's trunks, and he having also the money—to pay current expenses, he being short just then, and not caring to draw on his bankers until he reached New York. The following day the bridal party went to Albany, where by a skillfully contrived plan the doctor managed to abandon his bride, carrying off with him all her most valuable personal effects as well as the money, and the sister even getting away with the bride's best bonnet. The husband and sister have not since been heard from.

Prompt Reform of Bodily Evils.

The prompt reform of those bodily evils, enfeebled digestion, incomplete assimilation, inactivity of the liver, kidneys and bladder, as well as of the nervous symptoms which these ailments are especially prone to beget, is always accomplished by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine accredited by physicians, pronounced pure by analysis, and eminently wholesome and agreeable. Surely such a restorative is preferable to unpalatable and indigestible mineral drugs and unsanctioned nostrums. The nation at large assuredly thinks so, judging by the unprecedented demand for the article from Maine to the Pacific, a demand now supplemented by immense orders for it received from tropical America, Mexico, the British and Spanish Colonial possessions, and elsewhere. Both at home and abroad it is recognized as a standard remedy and preventive, the decisiveness of its effects recommending it everywhere.

Minister Cox left Constantinople on the 14th inst. for New York, on four months' leave of absence. At his departure the sultan sent to Mr. Cox, through an aide-de-camp, his regrets that his health compelled the absence.

What is the use of suffering with backache, rheumatism, kidney diseases, sciatica, crick, stitches, chest and lung troubles, torpid liver, or soreness in any part when a Hop Plaster will certainly give you relief? Vastly superior to all other porous plasters. You'll say so. 25c.

Cocaine, iodoform or mercurials in any form in the treatment of catarrh or hay fever should be avoided, as they are both injurious and dangerous. Iodoform is easily detected by its offensive odor. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price 50 cents at druggists.

In the Wisconsin state labor convention at Neenah on the 16th inst., Robert Schilling, a Milwaukee delegate, and state organizer of the Knights of Labor, was charged with selling out to the democrats, and this caused an immense uproar. Neuralgia, though one of the most common and most painful of diseases, has baffled all medical skill, and until ATHLOPHOROS was considered almost, if not quite incurable. Athlophoros surely and quickly cures it. This statement, though strong, is warranted by the facts. Thousands have tested its value and recommend it as the ONLY remedy that brings relief. For ladies subject to neuralgia or nervous headache it is indispensable. Athlophoros contains no opium, morphine, or other dangerous ingredient. It is absolutely harmless and universally successful in the prompt cure of this painful disease.

NUMBER SEVEN.

Numerous Combinations in Which Seven Plays an Important Part.

The frequent recurrence of the number seven in the scriptures, says the Cincinnati Enquirer, seems to indicate that there are associated with it certain events, that it may be termed the prophetic, representative symbolic number consecrated in the holy scriptures and the religion of the Jews and other nations, by many mysterious events and circumstances.

The old testament informs us that God completed the work of creation in seven days, and set apart the seventh day to be a day of rest for all mankind.

The slayer of Abel was to be punished seven-fold and the slayer of Lamech seventy and seven fold.

The clean beast Noah took into the ark by sevens, and took with him seven souls when he entered the ark. After seven days the waters were upon the face of the earth. The intervals between sending out the dove the second and third times were seven days, and in the seventh month the ark rested on the mountain of Ararat.

In Pharaoh's two dreams he saw seven well-favored and fat kine and seven ill-favored and lean kine, and seven ears of corn on one stalk, rank and good, and seven ears blasted with the east wind, which was followed by seven years of great plenty and seven years of famine.

The children of Israel were commanded to eat unleavened bread seven days, and to observe the feas tof unleavened bread; seven days shall there be no leaven found in your houses.

The seventh month was signalized by the feast of trumpets, and the celebration of the feast of tabernacles.

Seven weeks was the interval between the passover and the pentecost.

The seventh year was observed as the sabbathical year, and the year succeeding seven times seven years as the year of jubilee.

Seven days were appointed as the length of the feasts of tabernacles and passover.

Seven days for the ceremonies of the consecration of the priests.

Seven victims were to be offered on any special occasion.

When Abraham and Abimelech wanted to confirm an oath they took seven ewe lambs of the flock.

Jacob served Laban seven years for each of his daughters.

Delilah bound Samson with seven green withes, and wove the seven locks of his hair in the web.

Seven priests, bearing seven trumpets, passed round the walls of Jericho seven days, on the seventh day passing round seven times, and it fell.

Nebuchadnezzar had the furnace heated seven times hotter than it was wont to be heated to burn the three Hebrew children, and was driven from among men to the beasts of the field until seven times passed over him.

Elisha commanded Naaman to wash in Jordan seven times and be cured of his leprosy.

The sluggard is wiser in his own conceit than seven men who can render a reason.

In the new testament the Savior commanded to forgive an erring brother, not until seven times, but seventy times seven if he repented.

In revelations of St. John we read of seven churches, seven spirits, seven stars, seven seals, seven lamps, seven golden candle-sticks, seven angels, seven vials, and seven last plagues.

A notion once prevailed in England with some people that the seventh consecutive son born had power to cure certain diseases.

Our great fight with the mother country for liberty and independence lasted seven years.

The president of the United States, Grover Cleveland, was seven times seven years of age when he married his bride, Frances Folsom, three times seven years of age, making a difference in their ages of four times seven years. The bride's age and the difference in their ages added makes seven times seven—the president's age. The bride's birth occurred seven years after the president attained to his majority. Their ages added make ten times seven, three-score and ten, the number of years allotted to the age of man. Multiply the number of their added ages by seven, it makes seventy times seven, the number of times the Savior commanded to forgive an erring brother if he repents.

Italian Fun and Fare.

"A queer set of fellows are our Italian pipe-layers," remarked a gentleman connected with one of the leading natural gas companies of the city on his return from one of their camps. "I laughed till my sides fairly ached at one of their favorite evening pastimes. They get hold of an old barrel and carry it to the top of some hill. Their present camp, about five miles from the city, is admirably adapted for the sport, being located on the top of a hill which has a gradual slope of about 400 feet before it reaches the level grade.

"After they get the barrel ready half a dozen of them take hold of one of the smaller men, and, despite his protests and struggles, dump him head first into the barrel. Sometimes they have a good deal of troule at this stage of the game, but they get there in the end.

"The barrel and its living contents are then thrown over, given a hearty push, and sent down the hill a-flying. The fellow sometimes lets his legs stick out at the open end of the barrel, and you can't imagine how funny they look flying around in the air as the barrel

Private Correspondence.

A Lady of 65, Cured After 40 Years.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "I now sit down to inform you of the good your Vegetable Compound has done for me. I am now sixty-five years of age, and have been troubled with the falling of the womb for forty years and have spent hundreds of dollars doctoring with different doctors but got no relief. I got discouraged and quit, and suffered on. I have taken various medicines but received no benefit. Last fall I was so bad that I employed another doctor that was recommended to me as one of the best for such complaints. I took his medicine two months but to no effect. Then I had tumors and kidney complaints very bad and was confined to my bed. Then I saw your Compound so highly recommended that I thought I would try once more. I have taken ten bottles of your Compound and two boxes of pills, and am now able to be on my feet the most of the time. I have no bearing down pains, and can walk a mile easily. I never expect to be a sound woman, but I am so much better than I ever expected to be that I want to recommend it to any one suffering with the same complaint." —Mrs. E. A. W. Napoleon, Jackson Co., Mich.

A Lady Says, "It Saved My Life"

A lady living near Haverhill, N. H., writing to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., says: "I have been taking your Compound and Liver Pills six months. I was very low when I commenced, without question it has been the means of saving my life."

The Brewers in Council.

The United States Brewers' Association held a convention at Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 8th, about 200 members of the association being present. The president in his annual address congratulated the convention on the general prosperous condition of trade. The sales for the year ending April 30th, 1886, reached the amount of 20,289,029 barrels, a gain over the previous year of 1,072,499 barrels. The exports of malt liquors both in bottles and bulk for 1885 were 16,000 barrels; for 1886, 30,456 barrels, a gain of 13,656, or over 82 per cent, making the total production for the year 20,318,585 barrels. He added:

The report of the board of trustees furnishes full information concerning the status of the prohibition movement, more especially, in the states of Iowa and Kansas. In the latter state the decision of the United States circuit court would seem to indicate that the attempted enforcement of prohibitory laws, to the utter destruction of property which has in good faith been invested in a perfectly legitimate and necessary branch of manufacturing, is to be checked, and we have good reason to believe, ultimately stopped.

The president recommended that a special committee be appointed to take into consideration the subject of labor in its relations to the brewing industry, and report at the next annual convention, or sooner, if possible. The trustees in their report remarked:

There seems to be no end to the tribulations to which our trade is exposed through the narrow-mindedness of its enemies. During the past year an application for aid was addressed to your board by Messrs. Leisen & Henes, brewers of Menominee, Michigan, who were indicted for desecrating the Sabbath by brewing on that day. They were convicted, and judgment was pronounced against them. If the precedent established by the Menominee authorities were to find general favor; if, in other words, the Sunday law were to be construed so as to make punishable all labor performed on Sunday, the brewers might as well suspend operations. A brewery in which work were to be entirely suspended on one day of the week, regularly, would in the long run swallow up the capital invested in it. Surely, if such a construction of the law is possible in any enlightened community, it is time, we think, to adopt measures for common protection.

The vigilance and publications committees reported that the success of the prohibitory movement in Virginia and Georgia was said by correspondents in those states to be due mainly to a desire on the part of the democratic party to keep the colored population within certain moral bounds. It is claimed that for an exclusively white population the southern democrats would not dream of passing such laws. A discussion of the question on the basis of personal and industrial liberty was entirely impossible, because the advocates of the laws invariably answered all such arguments by claiming that these measures were intended to restrain only the black man.

The advisory committee stated in regard to the compulsory education law in the states of New Hampshire, Vermont, Michigan, New York, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Oregon, Alabama, Maine, Kansas, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Missouri and North Carolina, that many of the schools have not fully complied with the law in its spirit, while others have tacitly ignored the provisions of the act.

In his report on legislation, Louis Schode, the attorney of the association, said:

Though the efforts of the prohibitionists were more vigorous than ever before, yet I am glad to state that the Democratic House has thus far showed the cold shoulder to any bill of a prohibitory character, though two of them had already passed the Senate. Twice Speaker Carlisle was compelled to exert himself in behalf of our cause when, by neglect or non-attendance at committee meetings on the part of some of the members friendly to us, the prohibitionists were about to carry ends. Of course it is some satisfaction to me to chronicle that thus far the fanatics have failed to conquer the Capitol of the Nation.

This report of the attorney would seem to indicate that Speaker Carlisle knew on which side his bread was buttered. But the brewers, what with the anti-saloon movement and the assessments to pay St. John fifty dollars a speech in Maine and other states to keep up a side-show for the democracy, do indeed have their "tribulations."

"A Tiny Tale of Travel for Very Little Folks," is the title of a bewitching little story by Celia Thaxter in the October Wide Awake. The children will read it over and over with fresh delight.

"The girls" will be glad to know that a new book especially for them, by that popular writer, Miss Annie H. Ryder, is soon to be published by D. Lothrop & Co. "New Every Morning" will have bright, strong, fresh quotations carefully selected, and will doubtless prove as popular as that racy little volume, "Hold Up Your Heads, Girls!"

Two strong military articles will appear in the October Harper's, following the policy of that magazine in giving prominence to live topics of the present day in preference to old issues. "The National Soldiers' Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers" is briefly sketched from its inception in 1865, and its immense organization, as now developed in the five great branches, is concisely shown. We are introduced, by many fine engravings, as well as by the text, to each of the sections, namely, the Eastern Branch, near Augusta, Me., the Southern Branch, Hampton Roads, Va., the Northern Branch, at Milwaukee, Wis., the Central Branch, near Dayton, Ohio, and the new Western Branch, at Leavenworth, Kan.

Albert Travers of Manchester, aged twenty-five years, is under arrest for too great energy in the matrimonial line. A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive matter of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Hunsley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less. I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Hunsley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

INDIGESTION

To strengthen the stomach, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency which result from indigestion, there is nothing so effective as Ayer's Pills. These Pills contain no calomel or other poisonous drug, act directly on the digestive and assimilative organs, and restore health and strength to the entire system. T. P. Bonner, Chester, Pa., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 30 years, and am satisfied I should not have been alive to-day, if it had not been for them. They

Cured

me of Dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since." L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills, for Liver troubles and Indigestion, a good many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." Richard Norris, Lynn, Mass., writes: "After much suffering, I have been cured of Dyspepsia and Liver troubles

By Using

Ayer's Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken." John Burdett, Troy, Iowa, writes: "For nearly two years my life was rendered miserable by the horrors of Dyspepsia. Medical treatment afforded me only temporary relief, and I became reduced in flesh, and very much debilitated. A friend of mine, who had been similarly afflicted, advised me to try Ayer's Pills. I did so, and with the happiest results. My food soon ceased to distress me, my appetite returned, and I became as strong and well as ever."

GO AHEAD, REFORM.

A Washington despatch of the 16th inst. is as follows:

Repairs to the Galena, Swatara and Yantic of the North Atlantic fleet, to enable them to make a winter cruise in the West Indies, will take about forty-five days to complete, and will be made at the Portsmouth navy yard. As these repairs are immediately necessary the increase of force required, about 600, will not be a violation of the law. One hundred and seventy-five men have already been ordered for the engineering department.

Forty-five days from the 16th inst. would carry the "repairs" along to the end of October; and as naval repairs are never completed within the time estimated, the usual extension will keep the repairs going until after the vote for congressman in this district in November.

The Portsmouth correspondent of the Manchester Union, a democrat in good standing, an office-holder under the municipal government and candidate on the democratic ticket for an important county office, under date of Sept. 16th writes the following to that paper:

There are reports in circulation here to the effect that the results of the surveys of the Swatara, Galena and Yantic will be the putting out of commission of two of the vessels. This would necessitate the calling of many men upon the yard to finish the work on the vessels so that the vessels could go upon duty with the squadron by December or January. The reports have good foundation, and orders to put two of the vessels out of commission will probably soon be received.

We hope all this is at least "founded on fact," like the sensational novels, and that the reform administration, having decided to run the navy yard as a vote manufactory, will go ahead and do something worth while. Really, if the reformers are going to gain any political advantage in this way, they must go into the business with a bigger crowd of men than 146, the number that David B. Harmany officially certifies the "needs of the public service make it necessary" should be added to the force on the navy yard between now and election day. One hundred and forty-six men! Nonsense; the "taking on" of 146 men would be worse than nothing, from a political point of view. That number would not half nor quarter exhaust the list of those who think their long devotion to the party entitles them to be "taken care of" if there is any work at the yard, and those who would be left out in the cold would be so mad as to far more than counterbalance any good effect resulting from the care taken of the favored 146. Go it, old Reform; put on a thousand men, or fifteen hundred, if you want to, and keep them there all winter, and we will spell your name with a big "R" right along.

Franklin C. Hoyt, drunk, fine $10, 6,90; jail in default of payment.

TOO SHARP FOR HIM.

It is now stated that "Dr. Andrew Jackson Grant of Australia" and his sister, whose robbery of a Cambridge lady through the medium of matrimony has been made public, previously attempted to play the same game on Miss Fanny Riddell, a wealthy maiden lady of Manchester, at a Rye beach hotel, where the adventurers stopped some time before going to the mountains, the doctor paying assiduous court to the lady, but without making any such impression as he desired. It is alleged, however, that still earlier in the season he and his sister did succeed in getting a considerable sum of money from a lady at Long Branch, N. J., which place they had honored with their presence for a time, until things were becoming too sultry for their comfort, when they came east; and the pair are also more than suspected of mere vulgar stealing from persons at several of the White mountain hotels.

JOHN W. ODIORNE,

Whose death in Boston occurred recently, was a native of Portsmouth, and twin brother of Augustus W. Odiorne. He was a man of rare integrity, generous impulses, benevolent instincts, warm attachments and great purity of character. Learning the spar-maker's trade with Messrs. William Martin and William D. Fernald, he removed from Portsmouth and became a member of the firm of Pigeon & Odiorne, at East Boston. On withdrawing from that firm Mr. Odiorne travelled extensively in Europe. Of late years he has been associated with George Young in the mast and spar business.

Mr. Odiorne was an enthusiastic student of astronomy, the study of which was at once his great delight and amusement, his acquirement of knowledge in this direction affording hosts of friends instruction and pleasure. He was also deeply interested in musical matters, and was for more than forty years a member of the Boston Handel and Haydn Society. In all things John W. Odiorne was honest, reliable, true to himself and his friends. He was incapable of deceit and trickery, and his straightforward nature could not brook the little meannesses of mankind. He lived a life blameless beyond dispute, vigorous in its many virtues, like the sturdy oak in strength and uprightness. "Here was a man!"

The decease of Mr. John W. Odiorne recalls to mind the steady work of the merciless reaper. Mrs. Ruth Odiorne was the mother of thirteen children, and her eldest daughter who died last year, Mrs. Samuel Ham, was also mother of the same number. The older citizens of Portsmouth will recall the many festive occasions at the Ham homestead near the "Pound" on Middle road when the chery hostess, Mrs. Caroline Ham, was the centre of joyous gatherings of young and old, and where right royal hospitality was dispensed. Sleighing parties, huskings and those old-fashioned "sings" in which fugue tunes were so oddly prominent, none present enjoying these occasions more completely than the happy couple who afforded the opportunity for these primitive, "Old Folks' Concerts," which the energy of Frank W. Miller afterward brought into more public notice. The dear old lady with her gracious welcomings, who made others happy and was herself a fount of joyful inspiration, is gone, and now another follows the well-trodden road. The living members are Benjamin Odiorne of East Boston, Augustus W. Odiorne and Mrs. Maria T. Marden of this city. G.

NOT OLD ENOUGH.

The republican convention for the 22d (Newmarket) senatorial district, which is composed of the towns of Durham, Epping, Greenland, Newcastle, Newington, North Hampton, Newmarket, South Newmarket, Stratham, Rye, and ward three of Portsmouth, was held at Newmarket on Thursday, the 16th inst., and Joseph Simpson was nominated for senator, over his competitor, Plummer Wiswall. After the convention had adjourned it was ascertained that Mr. Simpson is not old enough to meet the requirements of the constitution, and the convention will probably be reconvened to nominate another candidate. To be a senator in New Hampshire a man must be thirty years of age, and Mr. Simpson is but twenty-five.

OFF THE TRACK.

The Flying Yankee train met with a mishap when leaving this city about eight o'clock Friday evening. When near the roundhouse, in going over a "frog" which the engine and tender had safely passed, a passenger car was derailed, and went bumping along over the sleepers, followed by others until six of them were off the iron. None of them were overturned, and but little harm was done beyond the detention, no person being reported hurt. The eastward bound Pullman train was unable to get by the obstruction, and the hotels of the city were taxed to provide accommodations for the held-up passengers. Several eastbound freight trains, which were ahead of the Pullman and on its track, forced the passenger train to stop out near the Plains. It was a late hour before one of the tracks blockaded by the derailed train was cleared sufficiently to allow the passage of other trains.

The steamer Oceanic went on a trip up river and across Great bay, Friday, having about 100 excursionists on board.

Mr. Brackett, the gentlemanly clerk in Frank Jones' office on Market street, smilingly received the congratulations of his friends at the Rockingham on Friday evening. It was a boy.

The long unoccupied store at the corner of Bow and Market streets belonging to the Dupray estate, is now occupied by James L. Peckham, a skillful maker and mender of boots and shoes.

A very delicate fish, resembling a smelt but having a large mouth and gills, was brought up from the wier at Newcastle one day this week. The fishermen call it the lady-fish. On holding it up to the sunlight, it appears almost as transparent as glass.

The Oceanic will make an excursion trip on Sunday, leaving Appledore wharf at two o'clock, steaming around the Shoals and in to Boar's head, and along the Rye shore to the mouth of the harbor.

bounces up and down over the stones and rough spots.

"There are always several Italians at the foot of the hill to stop the barrel when it gets there. They help the fellow out, and sometimes they have to carry him up the hill. It makes some of them deathly sick, while others don't seem to mind it a bit. The barrel is again rolled up the hill, and this kind of fun is kept up until it gets dark. Queer, ain't it?

"Do you know what those Italians eat? No? Well, I'll tell you what their favorite dish is. They put a big hunk of pork—not a particle of lean on it. Then they mix flour and water until it makes a kind of dough. This is rolled flat, about an inch thick, and in the centre they put the piece of fat pork. The dough is then wrapped closely around it; then they put it in a pan over a hot fire. This causes the pork to turn into grease, which permeates the dough.

"When it is completely saturated and the outer edge browned, then it is ready for the table. One sight of it would make a Caucasian sick, yet those fellows can never get enough of it. Sometimes instead of going to the trouble of making the dough they get a loaf of stale rye bread and scoop out the middle and place the fat pork in there. Then this is suspended over the fire until the fat burns to grease and soaks into the bread.

"I have been told that these low-class Italians will eat anything that ever walked on four legs. Maybe you remember the story that was published some time ago about a party of Italians, finding a drowned colt in the river and towing it to the shore and eating it. That was a true bill. They were caught in the act by a country constable who was going to use them for it. The story may go down as hard as the colt would, but I repeat that it is strictly true."—Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

An Arkansas justice of the peace, who had just married a couple, turned to a man and said: "I don't believe that the woman will love, serve, and obey him." "I don't know," some one replied, "she seems to be a very amiable woman." "I don't think she is," the justice replied. "Why so?" "Because she used to be my wife."

They were sitting in the House gallery after having taken a look over the Capitol and were discussing the building. "Father," asked the daughter, "is the Capitol fire-proof?" "O, yes," was the confident reply; "there's nothing in here that will burn, unless it is a Congressman's speech, sometimes." "Is it burglar-proof, too, father?" continued the young lady. "Don't ask too many questions, daughter; don't ask too many questions," said the father cautiously. "You know your father was in Congress once, and you remember what the newspapers said about him. And, daughter, he was a fair sample."—Washington Critic.

"The Farmers' Poultry Raising Guide."

This is the title of a new and valuable book on poultry raising for profit. This book answers in advance every possible question in respect to keeping and caring for poultry, and gives in the plainest possible manner all needed instructions to enable beginners or old hands to carry on the business successfully, and make money. If you desire to know how to make hens lay the year round; how to fatten market poultry quickly; how to dress and ship poultry and sell eggs to obtain the highest prices; how to build inexpensive hen houses and yards; how to discover, prevent and cure all diseases of poultry; how to select and obtain choice breeds, and how men and women of long experience in the business make money, send at once for a copy of The Farmers' Poultry Raising Guide, published by I. S. Johnson & Co., 22 Custom House St., Boston, Mass. Price 25 cents. This book is profusely illustrated with engravings of model poultry houses and runs, also many of the best breeds of hens, ducks, turkeys and geese. This work presents a matter of supreme importance to everybody, but especially to women, children and invalids, for there is probably no way by which a small but constant cash income can be secured with so little effort as by keeping and caring for hens. From now until next March the price of eggs will advance higher and higher each month. Do not, therefore, delay, but send at once and get a copy of this valuable book. During the season of high prices the hens should be kept busy. For 60 cts. in stamps Johnson & Co. will send postpaid a copy of "The Farmers' Poultry Raising Guide" and two 25-ct. packs of Sheridan's Powder to make hens lay, or they will send a 2 1-4 pound tin can of Powder at regular rate ($1.20) and give a copy of the Guide free.

An intelligent person when hurt will at once procure a bottle of Salvation Oil. It is the best thing to cure swellings, burns, or wounds. All druggists sell it, at twenty-five cents a bottle.

Nineteen killed and nineteen badly wounded is the final list of personal disasters by the collision at Silver Creek, N. Y., the blame for which has been fixed on the engineer and conductor of the excursion train.

Take Ayer's Pills and be cured. Misery is a mild word to describe the sufferings of body and mind, caused by habitual constipation. A moderate use of Ayer's Pills will invariably regulate the bowels.

Commander-in-Chief Fairchild, of the Grand Army of the Republic, makes a formal appeal to the members of the order for assistance in lessening the distress in Charleston.

I Had Faith.

About six months ago I was advised to consult Mrs. Hall, the great Spiritualist doctor, to see if she could cure me of scrofula, from which I have suffered from childhood. She said if I would have faith in the medicine she gave me, that she could cure me. I took her medicine, and in less than three months I was cured. Why, the way the medicine worked was a miracle. I begged of her to tell me what the medicine was made of, but she said she could not do so. Finally she told me the medicine was Sulpher Bitters, and that she never knew it to fail in all such cases as mine.—Mrs. Clara Knowlton, 35 Hanover street, Boston, Mass.

The state department has received from the British government four gold and six silver medals, awarded to the master of the schooner Fannie E. Coal mine No. 3, the largest in the vicinity of Huntsville, Missouri, after being idle more than five months has just reopened on the co-operative plan. The miners are to have use of the company's machinery and to pay the latter a royalty of one cent per bushel, retaining the remainder of profits.

All authorities agree that the milk of a healthy mother is the best food for an infant. Next to this, and containing all the elements for perfect nutrition, is Mellins' Food, which after a long test, is highly endorsed by prominent medical men.

Canker humors of every description, whether in the mouth, throat or stomach, are expelled from tha system by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. No other remedy can compare with this, as a cure for all diseases originating in impure and impoverished blood.

Prompt Reform of Bodily Evils.

The prompt reform of those bodily evils, enfeebled digestion, incomplete assimilation, inactivity of the liver, kidneys and bladder, as well as of the nervous symptoms which these ailments are especially prone to beget, is always accomplished by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine accredited by physicians, pronounced pure by analysis, and eminently wholesome and agreeable. Surely such a restorative is preferable to unpalatable and indigestible mineral drugs and unsanctioned nostrums. The nation at large assuredly thinks so, judging by the unprecedented demand for the article from Maine to the Pacific, a demand now supplemented by immense orders for it received from tropical America, Mexico, the British and Spanish Colonial possessions, and elsewhere. Both at home and abroad it is recognized as a standard remedy and preventive, the decisiveness of its effects recommending it everywhere.

Miss Charlesworth of London, whose enlistment in the salvation army against the wishes of her parents led to such an outcry against the Booths some time ago, was married on the 16th inst. at Clapton, England, to General Booth's son. The ceremony was attended by thousands of persons. Miss Charlesworth's sisters were present, but her father was not.

I wished Death

would end my agony, my suffering from neuralgia was so great. I had terrible spells every two or three weeks before taking ATHLOPHOROS, which was a year ago last April, and have only had two since. Words can never express my relief."—So writes Mrs. C. N. PAIGE, Doltonville, Vt.

Many ladies suffer from headaches which are of neuralgic origin. In such cases Athlophoros is invaluable, as it will quickly remove the cause. Thousands are enduring untold agony from neuralgia who might find instant relief by using ATHLOPHOROS The most delicate need not fear to use it, as it is absolutely safe and it never fails to drive neuralgia away. Neuralgia and rheumatism are twin diseases. Athlophoros cures both. Hundreds of people have tried it and now warmly recommend it. Send for names of parties in your own State who have been cured by it if you have any doubt as to its merit.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will sell it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

NONOTUCK SILK CO., Florence, Mass.

At a Country Store.

An elderly woman, with keen gray eyes looking sharply through steel-bowed spectacles, enters and casually examines several bolts of lawn lying on the counter.

"Ah, good day, Mrs. H——," says the proprietor, coming briskly forward, anticipating a sale; "looking for lawns?"

"No, I dono as I was," says the possible customer, guardedly; "I was just noticing those."

"They're pretty patterns. I just got them in."

"They're all so light."

"Light colors are all the rage this summer. But here's a black and white piece that's just the thing for you. Now, isn't that neat?"

"Yes, rather; but it an't just what I like. How much is it?"

"Fifteen cents a yard."

"An't that dreadful high for lawns?"

"Not for lawns of that quality. Just see how fine it is."

"Yes; but they're selling lawns ev'ry mite and grain as good as that in the city at 8 and 9 cents."

"Impossible, Mrs. H——!"

"Indeed, they are! And one of my neighbors got a good piece for seven cents."

"They are not such goods as this."

"It's pretty nigh the very same thing. I hadn't calculated on giving more than ten cents."

"Why, Mrs. H——, this cost more than that at wholesale!"

"Oh, I guess not. Anyhow, I can't give but 10 cents a yard."

"I can't take it."

"I won't give any more."

"Well, just examine that lawn closely, now."

"It looks well enough, but I an't at all sure that it won't fade."

"I'll warrant it not to fade. It's a standard make and fast colors."

"Well, how many yards are there in the piece?"

"Thirteen; just a good full pattern."

"Eleven would be a great plenty for me."

"Now, I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll let you have the piece for 14 cents a yard, seeing as it's all I've got left."

"Can't you say an even 12 cents to an old customer like me?"

"No, really, I couldn't."

"Fourteen cents is too much for lawn that's selling ev'ryhwere for 10 cents."

"Oh, I think you're mistaken."

"Well, see here, I'll give you 12½ cents a yard for it."

"No, I couldn't go below 13 cents, and wouldn't let anybody but you have it for that."

"Well, I'll give you 13 cents if you'll call it twelve yards."

"But there's full thirteen yards in the piece."

"Well, call it twelve and I'll take it."

"Can't do it."

"I reckon you'll throw in thread and buttons and waist-linings?"

"Couldn't do it for that money."

"Well, say thread and buttons, then?"

"I'll throw in a spool of thread."

"And a card of hooks and eyes?"

"Well, I don't know—yes, I will."

"Now, why can't you say buttons, too?"

"I really can not; I'm losing money now."

"And you can't make it 12½ cents a yard?"

"No."

"Well, I guess I won't take it. I an't needing a lawn dress this summer, anyhow."—Youths' Companion.

Use and Abuse of Cold Bathing.

In a general way, it may be said that cold bathing is salutary when a vigorous habit exists; it is injurious when the general strength is too feeble to admit of reaction under its influence. It is also to be employed when the system is relaxed by indolent habits, sleeplessness and mental unrest. During convalescence from fevers and tedious illnesses its continuous use is productive of good results. Persons who "take cold" easily will find the daily bath of cold water a most effectual means of prevention. The corpulent need its tonic influence; the same may properly be said of the dyspeptic and those of the so-called bilious temperament.

Many who might prudently indulge in cold water bathing do so at first with fear and trembling. But this reluctance can easily be overcome. To learn to regard it as a luxury one should begin with tepid water, lowering the temperature each day. A cold bath should always be of short duration. Its benefit is in the first impression made on the skin and nerves. The immersion should always be sudden. The effect is then uniform. If the water is entered hesitatingly, the blood is driven from the lower extremities to the upper parts. The shower bath is especially advocated for its sudden and general shock, and its application to the head. Very many lack the conveniences of bathing, and yet none can be denied sponge baths. These are easily applied, and are a general luxury. The ancient theory that after violent exercise and while perspiring freely, the body should be allowed to cool before immersion is no longer accepted. It would certainly be judicious to exercise before bathing, the body's temperature being thus elevated and reaction after the application of cold insured.

Sea-bathing has peculiar advantages, chiefly the cheerful surroundings, the low temperature, and the gentle shock of the waves. The vigorous can safely bathe daily; the less strong on alternate days. An hour before noon is the best time to indulge. The water should not be entered hesitatingly, but a bold plunge taken at once. The more courageous will do well to dive. The average duration of the bath should be from five to ten minutes for children, fifteen minutes for women, and but little longer for men. To delay much beyond these

REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

FOR GOVERNOR,

CHARLES H. SAWYER,

OF DOVER.

FOR CONGRESSMAN, FIRST DISTRICT,

MARTIN A. HAYNES,

OF LAKE VILLAGE.

The Republican Nominees.

The republican state and congressional conventions, in the candidates put in nomination, have gone far to assure a brilliant success for the republican party in the coming election, and all that is required to make it a certainty is for the minor conventions to nominate worthy candidates, who shall strengthen the ticket instead of requiring to be pulled through.

Of Charles H. Sawyer of Dover, our candidate for governor, it can be said emphatically that he is a clean man, and is most respected and esteemed where best known. An earnest and consistent republican always, but never a narrow partisan, he has served with credit in both branches of the Dover city councils, and as a member of the legislature in 1869, 1870, 1876 and 1877, holding positions on the committee on railroads, incorporations, judiciary, national affairs, and that of chairman of the committee on manufactures. As a principal manager of the affairs of the Sawyer woollen mills he has largely aided in their growth from a comparatively small concern to be one of the important manufacturing interests of the state, employing 500 operatives, who find constant work, considerate treatment and good wages, and who not only earn a living but many of them steadily better their condition; and in these mills the first strike has yet to occur. A man of the highest business capacity and unquestioned probity, a generous and considerate employer and honorable political antagonist, a good citizen and a liberal contributor to every worthy cause, he merits and will receive the full vote of his party and a triumphant election.

The nomination of Hon. Martin A. Haynes for re-election to Congress from the first district meets, as it should, with entire satisfaction. He has, during his two terms, been a very industrious and painstaking official, ambitious to attend to the wants of his constituents and thoroughly represent them in Congress. The unanimity of his nomination shows that his course has met their approval, and his election is assured. Certainly it is best to have good men in office. Mr. Haynes has a clean, handsome record, and can always be relied upon to do his whole duty in the state and nation. With our splendid gubernatorial standard bearer New Hampshire will supplement the achievements of the republicans of Maine, and with Congressman Haynes as a candidate for re-election, we in the first district in New Hampshire will follow the glorious example of the republicans of the first district in Maine, and return our representative with a large and increased majority.

The Yacht Race.

The great yacht race off Newport, R. I., on Saturday, which everybody hoped was to be a real trial of sailing qualities in a slashing breeze, was as unsatisfactory and inconsequential an affair as ever took place in American waters; it was not even a decent drifting match, but rather a test of how long the different boats could keep perfectly still in a dead calm. The course was from the Brenton's reef lightship south-southwest to the Block Island bell buoy, then northeast to a stakeboat off Sakonnet point, and then west by south to the starting point, a distance of about forty-eight miles. There was a good breeze at the start, but it soon died out, and there were only cat's-paws the rest of the day. The Puritan was the first to cross the starting line, the Mayflower not getting across until next to the last, nearly five minutes after the time limit was up. The Puritan was the first to round the Block island buoy; the schooner Sachem, which was second boat when the Puritan went around, was the last to get by, three hours and a half after the Puritan; the Gitana rounded the buoy more than an hour after the Puritan, and was then less than two miles astern of her. The cutters Galatea and Stranger fouled the bell buoy, and thus lost all chance of position in the race; and the schooner Miranda drifted on a shoal, and had to be hauled off by a tug. The Mayflower won the cup for first-class sloops and cutters; the Cinderella for second-class sloops and cutters, and the Gitana for schooners. A more exasperating fizzle in the shape of a yacht race was never known, the first boat in the smallest class finishing five or six miles ahead of the largest of the big sloops. They all used up all the time there was in drifting and tiding over the course; an Isles of Shoals fisherman in a dory would have beaten the fleet, and taken the whole lot of prizes.

Convention of Northern-Born Residents of North Carolina.

During the last week in October the northern-born citizens of North Carolina propose to hold a convention and mass meeting at Raleigh, and at the same time make an exhibit of agricultural products grown by them, manufactured articles made by them, and minerals and precious stones mined by them in the state. The annual fair of the State Agricultural society will be held at the same place during the week of the convention, and will help illustrate the resources of every county from the sea-shore to the mountains. The call for the meeting has already been signed by over a thousand northern-born residents of the state, who having cast their fortunes within its borders propose to show by an exhibit of the evidences of their prosperity not only the part that northern people are taking in the development of the new south, but that there is yet a wide field in their adopted state for northern energy, industry and capital to occupy, to the mutual benefit of state and immigrants. To this end a cordial invitation is issued to all their friends, and to others at the north who may be contemplating a change of location, to attend this convention, and learn from the exhibit and by personal intercourse with the northern-born residents how great are the advantages the state offers to energetic and enterprising immigrants. Low rates on the railroads will be given all who desire to attend, starting either from Boston, New York or Baltimore.

Tit For Tat.

United States Minister Denby, at Pekin, reports numerous outrages against American missionaries in China, and says they are all the outcome of the brutal outrages against the Chinese in this country, and the refusal of our government to make reparation therefor. Minister Denby has demanded indemnity for the outrages from the Chinese government, but must have blushed when he did so.

Hon. John Wentworth of Chicago, who has spent the summer in this city, and for a part of the time was dangerously ill, started for his home last week, accompanied by his brother, Samuel H. Wentworth, Esq., of Boston.

A FEW EARNEST WORDS.

Does any one who reads these lines feel tired or nervous? Have you despondent feelings? Is your appetite sometimes poor and again voracious? Do you notice brick-dust at the bottom or a scum on the top of the fluids you pass? Are these fluids scant at times and plentiful at others? Do you have headaches once in a while? If you have these feelings, DO YOU KNOW WHAT THEY MEAN? Your Kidneys are Diseased!!! It may be only the beginning, but if not taken in time, Bright's Disease, and death in its most horrible form will be the end. YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO TRIFLE WITH THEM.

MR. JOHN W. FURBUSH, an army veteran, of Wakefield, Mass., neglected these symptoms and was brought to Death's door. He took HUNT'S REMEDY and is well to-day.

MRS. ALEXANDER L. NICHOLAS, of Phœnix, R. I., and a descendant of General Nathaniel Greene, was so near the grave her friends only came to gaze, but she was restored to health by using HUNT'S REMEDY.

The wife of Captain S. Greenwood, master of the well known Steamer Kanawha, had a large and painful swelling in the side, which was thought to be a tumor. It entirely disappeared after using HUNT'S REMEDY. Captain Greenwood himself was cured of terrible Catarrh of the Bladder by the same means.

These are only a few of many wonderful cures showing that HUNT'S REMEDY does cure the worst of all known diseases.

Do not, however, Delay. Observe the first symptoms and act promptly. You will certainly escape much suffering and possibly death itself. For Sale by all Dealers.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. PROUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

INDIGESTION

To strengthen the stomach, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency which result from indigestion, there is nothing so effective as Ayer's Pills. These Pills contain no calomel or other poisonous drug, act directly on the digestive and assimilative organs, and restore health and strength to the entire system. T. P. Bonner, Chester, Pa., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 30 years, and am satisfied I should not have been alive to-day, if it had not been for them. They

Cured

me of Dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since." L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills, for Liver troubles and Indigestion, a good many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." Richard Norris, Lynn, Mass., writes: "After much suffering, I have been cured of Dyspepsia and Liver troubles

By Using

Ayer's Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken." John Burdett, Troy, Iowa, writes: "For nearly two years my life was rendered miserable by the horrors of Dyspepsia. Medical treatment afforded me only temporary relief, and I became reduced in flesh, and very much debilitated. A friend of mine, who had been similarly afflicted, advised me to try Ayer's Pills. I did so, and with the happiest results. My food soon ceased to distress me, my appetite returned, and I became as strong and well as ever."

SUICIDE.

About half-past eight o'clock, Saturday morning, John Thomas Charlesworth, aged about twenty-two years, son of Emanuel Charlesworth, went into A. P. Wendell & Co.'s hardware store and wanted to borrow a revolver and ammunition, as he said for the purpose of shooting rats at the brewery where he was employed. His request was not complied with, as the use of the weapon would make it a second-hand article, and of course detract from its value to any subsequent would-be purchaser. He then went to W. I. Trafton's watch and jewelry store, and pawned his watch for four dollars; and returning to the hardware store purchased a 32-caliber revolver, "Ranger No. 12," of Hopkins & Allen's make, with ammunition for it. He then went direct to his father's place, corner of Congress and Bridge streets, and passing through the house into the yard, placed the muzzle of the pistol to his head, just behind the right ear, fired, and fell to the ground a corpse, without a struggle or a groan. Dr. S. C. Whittier, coroner, was called, and after investigation decided an inquest to be unnecessary, and the body was handed over to Fletcher & Tanton to be prepared for burial. The deceased has for some time been employed at the Jones brewery, and was at work as usual on Friday. No reason is given for the suicide.

THOSE "EXTENSIVE REPAIRS."

The reports of the statutory board of survey on the three ships Galena, Swatara and Yantic, at this navy yard, have been received at the navy department. The board was composed of Captain Henry Erben, Naval Constructor Thos. E. Webb, Charles W. Stimson, master shipwright, and Stephen T. Raitt, master shipsmith at the yard.

The estimates for the repairs on the Galena are: Hull, $4,827; spars, $355-.52; boats, $660; furniture, $235; blocks, $2,277, and stores, $18.75; total, $8,-373.27. The estimated time to complete the before-mentioned work with such force as can be economically employed is thirty-five working days.

The estimates for the repairs on the Swatara are: Hull, $6,343; spars, $692-.54; boats, $2,225; furniture, $223; blocks, $230, and casks, etc., $55; total, $9,768.54. The time estimated for the completion of this work is thirty-five working days.

The repairs on the Yantic are estimated for as follows: Hull, $1,338; spars, $296; boats, $1,103; blocks, $110, and stores, $185; total, $2,932. Time to complete is estimated at fifteen working days.

In addition, the bureau of steam engineering expects to expend about $4,000 on the repairs to the machinery of each of three vessels named.

RUM AND WATER.

On Thursday afternoon last George Canhooks, formerly of this city but now of Gloucester, Mass., and another seaman of the fishing schooner Bloomingdale, of Gloucester, then lying in the lower harbor, came up to this city in a dory, and after concealing considerable liquor about their persons started from Rollins' wharf on their return, but had proceeded only a short distance when the dory was capsized. The two men caught hold of the dory, both on one side, and attempting to climb out of the water rolled the light craft over and over, sometimes the dory and sometimes the men having the best of it, the boat being on top fully half the time. The men would undoubtedly have been drowned had not seamen from the fishing schooner Fannie T. and the collier Hattie Wells, put off in boats and brought them on shore. Feeling somewhat exhausted and a good deal discouraged, Mr. Canhooks and his companion hastened to a saloon and got another glass of calamity water, and then started a second time for their schooner, this attempt resulting like the other, in a capsize. They were again brought ashore by their former rescuers, and made a third start for the lower harbor without hoisting in any more of New England's native beverage; and this time they went down through the narrows without capsizing, and it was thought likely would reach their vessel without making any long stop at the bottom of the river by the way; and as nothing further has been heard of them, it is probable that such proved to be the case.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

Michael Gregg, formerly engineer at the Times' office, is at work in the machine shop at the navy yard.

Lewis Holmes has been called to the boat builders' shop at the navy yard. Mr. Holmes is an experienced boat builder and carpenter, and skilled workman of many years standing, and it is to be hoped the navy department may retain his services for a long period. Simon H. Mills has also been called to work in the boat builders' shop at the yard.

It is reported that Mr. Charles N. Osgood, formerly foreman of caulkers at the navy yard, with his former company of twenty-three men, has been called to work at the yard.

Orders were issued to Lieut. G. Blocklinger on the 13th inst. to report for duty on board the Swatara, but the orders were revoked on the 16th.

Lieut. Thomas D. Griffin is ordered to the Galena Oct. 4th. Passed Asst. Engr. Wm. Rowbotham is detached from the Galena and placed on waiting orders. Passed Asst. Engr. W. N. Little is detached from duty at the Worcester free school, and ordered to the Galena on the 25th inst. Second Lieut. Charles A. Doyen, U. S. M. C., is detached from command of the marine guard on the Galena, and ordered to report for duty at the marine barracks, League island, Pa.

The big schooner yacht Dauntless, owned by C. H. Colt and hailing from Newport, R. I., attracted a good deal of attention on Saturday as she lay at anchor off Commercial wharf. The Dauntless is one of the largest vessels of the yacht fleet, being 130 feet long, 24.6 feet beam and ten feet deep, and measuring over 126 tons; and she is famous as having been the winner of the most extensive and venturesome yacht race ever sailed, across the Atlantic ocean from New York to Cowes in the dead of winter, her competitors being the Fleetwing and Vesta, one of which lost five men on the passage through having her bowsprit carried away by a sea while they were engaged in stowing the jib.

Mr. William Sheilds had a dory stolen from Randall & Caswell's wharf some time during Friday night. He thinks likely it found its way aboard one of several Gloucester Georgesmen then lying in the lower harbor; if so, it is gone for good.

Capt. Charles W. Drowne, of the schooner yacht Wm. H. Russell, proposes inviting the printers of the city to an excursion seaward on the 26th inst.

The schooner boat Fannie T., of Ogunquit, brought in on Sunday to Daniel Clark 1200 lbs. of very fine cod and haddock, and a few barrels of herring.

The brickers Emily A. Staples, D. K. Ham, Hattie Lewis, Lillie and G. W. Raitt, arrived from Boston on the 18th inst., and proceeded up river to load. The season of brick carrying is drawing so near its close that the skippers will not allow any loafing grass to grow on their vessels' bottoms from now to the close of the up-river navigation.

It was reported on Sunday evening that Mr. Walter Costello was very low with inflammation of the bowels, and there was hardly a hope of his recovery.

Mr. Daniel M. Lenigan of Boston, formerly brewer for the Portsmouth Brewing Co., was in this city on Saturday.

Stock for the building of the new boat-landing at the foot of Gates street was brought there last week, and the stage is being built by Daniel Littlefield.

Hay of this year's crop was selling on the Parade at $16 a ton, Saturday; potatoes, fifty-five to sixty cents a bushel.

Prof. Balabrega, the Swedish wonder, has drawn crowded houses every evening this week, and fairly amazed the audience with his wonderful feats. His magical tricks are so cleverly done as to draw continual applause. His cabinet seances, materializing spirits, etc., are a study for the curious, while his experiments in mesmerism with persons from the audience are remarkable and amusing. Miss Lynden's exhibition of second sight or supernatural vision is remarkable, while her educated canaries seem to be able and willing to do anything she requests. The entertainment includes different acrobatic feats, songs, etc.—Bristol County (Mass.) Republican.

This performance will be given in Franklin Theatre all this week.

"DR. A. J. GRANT" AGAIN.

One day two months ago a gentleman and lady, representing themselves as brother and sister, arrived in Dover and called at this office. He said his name was Dr. Perry of Gold Hill, Australia, and that his sister was a widowed lady of London, England. Both were travelling the states and the Canadas. He wanted to know where he could find a private fashionable residence where he and his sister could get boarded for a couple of weeks. He was told where he could be accommodated, and went and engaged three rooms and board. They remained there four days, and lived in great style. Suddenly one day he rushed into the boarding house and said he had just received a dispatch from Folkestone, England, saying an aunt of himself and sister had just died, and he must return to England by the next boat. He paid up, and left town by the next train. It was remarked that short as was his stay in Dover he had made love and proposed marriage to a prominent society lady, and was rejected.—Dover Democrat.

This "Dr. Perry" and sister it seems next went to Old Orchard, Me., where the doctor again failed in a matrimonial scheme; afterward they appeared at Rye beach as "Dr. Grant" and sister, and made another failure; and finally they struck a prize at Littleton.

The brick-making season at the upriver brickyards is about over. At Dover point Howard Roberts has just finished burning a kiln, and John E. Pinkham is burning a large one, of 400,000 bricks.

periods is a pernicious practice, inviting debility and injury. On leaving the water the body should be rubbed with a coarse towel until the skin is glowing and reddened. Afterward a brief brisk walk should be taken. Those who feel weak and depressed would do well to take a cup of tea or coffee. More powerful stimulants should rarely be used.

After diving, or when the head has been submerged and the nasal passages are filled with water, bathers will frequently make violent expulsive efforts to clear them by closing first one nostril and then the other. The danger is that in so doing they sometimes force water from the back part of the passage up the tube to the middle ear, causing a "crackling sensation," and laying the foundation for catarrhal inflammation. By taking a deep inspiration, suddenly closing the mouth, and expelling the air through the nose, it will be equally as effectual and the danger referred to obviated.—N. Y. Journal.

A New England Girl

Miss Mary E. Wilkins, who lives in Randolph, Mass., is described by the Boston Literary World as being petite, with soft golden hair, blue eyes, and a color which comes and goes as she talks. She is shy and retiring, but is self-possessed and holds her own in conversation, in which her piquancy and her gift at repartee appear to excellent advantage. As a writer of stories with a pronounced New England flavor she excells to such a degree that competent critics mention her in this relation in connection with Mrs. Stowe and Mrs. Cooke, while in the line of fanciful verse her success is assured.

A miss of tender years whom we will call "Tiger," came out of her bedroom of a recent morning with the button-hook in her hand, and stepping up to her father, who was reading The Bulletin in his favorite corner, said to him: "Papa, will you please button up my shoes?" "What in the world," said he, "do you want me to button your shoes for, Tiger?" "Because," said Tiger, "I'm getting old, and I want some man to wait on me." Her father was so much surprised at the infant belle's answer that he concealed his smiles by bending over her shoes. You see, he had once made love to that little girl's mother.—Norwich Bulletin.

A young physician while diagnosing a case fired a number of questions at his patient which flew wide of the mark. He was finally successful, however. "You—er—sometimes have a—er—tired feeling come over you, which——?" "Yes," interrupted the patient, "I feel it now. I'm tired, very tired." "Just as I thought," said the young physician. "I am seldom mistaken in my diagnosis of a case."—New York Sun.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or ITCHING of the scalp; should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHTY PER CENT of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the person may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have produced a good growth of hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:

We grow Hair in Bald Spots and Thin Places no matter how long bald.

Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons.

It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.

DOUBLE AND TRIPLE STRENGTH.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula.

For the Weak and Debilitated and Wasting Diseases.

101 W. FAYETTE ST., Baltimore, Md.
The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N.Y.

Dear Sirs—I beg to add my name among the many who have been benefited by the use of your celebrated Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and I desire to cheerfully add my testimony to its marvelous powers in building up the enervated system. I have suffered from a prostrated nervous system, which has the result of extreme nervousness. Frequently I believed I was dying. Violent nervous headaches were also another symptom of my condition. A friend suggested that I try Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and I did so, with but little faith that it could possibly improve my condition. To my great joy, I soon been fully restored, and I can scarcely realize that I was sick. As a tonic, a medicinal tonic and nerve stimulant, I consider Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey beyond the estimation of numbered coins.

MRS. ELLA FEDDERMAN.

670 JERSEY ST., New Orleans, La.

Gentlemen—I feel very much indebted to your medicine a thorough trial. I am now using the third bottle of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. When I commenced to use it I was not able to be out of bed, and now I am up from 9 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night. Several ladies who noticed the improvement the whiskey had made in my home for invalids, and they all think I have done them a great favor in telling about it.

MRS. LUCIEN DUCOS.

7 W. 110TH STREET, New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen—I have used your Duffy's Formula and Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and find it very beneficial in many respects. My appetite is better and I sleep better. My case is one of long standing, being Chronic Bronchitis, with some catarrhal trouble. Think your preparation very valuable.

MRS. F. P. HAVILAND.

Cholera in Japan and Corea.

The total number of cholera cases throughout Japan since its first appearance this year, according to the Japan Gazette, is 59,000, of which 37,000 resulted fatally. The indications are that the epidemic is now abating.

Intelligence from Seul, the capital of Corea, says cholera is still raging in that city. According to official returns the fatal cases for July only of this year were 38,000, out of a population of 250,000. Outside of the capital the epidemic has been equally fatal. At Shinshu, province of Keishoda, 5,000 deaths, and at Toral 6,000 deaths, are reported to have occurred in one month.

Don't be deceived. Buy only Ely's Cream Balm. Many in your immediate locality will testify in highest commendation of it. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. "Gallant, Brainy, Jovial Tom Reed."

The Boston Globe, the stalwart democratic organ of Boston, thus refers to the re-election of Hon. Thomas B. Reed to Congress from the first district of Maine:

The re-election of Congressman Reed of Maine, putting aside the purely party view of the case, is one of the results in the Pine Tree state that will be regarded with satisfaction throughout the country. It is highly desirable, so long as we are governed by parties, that each party should be ably and intelligently led. The British election system includes a happy custom by which all the really valuable leaders are ensured a return to the House of Commons so long as they are willing to serve. If one of them suffers defeat at the polls in one borough or county division he is nominated for another, and, if beaten in both, then some humble member of the party who holds a sure district is persuaded to retire, and let him in, as it were, by a side door. This is simply recognizing the fact that men with conspicuous talent for leadership cannot well be spared from the parliamentary arena. Gallant, brainy, jovial Tom Reed of Maine is undoubtedly one of the republican party's best leaders. There would be a large-sized vacancy on that side of Congress if he were left out. Democrats like him personally, though they do not like his views. If for no other season than that he is as good natured as he is big, and as droll as he is smart, there would have been a very general lament if he had been mustered out of the public service.

"Why, what are you putting that to my feet for?" asked a man with a heavy cold. "Why, to draw the cold out of your head," answered the considerate nurse. "The deuce you say. I would rather have it stay where it is than be drawn the whole length of my body. At any rate there is a more pleasant method than that; go and get me a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup."

An important convention will be held by the Protestant Episcopal church of America in Chicago, the sixth of October. Matters will be discussed that will have a direct bearing on the future of the church; and all, or nearly all, will give rise to a good deal of animated debate. Prompt Reform of Bodily Evils.

The prompt reform of those bodily evils, enfeebled digestion, incomplete assimilation, inactivity of the liver, kidneys and bladder, as well as of the nervous symptoms which these ailments are especially prone to beget, is always accomplished by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine accredited by physicians, pronounced pure by analysts, and eminently wholesome and agreeable. Surely such a restorative is preferable to unpalatable and indigestible mineral drugs and unsanctioned nostrums. The nation at large assuredly thinks so, judging by the unprecedented demand for the article from Maine to the Pacific, a demand now supplemented by immense orders for it received from tropical America, Mexico, the British and Spanish Colonial possessions, and elsewhere. Both at home and abroad it is recognized as a standard remedy and preventive, the decisiveness of its effects recommending it everywhere.

The Only

medicine I ever found that helped me at all is ATHLOPHOROS, and I have not had the rheumatism since I took it."—EDWIN SEARS, Provincetown, Mass.

A professor in a medical college once said to his class "put your hand in a vice, turn the screw until the pain is all you can bear, and that's rheumatism; turn the screw once more, and that's neuralgia—and gentlemen, the medical profession knows no cure for either." That was before the discovery of ATHLOPHOROS which does and will cure both rheumatism and neuralgia, and many physicians use it regularly—frankly admitting that they can prescribe nothing else so effective.

Many persons have tried so many so-called remedies, without benefit, that they have no faith to try more, but it is worth your while to try Athlophoros, if you have any doubts as to its value write for names of parties in your own State who have been cured by its use.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

President Tyler's Two Wives.

I am indebted to Gen. Tyler, the son of President Tyler, for information about his father's marriage. President Tyler was married twice, and he was the only president who was married while in the white house. Shortly before President Tyler died he said to his son:

"My son, I have in many respects been a fortunate man; but in respect to no one particular have I greater cause to congratulate myself than in that since I reached man's estate I have passed only two years out of the marriage relation; for it has protected and preserved my moral life."

Gen. Tyler describes his mother, the president's first wife, as a dark-haired, fair-skinned lady, with a person which was a perfect mould of beauty. She was of medium size, and looked much like the Empress Josephine, save that her skin was fairer. Tyler met her at a ball given by one of the wealthy Douglasses of Virginia, and fell in love at once. He was then about 19 years old, and it was perhaps a year before he became engaged to her.

"His courtship," says Gen. Tyler, "was much more formal than that of to-day. He was seldom alone with her before their marriage, and he has told me that he never mustered up courage enough to kiss his sweetheart's hand until three weeks before their wedding, though he was engaged for nearly five years. He asked her parents' consent before proposing to her, and when he visited her at the home of Col. Christian, her father, on his plantation, he was entertained in the parlors, where the whole family were assembled together. As was the custom then among the better class of Virginian families, the lover never thought of going out riding in the same carriage with his affianced, but rode along on horseback at the side of the carriage, which always contained one or more ladies in addition to his sweetheart to add decorum to the occasion." President Tyler and his first wife were of nearly the same age, he being only eight months her senior. Their wedding took place on his 23d birthday, and their married life of twenty-nine years was a most happy one.

President Tyler's second marriage took place two years after the death of his first wife. Tyler was 54. The bride was a girl hardly out of her teens. Her name was Miss Julia Gardiner, and she was the daughter of a wealthy gentleman of New York. Gen. Tyler says that in the second winter after his mother's death Mr. Gardiner and his two daughters came to Washington on their return from Europe. They visited the white house one Thursday evening, and he, as private secretary, took their cards, they being unknown to him, and introduced them to the family. They repeated their visits to the white house during the season, returning to New York at its close. At the opening of the following season they were back in Washington and renewed their attentions to the president and his family. After a time President Tyler began to look with eyes of love at one of the Misses Gardiner and finally proposed a marriage with her to her father and mother. His proposal was well received, and the young lady being willing, the marriage was determined upon. It took place in New York. Gen. Tyler thinks it would have been an indelicate thing to have had it celebrated at the white house. President Tyler lived seventeen years with his second wife and had a number of children by her. She now lives at Richmond and receives a pension of $5,000 a year from the government.—Frank G. Carpenter, in Lippincott's Magazine.

The Dangers of Kissing.

"If I was a woman and could see the faults of my fellows as well as the average observant man can I'd form a society for the abolition of kissing. It's got to come to that, anyway, within the next ten years. All that keeps it alive is its qualities as a foil for the genuine article." So a very worldly and very bright little woman told me, in a burst of frankness, a few hours ago. Said she: "If women didn't kiss so automatically and insincerely they wouldn't know what the beauty of the real kiss was." And I guess she was right. Apemantus, my old friend of medical proclivities and cynical instincts, growled when I asked him what he thought of it, and said: "An elegant disseminator of disease. Fever is spread by it, so are lung troubles, and such physical scyths as diphteria, etc. I'd drive kissing out of the land and save one-tenth of 1 per cent of human lives every year—if life saving is the end and aim of science, which you know I doubt."—Toronto Globe.

A Few Words to Wives.

Encourage strict confidence with your husband; withhold nothing from him, and be patient in hearing all he would confide to you, that he may always fly to you as his counselor and best friend.

Be punctual to a second in all engagements with your husband and he will be the same with you, and in thus doing you will avoid much that is unpleasant.

Practice economy in taking care of what you have, keeping a strict account of what you spend, buying nothing but what you pay for immediately, and making your account of each month's expenses show you have more than you have spent. This is a great way to win a man's respect, to make him think he has a little savings bank upon which he can rely in time of sickness and financial difficulty.

Rule only by love. Strive to call out the best feelings of your husband's nature with continual loving attentions, which, though they may be small in themselves, make such a strong chain

THE SEA-SERPENT AT CAPE NEDDICK.

W. H. Winslow, M. D., Ph. D., of Pittsburg, Pa., owner of the yacht Pilgrim, writes as follows to the Belfast (Me.) Journal:

Have I seen the sea serpent? Well, I'll tell you. I was coming up the coast in my yacht Pilgrim, South Boston yacht club, before a light southwester, Aug. 24th, and saw, just off Cape Neddick, at a distance of a quarter of a mile, an object which I suppose was a man fishing from a boat. I was surprised to find that he had vanished when I tried to make him out with marine glasses. Soon it appeared again a little nearer shore, and I had a good look at him, her or it. It looked like a black spar buoy, or log of wood, one foot in diameter and eight feet long, projected from a boat-like body at the front, and above the surface of the water at an angle of about twenty degrees from the vertical. The surface was black and shining, the angle between the neck (?) and body (?) was curved, and the general appearance was as if the part above water was continuous with a very long subaqueous body. Before I could get the glasses to bear accurately, the marine monster sank. Then he appeared inshore of us, upon the bow, upon the beam, upon the quarter, and then sporting in the breakers. He kept about the same distance from us, and did not afford us any better view than at the first. The animal was lively and perfectly at home in the water. He was seen by all on board, and all agree upon the above description. There was no inebriety, enthusiasm or delusion about the case, but calm, careful, critical observation. I was educated at the university of Pennsylvania in zoology and comparative anatomy, and I know the stripes of extinct and living marine animals. I have lived upon the ocean, in the navy and out, for several years, and cruised widely, have seen the usual monsters of the deep, and I am sure this strange being seen off Cape Neddick was unlike any yet described in natural history, and unique in sea-faring annals.

This merely adds another instance to the overwhelming mass of credible testimony going to prove that it is not 'twixt heaven and earth alone that there are more things than are dreamt of in our philosophy, but that the sea also has its share of things not yet fully known.

For many years the stories of whalemen, who laughed to scorn the idea that the sulphur-bottom whale was the largest of living creatures, and asserted that the squid (as they called the octopus) was much larger, and in the warm waters of the central Pacific grew to have tentacles a hundred feet long or more, were regarded as mere old sailors' yarns, although there was corroborative evidence of the existence of such monsters, extending over several centuries. At length, not many years ago, one of the hideous creatures with tentacles over thirty feet long was taken on the coast of Newfoundland, and carted about the country with a circus, since which time the gigantic octopus is a recognized and undisputed feature of natural history.

As to the existence of the sea-serpent there has been the present year enough credible testimony adduced to hang a dozen men were it brought against them in judicial trials for murder. At Cape Ann, in smooth water and under a bright sky, such a sea monster was distinctly seen at a short distance and for a period of twenty minutes to half an hour, by some fifty boys, women and men, all reputable persons presumably, and including two masters of Boston schools, one of whom viewed it through a powerful field glass, and a surveyor, who used his transit instrument as an aid to his vision. A lieutenant on the Minnesota, a quartermaster on the same vessel with a binocular glass, and many other persons on the same ship and on shore, last week saw a similar creature but a short distance away; and at least a dozen other times during the present season it has (or they have) appeared to different persons, many of whom from their occupation of fishermen or seamen have long been familiar with all ordinary inhabitants of these waters. Dr. Winslow's story, although the story of an educated man and an experienced seaman, is merely cumulative toward the establishing of a fact already as well established as human testimony can make it—the existence of some huge creature similar to a serpent, of which no large specimen has ever been captured.

In closing this notice of the sea-serpent we desire to express our disapprobation of the Cape Neddick one for not appearing earlier in the season, when he might have done some good in the direction of increasing the number of summer boarders, and the hope that another year he will show himself about the middle of June.

The Dover republicans got up a public demonstration in honor of Colonel Charles H. Sawyer on his return from Concord, Tuesday evening.—Concord People and Patriot.

We say to you, sir, that "the Dover republicans" did no such thing, but it was the spontaneous movement of both parties. The streets of Dover and the house and grounds of Mr. Sawyer were densely populated by democrats and republicans, alike, on the interesting occasion. Tell the truth, once in awhile, if you please. —Dover Democrat.

One day last week United States Consul Mackey, in New Laredo, Mexico, hearing that an American citizen named Robles was under arrest, charged with desertion from the Mexican army, called upon the regimental commander, and through his influence had the prisoner released. His dismissal was purely a matter of courtesy to the United States government, as there was no doubt whatever that the man was really a deserter from the Mexican army. This action on the part of the Mexican authorities provokes much favorable comment from Americans on both sides of the line.

A FEW EARNEST WORDS.

Does any one who reads these lines feel tired or nervous? Have you despondent feelings? Is your appetite sometimes poor and again voracious? Do you notice brick-dust at the bottom or a scum on the top of the fluids you pass? Are these fluids scant at times and plentiful at others? Do you have headaches once in a while? If you have these feelings, DO YOU KNOW WHAT THEY MEAN? Your Kidneys are Diseased!!! It may be only the beginning, but if not taken in time, Bright's Disease, and death in its most horrible form will be the end. YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO TRIFLE WITH THEM.

MR. JOHN W. FURNISH, an army veteran, of Wakefield, Mass., neglected these symptoms and was brought to death's door. He took HUNT'S REMEDY and is well to-day.

MRS. ALEXANDER L. NICHOLAS, of Phenix, R. I., and a descendant of General Nathaniel Greene, was so near the grave her breath only came in gasps, but she was restored to health by using HUNT'S REMEDY.

The wife of Captain S. Greenwood, master of the well known Steamer Kansas, had a large and painful swelling in the side, which was thought to be a tumor. It quickly disappeared after using HUNT'S REMEDY. Captain Greenwood himself was cured of terrible Catarrh of the Bladder by the same means.

These are only a few of many wonderful cures showing that HUNT'S REMEDY does cure the worst of all known diseases.

Do not, however, Delay. Observe the first symptoms and act promptly. You will certainly escape awful suffering and possibly death itself. For Sale by all Dealers.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALLOM, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. Y. A. PROUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

We shall be glad to send, free of charge, to all who may desire, a book containing many additional statements of cures by

INDIGESTION

To strengthen the stomach, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency which result from indigestion, there is nothing so effective as Ayer's Pills. These Pills contain no calomel or other poisonous drug, act directly on the digestive and assimilative organs, and restore health and strength to the entire system. T. P. Bonner, Chester, Pa., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 30 years, and am satisfied I should not have been alive to-day, if it had not been for them. They

Cured

me of Dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since." L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills, for Liver troubles and Indigestion, a good many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." Richard Norris, Lynn, Mass., writes: "After much suffering, I have been cured of Dyspepsia and Liver troubles

By Using

Ayer's Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken." John Burdett, Troy, Iowa, writes: "For nearly two years my life was rendered miserable by the horrors of Dyspepsia. Medical treatment afforded me only temporary relief, and I became reduced in flesh, and very much debilitated. A friend of mine, who had been similarly afflicted, advised me to try Ayer's Pills. I did so, and with the happiest results. My food soon ceased to distress me, my appetite returned, and I became as strong and well as ever."

AID FOR CHARLESTON.

The attention of our citizens is called to the subscription paper at the office of the city treasurer for aid to the Charleston sufferers. It is to be hoped that those who intend contributing towards this worthy object will do so promptly, as the need is urgent, and the destitution is very great. One hundred and ninety dollars have been already subscribed, as follows: Eldredge Brewing Co., $100; Daniel Marcy, $25; M. H. Wentworth, $20; S. J. Wentworth, $20; John R. Reding, $20; Frank W. Hackett, $5. We hope before many days Mayor Eldredge will be able to send a check for a handsome sum to the mayor of the stricken city.

Mayor Courtenay of Charleston on Saturday made public resolutions adopted by the city council asserting that while liberal and spontaneous assistance has come from all parts of this country and from England, and is "deeply appreciated, it is wholly insufficient to meet our unexpected exigencies," and the mayor is therefore requested to invoke additional aid for the unfortunate.

At the Church of the Immaculate Conception in this city, on Sunday last, a letter was read from the Bishop of Charleston, asking aid for the sufferers by the earthquake, and a very liberal contribution was made. Collections for this purpose will be taken up in all the Catholic churches of this diocese.

A collection is aid of the Charleston sufferers will be made in the Unitarian church next Sunday.

Wm. R. Burleigh, grand master of Masons of New Hampshire, has issued an official circular to the worshipful masters of the subordinate bodies, stating that an appeal has been received from the grand master of Masons of South Carolina for aid for the distressed brethren in Charleston, such aid being urgently needed.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

The Bath, Me., correspondent of the Portland Press, in a dispatch of Sunday, Sept. 19th, to that paper, in relation to the serious strike among the Knights of Labor employed in the yard and shops of the New England Shipbuilding Co. of Bath, says: "Last night Collector F. B. Torrey left for Washington on the midnight train. During the evening he and other prominent democrats held a meeting in George Hughs' law office, and prepared a list of sixty names of democratic ship carpenters. His mission is to get these men situations on the Kittery navy yard, where 600 carpenters are soon to be employed on old work at from $2.25 to $8.25 per day. Nearly all the strikers are anxious to get the chance to go, but democrats only are selected." In view of the facts that the amount of work to be done at the yard is (as far as is known at present) very limited, that the Maine election has taken place and the New Hampshire election is yet to be held, and that from present appearances there will not be half enough vacancies on the yard, after the former republicans are reinstated, to accommodate the New Hampshire democrats who wish to be "taken on," we are of the opinion that Collector Torrey's journey to Washington in behalf of the striking democratic workmen of Bath will not pan out much of a prospect.

"General" Butterfield, as he is usually termed, it is said on account of his warlike proclivities when his rights are encroached on, who has a blacksmith shop prominently located in Kittery on the Post road between Portsmouth and York, and who has all along been very much troubled in regard to the future of the democratic party, has been pacified by being called to work in the blacksmith shop at the navy yard. The general having many callers at his private smithery, has opportunity of satisfying the rank and file that the political situation is now all right.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

A business meeting of the Teachers' Association was held Monday evening in the common council room.

The following officers were elected: President, Mr. F. W. Sweet; vice presidents, Mr. John Pickard, Miss F. A. Mathes; secretary, Miss J. F. Prescott.

A committee of five consisting of Misses Clark and Mooers, and Messrs. Morss, Pickard and Rockwood, was appointed to outline a plan of work for the year.

MARITIME NOTES.

The revenue steamer Albert Gallatin put into the lower harbor on Saturday, anchoring in Fort Point cove, and laid till Monday.

The schooners Grace Choate, Capt. Edw. Robinson, and Agnes E. Downs, Capt. Levi Downs, came into port on Sunday with a few mackerel, caught with jigs. All the boats coming in Sunday reported a rough sea and fish scarce.

The schooner Flying Eagle, of this port, William Randall master, was anchored in the roads at the Shoals on Sunday. She is after herring.

The schooner yacht Dauntless was towed to sea on Monday morning by the steamer James Sampson. Her destination is said to be Cuba.

The little steam yacht Barracuda, of Boston, put into this port on Sunday to get coal and escape the rough weather outside. She sailed again Monday morning.

The black spar buoy marking Seward's rock, off Long wharf, was carried away Monday morning by an outward-bound schooner. The buoy was a new one, only put there a few weeks ago.

The lighthouse steamer Iris came in on Sunday, and on Monday evening was lying at Sise's wharf.

PERSONAL

Mr. Edward J. Moulton arrived home on Saturday from his annual trip to the eastern section of Maine.

Capt. James S. Brewster of Cape Neddick, formerly master of the schooner Hattie Lewis, and well known among the brickers of this river, was in town on Saturday.

Mr. Edwin R. Pearson, who has been passing the summer vacation in this city, will return to his studies in the Institute of Technology at Boston on Thursday, the 23d inst.

Mrs. Frank W. Miller and sisters have rented Dr. Hall's house on State street for the winter. Dr. Hall and wife will spend the winter in Fort Collins, Colorado, with their son.

Mr. Oliver M. Knight and wife leave for Minneapolis, Minn., this morning, to make a permanent residence there. Mr. Knight we are informed has accepted the agency for a large oil firm in that city.

Rev. Alfred Gooding, Mrs. Kate E. Miller, Mrs. M. A. Brooks, and Mr. George T. Vaughan and wife, started on Monday for Saratoga, N. Y., where the annual National Convention of Unitarian and other Christian churches is to hold its sessions this week.

One of Uncle Sam's blue jackets was sailing about our streets this afternoon on horseback, much to the amusement of those who saw him. We don't think he could sit a horse so well on the main royal yard aboard his ship now at the navy yard. How's that for salt, Dick?—Times.

That's salt enough; reminds us of Lot's wife. Your estimate of the horsemanship likely to be displayed by the blue jacket on the royal yard is also no doubt correct; the horse there, should one be found stabled so high up, would be of the Flemish variety, easier to stand on than to sit upon.

There was a good audience at Franklin theatre Monday evening, when an entertainment highly amusing, pleasing, and in parts thoroughly puzzling, was given by Balabrega and his assistants. The show is far the best of the kind ever given here, and affords a very pleasant means of spending an evening. See advertisement.

Tickets for Kit, the Arkansas Traveller, at Music hall to-morrow evening, are now on sale at Goodrich's.

Rev. Alfred Gooding will preach in the Unitarian church at Dover next Sunday.

The picnic of the Portsmouth Musical society, announced to take place at Dover point to-day (Tuesday,) has been indefinitely postponed on account of the death of Mrs. Ruth Butler, mother of the president of the society, Jerome C. Butler.

It is reported that Ex-Councilman Michael J. Leary has accepted the position of advance agent of the Balabrega company.

The stockholders of the Portsmouth Brewing Co., with guests from this city, Dover, Great Falls and other places to the number of thirty-five, went to Pocahantas point on the 19th inst. by the steamer James Sampson, and passed the day, having dinner in the hotel, and a clambake on the point.

Miss Morgan's school commences its session for the fall and winter on Wednesday, with the largest class of young ladies for years, and a class of six young boys.

Floy Crowell will commence a week's engagement next Monday evening, in Music hall.

The corrected figures of the votes in York county indicate the following pluralities, which will probably be changed little if any by the final official count: Edwards, democrat, for governor, over Bodwell, republican, six; Reed, republican, for congressman, over Clifford, democrat, fourteen; for state senators, Weymouth, democrat, 185, Jones, democrat, 182, and Harmon, republican, 36, over Junkins, who polled the fourth largest vote; Andrews and Pease, for county commissioners, over Meserve, who polled the third largest vote, 43 and six respectively; Leavitt, for registrar of deeds, over Goodwin, 69; Hewey, for clerk of courts, over Chadbourne, 218; Hamilton, for sheriff, over Emery, 81; Burbank, for county attorney, over Donovan, 195; Prescott, for treasurer, over Parker, 37. Weymouth and Jones, senators-elect, were the only candidates on the democratic county ticket of York county to secure an election; all the others mentioned as elected are republicans.

around his heart in time that he cannot turn carelessly aside from you.

Go out always with your husband, but manage to make home so attractive that he finds no place so dear.

Dress better for your husband than for any one else. Take a pride in his appearance that he may judge your heart by his own. Never allow him to see you slatternly attired. Even be tasty in a kitchen dress or looking pretty over a kitchen board.

Be strong in your determination never to gossip, to harshly criticise. Nothing men so much despise as gossip; nothing makes a woman rise so much in a good man's estimation as to see her charitable, particularly with her own sex. "For large charity does never soil, but only whitens soft white hands."

Put down your book when your husband enters the room and interest yourself in whatever pleases him, seeking also to bring him over to your tastes. Try for mutual concession, else you may travel different roads.

Never bother your husband about the servants. Cast aside disagreeable topics when he returns from business. Give your orders to your servants kindly but firmly, exacting obedience, yet showing them the encouragement of consideration when it is in your power.

If more mothers gave one-tenth good advice to nine-tenths wedding outfit there'd be fewer thoughtless marriages. And better yet, if every mother made it a point to follow these rules as closely herself as she would like to see her daughter do, girls would look longer for good men like their fathers and try harder to be good women like their mothers.—N. Y. Graphic.

Card-Playing Girls.

There are so many ways in which girls can be amusing, entertaining, and useful to themselves and others that it seems a great pity, says the Philadelphia Ledger, that any of them should resort to the common vices of coarse men. That they do so in the evening entertainments of private and elegant homes, and at the most fashionable summer-resorts, appears to be beyond question. And that the results will appear in unlooked-for demoralizations in the future of what is called good society may be set down as among the certainties of natural law. Young ladies may not be expressly susceptible to such prosy moral arguments, but they should not forget that the young men who gamble with them, and who appear to enjoy the fun, lose their respect for young ladies in the exact measure that the latter cease to be governed by the fine womanly feelings and standards of character. Men may laugh at the shrewdness of a girl in a game of cards for stakes, but she is not the girl they would trust on honor or that they care to marry. That is an argument to the quick, and may find its way home. The man who marries a gambling girl is already an incipient suitor in a divorce court.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or ITCHING of the scalp; should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHTY PER CENT of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the person may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a new growth. In many of the cases we have produced a good growth of Hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:

We grow Hair in 60 cases out of 100, no matter how long bald.

Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons.

It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.

Prompt Reform of Bodily Evils.

The prompt reform of those bodily evils, enfeebled digestion, incomplete assimilation, inactivity of the liver, kidneys and bladder, as well as of the nervous symptoms which these ailments are especially prone to beget, is always accomplished by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine accredited by physicians, pronounced pure by analysis, and eminently wholesome and agreeable. Surely such a restorative is preferable to unpalatable and indigestible mineral drugs and unsanctioned nostrums. The nation at large assuredly thinks so, judging by the unprecedented demand for the article from Maine to the Pacific, a demand now supplemented by immense orders for it received from tropical America, Mexico, the British and Spanish Colonial possessions, and elsewhere. Both at home and abroad it is recognized as a standard remedy and preventive, the decisiveness of its effects recommending it everywhere.

A private letter from England says the steamer Vancouver was badly damaged by a great sea that arose in mid-ocean at the time the Charleston earthquake occurred. One of her propeller blades was broken. A very violent storm followed the great wave, and the passengers say it was the worst ever experienced even by the oldest of the sailors.

A Concord paper says: "The penalty for infanticide, as set down in the supreme court at Dover the other day, is one year in state prison. The Only medicine I ever found that helped me at all is ATHLOPHOROS, and I have not had the Rheumatism since I took it."—EDWIN SEARS, Provincetown, Mass.

A professor in a medical college once said to his class "put your hand in a vice, turn the screw until the pain is all you can bear, and that's rheumatism; turn the screw once more, and that's neuralgia—and gentlemen, the medical profession knows no cure for either." That was before the discovery of ATHLOPHOROS which does and will cure Rheumatism and neuralgia, and many physicians use it regularly—frankly admitting that they can prescribe nothing else so effective.

Many persons have tried so many so-called remedies, without benefit, that they have no faith to try more, but it is worth your while to try Athlophoros, if you have any doubts as to its value write for names of parties in your own State who have been cured by its use.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

UNDER WATER.

Successful Trial Plunge of Lieutenant Zalinski's Torpedo Boat Nautilus.

"Have you made your will?"

"It's a splendid place down in there to die of asphyxia."

These were some of the nerve-tickling comments hurled yesterday after a reporter who chanced to be at Fort Hamilton, in the Narrows, and was about to undertake a weird trip to the bottom of the bay on board of Lieutenant Zalinski's iron-tipped submarine torpedo boat, the Nautilus. The people on the dock could afford to be facetious; they were not going down into the depths, and his answering laugh therefore sounded perhaps a little forced and raspy, but it was well intended. The Nautilus has been "tied up" for a long time at the government pie at Fort Hamilton. Experiments have been carried on meanwhile with great activity by Lieutenant Zalinski and by Mr. Joseph Holland, an engineer working under the direction of his brother, Mr. John Holland, of this city, who has perfected the engines on board. Yesterday's trial trip was intended to test the value of the experiments so long going on, and which it was judged had sufficiently progressed to warrant a dive.

The reporter asked permission to take this first dive. The lieutenant said:

"You can go if you think you want to chance it."

The "crew" of the boat was promptly on hand. It consisted of one man—a youthful, nervy fellow, selected for his utter disregard for the dangers of the deep, and who has gained the appelation of "The Dynamiter." He descended into the boat, which lay in the water, rolling easily on the long swells sent out by the oft-passing steamers.

The little craft looked like a huge cigar—a high-priced one—and pointed at both ends. The reporter next followed the crew into the turret hole and was soon joined by Lieutenant Zalinski and the Holland brothers. In a few minutes the engine was started. The throb and pump of its working and the short puffs from the air valves were painfully loud in the "cabin." This air compressor has lately been perfected, and, though the boat is not constructed with any other idea than to demonstrate the theory so long ago advanced that submarine sailing is practicable, a speed of nine miles an hour has been obtained. It worked perfectly. The air is compressed by means of it until the tubes on the port side have a pressure of eighty-five pounds per inch, and the opposite something less.

"Close the turret," said the lieutenant.

A last look outside revealed a few soldiers and civilians on the wharf and a man lolling on his oars in a rowboat watching the monster. In obedience to the order the cap to the turret was swung around by an inside lever, and stout clasps inside soon fastened it firmly down so as to exclude the water. Only the light which drifted in through a bull's eye and a row of small deadlights illuminated the cabin, and candles were indispensable.

"Open your valve!"

The crew turned a stop-cock. Water from the bay rushed into the water chambers, enveloping the cabin, and into the diving-bell, and the boat began to descend, with a slight tilting forward, where the 800 pounds in the diving-bell helped to bear it down. On the inside could be heard the splashing and lapping of the water as the waves washed up within the walls to the turret. Then the waves covered the shell entirely, and the stern settled more evenly with the bow. The turret was soon half under. Down went the boat faster and faster, and in a moment more a wave washed completely over the top. That was a queer sensation. It caused the breath to come quick and short for a minute, and everybody tried to be jolly.

"I've got a bucket of water here," volunteered the lieutenant, "but we haven't any provisions."

A nice prospect. It is very easy to sink a boat, but to raise her is the question. And something to eat would be handy, in case the diver could not rise to last until search parties could haul it to the surface, for her machinery might not work right. And while these thoughts "bobbed up serenely" in one's mind, the motion of the waves was no longer felt, for the boat was entirely submerged. The engine was not working, and the boat was at rest on the bottom of the bay. Thus was realized, though only in degree, Jules Verne's imaginative "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea."

It needed only a sliding panel in the side to be opened and disclose the wonders of the submarine depths. Fish were perhaps nosing about the smooth sides of the conical craft in wonder or scurrying away from it in terror.

The panel scheme would be a good one, but in lieu of it the "dead lights were handy." No fish, however, were to be seen through them, but dead leaves and sea-weed floated about beneath the surface, moved by the outgoing tide. Looking up through the bull's-eye in the crown or roof, the water was lighter. The sun's rays drifted down through it, making it translucent, and objects, like shadows, passing on the surface, cast below them a deeper shade still, which looked queer in the weird, greenish waters. The water was twelve feet deep thereabouts. The Nautilus, submerged, ordinarily draws six feet. An easy calculation showed the depth of the boat. A yacht might sail over it. And now an odd feeling became noticeable. The compressed air liberated into the "cabin" rendered the atmosphere denser than under normal conditions, and there was a ringing in the ears of those on board. Perspiration was forced from the men, although the air was not warm, and the reporter's collar began to wilt sadly.

"Let us go up."

Mr. Holland finally suggested this Earthquake Developments.

One of the most startling developments of the earthquake is the fact that Charleston seems to have been the birthplace and abiding place of the "Buddenseick family" of builders. The corps of United States engineers who have been examining the shattered houses have found that nine-tenths of the brick buildings were built of faulty material, and in an utterly unsafe manner. The mortar used was made of yellow clay and lime, and was consequently unfit to hold the bricks together. Again, it is found that the brick walls were loosely built, the space between the outer and inner tiers of bricks being filled with "bats" loosely thrown in, so as to meet the requirements of the law prescribing the thickness of walls. The Craft schoolhouse, a handsome public building, constructed only two years ago at a cost of about $20,000, is utterly wrecked, and the engineers say solely in consequence of the material used in its construction. The subject has been brought to the attention of the city council, and a law will be passed prohibiting the construction of such buildings in the future; but in the meantime several of the builders are using the same old material.

The repairs on the historic St. Michael's church have developed a strange fact in connection with the earthquake. The steeple has sunk eight or ten inches, and on a dead level, as is proved by the fact that the pendulum clock in the tower has been started and is still running. The rest of the church evidently stands where it originally was, but the steeple, which is built on its own foundation, has sunk as stated. Formerly, persons visiting St. Michael's on entering the vestibule had to ascend a step of about four inches; now the floor of the vestibule is about six inches below the sidewalk.

Another curious fact is that the entire southern portion of the city seems to have sunk. Before the earthquake, Meeting street, from Broad street to the Battery, was a dead level stretch. Now, a person standing at the corner of Broad street and looking down Meeting street stands apparently at the top of a hill, showing that the southern portion of the city has sunk sufficiently to be very perceptible to the senses without the aid of scientific measurement.

A very grave phase of the situation is the scarcity in this city of skilled mechanics. This would be a golden opportunity for bricklayers, plasterers, tinners and carpenters of the north and west. There are over 3,000 houses in the city which will have to be almost entirely rebuilt. The winter will be on in six weeks, or two months at the extreme, and the work of repairing has as yet made but little progress, although very nearly all the able-bodied men in the city are at work. Bricklayers are getting from $5 to $6 a day. In some cases, where repairs are imperatively needed, plasterers are receiving $3 per day. These prices, of course, cannot be kept up; but there is abundant room for skilled mechanics, who for six months at least could make double and triple the wages they are now receiving in the northern cities.

Snelling's Reward.

Samuel G. Snelling, the defaulting treasurer of the Lowell bleachery, on Monday pleaded guilty to the charges against him, and was sentenced to the penitentiary for seven years. Few men fell from a higher social position than Snelling. He had been one of the most prominent and trusted members of Trinity church, Boston, for many years, and his friends were among the first people in the city. One of his sons is a clergyman, and one of his daughters is the wife of a clergyman.

PERSONAL

Mr. R. Edwin Rider, of St. Paul, Minnesota, arrived in this city on Monday evening on a brief visit to his relatives and friends here, the latter class including a very large number of persons.

Mrs. Rouge, child and maid, who have passed the summer in this city, boarding at Wingate's, left for Apalachicola, Fla., Tuesday morning, to spend the winter.

Joshua M. Vaughan on Sunday bought 1000 mackerel of moderate size brought in by the schooner Hattie N. Reed, Capt. Henry Becker, and the N. B. Newhall, Capt. Sol. White. The fish were sold by Mr. Vaughan in the neighboring towns.

The "gurry" or fish offal has been contracted for by some of the fishing firms here to be carried to Spectacle island, Boston harbor, at $2.50 per ton the coming winter, to be used in the manufacture of an artificial fertilizer.

A party of Indians from Maine on Monday pitched their tents, two in number, on the open space at the southerly side of the Universalist church. The same party visited this city four or five years ago, and occupied the same campground.

At Skowhegan, Me., on the 13th inst., Edmund Adams, aged eighty-two years, went to the polls, and on depositing his ballot remarked, "That's my last vote, probably." He was taken ill next day, and died early in the morning on the 15th.

Prof. E. Stone Wiggins predicts another earthquake, Sept. 29th, more widespread and disastrous than the former. Wiggins should be boycotted.

Mr. M. M. Collis has rented the former home of the late Charles Walker on Richards avenue, and with his family will occupy it for a residence.

The total amount of death claims paid by the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York, for the week ending September 17th, was $87,324.74. Total amount of endowments for the same period, $30,776.20.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

INDIGESTION

To strengthen the stomach, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency which result from indigestion, there is nothing so effective as Ayer's Pills. These Pills contain no calomel or other poisonous drug; act directly on the digestive and assimilative organs, and restore health and strength to the entire system. T. P. Bonner, Chester, Pa., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 30 years, and am satisfied I should not have been alive to-day, if it had not been for them. They

Cured

me of Dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since." L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills, for Liver troubles and Indigestion, a good many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." Richard Norris, Lynn, Mass., writes: "After much suffering, I have been cured of Dyspepsia and Liver troubles

By Using

Ayer's Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken." John Burdett, Troy, Iowa, writes: "For nearly two years my life was rendered miserable by the horrors of Dyspepsia. Medical treatment afforded me only temporary relief, and I became reduced in flesh, and very much debilitated. A friend of mine, who had been similarly afflicted, advised me to try Ayer's Pills. I did so, and with the happiest results. My food soon ceased to distress me, my appetite returned, and I became as strong and well as ever."

"THE ARKANSAS TRAVELLER."

This evening, at Music hall, Mr. Chanfrau and his dramatic company will present Kit, the Arkansas Traveller, a play which for fifteen years or more past has enjoyed, and still maintains, a very high degree of popularity, and with which the name of Chanfrau is inseparably associated. It is a play which can be seen many times, and enjoyed more and more every time. Tickets at Goodrich's.

BALABREGA'S SHOW.

Prof. Balabrega will be in Franklin theatre every evening this week in his novel entertainment entitled Modern Miracles. The entertainment is composed of surprising and varied feats, drollery, singing, mesmeric experiments, tricks of contortion, etc., and is amusing and interesting in the extreme.

Tuesday evening the performance was fully up to the standard of Monday, the audience being alternately convulsed with laughter or lost in astonishment, as the wonderful Professor and his capable assistants unfolded the various numbers on the programme. Popular prices rule.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

On the 21st of September, 1836, Mr. Samuel Adams and Miss Mary J. Moulton were united in matrimony, and for the half century since have trod the path of life side by side, through sunshine and shadow, joy and sadness, ever strong in their love for and confidence in each other. Sorrows, and great ones, they have had, yet as they look back they see that the good has far outweighed the evil, and thankfully recognize that life has been, and is, worth the living.

Tuesday, the 21st inst., was the 50th anniversary of their union, but owing to the decease within a recent period of their last surviving child, they decided to take no special notice of the occasion, nor mention it to their friends. Some of the latter, however, remembered it, and early in the forenoon the worthy couple were surprised by a number of callers who came to tender their congratulations at the completion of fifty years of happy wedded life; during the afternoon the number of visitors was very large, and in the evening some thirty or forty relatives, with a few intimate friends, assembled in the spacious parlors of their residence and passed the time until a reasonably late hour in agreeable social intercourse, and such reminiscences as the occasion would be likely to recall. The observance of the day was all the more pleasant to the participants for being so entirely informal, and Mr. Adams and his worthy partner could but have felt gratified at the spontaneous exhibition of esteem and good will. May the shadows that cross their future path be few and faint.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR.

Last Sunday afternoon Clarence Caswell, fisherman, and Samuel Alley, brewery workman, went down river for a little pull, and when returning about dusk, coming up the Little Harbor channel, were a good deal surprised and a good deal more scared, as they do not hesitate to acknowledge. They were a short distance below the old Gov. Wentworth place, pulling leisurely along near the shore in about five feet of water, when Caswell's attention was attracted by his companion suddenly exclaiming in a very startled tone, "Heavens! what's that?" and turning his head he saw rushing by the boat, farther out in the channel, what in the dim light looked something like a stumpy, thick spar buoy, projecting some five feet above the surface at an angle of about forty-five degrees, making a great ripple as it cut through the water, and showing a greatly-disturbed wake for a long distance in the rear. The creature, whatever it was, was of a gray color, moved with great speed, and made a tremendous commotion in doing so; but between the uncertain light, the very natural start given to their nerves by the sudden appearance so close at hand of the unexpected marine apparition, and the high speed with which it swashed past them toward the sea, the men were unable to notice eyes, or mane, or protuberances, if any such were on the creature. All they can positively assert is that an object such as is described did appear as stated, gave them a good scare, and disappeared in a few moments. Suspicious persons may suggest that parties returning on Sunday evening from down-river excursions would be the very ones, above all others, likely to see sea-serpents and things; but Mr. Caswell is not only an experienced fisherman but a strictly temperate man. He says he never before saw anything like it, and does not care to again, under such circumstances; he has no objection to standing on shore or aboard a good-sized schooner and seeing it.

FATHER O'CALLAGHAN'S RETURN.

The reception committee of the Church of the Immaculate Conception on Monday evening received a telegram from Rev. Eugene M. O'Callaghan, stating that he would arrive in this city on Wednesday evening at seven o'clock.

The reception will take place in the church soon after his arrival, probably about 7:30 o'clock; the doors of the church will open at seven. The church has been decorated for the occasion, and the musical exercises will be especially fine.

MARITIME NOTES.

The steamer Oceanic made an excursion trip to the Shoals and back, Sunday afternoon, though the weather was threatening and the sea rough; most of the passengers were seasick, and all were glad when they got back to the wharf. The steamer on Monday afternoon made a second trip to Great bay, carrying about a hundred passengers.

The Athletic boat club's large rowboat, lying at Fernald's boat landing, was considerably damaged on Monday afternoon by the lighthouse steamer Iris, which was taking a berth at a wharf near by.

The steamer Oceanic, Capt. Wm. Robinson, left this port about ten o'clock Tuesday night for Philadelphia, having on board a small party of passengers, including Capt. Edwin A. Gerrish and Mr. George H. Sanderson.

The schooner Rebecca W. Huddell, at Philadelphia from this port via Lanesville, Mass., reports that on Thursday, Sept. 16th, during a thick fog, Barnegat bearing west forty-five miles, she collided with the schooner James Boyce, Jr., bound east. The Rebecca W. Huddell lost jibboom, bowsprit, cathead, anchor stock, starboard fore and main shrouds, broke rail on starboard side, and chafed hull. Damage to the James Boyce, Jr., unknown.

SEABROOK.

Mrs. Clara Osgood Hatch, of Amesbury, elocutionist, will give selections from eminent authors in the Methodist Episcopal church, Seabrook, on Wednesday, Sept. 22d. There will be music by the choir. Should the weather prove unfavorable the entertainment will be postponed to the first fair evening following.

Harrigan's Irish and American Tourists held forth at the opera house last night, and made fun for eighteen hundred people. Without exaggerating in the least we can say that the show gave universal satisfaction. The scenery of famous and interesting places in Ireland was in itself a good card, and many went to see that. The Two Barneys made much fun, and they with the "nagur" and Dutchman kept the people in a roar all the time. The bagpipers were something new, and were well appreciated. The dancing was of the best, and there never was better or more of it in Renova. —Renova News.

There was a quite brilliant display of the aurora borealis on Monday night.

This year isn't much on yacht races, but it easily beats the record on sea-serpents.

The republican convention for the first councilor district meets at the court house in this city at eleven o'clock this forenoon.

There was a heavy frost on Monday night in this vicinity, but vegetation is now "out of the way of the frost," in farmers' parlance. Tuesday morning the thermometer was down to thirty-six degrees above zero.

Black ducks are now quite plentiful in the waters of this region.

At the second councilor district republican convention, held at Concord on the 21st inst. John C. Linehan, Esq., of Penacook, was nominated, receiving eighty-nine of the ninety-six ballots cast. At the Merrimac county convention, held on the 21st inst., General J. N. Patterson, of Concord, was nominated for sheriff. We congratulate Comrades Linehan and Patterson. Their nomination will add strength to the ticket in Merrimac county.

A lady with a young infant in her arms, walking on the Daniel street sidewalk Tuesday afternoon, was struck in the side by a foot-ball kicked by some one of a dozen or so young men who were enjoying the sport there. Some more retired spot would be more appropriate for the amusement, and a hint to that effect from the police authorities would not be out of place.

Mr. Abner J. Phipps, a well known educator of New England, died in Jamaica Plain, Mass., Sept. 20th, aged seventy years. He was a native of this city.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never-failing cure for the bodily ills incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when chilled to a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for very calmly. Would she "go up?" Everybody awaited the result of the order eagerly. The fate of the boat, may be of its passengers, depended upon it. At a signal the crew opened a valve. A sound of rushing air from the tubes indicated that the diving-bell was being rid of its weight of water. How quickly it was all done. Only fourteen seconds and relieved of only 800 pounds of water, the boat rose until the top of the turret shot into the light and air above the surface. By manipulating two valves the water was driven from the water chamber in the diving bell and thence forced outside until eighteen inches of the roof of the shell was out of water and the turret could be unclamped. The dense air in the boat rushed out of the opening, and the pressure of the atmosphere was reduced. The same strange ringing in the ears made the occupants of the boat alive to that fact. The adventurous quintet were soon welcomed by their friends on the dock. The vessel had been half an hour on the bottom.

"That beats a Turkish bath all hollow," said one of them looking down at the perspiring divers.

"That settles the practicability of the boat," said Lieutenant Zalinski. "It demonstrates that she can be directed, sunk, and brought to the surface at the will of her captain. I am greatly pleased."

Cooking Vegetables.

It is surprising what a difference there is in the time required for cooking many vegetables that have stood a day or two after the picking, as compared with those which have come fresh from the garden. For example, peas that are picked in the morning for use the same day, can be cooked in about half the time that would be needed if the same peas were kept a day or two longer. Besides, the flavor of vegetables that are cooked while fresh is much superior to that of those which have stood for some time.

Ears of green corn that are just filled will, if plunged into boiling water as soon as gathered, cook in ten minutes, or perhaps in less time, while the same corn, if kept for one or two days, will require twice as much time for cooking and will not be so tender and fine flavored as if cooked at once. This is where one having a garden of her own has a great advantage of the housekeeper who is obliged to get her supplies from the market. Eating green peas and corn in the country spoils one for anything that can be bought in a city market.

A piece of cooking soda about the size of a pea will, if added to a quart of peas or beans, make them tenderer and preserve the green color. It should not be added until the vegetables are half cooked—Maria Parloa, in Good Housekeeping.

The Princess of Wales spends $5,000 a year for bouquets.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or ITCHING of the scalp; should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHTY PER CENT of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the person may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to the directions you are cure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have received a good growth of Hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:

We grow hair in 90 cases out of 100, no matter how long bald.

It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.

DOUBLE AND TRIPLE STRENGTH.

When the skin is very tough and hard, and the follicle is apparently effectually closed, the single strength will sometimes fail to reach the papilla; in such cases double or triple strength should be used in connection with the single, using them alternately.

Riots Across the Water.

Two serious riots occurred in Liverpool, England, on the 18th inst. One resulted from an encounter between Orangemen and nationalists; the other had its origin in inflammatory speeches made at a socialist meeting. Many rioters were arrested.

Rioting occurred in Belfast, Ireland, on the 19th. A large mob gathered and threatened the officers, and it was with great difficult that arrests were made. On the 20th at noon a large body of Queen's Island ship-yard workmen, all Orangemen, marched ostentatiously through the streets of Belfast on the way to and from dinner, as if to provoke a fight; at Carrick Hill they were attacked with stones and a desperate fight ensued, many men on both sides being wounded. The police were outnumbered and powerless, and troops sent for. Several persons were killed and many wounded before the riot was quelled.

There were three shocks of earthquake at Charleston and Summerville, S. C., during the night of the 20th inst., but beyond the alarm caused no damage was done.

A school boy named Stillman stabbed a companion named Wilson Sherman at Rockland, Me., with a pocket knife on the 18th inst., inflicting wounds that may prove dangerous. Stillman, who has been arrested, is a dangerous boy, and has often threatened to stab his schoolmates.

We Caution All Against Them.

The unprecedented success and merit of Ely's Cream Balm—a real cure for catarrh, hay fever and cold in head—has induced many adventurers to place catarrh medicines bearing some resemblance in appearance, style or name upon the market, in order to trade upon the reputation of Ely's Cream Balm. Don't be deceived. Buy only Ely's Cream Balm. Many in your immediate locality will testify in highest commendation of it. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price 50 cents.

That Baby of Mine,

Auntie, three months ago had the salt rheum so bad that his head was a mass of sores, and I had begun to lose all hopes of raising him, but my druggist recommended Sulphur Bitters, and to-day he is as fat and chipper as any baby you ever saw, and he has not a sore on his head, and just think that after paying out so much, that a few dollars worth of Sulphur Bitters should cure him.—Mrs. J. Serious Danger

Threatens every man, woman or child living in a region where fever and ague is prevalent, since the germs of malarial disease are inhaled from the air and are swallowed from the water of such a region. Medicinal safeguard is absolutely necessary to nullify this danger. As a means of fortifying and acclimating the system so as to be able to resist the malarial poison, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is incomparably the best and the most popular. Irregularities of the stomach, liver and bowels encourage malaria; but these are speedily rectified by the Bitters. The functions of digestion and secretion are assisted by its use, and a vigorous as well as regular condition of the system promoted by it. Constitution and physique are thus defended against the inroads of malaria by this matchless preventive, which is also a certain and thorough remedy in the worst cases of intermittent and remittent fevers.

The national committee appointed by the anti-saloon republican convention at Chicago have decided to present memorials to all the state republican conventions, and to do everything possible to get the party to commit itself to temperance everywhere. It was decided, however, to work strictly within party lines, and to discourage all bolting and third-party movements.

Memoirs of Gen. John C. Fremont.

We have received part one of "Memoirs of my Life, by John Charles Fremont; with a sketch of the Life of Senator Benton, by Jessie Benton Fremont." The first number contains portraits of Gen. Fremont and his accomplished wife, of Senator Benton, Mrs. Fremont's father, and Napoleon as first consul, with maps and illustrations, and is handsomely printed in large type on thick paper. This work, being a narrative of the life of one of the most eminent of living men, and "covering the most eventful periods of modern American history," will be of great value. The chapters devoted to "Some Account of the Plates," and the "Biographical Sketch of Senator Benton," are very interesting, the latter containing much valuable information concerning the senator's "connection with western expansion" and his early work in opening the great west to emigration. Published by Belford, Clarke & Co., Chicago and New York. George V. Jones & Co., 123 Pearl street, Boston, general agents for New England.

The Boston Post, in discussing Miss Sarah Orne Jewett's place in literature, says that she is "more an artist in words than any other American woman—has more exquisite charm of style than was the possession of Maria Edgeworth, Fredrika Bremer or Mrs. Gaskill." Had pains in back, limbs and around the heart, she took two bottles of Athlophoros and was very much better right away."—W. E. MOUNSEY, Lyme, N. H.

Neuralgia, though one of the most common and most painful of diseases, has baffled all medical skill, and until the discovery of ATHLOPHOROS was common almost, if not quite incurable. Athlophoros acted SURELY and QUICKLY cures it. This statement, though strong, is warranted by the facts. Thousands have tested its value and recommend it as the ONLY remedy that brings relief. For ladies subject to neuralgia or nervous headaches it is indispensable. Athlophoros contains no opium, morphine, or other dangerous ingredient. It is absolutely harmless and universally successful in the prompt cure of this painful disease.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

New York Politicians at Saratoga.

There is a certain sort of life—whether it is worth seeing is a question—that we can see nowhere else, and for an hour Mr. Glow and King and Forbes, sipping their raspberry shrub in a retired corner of the bar-room, were interested spectators of the scene. Through the padded swinging doors entered, as in a play, character after character. Each actor as he entered stopped for a moment and stared about him, and in this act revealed his character—his conceit, his slyness, his bravado, his self-importance. There was great variety, but practically one prevailing type, and that the New York politician. Most of them were from the city, though the country politician apes the city politician as much as possible, but he lacks the exact air, notwithstanding the black broadcloth and the white hat. The city men are of two varieties—the smart, perky-nosed, vulgar young ward worker, and the heavy-featured, gross, fat old fellow. One after another they glide in, with an always conscious air, swagger off to the bar, strike attitudes in groups, one with his legs spread, another with a foot behind on tiptoe, another leaning against the counter, and so pose, and drink—"My respects"—all rather solemn and stiff, impressed perhaps by the decorousness of the place, and conscious of their good clothes. Enter together three stout men, a yard across the shoulders, each with an enormous development in front, waddle up to the bar, attempt to form a triangular group for conversation, but find themselves too far apart to talk in that position, and so arrange themselves side by side—a most distinguished-looking party, like a portion of a swell-front street in Boston. To them swaggers up a young sport, like one of Thackeray's figures in the Irish Sketch-book—short, in a white hat, poor face, impudent manner, poses before the swell fronts and tosses off his glass. About a little table in one corner are three excessively "ugly mugs," leering at each other and pouring down champagne. These men are all dressed as nearly like gentlemen as the tailor can make them, but even he cannot change their hard, brutal faces. It is not their fault that money and clothes do not make a gentleman; they are well fed and vulgarly prosperous, and if you inquire you will find that their women are in silks and laces. This is a good place to study the rulers of New York; and impressive as they are in appearance, it is a relief to notice that they unbend to each other, and nail one another familiarly as "Billy" and "Tommy." Do they not ape what is most prosperous and successful in American life? There is one who in make-up, form, and air, even to the cut of his side whiskers, is an exact counterpart of the great railway king. Here is a heavy-faced young fellow in evening dress, perhaps endeavoring to act the part of a gentleman, who has come from an evening party unfortunately a little "elewed," but who does not know how to sustain the character, for presently he becomes very familiar and confidential with the dignified colored waiter at the buffet, who requires all his native politeness to maintain the character of a gentleman for two.

If these men had millions, could they get any more enjoyment out of life? To have fine clothes, drink champagne, and pose in a fashionable bar-room in the height of the season—is not this the apotheosis of the "heeler" and the ward "worker?" The scene had a fascination for the artist, who declared that he never tired watching the evolutions of the foreign element into the full bloom of American citizenship.—Charles Dudley Warner, in Harper's Magazine for September.

Hygeia in the Dog-Days.

While ruminating over a pipe on the evening of one of the dog-days, the thermometer being above 80 degrees in the shade, I have wondered what the goddess Hygeia would have done, and what she would have recommended under the circumstances, for purposes of health and comfort. She wouldn't have eaten roast duck, I know; but how would she have combated the heat, by way of keeping herself cool? Would she have swallowed haggis and cockleekie in north Britain, ham and beef in Yorkshire, and tripe and onions in London? Not a bit of it. Hygeia had too much respect for herself as a goddess to indulge in such plebeian and delusive dainties in hot weather. I can just see her in a scornful attitude, on the top of a marble column such as Alma Tadema loves to paint—she waves her hand over the smoking viands our good cooks are sending up for our delectation. She preaches abstention in a way that makes one feel creepy, as her words seem to come down from the cold marble. She is commanding her followers to keep cool with milk and water, and grapes and strawberries, and to leave all the alcohol and wine and beer for other occasions. I beg Hygeia's pardon, and shall renounce heat producers on hot days in future, although they are very good, and like everything else unfortunately, what dyspeptics like best.

Art and Literature in New York.

By the time the next generation appears, private libraries will probably be very few. The taste for making collections of books in the household certainly is not to-day what it was a generation ago. Thirty or forty years past the place of books in the family was important. Most young people setting up housekeeping felt that a few volumes to set off the parlor or sitting-room were as essential as the usual furniture, and the beginning thus made was generally followed up as the household grew. A taste for books was regarded as an evidence of social merit, and visitors were shown the library, whether large or

A general strike has occurred among the journeymen plumbers in Hoboken and Jersey City, N. J. About 200 men are out, as the result of a change in the hours of work. The boss plumbers notified them that the hours of labor must be from 7:30 A. M. to 5:30 P. M.,—nine hours, with an hour out for dinner. A long fight is imminent.

Treasure Seekers.

A party of divers sailed from Philadelphia on the 9th inst. for Delaware breakwater in the tug Startle, provided with armor for deep water diving, to make an effort to locate the English sloop-of-war De Braak, which was sunk off Cape Henlopen June 28th, 1798, with a vast amount of treasure on board, estimated at $10,000,000, and they have sent word to Philadelphia that they have brought to the surface a large brass cannon, which they say is, without a doubt, from the sunken craft. This has greatly encouraged them, and they say they will surely, within a few days, locate the vessel, which, it is said, lies one mile and three-quarters northeast of the pitch of Cape Henlopen, threequarters of a mile from Delaware breakwater. The specie which was on board the De Braak was taken from three Spanish galleons captured in the West Indies. When the vessel sank she carried every one on board down on her with the exception of the pilot, including twenty-five prisoners. Ten per cent of the wealth saved from the wreck will be the property of the government.

Yacht Racing.

The official time of the four winning yachts in the drifting match off Newport, R. I., was as follows: Gitana, schooner, actual sailing time (same as corrected time) over the course of forty-eight miles, 11 hours, 22 minutes and 10 seconds; time of schooners Montauk, Sachem and Miranda not taken. Mayflower, first-class sloop, 12 h. 16 m. 50 s., sailing and corrected time; Galatea, cutter, ruled out for fouling buoy; Puritan, sloop, time not taken. Stranger, second-class cutter, sailing time 9 h. 37 m. 10 s., corrected time 9 h. 32 m. 39 s., beating sloop Thetis 1 h. 46 m. 46 s. corrected time. Cinderella, third-class sloop, 11 h. 16 m. 36 s., beating cutter Clara 19 m. 19 s. corrected time. It will be noticed that the Mayflower, the winner of the race for first-class sloops and cutters, was more than twelve hours getting over the course, and was beaten by the winners in all the other classes.

The sloop Thetis and the cutter Stranger had a private match race from Vineyard Haven to Marblehead for $500, starting on Monday, the 20th inst., the wind being ahead and the sea rough. The Thetis won, arriving in Marblehead harbor with her mainsail reefed, topmast housed, and bonnet off the jib, having gained over four hours on the Stranger in the beat from Pollock Rip lightship. The Thetis is a typical American sloop, owned by Harry Bryant of Boston; the Stranger is an English cutter, imported with crew and all from Southampton, and is owned by George H. Warren of Boston. The cutter is a few feet longer than the sloop, and there has been great rivalry between them, each having defeated the other several times. It seems that the sloop is the abler boat of the two, in "cutter weather."

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Sept. 21st.

An amount of money sufficient to make some slight repairs and paint the outside of the 1st Methodist church at North Kittery has been raised by the pastor, Rev. Francis Grovener, among the members of the society, and work on the church will be commenced at once.

First Assistant Engineer Oliver P. Remick, U. S. R. M., is visiting his home here.

Miss Emma Berry has returned to her home at Kittery Point, after a pleasant visit the past week with friends at Pullet hill, North Kittery.

Mrs. M. E. Perkins and her daughter, Miss Maud B. Perkins, after a brief visit among relatives here have returned to their home at Red Bank, N. J., in season to commence the fall term at the Riverside seminary, of which Mrs. Perkins is preceptress.

Mr. William F. Bartlettt is taking a short vacation this week from his duties at the Portsmouth machine shop. He left town Monday morning for Hartford, Conn., to visit his brother, Wallace E. Bartlett, Esq.

Miss Annie M. Gerry of North Kittery starts on Thursday, the 23d inst., for Montreal, Canada, where she will pass the winter with relatives.

Capt. Samuel H. Pilsbury is visiting his brother in Omaha, Neb., being on his way home from California, where he went as a representative to the G. A. R. national encampment, held there last month.

We hope the "local" of the Times does not claim the "honor" of writing that article on the Kittery republican caucus—though we have sometimes seen skim-milk masquerading as cream.

SUB ROSA.

Russian petroleum is successfully competing with the American article, and is sold for a lower price, which is gradually driving out our product from the European markets.

Alderman William P. Kirk of New York has resigned from the democratic state committee. He is under indictment on the Broadway railroad steal.

AROUND HOME.

James Morrissey has gone to work in the boiler-makers' shop at the navy yard.

Mrs. Harriet Clayton of Sanford, Me., eighty-one years old, was a passenger on the Catalonia of the Cunard line, which arrived in Boston a few days ago. This was Mrs. Clayton's third voyage between the ports of Boston and Liverpool since her 70th birthday.

Rev. C. B. Pitblado, formerly pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church in this city, is to take the stump in Massachusetts for prohibition.

Mr. Sam. Armstrong was in town on the 22d inst. from York, and carried out a load of blacksmith coal to George Williams of York village.

A game of base ball between the York and Kittery clubs was played at York on the 18th inst., and was won by the York club by a score of sixteen to eight.

An associated press despatch says that "Fred H. Rowe, aged thirty years, a married man and prosperous farmer and brick-maker of Eliot, disappeared Saturday, Sept. 18th. At about the same time Annie M. Raitt, a domestic in his house, disappeared also, and there is no doubt that they have eloped. Rowe has evidently been preparing for the event for some time. He has failed to pay his brickyard help for several weeks, had just collected $1600 due him, sold his share in a schooner, and departed owing $500 to a lumber firm here. He took all the money and valuables he could secure. Rowe leaves a wife and three children."

"For there was never yet a philosopher that could endure the toothache patiently." Perhaps not—but there's little wit in enduring it at all, when one bottle of Salvation Oil will cure it.

A few days ago a newly-married couple went to the Boston & Maine railroad station in Portland to take the train west, on their wedding tour. While the groom was looking after the baggage-checks, the "best man" hurried the bride into a train just starting, which proved to be the 12:40 train over the Western division, instead of the one o'clock train over the Eastern division, which was intended to be taken. The excited husband was told that by taking the Eastern train he would meet the one with his wife aboard, at North Berwick junction; so he started. At three o'clock the bride reappeared in the Portland depot, having returned on a way train; she was advised to remain and await her husband, but declined the advice, and again set out in pursuit. At five o'clock the husband was back in Portland, and his wife being gone, he started after her on the six o'clock train. As neither returned to Portland again that day, it was supposed they had finally met somewhere.

C. S. Hays, editor of the Traver Tidings, was shot dead at Lamoor, Col., by some unknown person, while sitting beside his fiancee in the house of Dr. Lovelace. A. Locaver, an admirer of Mr. Hays' betrothed, has been arrested on suspicion.

A FEW EARNEST WORDS.

Does any one who reads these lines feel tired or nervous? Have you despondent feelings? Is your appetite sometimes poor and again voracious? Do you notice brick dust at the bottom or a scum on the top of the fluids you pass? Are these fluids scant at times and plentiful at others? Do you have headaches once in a while? If you have these feelings, DO YOU KNOW WHAT THEY MEAN! Your Kidneys are Diseased!!! It may be only the beginning, but if not taken in time, Bright's Disease, and death in its most horrible form will be the end. YOU CAN NOT AFFORD TO TRIFLE WITH THEM.

MR. JOHN W. FURBUSH, an army veteran, of Wakefield, Mass., neglected these symptoms and was brought to death's door. He took HUNT'S REMEDY and is well to-day.

MRS. ALEXANDER L. NICHOLAS, of Phœnix, R. I., and a descendant of General Nathaniel Greene, was so near the grave her breath only came in gasps, but she was restored to health by using HUNT'S REMEDY.

The wife of Captain S. Greenwood, master of the well known Steamer Kanawha, had a large and painful swelling in the side, which was thought to be a tumor. It entirely disappeared after using HUNT'S REMEDY. Captain Greenwood himself was cured of terrible Catarrh of the Bladder by the same means.

These are only a few of many wonderful cures showing that HUNT'S REMEDY does cure the worst of all known diseases.

Do not, however, Delay. Observe the first symptoms and act promptly. You will certainly escape awful suffering and possibly death itself. For Sale by all Dealers.

INDIGESTION

To strengthen the stomach, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency which result from indigestion, there is nothing so effective as Ayer's Pills. These Pills contain no calomel or other poisonous drug, act directly on the digestive and assimilative organs, and restore health and strength to the entire system. T. P. Bonner, Chester, Pa., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 30 years, and am satisfied I should not have been alive to-day, if it had not been for them. They

Cured

me of Dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since." L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills, for Liver troubles and Indigestion, a good many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." Richard Norris, Lynn, Mass., writes: "After much suffering, I have been cured of Dyspepsia and Liver troubles

By Using

Ayer's Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken." John Burdett, Troy, Iowa, writes: "For nearly two years my life was rendered miserable by the horrors of Dyspepsia. Medical treatment afforded me only temporary relief, and I became reduced in flesh, and very much debilitated. A friend of mine, who had been similarly afflicted, advised me to try Ayer's Pills. I did so, and with the happiest results. My food soon ceased to distress me, my appetite returned, and I became as strong and well as ever."

Mr. Chanfrau—Dear Sir: We, the undersigned citizens of Portsmouth, being highly pleased with your performance this evening—and though your reputation has preceded you, this has been your first visit to our city—and that all may have an opportunity of seeing you in your famous role of "Kit" we respectfully request you to repeat your performance to-morrow evening.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 22d, 1886.

MESSRS. H. W. Jackson, J. W. Young, W. C. Poole, E. M. Shea, J. J. Goodwin and others:

Gentlemen: In reply to your kind invitation of last evening, which I accept, as an appreciation of my efforts to please you, I am highly gratified at being able to cancel other engagements and repeat my performance this evening, on which occasion I hope to have as large and appreciative an audience as last evening. Again thanking you for your kind request, I am the public's obedient servant,

CHANFRAU.

FATHER O'CALLAGHAN'S RECEPTION.

Rev. Eugene M. O'Callaghan, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, arrived home in this city from Europe on Wednesday evening, 22d inst. Few clergymen have a stronger hold in the affections of their people than Father O'Callaghan deservedly has with his flock, and his return was made the occasion of a public demonstration of rejoicing, in the church, which during the afternoon had been decorated in the vicinity of the chancel by Mr. John McGrath, and presented a very handsome appearance. The altar was lighted with over a hundred wax tapers in costly golden candelabra; the niche above the tabernacle was illuminated with large tapers in gold candelabra with crystal pendants; and the reridos was filled with ferns, foliage plants and bright-hued flowers.

The church was thrown open at seven o'clock, and was soon filled with an interested congregation, including many ladies and citizens not members of the parish, but who took the opportunity to indicate their esteem for the returning pastor, who came upon the platform shortly before eight o'clock, accompanied by Rev. Father Hurley, who has officiated during his absence. After brief devotional exercises a finely written address of welcome was read, to which Father O'Callaghan responded at some length, thanking Father Hurley for his care of the parish during the previous four months, expressing his deep appreciation of the warm and generous welcome given him by his people, and relating many interesting incidents of his tour through Ireland. The exercises closed shortly before nine o'clock.

Te Deum, plain chant.
Laudate Dominum, from Musical Vespers.
O Salutaris, solo from Verdi, by John A. Cassidy.
Tantum Ergo, from Rossi, duet and chorus by Mr. Cassidy and Miss Stack, and choir.

COUNCILLOR CONVENTION.

The republican convention for the first councillor district was held in the court house in this city on the 22d inst., the meeting being called to order at 11:15 o'clock A. M. by Col. J. Horace Kent of the state committee. Hon. John D. Lyman was chosen to the chair, and C. Dwight Hanscom as secretary. Thomas Janvrin, George W. Weston and William O. Sides were chosen as a committee on credentials.

The chairman appointed William H. Sise, J. Frank Seavey, Thomas Leavitt and A. A. Collins as the committee on resolutions, who reported that the convention should adopt the platform of the state convention, and pledge a hearty support to the candidate nominated, which report was approved and adopted.

A ballot for a candidate for councillor was taken, with the following result:

Whole number of votes cast	79
Necessary for a choice	40
William H. Sise had	13
Nathaniel H. Clark	66

And Mr. Clark was declared the nominee of the convention, the nomination being made unanimous. Mr. Clark, who was in the convention, made a brief speech in acceptance, and the convention then adjourned without day.

Hon. Nathaniel Haven Clark, nominated by the republicans of the first councillor district as their candidate to be supported in the coming election, is a prosperous practical farmer of Plaistow, of which town he is a native. He is a staunch republican, and in 1876 was a member of the convention to revise the constitution, and in 1878 a member of the legislature; he is now state senator from the Rockingham district. His nomination will add strength to the general ticket, and there is no doubt whatever of his election.

PRINTERS' EXCURSION.

Capt. Charles W. Browne extends a cordial invitation to the entire newspaper fraternity of the city, editors and printers, to take a sail in the schooner yacht Wm. H. Russell on the 26th inst., starting from the old foundry wharf, foot of Mechanic street, at eight o'clock A. M. It is to be hoped, for the good name of the craft, that the party won't see the sea-serpent.

BALABREGA'S SHOW.

Balabrega and his excellent company of specialists continue to delight audiences at Franklin theatre with their interesting and highly enjoyable performances. The programme is varied every evening, and the only cheap thing about the show is the price of tickets. Entertainments to-morrow and Saturday evenings, as well as to-night. See advertisement.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTIONS.

The republican senatorial convention for the Portsmouth district will convene in the court house in this city this forenoon at eleven o'clock.

The Rockingham county convention, and the senatorial convention of the Rockingham district, meet at Exeter today. It is considered probable that the present county officials will be renominated.

HARRIGAN'S HIBERNIANS.

Harrigan's company comprises about as lively a lot of Irish comedians as are likely to be met with under one management. The bagpipe playing of Pat Toohey and John Hagan was a revelation to many who thought they had heard bagpipes before, while the reels and jigs of Hagan and Jerry Cohan were the poetry of motion, and have never been eclipsed on our stage. The panoromic views of Irish cities and scenery afforded a pleasing variation amid the succession of comicalities, and the vociferous and incessant applause showed that the audience was thoroughly delighted with the entire entertainment.—Pottsville Journal.

At Music hall Saturday evening; tickets now on sale at Goodrich's.

Several of the delegates from Dover to the republican councillor convention held in this city on Wednesday, the 22d inst., are members of the municipal government of Dover, and were naturally interested in the fire department, city buildings, etc., of Portsmouth. After attending to the duties of the convention, they were taken in charge by our obliging City Messenger Gardner and escorted to the different engine houses, city stables, etc., seeking information, as wise city fathers should, how such affairs are managed in other municipalities than their own.

The seamen attached to the three ships of war now at the navy yard are a credit to the service and to themselves; as a whole they are a fine-looking lot of men, and the general verdict of those who live and do business in the portions of the city where they most resort is that they are the best-behaved set of men-of-war's-men that have ever been here. As a rule they very diligently mind their own business, and of course let other people's alone; and their presence here adds nothing worth mentioning to the duties of the police.

Two horses attached to one of the York stages ran away along the upper end of Market street and across Portsmouth bridge, about one o'clock in the afternoon on the 22d inst. Near the stone store on Market street there was a slight collision with a loaded coal team, but no damage was done. The runaway team was stopped in Kittery, not far from the end of the bridge, and driven back to this city, the only injury reported being to the harnesses.

Mr. John W. Stott, with his wife and five children, left on Wednesday morning of this week for Camden, Me., to which place he makes an excursion annually. He will be absent about a month.

Floy Crowell, a young actress who is a favorite in this city as well as everywhere else she has played, will commence a week's engagement at Music hall on Monday evening next. Popular prices; see advertisement.

Miss Ellen Vincent, of Boston, will give a lecture on the Jewish Tabernacle in the Methodist church on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. She will have a chart and explain upon it. All are invited.

William Chandler is quite sick with pneumonia.

The 33d (Dover) senatorial district republican convention was held in Dover on the 21st inst., and B. Frank Nealley nominated.

Mr. Harry E. Boynton, postoffice clerk, and his brother Fred, are making a visit to their relatives at Wilton, this state.

Mr. Washington Stott arrived home this week from an extended journey through the south and west in company with Ex-Mayor Donovan of Lowell.

little, with as much satisfaction as is taken in showing pictures and bric-a-brac to-day. The literary taste as shown in this way was even stronger a generation earlier, and collections were made which would not be thought of at the present time. It was customary then not only to read books, but to keep them as heirlooms from one generation to another. But the taste in this respect has undergone a great change. Art has taken place of literature in the average house. Instead of well-filled book shelves in a special place there are pictures and varieties of bric-a-brac all over the house. There may be as much reading done as ever, but its form, in the book sense is wholly different. The cheap libraries have played the mischief with substantial volumes. These are bought to read, not kept, and when read they are thrown away or sold for old paper. They must be of a light sort too, else they won't be read at all. All the publishers complain that solid books do not sell any more, except in a limited way. The literary taste of the time is very much like the theatrical taste. The demand is for the kind of plays to laugh at and not think of at all. The change becomes more marked every year, and there is no reason to think it will not continue.—Cor. Detroit Free Press.

Guibollard takes a promenade in the Salon, in company with a young painter who has a picture on exhibition, which has been commended by the committee. "Show me," said the former, "your picture that has secured honorable mention." "There it is," said the artist, "portrait of a woman." "Very, very fine as to execution," said Guibollard, "but how the devil did you come to choose such an ugly model?" "Indeed, sir, this is my mother," replied the artist, coloring quickly. "Your mother," exclaimed Guibollard with confusion, "Pardon, monsieur, I am stupid. I ought to have perceived it at a glance. You are alike as two peas!" —French Fun.

A pretty fair story is told at the expense of one of the dealers in ready-made clothing in this city—being an actual occurrence a few days ago. A gentleman in conversation with the proprietor was asked if he knew a certain well-known young man of the town. He said he did. "I tells you vot he deet mit me. He comes here and buys de best suit of clothes in de house and he forgets to pay for him." The visitor expressed disapproval of such neglect of duty and financial looseness, when a new idea seemed to strike the dealer in hand-me-down clothing. "I was hear-t someding bretty bat of him," he cried. "Vot you dink? He went oop p-a-t-t for 'em!" Here his indignation was so great that he said no more, but shook his head ominously as he inwardly contemplated the wickedness of this world.—Indianapolis Journal.

—"I would give you more than a dime," said a kindly old gentleman to a tramp, "but I have nothing smaller than a $5 bill. Have you any little ones, my friend?" "Yes sir, I have a few little $1 and $2 bills. I'll break a $5 for you."

The School of Acting located in the Lyceum theatre, New York city, has just published a statement of its newest plans. Its third year opens in October under a reorganization comprising Mr. F. H. Sargent as director and David Belasco as stage-manager, and a full corps of dramatic teachers. Students this year are offered public appearances like those of Wilson Barrett's theatre in London, daily stage-drill after the manner of the Paris Conservatoire, and education in all the actors' accomplishments. Its management claim that this school is the only institution in America, exclusively devoted to training for the professional stage.

The unprecedented success and merit of Ely's Cream Balm—a real cure for catarrh, hay fever and cold in head—has induced many adventurers to place catarrh medicines bearing some resemblance in appearance, style or name upon the market, in order to trade upon the reputation of Ely's Cream Balm. Don't be deceived. Buy only Ely's Cream Balm. Many in your immediate locality will testify in highest commendation of it. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price 50 cents.

That Baby of Mine.

Auntie, three months ago had the salt rheum so bad that his head was a mass of sores, and I had begun to lose all hopes of raising him, but my druggist recommended Sulphur Bitters, and to-day he is as fat and chipper as any baby you ever saw, and he has not a sore on his head, and just think that after paying out so much, that a few dollars worth of Sulphur Bitters should cure him.—Mrs. J. Serious Danger

Threatens every man, woman or child living in a region where fever and ague is prevalent, since the germs of malarial disease are inhaled from the air and are swallowed from the water of such a region. Medicinal safeguard is absolutely necessary to nullify this danger. As a means of fortifying and acclimating the system so as to be able to resist the malarial poison, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is incomparably the best and the most popular. Irregularities of the stomach, liver and bowels encourage malaria; but these are speedily rectified by the Bitters. The functions of digestion and secretion are assisted by its use, and a vigorous as well as regular condition of the system promoted by it. Constitution and physique are thus defended against the inroads of malaria by this matchless preventive, which is also a certain and thorough remedy in the worst cases of intermittent and remittent fevers.

Governor Ireland of Texas has been notified that the Arresures family, through their attorney, have sent to him for approval a claim against the Mexican government for $100,000 indemnity for the murder of Arresures.

A bomb has been thrown into fashionable circles at Newport, R. I., by the filing of a petition for divorce by Mrs. Mary Isabelle Neilson against her husband, Frederick Neilson of New York. Mrs. Neilson is sister of Frederick Gebhardt of New York, and Neilson is a member of one of the best Knickerbocker families, and belongs to the Union, Coaching and other clubs. Mrs. Neilson in her petion charges adultery, desertion, extreme cruelty, drunkenness and neglect to provide. These charges are believed to be more numerous than were ever filed in a single petition there. The case will be heard in open court. Mrs. Neilson has been occupying a magnificent cottage at Newport for a year or so, and has an income of about $75,000 per annum.

When symptoms of malaria appear, in any form, take Ayer's Ague Cure. It will prevent a development of the germs of disease, and eradicate them from the system. A cure is warranted in every instance.

MISSING LINKS.

It is now announced in London that "The Wearing of the Green" and other novels by "Basil" were written by Mr. R. Ashe King.

A New York paper declares that the country must be more prosperous this year than it was last year, because more people are getting married.

An inspection of the 500 mail-bags that were sunk in the Oregon, and have since been recovered, shows that the ladies smuggle a great many French gloves, with laces, ribbons, etc., in newspapers sent by mail.

Young wooers at Narragansett Pier, when surprised by passers-by in the midst of a confidential chat, have the habit of saying "And-er-then, you know," which occupies the time until the intruder is out of hearing.

The Indian mounds in the vicinity of Oakland, Illinois, are being opened. In one of them there were found a stone wall ten feet square, half a dozen skeletons, fifty pounds of silver ore, and copper vessels, axes, and tomahawks.

Deer are reported to be unusually numerous in Maine this season, and many even leave the forests and are seen near the settlements. The greatest deer park in Maine, or in fact on the Atlantic slope, is in the vicinity of Nicatous Lake.

Toronto is not a good city for doctors. According to the income tax list just published only one medical man in the city receives $5,000 yearly, and that includes "interest on investments." Only four others make as much as $3,000 per annum.

Bob Ingersoll is growing fat. He isn't any balder than formerly, for that is impossible. His eyeglasses have changed to spectacles and his chubbiness is turning into fleshiness. His years are beginning to tell, but his smile and twinkling eyes are the same.

M. J. Simmons, of San Francisco, claims the distinction of being the youngest soldier who wore the blue during the great Rebellion. He was born Aug. 12, 1850, and enlisted in New York Dec. 31, 1863. Thus he carried a musket when but little over 13 years old.

Andrew Low, of Savannah, Ga., who died abroad a few weeks ago, leaving three or four millions to his heirs and much smaller sums to certain favored charities, was a blockade-runner during the war. He made his millions shipping cotton to Liverpool through the blockading fleet.

It has been the custom from time immemorial for the children of Florence to go out to the Cascine on Ascension Day to search for crickets, and little cages to contain the pets are regularly on sale. If the crickets survive for a year the household is guaranteed against all harm and endowed with luck.

Gen. Lawrence S. Ross, who has been nominated for Governor of Texas, fought in 135 engagements during the war, beginning as a private and fighting up to Brigadier-General, and yet he is not quite 48 years old. He had no inconsiderable reputation as an Indian fighter before the war, young as he was.

An immense quantity of jewelry is now made from thin layers of gold upon an ingot of brass, formed while it is hot. On the ingot cooling it is forced between steel rollers into a long, thin ribbon, each part of which is of course still covered with the gold alloy, incalculably thin, but which wears for years, and can be molded into any shape.

An old Californian inserts a growl in the Sacramento Bee because all the "ranches" of San Mateo county have become "villas." Furthermore, the plutocracy is becoming entirely too English, you know, and social position is measured largely by the degree of nobility with which the imported coachmen, footmen, butlers, etc., served in England.

A citizen of Waco, Tex., had a remarkable experience one day recently. He went to visit his mother, who is nearly 60 years old, in a neighboring town, but found she had eloped with a man half her age. On his return home he was met by the startling information that his own wife had eloped with a handsomer man. He has now sold out and gone to Utah.

There is a boy in Dover, Me., born without eyes or eyelids. The part of the face in which the eyes ought to be, according to all precedents, is as smooth as the cheek. The boy is fourteen years of age, and his name is Stimeford. His parents have repeatedly refused offers to have the child exhibited as a curiosity. The lad's mother is very near-sighted.

A new and plausible explanation of the destructive fires occurring in pine forests is offered. The pine resin exuding from the trees is often of lens shape, and before it thoroughly hardens frequently of crystalline clearness. It is surmised that while in that condition a resin lens may focus the sun's rays upon some light twig or resinous point and so start a blaze that quickly eats up a forest.

The Egyptian lotus has been naturalized near Bordentown, N. J., where was sown the seeds some years ago. The lilies now cover half an acre of lake surface, with leaves two feet in diameter, above which the flower stalks rise fully six feet. The blooms themselves are six inches across, of a bright peach-blow pink, and deliciously fragrant.

It is said that in a Maine town the Postmaster was a republican and appointed his wife, who is a democrat, as his deputy. With the change of administration the husband lost his place, as an offensive partisan, and the democratic wife was appointed, and she has reciprocated the favor by selecting her husband as deputy, thus keeping the office comfortably in the family, in spite Exactly expresses the condition of thousands of people at this season. Why suffer longer when a remedy is so close at hand? Take Hood's Sarsaparilla now. It will give you untold wealth in health, strength, and energy.

A freight car on the Turner's Falls branch of the Fitchburg, (Mass.) railroad was burned Sept. 22d, and the charred remains of a tramp were taken from the car. It is believed a party of tramps broke into the car and fell asleep while smoking, thus igniting the contents of the car, and by means of which one lost his life. A tramp who occupied a second car says three were in the car when it burned, though only the one body has been found.

Still Another Big Thief.

George M. Bartholomew of Hartford, Conn., president of the Charter Oak Life Ins. Co., has gone to Canada. The reason for his change of residence is that he has stolen from that company $137,000, from the Holyoke Water Power Co. $200,000, and from other corporations and trusts which he could rob immense sums, to the total amount of a million or two. Bartholomew is seventy years old, and has long been one of the most prominent men in Hartford; a year ago he made a statement showing a surplus of $1,000,000 above all liabilities.

Rioting in Peabody.

On Wednesday, the 22d inst., as the police in Peabody, Mass., were escorting a non-union workman along the street, they were assailed with stones thrown by a mob of 500 strikers. A man named Jack Welch was arrested, when the stone-throwing increased, and the police had to open fire with their revolvers to check it. Several persons were hit, and great excitement exists in the town.

Another Challenge.

The Britons evidently do not mean to leave the America's cup in the undisturbed possession of the American yachtsmen. The following cable message has been received by Secretary Bird of the New York yacht club:

GLASGOW, Sept. 21, 1886.
John H. Bird, Secretary of the New York Yacht Club, New York:

On behalf of James Bell, a member of this club, I officially intimate a challenge for the America's cup, the contest to take place next September. Confirmation by post. WILLIAM YORK.
Secretary Royal Clyde Yacht Club.

Terrible Suffering in Texas.

Rev. John Brown, a Presbyterian clergyman of Albany, Texas, is at the north, in the interest of 100,000 starving families, representing half a million people, who he says are starving in the drought-stricken district of northwest Texas. Mr. Brown says that the suffering and distress caused by the drought which has existed for the past fifteen months is even greater than at Charleston, but the railroad authorities who own lands which they want to sell to settlers have conspired to hush up the real condition of the people, lest it should interfere with emigration. Thousands of families have not eaten meat this summer, and water is being carried thirty miles for household use. The object of Mr. Brown's mission is to procure 100,000 bushels of seed wheat, but owing to the Charleston distress he had thus far only received tens where otherwise he might have obtained thousands of dollars. The task of relieving the distress is greater than the people of Texas can perform, and in the name of humanity, mercy and charity, he appeals to the charitable public to help the starving multitude.

More Centennials.

The governors of the thirteen original states have called a coavention of representatives of the federal government and all the states and territories to meet in Philadelphia on Dec. 2d, to make arrangements for the centennial belebration of the adoption of the constitution by the convention of 1787. There is occasion for several centennials in this connection, and it is questionable whether Sept. 17th of next year should monopolize all the interest in the premises. The work of the constitutional convention did not become valid until it was ratified by the old Congress on Sept. 13th, 1788, and the constitution did not go into practical operation until March 4th, 1789. It was not until April 30th of the same year that our ship of state was commanded by a full-fledged president. Clearly all the powder ought not to be used up on Sept. 17th, 1887.

Must Not Kill Germans.

The Australian mail brings details of the firing of the German gunboat Albatross upon the natives of the New Hebrides islands, out of revenge for their murder of two Germans named Klein and Cullen. Twenty of the natives were killed and a large number of them wounded, on the first island fired upon, the savages having collected on the beach to oppose the landing of the men-of-war's-men; the Albatross then landed her crew, whereupon the natives fled and took refuge on Pentecost island, where the mate of the Apollo was murdered. The Albatross charged her position and opened a terrible fire upon Pentecost island from her gatling guns, slaughtering the natives like sheep. The shots set many villages on fire, and they were totally destroyed.

Of the fifty-seven democratic chairmen of committeees in the present Congress, twenty-five have already been elected to stay at home. The greatest slaughter has been in the south, and the victims appear to have been for the most part expounders of the glorious doctrine of Snivel-Service Reform. Poor things, they cannot even get renominated, much less re-elected. And when the time comes round for another presidential election the man Cleveland will get left in the same way, and none can be found so poor as to do him any honor whatever. —Dover Democrat.

Owing to the fact that the sloop Cinderella did not carry the club number in the recent race at Newport, R. I., the regatta committee of the New York yacht club have ruled that yacht out of the race, and the cup that had been awarded to her for winning in her class has been given to the cutter Clara.

In the Bell telephone case in Cincinnati, Sept. 21st, the counsel for the company concluded his argument. He was followed by Grosvenor P. Lowery of New York, representing the government.

George M. Bartholomew, president of the Charter Oak insurance company of Hartford, Conn., is a defaulter in the sum of $129,000.

Henry Endicott accidentally shot himself dead at Newport, Sept. 21st.

Reports have been received of a serious fight on the 14th inst., between Mexican troops and the Yaquis Indians. The Mexicans had twenty killed and forty wounded, and the Yaquis sixty-two killed.

Charges have been filed against several employes of the coast survey, implicating some of the officers, and alleging drunkenness, gambling, incompetency and malfeasance. The treasury department will begin an investigation at once.

Jerome Brown, a private banker of Saranac, Mich., is said to be missing. A large number of farmers and workingmen are anxious about their deposits with Brown's institution.

A FEW EARNEST WORDS.

Does any one who reads these lines feel tired or nervous? Have you despondent feelings? Is your appetite sometimes poor and again voracious? Do you notice brick-dust at the bottom or a scum on the top of the fluids you pass? Are these fluids scant at times and plentiful at others? Do you have headaches once in a while? Do you have these feelings.. DO YOU KNOW WHAT THEY MEAN? Your Kidneys are Diseased!!! It may be only the beginning; but if not taken in time, Bright's Disease, and death in its most horrible form will be the end. YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO TRIFLE WITH THEM.

MR. JOHN W. FURBUSH, an army veteran, of Wakefield, Mass., neglected these symptoms and was brought to death's door. He took HUNT'S REMEDY and is well to-day.

MRS. ALEXANDER L. NICHOLAS, of Phœnix, R. I., and a descendant of General Nathaniel Greene, was so near the grave her breath only came in gasps, but she was restored to health by using HUNT'S REMEDY.

The wife of Captain S. Greenwood, master of the well known Steamer Kanawha, had a large and painful swelling in the side, which was thought to be a tumor. It entirely disappeared after using HUNT'S REMEDY. Captain Greenwood himself was cured of terrible Catarrh of the Bladder by the same means.

These are only a few of many wonderful cures showing that HUNT'S REMEDY does cure the worst of all known diseases.

Do not, however, Delay. Observe the first symptoms and act promptly. You will certainly escape awful suffering and possibly death itself. For Sale by all dealers.

USE

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER.

It is a medicinal preparation, and, at the same time, an elegant and cleanly toilet article. Its action upon the scalp is healthful. It nourishes the glands which support the hair, and causes thin, dry hair to become thick, soft, and vigorous. It restores the color of youth to locks which have become faded with age or disease; and relieves and cures itching, caused by humors of the scalp. Dr. George Gray, Nashua, N. H., writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the wonderful effects produced by Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer, as observed by me in very many cases. IT WILL CERTAINLY RESTORE THE HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR. It cleanses the head of dandruff, and leaves the hair soft, glossy, and beautiful." F. T. Sandhein, 1010 Spruce st., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "After unavailingly trying a number of preparations to prevent my hair from falling out, and, realizing that I was fast becoming bald, I tried, as a last resort, Hall's Hair Renewer. I have used only four bottles of the Renewer, and am perfectly satisfied that it is the best preparation in the market for checking the falling out of hair, invigorating the hair roots, and promoting a new growth."

FOR SENATOR, MARCUS M. COLLIS.

The republican senatorial convention for the 24th district, comprising wards one, two and four of this city, was held in the court house on Thursday forenoon, 23d inst., at eleven o'clock, there being fourteen delegates (the full number) present. William O. Sides was chosen to preside, and William C. Randall as secretary; and Marcus M. Collis was nominated by acclamation as the republican candidate for senator from this district, without a dissenting voice.

Mr. Collis will undoubtedly prove a very strong candidate—probably as strong a candidate as the republicans could have named. He is highly popular personally; and he is a man of the people, which his democratic competitor, Dr. Francis E. Langdon, though a gentleman of education, wealth and leisure, is not. He has an excellent record as a soldier, occupies a prominent position among his comrades, and is a leader in their councils. He is a graceful, ready speaker on any topic, and a fine presiding officer. As a business man his interests are identical with those of the bread-winners of the city and the state, and if elected he can be depended upon to speak and work and vote every time in support of any measure likely to benefit the working men, and in opposition to any likely to inure to their injury. He some time ago received the nomination of the Knights of Labor; he will make a lively run, and stands a very strong liability to be be elected.

THE COUNTY CONVENTION.

The republican convention of Rockingham county met at Exeter on Thursday forenoon, 23d inst., there being present eighty-nine delegates.

Arthur O. Fuller of Exeter was chosen president of the convention.

For sheriff, Col. J. Horace Kent, the present incumbent, received all the votes thrown but two, and the nomination was made unanimous.

Newton Johnson of Portsmouth, Moses B. Dow of Plaistow and Joseph R. Clark of Derry, the present board of county commissioners, were renominated.

George W. Weston of Exeter, register of deeds, and Edwin G. Eastman of Exeter, county solicitor, were renominated by acclamation.

Woodbury M. Durgin of Exeter, register of probate, declined a renomination, and John E. Simpson of South Newmarket was nominated.

Winthrop N. Dow of Exeter declined a renomination as county treasurer, and Samuel A. Haley of Newmarket was put in nomination for the position.

THE COAL BUSINESS.

The Manchester Union of the 22d inst. says: "The freightage of coal from Portsmouth to this city and points beyond constitutes an immense business at the present time, and furnishes employment to a large number of men. Yesterday three full coal trains were run from Portsmouth and one from Raymond, while on Monday there were four trains from Portsmouth. One of the trains which left this city for Concord yesterday afternoon was made up of fifty-five fully loaded cars, making nearly 1000 tons of coal, and including the weight of the cars, made 1500 tons of dead weight. The train was drawn by the big mogul locomotive 'Piscataquog,' and reached from the passenger depot to the engine house. Supt. J. W. Hildreth says it was the biggest coal train that ever went out of Manchester for Concord."

BALABREGA'S SHOW.

The attendants on Balabrega's exposition of "Modern Miracles" at Franklin hall last evening enjoyed an extensive change of programme, and an entertainment even better than any of the previous ones—which is saying a great deal, all having been excellent and more than satisfactory. Changes are made, and new wonders developed, at each performance. Popular prices.

HARRIGAN'S HIBERNIANS.

Of Harrigan's Hibernians, which will appear in Music hall to-morrow evening, the Hazelton Plain Speaker of Oct. 9th says:

The entertainment was an excellent one from beginning to end. The company is a large one, and each member of the organization recommends himself or herself to the audience by good theatrical talent and accomplishments. The illuminated scenes of Ireland, representing the various towns, villages and cities with their ancient towers, were magnificently portrayed upon the canvass. The singing of songs was good, and the dancing of the comedians was so much appreciated that vigorous encores called them out repeatedly. The acting of Tim and Jerry Cohan as guides, created endless enthusiasm. They were ably assisted by Nellie Cohan and Patti Bishop. The entire company is deserving of special praise as being one of the best of the kind that ever exhibited in this borough.

Tickets at Goodrich's; see advertisement.

COCHECO MANUFACTURING CO.

The annual meeting of the Cocheco Manufacturing Co. was held in the company's counting room at Dover on the 22d inst. In the absence of President Coolidge, Hon. John McDuffee of Rochester was chosen to preside.

Treasurer Stockton then made his annual report, which was most satisfactory. During the year 32,651,000 yards of cloth were manufactured, 42,000,000 yards were printed, and 42,500,000 yards were sold; this has lessened the stock on hand 500,000 yards. Additions have been built to the engraving and packing rooms at the print works, and a new dye house is in process of erection there. The report was accepted.

The report of the auditor was read and he certified to finding the accounts of all the officers of the corporation true and correct.

It was then voted to proceed to elect officers, the election resulting as follows:

President—T. Jefferson Coolidge;

Directors—J. Ingersoll Bowditch, T. Jefferson Coolidge, John McDuffee, Howard Stockton, Charles W. Amory, George P. Gardner, Amory A. Lawrence;

Treasurer—Howard Stockton;

Clerk—John Holland.

Paymaster Joseph Foster, U. S. N., and family, now at the naval asylum at Philadelphia, will occupy the Benjamin Carter house, No. 26 Middle street, October 1st, Paymaster Foster having been detached from the asylum, ordered to settle accounts and then await orders. His may friends here will be pleased to learn of his return to his native city to reside.

Frederick F. Barrell, a ship carpenter, formerly of this city but for thirty-five years past a citizen of Charlestown, Mass., died in Charlestown on the 22d inst. at the age of sixty-five years. He was a native of Scituate, Mass.

Frank W. Rice and wife of this city started on Thursday morning last with a Raymond excursion party of about seventy-five people for a trip to Montreal, Quebec and other parts of Canada.

The steamer Oceanic, Capt. Wm. Robinson, which left this port on Tuesday night of this week for Philadelphia, arrived in New York at seven o'clock in the morning on Thursday, all well.

The brick schooners D. K. Ham and Emily A. Staples sailed from this port for Boston on the 22d inst. The Satellite and Gurnet arrived from Boston on the 22d, and the J. Chester Wood, Clara B. Kennard and Lillie on the 23d.

There was a slight fire in the house of Mrs. Clement Mugridge at Kittery Foreside, early last Thursday morning. The fire caught near the kitchen stove, and did damage to the amount of about $25.

The state greenback-labor convention was held in Manchester on the 21st inst., the attendance not being large. Gardner J. Greenleaf of this city, chairman of the greenback-labor state committee, presided, and Andrew J. Hoyt of Exeter was secretary. George Carpenter of Swansey was nominated for governor, Daniel Mason of Rochester for congress in the first district and Jared G. Williams for congress in the second district. A platform of principles was promulgated, after which an effort was made to form a union with the "Organized labor convention," also in session at Manchester the same day, but the latter refused to indorse the action of the greenbackers, preferring a platform of their own and to make no nominations.

The republican senatorial covention of the 21st (Rockingham) district was held in Exeter on the 23d inst., and organized by the choice of G. Flanders of Brentwood as chairman, and John H. Noyes of Plaistow as secretary. Edward H. Gilman of Exeter was nominated by acclamation for senator.

The greenback-labor and the labor parties of New Hampshire are unable to agree. This may recall the Scotch church, which consisted of the man and his brother John, but in which there was a little doubt as to the orthodoxy of brother John.

Mr. James Bell, of the Clyde Royal yacht club, proposes to make a contest for the America's cup next year. Mr. Bell will have a hospitable reception, but will probably not carry back the America's cup. Next year we may expect to have a yacht that will beat the Mayflower.

—A young married lady who moved into the country from a city home, considered keeping hens a pleasant and profitable duty. Her enthusiasm increased, and "hens" became a favorite subject of her thoughts and conversation. During one of her animated descriptions of success, a friend inquired: "Are your hens good hens?" "Oh, yes," she replied in a delighted tone, "they haven't laid a bad egg yet."

—The Yuma Indians, it is stated, have held a grand council and "resolved to adopt pantaloons as an article of dress." That's not a bad idea. If they had resolved to adopt pantaloons as an article of food, it might have been concluded that their civilization had gone backward.

—Henry—"Oh, by the way, Clara, I saw a girl to-day who looked so much like you that I could have sworn she was your sister; just your face exactly, only of course she was worse looking—well, you know what I mean; you aren't so ill-looking as she was."

of the revolution of parties.—Boston Traveller.

A Brooklyn policeman was lately presented with a new club, which he does not dare to carry. It was meant for use among the gangs. As he twirled it at the end of the leather thong it was a neat-looking stick, not easily distinguished from the ordinary club, but if a tough took hold of it to wrest it away, four short, sharp, two-edged knife-blades could be thrown out of four sides of the club, to the ruination of the hand of the tough.

William Fay, of Acton, Mass., 8 years old, was born with his legs so twisted that he could look down on the soles of his feet. About three months ago a doctor of Lowell took charge of him, and to-day the lad walks about as well as anyone, with his little limbs as straight as normally, although inclosed in iron rigging that will be worn until the limbs are strong. Leading physicians who have watched the case pronounce it a triumph of surgery.

An amusing incident occurred at a revival meeting at Lexington, Ga., Sunday. An old negro sister and her daughter attended the services, and all at once the whole multitude began shouting. The old sister turned to her daughter Nellie and said: "Here, daughter, hold my bonnet; I want to shout." Nellie quickly responded: "I ain't gwine to do it. I want to shout, too." So they, being strangers in the community, had to give up their desire to shout, because they would not hold each other's bonnets, and had no one else to do so.

One of the inmates of a New Orleans convent recently escaped and went to New York city with the intention of having a time. On arriving in the latter city she engaged a cab, told the driver she was a stranger, had no friends, and knew nothing about the city, but she wanted him to take her to some gay places she had read about. Fortunately for the young lady she met a cabdriver that is seldom met with in that city of crime. He put her in the cab, and, instead of taking her to the fast resorts, drove straight for the home for friendless girls, where he put her in charge of the matron. She has since been returned to her New Orleans friends.

"You don't ride horseback as much as you did earlier in the summer, Mr. Swell," said Miss Sweetness. "Naw, I've given it up, don cher know?" replied Mr. Swell. "It's getting too duced common. Any cad can ride horseback nowadays." "Who has that beautiful horse that you used to ride?" "The sheriff has got him, don cher know, and the cad won't give him back."—St. Paul Globe.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.
All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or ITCHING of the scalp; should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHTY PER CENT of those who use it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the roots may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have produced a good growth of Hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:
We grow Hair in 80 cases out of 100, no matter how long bald.
Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons.
It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.
The Hair Grower is a hair food, and its composition is almost exactly like the oil which supplies the hair with its vitality.
DOUBLE AND TRIPLE STRENGTH:
When the skin is very tough and hard, and the follicle is apparently effectually closed, the single strength will sometimes fail to reach the papilla; in such cases the double or triple strength should be used in connection with the single, using them alternately.
Price, Single strength $1.00; Double strength $2.00; Triple strength $3.0. If your druggists have not got it we will send it prepaid on receipt of price. BENTON HAIR GROWER CO.,

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula.
For Consumption.
BELLEFONTAINE, O., March 30, 1885.
The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Baltimore, Md.
Mr. Dear Sirs—Your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has actually cured my wife of her long trouble (thought to be consumption in its first stage). She was unable to do any kitchen work in just 111 pounds when commencing using your Whiskey, and today, just three months from its use, she weighs 135 pounds, looks better, feels better and is better than she has been for two years. I believe her entirely cured and thank you most heartily for the trouble you have in prescribing the Duffy's Formula and other favors from your excellent course of physicians. I shall praise it to all that I think can be benefited by it, as it has served me an unpromising patient and is an invalid's cure. Most sincerely yours,
E. L. BARRINGER,
Prop. Excelsior Steam Flouting Works.
271 SACKETT ST., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Gentlemen—I was sick down with congestion of the lungs, and though having the best medical attendance I did not improve. I had a cough that seemed to connect my chest to half its natural size. Was unable to rest day or night, excepting upon my back, and to make the least exertion by reason of my breathing below so quick and short. I commenced the use of your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula, and it has done more good than is claimed for them. Lung trouble has entirely disappeared, appetite excellent, breathing as natural as ever, cough gone. I feel like a new man all over. Your remedies are certainly the so good above of lung curatives. R. G. CONNOR.
57 8TH AVE., Pittsburg, Pa.
Dear Sirs—I would very thankfully say in behalf of my friend, Mr. Chas. Whitaker, that he has so much improved in health and spirits since using your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula that he is completely restored. At the time of taking it first he was depressed in energy and spirits, characteristic of that dread disease, but now he has gained so much in weight, strength and general vigor he is actively attending to business.
JOHN H. HULTS.
CRESTON, WAYNE CO., OHIO.
Dear Sirs—I am using your Duffy's Formula in connection with your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for consumption, and have derived most substantial benefit from its use. I am steadily improving in health and strength and cheerfully recommend both for lung trouble.

The unprecedented success and merit of Ely's Cream Balm—a real cure for catarrh, hay fever and cold in head—has induced many adventurers to place catarrh medicines bearing some resemblance in appearance, style or name upon the market in order to trade upon the reputation of Ely's Cream Balm. Don't be deceived. Buy only Ely's Cream Balm. Many in your immediate locality will testify in highest commendation of it. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY
By reason of its central position and close relation to all principal lines East and West, at initial and terminal points, constitutes the most important mid-continental link in that system of through transportation which invites and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.
The Great Rock Island Route
Commands its patrons that sense of personal security afforded by a solid, thoroughly ballasted, dust-laid, smooth tracks of continuous steel rail, substantially built culverts and bridges, rolling stock as near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances of patent buffers, platforms and air brakes, and that exacting discipline which governs the practical operation of all its trains. Other specialties of this route are Transfers at all connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Passenger Equipment.
The Fast Express Trains between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison are composed of well ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and sumptuous Dining Cars, in which elaborately cooked meals are tastefully eaten. Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Chair Cars, free of charge.
The Famous Albert Lea Route
Is the direct and favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, where connections are made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and British Provinces. Upon this route Fast Express Trains are run to the watering places, summer resorts, picturesque localities and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. It is also the most desirable route for the rich wheat and pastoral lands of Interior Dakota.
Still another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, has been opened between Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

Serious Danger

Threatens every man, woman or child living in a region where fever and ague is prevalent, since the germs of malarial disease are inhaled from the air and are swallowed from the water of such a region. Medicinal safeguard is absolutely necessary to nullify this danger. As a means of fortifying and acclimating the system so as to be able to resist the malarial poison, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is incomparably the best and the most popular. Irregularities of the stomach, liver and bowels encourage malaria; but these are speedily rectified by the Bitters. The functions of digestion and secretion are assisted by its use, and a vigorous as well as regular condition of the system promoted by it. Constitution and physique are thus defended against the inroads of malaria by this matchless preventive, which is also a certain and thorough remedy in the worst cases of intermittent and remittent fevers.

Neuralgia in any form can be surely cured. Athlophoros is absolutely safe and absolutely sure. Thousands who have suffered intensely with neuralgia and been cured by the use of Athlophoros prove the truth of this statement. Is it not worth a trial in your case?

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.
